The Advocate, in its issue of last week, calls the Democrats of Shelby county thieves and rogues. Of course the Democrats of this county will appreciate the epithets applied to them by the populist leaders mouthpiece.

The Republican rally at the Jefferson theater last night was notable for the presence of the large number of negroes in the balcony, and the absence of Lily Whites from any part of the house.—Birmingham News.

NOTICE

To teachers of Shelby county:

In last week's issue of the county papers, you doubtless noticed the program of an Institute to be held in Montevallo on the last two days of this month. We now find it is impracticable to hold said meeting on the above named date, owing to certain existing conditions over which we have no control, and we beg leave to recall such program for the present, giving you the assurance that it will appear again at a later date.

JNO B. FARRELL,
Supt. of Education.

MONTEVALLO.

Mrs. E. G. Givhan visited Birmingh'm Monday evening.

Mrs. M. Woolley will have her millinery opening on Sept 29 and 30.

Mrs. H. E. Whitaker visited her mother, Mrs. McCauley, last week.

Miss Ada Dill has accepted a position in the store of Davies & Jeter.

Mrs. D. L. Wilkinson gave a delightful entertainment Friday night, in honor of her visitor, Miss Overton.

Cotton moves in slowly. Farmers are improving the fine weather picking. The crop will be short of earlier expectations.

Montevallo is confronted with the necessity of larger churches to accommodate the school accessions to the congregations.

Miss Berta Allen, with Miss Pettus as assistant, opened the public school on the 12th. Miss Erma Ellis began a private school last Monday.

H D Latham: who came here from Columbiana with a case of fever, is having a desperate fight with it: but reports from his bedside are encouraging.

Political speaking here last week was not very largely attended: but very much enjoyed by those who heard it. McMillan's telling arguments made a decided impression, and Longshore's jokes, stale though they are, were smilable. Montevallo will vie with Vincent for the Democratic banner in November, and but for the inroads on her territory in the carving out of Beat 19 she would unquestionably take it.

The opening of the Girls' Industrial School last Thursday was very interesting. There were a greater number of students than ever before. Some new faces appear in the faculty The many admirers of Miss E. M. Haley are rejoiced to see her in her old place. The dormitory and many boarding houses are filled: and the beginning of the ninth year of Alabama's greatest school is most auspicious Misses Overton and Simpson, former teachers, were much appreciated visitors to the school. They have each sought employment elsewhere this year. The school will probably enroll five hundred pupils during the term.

CALERA.

Awful dry and hot.

P. Baer has another boy at his home.

Services at the Cumberland church Sunday.

Eggs worth 20c per dozen, and very few to be had at that price.

Calera has imported a new marshal and he seems to be very faithful.

Esq. John Ozley has been quite sick for two weeks, but better now.

F H. Hardy and family, of Newala, were on a visit to Mr. Hardy's mother, Sunday.

Farmers in this community report a very sorry cotton crop, but good corn, peas, potatoes, etc.

Tipton Gunn left for Howard College this week to take up his studies in that grand old institution. Tip will graduate this session.

The Calera High School is well attended so far, and Prof. Glenn and Miss O'Hara are getting along finely with instructions to the pupils.

J. W. Ozley and his excellent wife of Longview, came down Sunday morning to visit their son J. B., who is confined to his bed with bilious fever, returning in the afternoon.

The opposing candidates were here Wednesday and discussed the issues of the campaign, and I couldn't see that a vote was changed, yet we are glad they came and had their say. Both sides made good speeches. In shifting their faults from one to the other "Browne" seemed to be responsible for all the bad, and themselves for all the good deeds. The greatest mystery to the hearers is—how is Longshore going to take the oath of office, if elected, when he says he "will not support the Constitution only so far as the law compels" him. Very little enthusiasm was aroused.

UNCLE SAM.

HARPERSVILLE.

Messrs. D. and Tom Ray, of near Birmingham, visited their father's family last Saturday....Jim Kidd, jr. has gone back to Tuscaloosa to enter college....Three of the Waits boys, of Birmingham, visited their sister, Mrs. Darby Saturday night and Sunday. .. Our school will open Oct. 3rd, and it promises to be one of the best in the history of Harpersville.....William Martin, one of Kelley's Creek best citizens is very sick at this writing. We wish for him a speedy recovery..... Miss Pearl Russell, of Pratt City, came over a few days ago to be ready to enter school....Misses Della Thompson and Stella Posey have returned from their Texas trip, and are highly pleased with what they saw... The R F. D. route has started. There will be about 40 families that it will accommodate and about 200 that it will be a curse to ...Your "scrib" attended the Baptist Association at Coosa Valley church in St. Clair county last week, and permit me to say that it was a success in every respect. Rev. O. A. Bentley, of Vincent, was moderator; Dr. Calaway. D. D., of Talladega, clerk, and J. F. Pope, of Wilsonville, treasurer. The introductory sermon was preached by Rev. R A. Kidd, of Vincent, and the missionary by Dr. Calaway, of Talladega. The next association will be held at Sylacauga....W. A. Gorman, a young man just in the prime of life died very suddenly at his home in Vincent last Wednesday morning just after the sun had shown itself in the eastern hills. It is very sad that a young person who bid fair to such a useful life as Will Gorman did should be cut down in death, but God's ways are not ours and we should not murmur, but bow to His will. To the bereaved family we extend our sympathy in this their sad hour of bereavement. He was buried here Thursday with masonic honors, while the funeral services were conducted by Rev. T. K. Roberts....Mrs. J. J. Burks a very estimable lady died at her home on Kelley's creek last Monday night after several months of suffering. She was a member of the Macedonia Baptist church, and was buried there Tuesday. Rev. R. A, Kidd conducted the burial services. We have known Mrs. Burks longer than we have anybody. She having raised the writer of this sketch from infancy until he got in teens, and it is sad, sad indeed to part with one whom we loved so well. No doubt she has gone to that Heaven above where parting is no more and the weary are forever at rest.

"JAKE."

J. S Jones, one of the farmers of Beat 6, was in town Monday for a short time. The Sentinel acknowledges a pleasant call.

WILSONVILLE.

Miss Ada O'Hara has accepted a position with the Columbiana Milliner Shop.

The city was full of people Saturday; some were trading, and some listening to the speakers.

Miss Katie Gwin leaves today for Tuskegee where she has a position in the school there as matron.

Mr. Pope's new brick store is about complete and this adds very much to the looks of this establishment.

Miss Helen Boyer, after two months visit with relatives in Kentucky, has returned to the delight of her many friends.

Several bales of cotton are selling here daily, and while the price is steady and the crop short, the farmers are rushing it in.

Miss Robbie Wallace, of Klein, was visiting here last week. Miss Robbie will leave in a few days for Tuscaloosa where she will attend the Alabama Central Female College.

Several our people have gone to the Fair at St Louis and returned safe, and this afternoon Messrs. A. L. Jackson, E. Deramus and Jno. R. Black will leave, and we hope they will return safe and without accident to any.

The Wilsonville High School opened last week with 42 pupils, Prof. J. W. Tumlin, principal, and Miss Maud Cornelius, assistant. With hearty co-operation of the patrons of the school, I feel sure we will have a prosperous school year. Prof. Tumlin is a man of ability and capacity, and with Miss Cornelius, who taught here last session and is known to the people, we feel confident that fine work will be done.

The political speaking here, Saturday, passed off very quietly. Both parties allowed peace and quietude to prevail. While there was good speaking on each side, and each seemed satisfied with the outlook for their own, but McMillan told them of their diversity of opinion by saying that some would vote for Tom Watson and some would vote the ticket headed by Roosevelt, and consequently who knows where their platform is found? and what principles they advocate? This wound up the campaign and both sides went home to await the result. However, we are satisfied the tide has turned in our direction, and we mean to continue to respect our opposing friends duly, while we feel that it is enough for them to lose their offices. Therefore we should not allow ourselves to disrespect any of them.

Mr. and Mrs. W: R Jordan, of Roanoke, were visiting Rev. G. W. Hamilton and family last week.

ROBIN REDBREAST.

Card of Thanks.

Editor of The Sentinel:

Will you please allow me space in your paper to thank the good people of my surrounding community, and also of Vincent, for the valuable assistance and good attention rendered in the lingering illness and recent death of my beloved wife. I assure you that in my deep sorrow I shall remember your many deeds of kindness, and may the Lord bless one and all of you.

Respectfully,
J. J. BURKS.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

"I know not how true the tale may be,
I tell it as 'twas told to me."

I. Gordon was in Birmingham several days last week.

George E. Mason was at home over Sunday with his family.

Miss Stella Baker, of Shelby Springs was in town a few hours Tuesday.

George D. Campbell visited with friends in Wilsonville over Sunday.

☞ A pretty line of belts just received at the Columbiana Milliner Shop.

When you have read this issue of your copy of The Sentinel pass it along to your neighbor.

The family of J. H. Abercrombie are now settled in the Sinnott property on Main street.

Some of our out of town correspondence did not reach us in time for publication last week.

☞ Ladies, call at the Columbiana Milliner Shop and see that pretty line of collars just received.

E. B. Nelson came home from Walker county last Friday for a few days' visit with his family.

W. J. Weathers and W. E. Millender, of near Vincent, made The Sentinel a pleasant call Monday.

John Porter, of Coleanor, was called here last Sunday by the illness of his mother, Mrs. E. Porter.

The town has been billed during the past week for a circus which will hold forth at Calera on the 30th.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Erlick visited friends and relatives in Bessemer over Sunday, returning Tuesday.

☞ The Columbiana Milliner Shop has recently added a new line of dress goods to the stock, and the ladies are invited to call and examine it.

The Abercrombie brick block is nearing completion, and Mr. Abercrombie has purchased a part of his stock.

W. W. Wallace visited with friends at Oxford and Anniston several days last week, returning home Sunday.

Mrs. E. Porter has been quite sick the past week with an attack of fever, but we learn that she is improving.

☞ A new and good line of Ladies, Misses and Children's hose just received at the Columbiana Milliner Shop.

Circuit Clerk J. P. Pearson spent several days on his farm near Bridgeton last week, returning home Sunday.

☞ The Columbiana Milliner Shop has received its new line of fall millinery, and the ladies should inspect it before they purchase their fall hats. Good goods at reasonable prices.

Mrs. F. M. Johnson, of Bessemer, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Cromwell the fore part of the week.

The store of the Columbiana Mercantile Co., and Friedbergers were closed Monday because of a Jewish holiday.

Harry Gordon, who has been sick with fever at the Central Hotel for the past several weeks, is improving, and it is hoped he will soon be as well as usual.

R. E. Bowdon, superintendent of the Keystone Lime Works at Keystone, was in town a few hours last Thursay.

Jasper Holcombe, of Calera, was in town last Thursday. Mr. Holcombe is one of the prosperous merchants of that place.

Cotton has been coming to town pretty regularly the past week. Good prices are being paid by the Columbiana buyers.

There were a number of young people on the down train last Sunday en route to school at the different colleges in the State.

A. B. Milner, mail agent on the L & N. between Nashville and Montgomery, was in town last Saturday and Sunday visiting relatives.

Columbiana friends of Henry Latham will regret to learn that he is dangerously ill at the home of his parents in Montevallo, with an attack of typhoid fever.

Rev. N. T. Lucas and W. R. Lucas, two prosperous farmers of Beat 4, were in town on business Thursday. The Sentinel acknowledges a pleasant call from these gentlemen.

☞ Miss High, our trimmer, can give you the advantage of her month in the work rooms of one of the best houses in the South. Give her a trial order. Hammond Millinery Co.

Rev. Mr. Upshaw filled his regular appointment at the Baptist church last Sunday. He intended beginning a protracted meeting last Sunday, but it is postponed indefinitely.

Mrs. J. T. Acker, of Montevallo, came up last Sunday for a short visit with her son, Dr. Acker, who has been ill with an attack of fever. We are glad to know that he is much better.

The genial L. M. Dyke was down from Collinsville last Monday and Tuesday. Mr. Dyke is very well pleased with his location at Collinsville and says that his bank is doing a fine business.

Mrs T. M. Wilson and son Mel, who went down to Calera last week for a visit with relatives, did not remain but one day owing to a return attack of fever to Mel. We are glad to know he is improving.

Miss Margaret Baker, the youngest daughter of Mrs. J. W. McMahon, of Shelby Springs, left yesterday for Marion, where she goes to enter the Judson Institute. Miss Margaret is a favorite with the young people of the Springs.

Miss Kate Gwin, of Willsonville, passed through our city Monday, on her way to Tuskegee where she has the position of assistant matron in the Alabama Conference College. She was accompanid to Calera by her sister, Miss Nellie.

The millinery display of the Hammond Millinery Co. last Friday and Saturday is a credit to the ladies who are in charge. Some of the hat creations this season are enough to stagger the ordinary man, both in shapeless shapes and in price.

Prof. W. R. Hale, of Ganadarque, was in the city Monday for a few hours. Prof. Hale has just closed a successful term of school at Camp Branch, and will probably leave for East Lake in a few days and enter Howard College at that place.

City Tax Collector's Notice.

The City taxes for the year 1904, will be due and payable on September 15th, 1904, and the same will become delinquent on November 15th, 1904.

S. W. NELSON,
City Tax Collector.

Kindergarten School.

The Sentinel learns that Miss Loulah Wilson will open a kindergarten school at the home of her mother, beginning October 3rd. She already has a number of pupils, and more promised.

Miss Wilson will teach from 8:30 in the morning until noon, and the tuition will be $1 00 per month for each pupil. She is a splendid teacher, and parents will find that a primary schooling under her care will fit their children for the public schools so that they may enter classes that they could not at first do without an early training.

Our people should not let their efforts lag in trying to secure the new passenger train on the Southern between Talladega and Birmingham by the way of Columbiana. Such a train is greatly needed by the people along the line of the road between these points, and The Sentinel believes that we keep on digging about it that it will come. The Commercial Club, of Birmingham, is bending every effort to bring this about, and our people should lend every aid possible. Securing such a train means that one could go to Birmingham and transact business and return home the same day, while at the present time it takes the best part of two days. The demand for the train is unanimous all along the line, and The Sentinel believes the Southern will also see that the train is almost an absolute necessity. Besides, we believe that from a business standpoint the railroad will find it a paying one.

Judge D. R. McMillan received a telegram last Friday night announcing the death of his brother at Pine Barren, Fla., the day before. As the funeral occurred on Friday Mr. McMillan was unable to attend. The deceased was at one time a resident of Columbiana, and is well known to the people of this place, and his death is regretted by all who knew him. Judge McMillan has the sympathy of friends here because of this sorrow.

☞ We have all the newest things in millinery and show you something new each week. Come and see.
Hammond Millinery Co.

C. C DuBose and daughter, Miss Gertrude, returned from Indianapolis, Ind. It was a sad home-coming to them, as death had taken from them a loving wife and mother within the past few days. We understand they will return to Indiana in a few weeks, and the little girls will make their home with the parents of their mother, and will be put in school. Mr. DuBose will continue to work insurance in this section of Alabama.

Dr Brunk from Selma will make regular visits to Montevallo the first Thursday of each month, and to Columbiana the following Friday and Saturday, to see Eye, Ear and Throat cases. In Montevallo at Dr. Wilkinson's office, at White House in Columbiana. Next visit October 6th. 7th and 8th. S pt 8-1m.

NOTICE—Builders and Contractors should write Cook-Dominy Co., Fitzgerald, Ga., for lumber and shingles. Yours truly, Aug. 25-3m COOK-DOMINY CO.

The Sentinel was honored last week by a pleasant call from Chancellor R. B. Kelly. At the close of this term of Chancery Court the docket is nearer cleaned up than it has been for a good many years, and its condition speaks well for Chancellor Kelly and Register White. There are no better court officers in this section.

☞ Don't forget that the Hammond Millinery Co. have hats from 75 cents to $16.00. All prices to suit all people

James Scott and daughter, Miss Ora, of Leeds, came down to Columbiana last Friday for a short visit at home o W. R. A. Milner. Mr. Scott returned home Monday, but Miss Ora will visit here for some time—possibly to remain through the winter and attend the Columbiana Graded School,

Mrs. George Mason goes to Leeds today for a visit with relatives.

In Memory of Little Pattie Holcombe.

A loving one from earth is gone,
A voice we loved is stilled;
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.

But Christ said, "Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven." It pleased our Heavenly Father to pluck the fairest bud on earth to bloom for Himself in heaven.

On September 9th, 1904, the death angel came came to the home of W. E. Holcombe and bore away his darling baby, little Pattie. She suffered from fever for four weeks, and all was done for her that loving hands and medical skill could do, but she was too pure in her sweet innocence to stay in this dark world of sin and danger. She was born October 30, 1902. While we know it is heart breaking to the dear ones left behind, it is sweet to know that she is safe in the arms of Jesus enjoying the happy reunion with mother and sister, who had been waiting for her but one short year. Although it is sweet to return to God with no sin at its hand, it makes the heart bleed when the silent messenger crosses our thresh-hold and takes our loved ones.

Dear child, thou hast missed much sorrow and pain and disappointment by staying here only a little while—just long enough to teach us to love thee and call us to a better land.

Sleep on, dear child, in beauty,
Sleep on in innocence;
Sleep on, thou blessed angel,
'Tis God has called you hence.
And he will surely wake thee,
And bid His angel rise,
When I again shall meet thee,
With loved ones in the skies.

A FRIEND.

Resolutions of Condolence.

Kind Words.

The following kind words come from Rev. Thos. Fred Williams, of Indianapolis, Ind., former pastor of the late MRS. C C. DuBose:

Mrs. Annie DuBose was born Nov. 17, 1861 and died at her father's home near Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 1, 1904, aged 42 years and 14 days. At the age of seventeen she was converted and joined the Maywood M. E church under the pastorate of Rev. Helsey, living a faithful, consistent, christian life through all succeeding years.

After her marriage with Mr. C. C. DuBose, she moved South and united with the Presbyterian church to which her husband belongs. She was the mother of five children, two of which have gone before. Her one sister, four brothers, father and mother, husband and three daughters, and a large number of relatives and friends remain to mourn her demise.

In the words of divine utterance, "She both done what she could." Christian graces were thus dominant in her life, and her fondest ambition was "to be like Him," fulfilling to the highest degree the function of wife and mother. Her death was like the going down of a beautiful summer's sun—quiet, peaceful, and serene. Before leaving for Paradise she smiled, then God "kissed her soul away," and she departed to immortal mysteries where all tears are wiped away and the saints are "forever with the Lord." Thus ended a most beautiful christian life, the emulation of which would make us all better men and women.

Mrs. W. B. Callahan arrived in the city last Sunday for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Nelson. Mr. Callahan has removed from Memphis to Charlotte, N. C., and Mrs. Callahan came home to stay until her husband gets their home arranged in Charlotte.

By reference to the advertisement of Mrs M. Woolley, the fashionable milliner of Montevallo, it will be seen that she will have her opening display of fine millinery on the 29th and 30th of this month, and she cordially invites all to come and see what she has.

VILLAGE TYPES—THE SPINSTER.

Her name it was Lucinda Brown,
The prettiest in all the town—
  At least 'twas so reported when
    She won the prize at the glass show.
  Perhaps her graces blinded men
    Some thirty years or more ago.

Her features they were regular,
Her satin cheeks bore ne'er a mark.
  Ah! then they used to rhapsodize,
    Those poet singers of the parts,
  Who praised her beauty to the skies—
    While Cindy only smashed their hearts.

Demurely she glanced over all
The swains who came at beck and call.
  She'd buggy-ride with them all day,
    Or lean with them upon the gate.
  When they talked business she'd stay
    Their fervor with: "It's growing late."

Her mien, so said, it was a thing
To win the rapture of a king.
  Her dainty head, in equipoise
    Upon her sloping shoulders, won
  The ardency of all the boys—
    But Cindy only called it fun.

The sweetest old maid in the town—
Her name is still Lucinda Brown.
  She courts the sunny side the street
    Where little children romp and play,
  And in their laughter gay and sweet
    She hears the songs of yesterday.
—Horace Seymour Keller, in the New York Sun.

A CASE OF KIDNAPPING.

Dora pushed back her sunbonnet, and looked up, with a furtive admiration, at the stalwart figure giving the finishing touches to the huge load of hay.

"Ethel had to help about dinner and couldn't get away, but she made me come. She said it was too bad for you to have no company for the last load."

"I am sorry you were compelled to come," he replied, a little stiffly.

"Oh, I wanted to; I wouldn't have missed it for anything. I was never on a load of hay. But mercy, how shall I ever get up there?"

He glowed at her warmth, but with a brief "I'll help you up," he slid to the ground, placed a short ladder against the load, preceded her, and reached for her hands.

With little shrieks of alarm, and declarations that she never could do it, Dora at last gained the top of the ladder and put her hands in his. His heart leaped fiercely, and he paled a little under his tan, but made no sign of the tumult her touch aroused within him.

But she was as well aware of it as he, and with malicious intent, clung to him in affected fright, noting, with pleasure, his suppressed agitation. It was a short ride from the field to the hay barn; besides, he had the horses to attend to, so there would be no chance for him to go beyond the limit she had set for him, and ask the question she had been fencing for weeks. She was not sure that she was ready to be bound; but she was certain that she did not want to give him a negative answer; she wished to postpone it; besides, there were "others," and she being a born coquette, was enjoying herself and did not want a definite change.

With much skill she had played him and evaded his efforts to obtain an opportunity to bring matters to a crisis. She meant him no harm; she reasoned that a little suspense would perhaps do him good, and she loved the excitement of the game and reveled in the narrow escapes she contrived to experience.

"This is the last of the hay, now there is nothing to prevent you joining our tennis party this afternoon," she said, cuddling down in the hay at his feet, while he stood easily and firmly, guiding the team through the gate into the road.

"If you will be my partner," he replied, sitting down beside her, letting the horses, now they were through, go their own gait.

"But I've promised Harry Payne; and Jessie Carpenter plays much better than I—besides, she is always trying to get you," she insinuated, demurely.

"Hang Harry Payne, and Jessie, too, for that matter! See here, Dora——"

"Oh, there's Ethel on the porch waving to us," she interrupted hurriedly. "Harvest home! Harvest home!" she shrieked as they passed the house, scrambling to her feet, with one hand on his shoulder. The wagon lurched, and she dropped down again, flushed and laughing, and began scattering hay over him. He did not respond, but sat with averted face.

"Crosspatch," she said, lightly. "He wants his dinner, so he does! Well, it will not be long now. Dinner is to be unusually early on account of our party; the men are going to the house."

He was still silent, and she pouted. Suddenly she shrieked again: "Why, Nat Brunner! you've passed the gate—it's away back there! Didn't you see it?"

"I didn't want to see it," he said, shortly.

"What do you mean?" she cried.

"I mean that you're not going to get away from me this time till I've had my say!

"I won't listen! I won't listen!" She thrust back her bonnet and put both hands over her ears.

He drove on quietly, with no attempt to coax or compel her attention, down a long hill, up the other side and around a corner.

"It's all right, boys," he said to the horses, as they turned their heads, with an inquiring look, when the noon whistle blew at the village. "Its all right," and they plodded along soberly, perhaps reflecting on the unreasonableness of a master who set off to a market from a hard forenoon in the field, without dinner.

Dora sat, obstinately stopping her ears, and watched the long mile slip by, then another, and he showed no sign of relenting. Once he turned, saying politely, "I am afraid the sun is making it rather uncomfortable for you. I am sorry I have no umbrella."

Though she did not hear, of course, she scowled an answer.

They made several turns, and she noted, hopefully, that they seemed going in the direction of the farm. He was giving it up? Not so! To her consternation, they finally came out in the broad road, headed for the village.

"You're just scotching me," she complained.

"Well, you've scotched me often enough," he growled.

Being so near the noon hour they had seen few people, but now, down the road a crowded wagonette whirled toward, the tennis party from the village. She jerked her bonnet over her face and tumbled flat on the hay, moaning:

"Oh, I wouldn't have them see me for a million dollars!"

When they had passed, with gay banter at him for deserting them, she straightened up with blazing cheeks and the fire of battle in her eyes.

"It's the silliest, the most ridiculous thing I ever heard of! And you're the meanest, meanest man alive! I should think you'd hate yourself to death!"

"I don't aspire to great wisdom or perfection," he returned, serenely, driving on.

"You know how I've looked forward to this afternoon, and what plans we've made for it!"

"If you hadn't systematically disarranged so many of my plans I might be more considerate of yours."

"It's so contemptible, your trapping me like this!"

"You came voluntarily. I've a right to market my hay when I please."

"You don't mean—" But they were entering the village, and she crouched down again out of sight. He did not stop, and when they had left the last house behind, she began, piteously:

"I was never so hungry in my life! I'm positively faint!"

"You know how to sympathize with the poor, then," he suggested.

"You don't care how much you make me suffer, and you profess to—" She broke off in some confusion, conscious that she was too near the brink.

"Yes, I profess to love you," he finished for her. "I've never tried to hide it—and I suppose, after all, there is little need of words. I ought to have understood without having it said. You've shown me plain enough that it is useless, and yet—"he halted, meditatively. Some intuition within him declared that she was not so indifferent as she had assumed to be.

"No," he continued, "I will have it in words! Dora, you know I love you devotedly, with all my heart; will you be my wife?" He turned to her with a deep tenderness in his face and shining in his serious eyes.

"Cousins can't marry," she evaded.

"My step-mother's niece isn't a very close cousin," he commented. "But I ought to thank you," he went on, presently, with a rather wan smile, "You might have been more harsh in your refusal of me.

He turned the horse about, saying, "You will not be very late at the game." Then he turned his back in a stolid silence. If he suffered, she should not see it.

The minutes passed slowly as the horses jogged along the hot, dusty highway. The sun poured down its scorching rays. Nat sat at his post like a graven image, oblivious alike to the blistering heat and the presence of his pretty and unwilling passenger.

The silence was suddenly broken by a storm of sobs from Dora. He writhed anxiously, until he could bear it no longer, and burst out:

"Don't cry, Dora, darling! I'm a brute, a perfect beast! I don't know how to treat a girl, even when I love her so—you did right to refuse me!"

"But—but—I haven't refused—y—you! I—I said cousins co—couldn't marry—I didn't say—"

"Dora," he spoke sternly. "You must not play with me any longer, I can't bear it."

"I'm not playing now. But if you—you don't want to understand—or if you—you think I'm going to say 'Yes!' any pl—plainer—"

She sobbed the rest on his shoulder. —Louise G. Strong in the Housekeeper.

A Dog With a Grudge.

Eureka is a small dog, very much devoted to her master. Occasionally her master takes an early train for New York, returning at night. On such occasions "Reke" sits on a box at the window, and watches him out of sight; and, when the whistle blows for the evening train, she takes her place again to watch for his return.

One evening he did not come; but, seeing another gentleman coming up from the station in the dusk, she mistook him for her master, and, whining for the door to be opened, she ran out, wagging her tail and manifested her joy in every known way until she had nearly reached the stranger.

When she perceived her mistake, she turned with an expression of extreme disgust and ran back, head and tail lowered, and looking as sheepish as possible.

When he laughed at her, she withdrew to a corner and lay there for the rest of the evening.

Since then she never allows that gentleman to pass without barking at him; and once, when he came to the the house on business she made such a time that she had to be put out. Evidently she thought he had insulted her.

Clever Clippings.

It might be a good idea to post placards over writing desks reading: "Love Letters Are Sure to Be Published Some Day."

People who are said to have a gift for apt repartee sometimes impress others that they are working at a trade.

It is a short time, sometimes, from honeyed nothings to nothing honeyed.

Some people seem to think that politeness consists of eternally begging your pardon.

Pity may be akin to love, but it depends altogether on what excites the pity.

NEW INDUSTRY OF RAT CATCHING.

Killing Contests Have Made Business Profitable to Professional Catchers.

Since the rat-killing contest originated in Indianapolis a few months ago a new industry has arisen which is profitably shared in by many. The management of the contests offer 5 cents a head for each rat delivered to them, but by far the greater number they get are free of charge or for the catching.

"Rats are very sly fellows," said rat catcher Harvey Oliver, "and we sometimes have to use some very peculiar ways to catch them after we have caught one of their number.

"Now this trap," said he, pointing to one he held in his hand, "has 18 in it, but they would have been very hard to catch had I not sacked them all at once. I use the wire cage traps almost entirely.

"The bait problem is one of the most serious that I have to deal with, and it was some time before I found out why I did not catch rats at some places when I knew that the place was almost alive with them. Bait must be used that the rats have not been accustomed to eating and something that has a very loud smell.

"It would not do to take a trap baited with cheese to a grocery store, for as a rule the rats get all of that they want. I find that fish are the best that can be had for almost all places because it has such a loud smell and the rats do not have very many chances of getting it.

"They are just as greedy as human beings along the eating line and will take some great risks to get something that looks like it would be good for them to eat. These risks, however, nearly always prove detrimental to the rats, for as a rule they find themselves in a trap waiting to be taken to the room where they are kept until time for the contest.

"Did you know that a rat will not bite you so long as he cannot see the light? Well, that is true. You reach your hand up a hole where a rat is and if he does not see the light you can easily catch him. But the minute he sees the light then you had better put your hands in your pocket, and if you happen to have him in a tight place you had better look out, for the rat will fight you till the last.

"After I catch these rats I take them to the house, where I have an iron cage for them. I sometimes have as many as five in there at one time. The rats soon get tame if we do not have a contest in which to use them.

"In these contests the rats sometimes use some very clever means as a defense to save their lives. As a rule they will all fight for one another and jump at the dog's throat, where they will hang until shaken off. I feed the rats about the same as they get when they are free. It is great fun to bag the rats, but I catch the most of them with traps. There are many things that are of great interest about rats that few people know.

"Rats do most of their sleeping in the daytime, but generally in some other place than their nest. They are very quick, but do not run near as fast as they look to be going."

A crowd soon collected around Mr. Oliver which grew deeply interested in his discussion of rats. At the time of the conversation he had over fifty rats with him which he had caught during the night.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

Experiences in the Russian Army.

I was gradually falling asleep when suppressed sobs struck my ear. The beastly drunk sergeant-major was the disturber of the quiet in the barracks. He approached some of the sleeping young soldiers, woke them rudely, and asked them:

"Who is our present secretary (minister) of war? What is his name, surname, full title?"

Woe to those who did not answer promptly and correctly. They received a sound lashing with the buckled end of a heavy soldier's belt.

"What does this mean?" asked I of my friend Ivan Ivanoff. "Is that allowed in our squad?"

"Allowed! Of course it is contrary to all laws and regulations. But our sergeant-major is a personal favorite of the chief of our regiment, and may do what he pleases with impunity. It is like this: The recruits punished by the sergeant-major are poor devils who failed to pay the customary tribute when entering the squad. The sergeant-major is a brutal and greedy fellow half-crazed with drink. He feels dry and wants to get some money."

"How high is the tribute paid by the recruits to the sergeant-major?"

"Not less than three rubles, at any rate. Yes, bitter is the life of a young soldier," concluded my friend, meditatively.—Isadore Ladoff, in Harper's Weekly.

Acetylene Signalling Apparatus.

The Texas militia has been recently equipped with an acetylene apparatus for the purpose of transmitting messages. This is a greatly improved heliograph system, and is said to be in use by the Japanese in the present campaign, with great success. The Galveston News says: "The new instruments are field acetylene signal lanterns. These are powerful at night but only blaze in response to manipulations of a key, the same as on a telegraph instrument. The jets of light, before the improved reflectors, flash and dot in telegraph code, responding to the key the same as a sender and receiver in a telegraph office. This can be read for 15 miles. A telegraph operator uses this lamp the same as he would his key in wire service. The flames being acetylene, and quick, the signal service is almost as fast as regular telegraphy. The heliograph is from a strong mirror, the telegraph code again being used. A shield in front of the glass is used for making dots and dashes."

To Avoid Malaria.

The Czar's Daily Life.

Some interesting details of the Czar's daily life are furnished by the St. Petersburg correspondent of the Lokalanzeiger. Rising at 6 a. m., His Majesty partakes of an English breakfast, consisting of tea, bacon and eggs, bread and butter and marmalade prepared by an English cook. His Majesty and the Czarina favor everything English, including the British style of living and bringing up children. After breakfast the Czar smokes a very strong Havana cigar and indulges in tobacco incessantly for the rest of the day, although his doctors have warned him that it is most injurious to his health. At 7 o'clock he commences his duties for the day and examines an average of 500 documents. An English lunch it served at midday, and English only is spoken at this meal, so that the conversation is not understood by the servants. Dinner follows and is succeeded by cards, the Czar's favorite game being the Russian wint, at which His Majesty is said to stake large sums. Bedtime comes about 11 o'clock. The Czarina frequently reads an English novel or the Times aloud to her husband.—London Mail.

Japanese Man Power.

The present war in the East is probably the only instance of a great campaign between civilized nations in which one of the combatants has relied almost entirely on man power, instead of horse power, for transport, the whole of the supplies of each Japanese division of infantry being carried by as many coolies, or porters, as there are fighting men. The Japanese porters are mainly men whose physique is not judged to be good enough to entitle them to fight in the line of battle, though according to modern European notions theirs would be considered rather the more arduous task of the two. But the Japanese have shown up till now that their choice of means has generally been correct, and it is not likely that they have made a mistake in this case.

They know their own people, and for centuries human transport has been the occupation of a large class of their unskilled labor. The litter, or rickshaw, has been adopted, in imitation of their method, even in Simla, the governing city of India. By a simple mechanical contrivance they have also greatly facilitated the work of bearing burdens. A bamboo is carried on a kind of pad over the shoulder, and the load, carefully balanced, is suspended to each end. The carrier thus avoids one of the greatest sources of fatigue, namely, the effect of picking up the burden when it has been laid down to rest, for by merely raising the bamboo and putting his whole body under it, he lifts it with the least possible effort.—London Spectator.

TONS OF BRIGHT GEMS

The Total of Diamonds in the World Approximates 85,000,000 Carats.

It is estimated that the total world production of diamonds up to date approximates 85,000,000 carats. As we are not in the habit of weighing our diamonds by the ton, we are in some doubt concerning the proper system of computation, whether troy of avoirdupois, long ton or short ton. According to the system used by those who do weigh their diamonds in ton quantities, the result would be in the neighborhood of twenty or twenty-five tons of sparklers now appearing as factors in the joys and the miseries of a world which has substituted diamonds for the beads and the wampum of its ancestors.

The regions contributing to this supply and the percentage of their contribution appear as follows: South Africa, 81.5 per cent; Brazil, 18 per cent., and the remaining five per cent. divided among Borneo, India, New South Wales and British Guiana, with North America and Russia supplying specimens. The last two of these countries have furnished just enough to equip an opera box for a single evening. The deep obligation of society to South Africa is apparent. The price of diamonds have been heavily advanced during the last year or two, but it is simply appalling to think what the price would have been without the South African supply. Society, American, English and Continental, should daily thank heaven for Kimberley and Jagersfontein.

We are unable to give the cubic measurement of the total collection, but so far as weight is concerned it would make a load for a medium sized freight car.—Baltimore American.

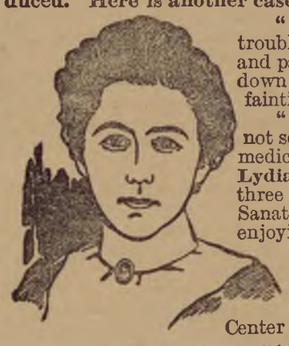
A prominent club woman, Mrs. Danforth, of St. Joseph, Mich., tells how she was cured of falling of the womb and its accompanying pains and misery by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Life looks dark indeed when a woman feels that her strength is fading away and she has no hopes of ever being restored. Such was my feeling a few months ago when I was advised that my poor health was caused by prolapsus or falling of the womb. The words sounded like a knell to me, I felt that my sun had set; but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound came to me as an elixir of life; it restored the lost forces and built me up until my good health returned to me. For four months I took the medicine daily and each dose added health and strength. I am so thankful for the help I obtained through its use."—MRS. FLORENCE DANFORTH, 1007 Miles Ave., St. Joseph, Mich.

A medicine that has restored so many women to health and can produce proof of the fact must be regarded with respect. This is the record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which cannot be equalled by any other medicine the world has ever produced. Here is another case:—



"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For years I was troubled with falling of the womb, irregular and painful menstruation, leucorrhœa, bearing-down pains, backache, headache, dizzy and fainting spells, and stomach trouble.

"I doctored for about five years but did not seem to improve. I began the use of your medicine, and have taken seven bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, three of Blood Purifier, and also used the Sanative Wash and Liver Pills, and am now enjoying good health, and have gained in flesh. I thank you very much for what you have done for me, and heartily recommend your medicine to all suffering women."—MISS EMMA SNYDER, 218 East Center St., Marion, Ohio.

"FREE MEDICAL ADVICE TO WOMEN."

COLUMBIANA SENTINEL.

ESTABLISHED 1875. COLUMBIANA, ALA., SEPTEMBER 29, 1904. VOL. 30. NO. 5

CREW RESPONSIBLE

For Slocomb Disaster Says Board of Inspectors. Their Report.

APPARATUS INSUFFICIENT.

Officers' Licenses Revoked—Greatest Blame Laid to Deck Hands' Incompetency.

A lengthy report has just been made public of an investigation by the local board of steamboat inspectors into the General Slocum steamer disaster, which occurred in the East river last June and cost nearly 1,000 lives. The report concludes by announcing the revocation of the licenses of officers aboard the Slocum, as follows: William H. Van Schaick, master and pilot; Edward Vanwart, pilot, and Benjamin F. Conklin, chief engineer.

Briefly summarized, the principal points of the board's report are:

"That the fire was discovered at the upper end of the Sunken Meadows and that North Brother island was the nearest available point to beach the steamer.

"That the life preserving appliances in the vessel were inadequate, but had the Slocum been supplied with double the number, not another life would have been saved, because of the ignorance and incompetence of the crew.

"That there was an absolute lack of discipline of the crew because of the negligence of the master and of the pilot.

"That fire drills had been neglected, and that had the crew been trained, as the law requires, such a disaster would have been almost inconceivable.

"That one of the crew, in his ignorance, added to the incipient flames by throwing thereon an empty bag which had contained charcoal.

"That the chief engineer was grossly negligent when notified of the fire, in that he did not see that the hose had been connected and the water turned on."

Other Reports Coming.

The investigation began July 6th and was delayed by the injuries of Captain Van Schaick, which confined him to the hospital. Under the law the board only took up the conduct of the vessel's licensed officers. The other phases of the disaster were investigated by a special commission appointed on request of President Roosevelt.

This commission has not yet made public its report.

"A few minutes after the master was made aware that the Slocum was on fire he gave orders to the pilot to beach the vessel on the North Brother island. That order was obeyed and the steamer was beached probably within three minutes.

"In the face of the evidence we can not in justice arrive at any conclusion on this point other than the unfavorable criticism passed upon Captain Van Schaick for not having beached his steamer at some other point than where he did was wholly unmerited."

The great mortality, according to their view, was due to the impossibility of equipping 1,500 persons, mostly children, in a few minutes and not to the age of the preservers.

Blames Crew.

"The evidence before us indicates an absolute lack of discipline on the part of the crew," the report continues. "Because of the negligence of the master of the steamer and of the pilot, who under the law is next to the master in charge, to observe the provisions which require them in the discipline and use of the fire pumps and all other apparatus for the safety of life on board such vessel, and to see that all the equipments required by law are in complete working order for immediate use."

The money in actual circulation has been increased $112,000,000 since January 1.

Riggins Acquitted.

The first of the Huntsville alleged lynchers indicted by the grand jury last week was acquitted in the circuit court.

Thomas M. Riggins, the hotel man who has lain in jail a week, is now free, the state having failed to make out a case against him. The jury returned the verdict from the box.

There was a rumor to the effect that two of the jurors on this case had expressed themselves in sympathy with the mob on the night of the lynching and had perjured themselves to get on the jury. Solicitor Pettus had his attention called to the rumor and intended to make a full investigation, but the matter may be dropped since the trial passed as it did.

No True Bills.

Dallas' grand jury returned twenty true bills and stated that they had examined cases against fourteen persons whose names were given and not finding sufficient evidence against them, had not found indictments. In the list of fourteen names were those of B. F. Cherry, M. M. Ransom and D. C. Stanfil, the three white men, special constables in whose charge was the negro Edmund Bell when he was taken away and lynched.

JEWELS RETURNED.

Had Been Stolen About a Month Ago.

About one month ago the jewelry store of C. B. Sargent, of Cullman, was broken into and robbed of about $200 worth of watches and other jewelry. Officers have been unable to find the guilty parties and the matter was about forgotten, when Mr. Sargent received his jewelry in a cigar box expressed from St. Louis.

It was a great surprise to Mr. Sargent, who, of course, did not expect ever to recover the goods. In the box was an unsigned note stating that two men or boys were in Cullman on the night of the burglary and entered the store, taking the goods. They claimed to have repented of the act, and as they were at work, did not need to steal, had decided to return the stolen property. All the goods stolen were returned except five rings.

One or two arrests have been made on suspicion, but the parties have been released on satisfactory showing.

INFERNAL MACHINE

Laid to Destroy Home of President of Sloss Company.

An improvised infernal machine with a lighted fuse attached was found on the porch of the residence of J. C. Maben, president of the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron company, by a passerby who succeeded in cutting the fuse and preventing an explosion.

The machine consisted of a pint milk bottle containing powdered dynamite, and the fuse which led to the can was lighted and was burning rapidly when discovered.

The man who discovered the machine waked Mr. Maben and notified him of his narrow escape. He told Mr. Maben a white man, about six feet tall and wearing a heavy moustache, ran past him and disappeared.

There was sufficient dynamite in the jar to have wrecked the entire house, and probably killed every occupant.

TWENTY MULES BURNED.

Standard Oil Company Has Heavy Loss by Fire.

Fire destroyed the Standard Oil company's barn and twenty-odd mules Thursday night at Birmingham. But for the work of the fire department the large oil storage building would have been burned.

The origin of the fire is unknown. A negro discovered the flames in the front part of the barn. He gave the alarm and the firemen responded promptly.

An effort was made to save the mules, but the flames were fierce, and the doors of the barn could not be opened in time to get the poor creatures out.

The local management stated that the loss by the fire would amount to about $10,000.

NEW KNITTING MILL

Has Sold Its Entire Output for a Year.

R. L. Adams is making preparations for the establishment of a $10,000 knitting mill at Gadsden. Mr. Adams has purchased the old ice plant and has had it remodeled, and is now installing the machinery.

He expects to have the plant running in a few months, and for the first year the mill will turn out only one kind of knit undershirt. Mr. Adams says the mill will have a capacity of 200 dozen shirts per day, and the entire output for a year has been sold

BABY BOY DESERTED.

Twenty-One Dresses Left with Him. Investigation.

A baby boy was left at the door of T. P. Henderson, a farmer, at Brushy Pond. The waif is a male child and apparently of tolerably well-to-do parents, as it was provided with plenty of nice clothing. There were twenty-one nice dresses with the little fellow.

Coal Deposits.

Valuable coal deposits have been discovered near Walter, in the southeast corner of Cullman county, which will be developed at an early date.

POWDER EXPLOSION

Kills One Workman and Fatally Injures Another.

A special from Jellico, Tenn., says: A terrible explosion occurred at the Jellico Powder company's works. Lee Hill was killed and Sam Harvey is thought to be fatally wounded.

The accident occurred in the building known as the "corning department" and the structure with its contents was completely demolished. The clothing was burned from Hill's body and his form was burned almost to a crisp. Harvey was also very severely burned.

The cause of the disaster is unknown.

Stealing Cotton.

Farmers living in the vicinity of Columbus, Ga., are complaining that thieves are picking their cotton by night, taking advantage of the fine moonlight nights.

Secretary R. E. L. Niel, of the democratic committee of the fourth circuit, has forwarded to the secretary of state the certificate of nomination of Hon. B. M. Miller for judge of the fourth circuit.

GROUND TO DEATH

Between Ore Car and Mine Wall.

An accident occurred at the ore mines of the Alabama Consolidated Coal and Iron Company at Gadsden which resulted in the death of John Eunis, a miner. Mr. Eunis was at work and started out, and when within 200 yards of the entry he met a mule pulling an empty train of cars and driven by a boy.

Eunis stepped to one side to allow the mule and cars to pass, but the space was too small between the cars and wall for a man to pass, consequently the side planks on the car struck Eunis and ground him between the wall and car. Eunis called to the mule to stop, which frightened it, and the mule began to run, and Eunis was dragged for some distance, breaking several ribs and his right arm and bruising him up in a horrible manner and producing internal injury, which resulted in his death in a few hours after the accident. He leaves a family.

ROBBED OF $500.

Tuscaloosa Woman Has Her Chatelain Bag Snatched In Cincinnati.

Mrs. E. B. Kay, of the University of Alabama, was robbed in a Pullman coach in the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton yards at Cincinnati by an unidentified young man. Mrs. Kay was seated in the coach looking dreamily out of the window when a young man deliberately brushed her elbow from the window ledge and reaching into the car snatched her chatelain bag from where it lay on the seat opposite her

The train started at that moment and the man escaped. In the bag were $500, two railroad tickets from Wapakoneta, O., to Tuscaloosa, Ala., and all of Mrs. Kay's trunk checks, keys and other small valuables.

Foreign Get-Rich-Quick Schemes.

In the course of their routine reports, some of the American consuls have recently had occasion to admonish their people at home against investment in alluring enterprises projected in the countries in which the consuls are located until they have made thorough personal investigation of all the alleged facts contained in the prospectuses. The result has been to bring on the department a flood of indignant remonstrances from a number of promoters of various schemes, mostly located in the tropics, whereby fortunes are guaranteed in return for small investments.

Unwilling to do an injustice to any enterprises of real merit, the department has caused inquiry to be made in most of these cases and has ascertained that the warnings sent out by the consuls are invariably fully warranted.

New Colored School.

Negroes have purchased the large two-story house known as the Giesler place at Greensboro for the purpose of establishing an industrial school. The house and lot are both admirably suited for that purpose, there being about eight acres included in the purchase, and the house contains ten large rooms. The school is to be known as the West Alabama Industrial institute and will open October 1st.

May Change Practice Grounds.

It has been suggested to the navy department that Florida bay would be an advantageous place to hold the regular annual target practice of the North Atlantic squadron and the proposition is under consideration. It is expected strong pressure will be brought to bear to hold the target practice again at Pensacola, where it was held last March.

Justice Convicted.

At Scottsboro J. M. Price, whose trial in the circuit court there has taken up the past three days, has been adjudged guilty and given a sentence of $50 and costs. Price, who was a justice of the peace in the precinct in which he lived, was indicted by the grand jury at the last session of court, charging him with criminally assaulting little Ella Skelton, a 13-year-old girl of Trenton, that had been placed under his care.

Mississippi Coal.

It is reported that a good vein of coal has been discovered on the lands of the Messrs. Hopper, near DeKalb, in Kemper county. T. E. Hopper has been using the coal in his blacksmith forge and has had it analyzed by the state chemist, who has pronounced it coal of the finest quality.

College Opens.

At Jacksonville the beginning of the twenty-second session of the State Normal school Tuesday morning was auspicious.

Over 400 students were enrolled last year and the prospects are that the attendance this year will exceed that of any previous year in the history of the institution. At the present writing 380 students have matriculated.

No Mormons Wanted.

Count Tissea, the Hungarian minister of the interior, has rendered a decision prohibiting Mormon propaganda within Austria, upon the ground that such a movement is undesirable both from the standpoint of policy and religion.

A German traveler claims to have discovered in the forests of Borneo a people who still wear the tail of our primitive ancestors.

SCHOOL CHILDREN

Killed in a Horrible Disaster. Weak Floor Precipitates Them into a Vaul.t

THE SCHOOL HOUSE A MORGUE.

Buildings Pronounced Secure Only Two Weeks Ago—Distressing Scenes.

During recess of the public school at Pleasant Ridge, Ohio, a number of children lost their lives. When school recessed there was a playful rush into the outhouse, which gave way, precipitating about twenty children into the vault.

At 11:30 a. m. nine bodies had been recovered. At that hour an estimate of those missing placed the number of those who had fallen into the vault at twenty-five. It was said the joists under the flooring gave way and precipitated all who were inside at the time.

The population of the village soon surrounded the school grounds, and people were flocking into the town from the surrounding country. The excitement was intensified by complaints of parents against the school officers, who said the building and grounds were inspected before the opening of school two weeks ago. Doctors attended such children as were rescued alive.

A distressing scene was witnessed as the search for the bodies was continued

BLOOMING MILL ACCIDENT.

Results in Death of Two Men Scalded by Steam.

An accident in the blooming mill department of the Ensley steel works resulted in the loss of two lives. Cyrus Leck, Jr., a young man about 19 years old, was burned so badly by escaping steam that he died. The other man who lost his life was a negro named John Thomas, who has been an employe of the steel works for a number of years.

Thomas was not employed in the immediate vicinity of the place where the accident occurred, but was passing through the building, and it is claimed by several who were present at the time that the negro lost his life in a futile attempt to rescue Cyrus Leck. The men were terribly burned and scalded all over their bodies, and both of them were internally burned from having to inhale the terrific blast of steam before they were rescued. The accident happened without a moment's warning, and after the excitement was over it was discovered that a connection near the bottom of an upright boiler had blown out, which allowed an immense amount of steam to escape.

Told Tales Out of School.

At Florence, Judge E. B Almon, of the circuit court, sprung a great sensation when he called the grand jury into court and charged them with divulging the secrets of the jury room. He said he had intended receiving the report of the foreman Saturday last and discharging the jury, but when he reached Florence, he had found the streets full of rumors to the effect that two members of the grand jury had held a meeting with outsiders who had prepared a typewritten report on matters before the jury. He called their attention to the oath they had taken and said if the rumors were true they should be indicted. He said he had at first intended investigating the matter himself, but on mature consideration had decided to refer it to the grand jurors themselves.

Free Thinkers.

The congress of Free Thinkers decided to meet in Paris in 1905 and in 1906 at Beunos Ayres for North and South Americans and Barcelona for Europeans, although the Spaniards in attendance at the present congress expressed the fear that the Madrid government will forbid the meeting.

Saw His Father Killed.

William Cummins, Sr., an old man 70 years of age, was struck by a switch engine on the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway at Huntsville. He was knocked down an embankment and so badly injured that he died a few hours later.

William Cummins, Jr., the old gentleman's son, is a brakeman and was on the engine. He saw his father and realized that he could not hear the engine approaching from behind, as he was very deaf, but the son could not stop the engine before it struck Mr. Cummins. The old man sustained internal injuries. He is survived by a widow.

Miners Refuse Terms.

The miners of district No. 19, United Mine Workers, have voted against the acceptance of the operators' proposal to reduce the wage scale about 7 per cent. The official count of the vote is 1,649 votes against acceptance and 569 1-2 votes in favor of acceptance. Of the subordinate unions in the district thirty voted against acceptance and twelve in favor.

Mississippi has had 569 killings in the last eight months.

ARCHBISHOP'S TRAIN

Collided with Engine—Bad Wreck, but No Fatalities.

A special train conveying the archbishop of Canterbury from Bar Harbor, Me., to Washington, was wrecked on the Boston and Albany division of the New York Central road. The archbishop was not injured, although considerably shaken up.

J. P. Morgan, of New York, who was also on the train, accompanying the archbishop, was shaken up, but not hurt.

The special was running sixty miles per hour, and was just passing the station at East Brookfield, Mass., when a detached locomotive which had been drawing a train on the North Brookfield branch ran upon the main line for some reason unexplained. The engineer of the special sighted a danger signal, but on account of the high speed of the train and the slippery condition of the rails due to the mist of the early morning, he found it impossible to do more than slightly reduce the speed of the locomotive. The engineer of the branch engine heard the onrush of the special, but he had no time to move out of the way.

The archbishop's train struck the North Brookfield engine with a terrific crash and demolished it. The other locomotive was thrown from the rails and landed across the east-bound track near the wreck of the North Brookfield engine. The cars did not leave the track.

PRESIDENT'S TRAIN

Meets with Accident—Was Running Slowly at the Time.

The president's train was delayed Thursday by an accident to the driving wheel of the locomotive as it entered the tunnel at Baltimore.

The train was proceeding at a very slow rate of speed when the accident occurred or the result might have been more serious. In some unaccountable manner the tire of a driving wheel broke and curled off. One end of it protruded upward and jammed through the boiler of the engine, causing an almost immediate snutting off of the steam.

The cause of the tire breaking, according to the railway officials, was quite inexplicable. The engine had been attached to the train just before leaving Philadelphia, and had been thoroughly tested and found to be in first-class condition. The accident, the railway officials say, is one of those which happen in spite of every precaution.

The accident is said to be the first which has happened to a train on which President Roosevelt has traveled during his administration.

LANE IS PRESIDENT.

Alabama Commercial and Industrial Association Meets.

With the election of officers the Alabama Commercial and Industrial association adjourned to meet next year at Decatur. Decatur was opposed by Selma for the next place of meeting, but on a vote Decatur secured the meeting by a large majority.

The officers elected were as follows: President, Charles P. Lane, Huntsville; vice presidents, first district, John Crafts, Mobile; second district, E. Burnett, Montgomery; third district, Charles Henderson, Troy; fourth district, blank; sixth district, R. P. Hobson, Greensboro; seventh district, C. P. Smith, Gadsden; eighth district, J. H. Edwards, Decatur; ninth district, E. J. Hudnall, Pratt City.

Before adjournment resolutions were adopted by the association indorsing good roads, compulsory education, deepening the channel of Mobile bay to 35 feet, the making of the Alabama river navigable from Mobile to the head waters and asking aid of congressmen in securing appropriations and for law and order occasioned by the recent outbreaks of mob violence.

Every commercial body in the state was represented at the association.

Chief Joseph Dead.

The death of Chief Joseph, of the Nez Perces, closes the career of one of the greatest figures in the early days of Indian campaigning in Montana.

Chief Joseph sprang into prominence as a result of a raid made by the Nez Perces under him in 1877 when, with about 300 of his followers, he went upon the warpath, massacreing the settlers in Willowa valley.

Chief Joseph's last battle was in the Bear Paw mountain, where he was trapped by General Nelson A. Miles. It was this battle that brought General Miles prominently before the public.

CROP PROGRESS.

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

Climate and Crop Bulletin of the Weather Bureau—Alabama Section—For Week Ending Sept. 1, 1904.

GENERAL CONDITIONS.

The drouth continues practically unbroken and all crops are suffering for rain over the entire state, except in a few northern counties, where local showers fell during the week. The days have been quite warm, but the nights were rather cool, light frosts being reported from Walker county on the night of the 16th. Cotton continues to rust and shed badly, and boll worms are still damaging in middle counties, with some few reports of caterpillars in middle and southern portions of the state. There is very little top crop forming, and late cotton has stopped fruiting through lack of moisture. It is opening rapidly and picking is being pushed, but labor is scarce. About one-half of the crop has been picked in southern counties, making a light yield. While the present prospect is that the cotton crop in this state will be below the average, but quite as good as that of last year. The gathering of early corn continues with a very good yield, while late corn needs rain. Considerable fodder and hay have been saved in excellent condition. Pastures, gardens and all minor crops need rain.

EXTRACTS FROM REPORTS OF CROP CORRESPONDENTS.

(County—Place.)

NORTHERN DISTRICT.

Calhoun, Weaver: Favorable weather for saving cotton and hay; cotton opening rapidly; no top crop; potatoes good.—D. F. Weaver

Cherokee, Weeda: Week favorable; cotton opening rapidly, picking progressing slowly, promising an average yield, though rust still spreading.—I. N. Estes.

DeKalb, Collinsville: Very dry; cotton still rusting and shedding, very little picked, no top crop, promising yield below the average.—F. P. Newman.

Etowah, Walnut Grove: Cotton rusting, shedding and opening slowly; fodder and hay being saved in good condition; corn fairly good.—A. P. Thompson.

Lamar, Moscow: Weather more favorable for cotton, no top crop, promising yield below the average; potatoes doing well.—J. A. Armstrong.

Lauderdale, Rogersville: No rust and shedding decreasing in cotton, picking progressing rapidly, no top crop, late cotton poor.—J. A. Pate.

Madison, Deposit: Still dry; cotton picking general, much shedding, little top crop, light yield promised; corn less promising than previously reported.—T. M. Bayless.

Marion, Winfield: Cotton about ceased fruiting, no top crop, picking general, some being marketed; all vegetation damaged by continued drouth.—W. J. Tull.

Morgan, Stringer: Drouth continues; cotton opening rapidly, picking commenced, no top crop, promising yield below last year's; minor crops poor.—J. C. Tanner.

St. Claire, Steele: Rust and shedding in cotton increasing, promising yield below last year's; all will be open in about twenty days.—Fred Smith.

Walker, Loss Creek: Rain needed; cotton ceased fruiting, opening rapidly, none picked, promising yield far below average; fodder pulling progressing.—R. A. Romine.

MIDDLE DISTRICT.

Autauga, Haynes: Cotton rusting and shedding badly, considerable open, picking progressing rapidly, no top crop, prospective yield below the average.—W. N. Gaines.

Bibb, Brierfield: Rust and shedding in cotton increasing, considerable open, prospective yield below last year's, late not opening.—Frank Fitch.

Bullock, Suspension: Week dry; rust in cotton increasing, picking progressing rapidly, little top crop, average yield of early planted promised.—H. B. Walker.

Chambers, Oak Bowery: Cotton deteriorating rapidly, no top crop on early, prospective yield of late far below average; turnips a failure.—J. D. Harris.

Chilton, Maplesville: Late crops need rain; favorable weather for saving fodder, hay and cotton; no corn gathered.—W. Y. Nix.

Choctaw, Yantley: Very dry; considerable cotton open and picking progressing, promising yield below last year's.—J. A. Davison.

Clay, Goodwater: Favorable weather for saving hay and fodder, though too dry for cotton, which promises yield below the average.—R. C. Meacam.

Dallas, Plantersville: Rust and blight damaging all cotton, the early nearly all picked, yield light, late not promising; minor crops need rain.—J. A. Fulford.

Elmore, Spigners: Cotton opening rapidly, promising yield slightly below the average; potatoes and minor crops need rain.—W. P. Clark.

Green, Tishabee: Rust and shedding in cotton continues, picking progressing slowly, prospective yield far below last year's. —G. H. David.

Marengo, Moss: Rust in cotton and shedding of small bolls prevalent, no top crop; very little corn being gathered.—J. B. Lewis.

Perry, Walthalls: Considerable shedding in cotton, picking progressing slowly; no top crop; prospective yield below the average.—R. A. Hardie.

Pickens, Ethelsville: Cotton damaged by drouth, picking progressing slowly; no top crop; prospective yield below the average; corn promises yield below the average.—H. C. Moorhead.

Randolph, Wildwood: Cotton not so promising as previously reported, no top crop; nearly all fodder pulled; sorghum being ground.—H. D. Landers.

Russell, Hyram: Rust and shedding in cotton increasing, very little top crop, late poor; prospective yield about the same as last year's.—John E. Bush.

Sumter, Sumterville: Cotton has shed most of its squares, opening rapidly, picking progressing fairly well, prospective yield far below the average.—Godfrey Bros.

Talladega, Talladega: Rust and shedding in cotton increasing, promising yield far below the average, too dry for late cotton.—H. M. Burt.

Tuscaloosa, Olmstead Station: Considerable cotton open, prospective yield about the same as last year's.—C. B. Olmstead.

SOUTHERN DISTRICT.

Baldwin, Magnolia Springs: Favorable week for haying; late sweet potatoes doing well; corn about gathered; rice yielding well.—H. P. Krueger.

Barbour, Mt. Andrew: Rust and shedding in cotton general, some top crop, late doing fairly well, picking progressing, promising yield about same as last year's.—S. J. Lambard.

Conecuh, Belleville: Favorable week for gathering cotton, opening rapidly, promising yield about the same as last year's.—W. M. Newton.

Houston, Lucy: Cotton continues to shed, nearly all open, picking well under way, late not fruiting, promising yield below the average.—A. L. Crosby.

Mobile, Spring Hill: Week favorable; crops doing well.—G. P. Bryan, S. J.

Monroe, Turnbull: Cotton nearly all open, though leaves badly damaged by caterpillars; peas, potatoes and turnips need rain.—J. H. McCray.

Pike, Milo: No rain; considerable cotton picked, no top crop, promising yield below last year's; corn light, too dry for potatoes.—J. M. Warren.

Wilcox, Alberta: Nearly all cotton open, picking progressing, promising yield below last year's, late unpromising; potatoes poor.—W. A. Menafee.

THOMAS CRAWFORD,
Observer, Temporarily in Charge.

COTTON PICKING.

Is Now General—Shedding is Reported—Dry Weather Hurtful.

The weather bureau's weekly summary of crop conditions says:

While the weather conditions of the week ending September 19th were generally favorable for gathering crops in nearly all districts, low night temperatures in the more northerly portions have delayed the maturity of late crops. Frosts occurred as far south as Oklahoma and Tennessee, but little or no damage resulted.

Late corn is maturing rapidly in the western portion of the belt, but the crop is ripening slowly in the eastern and central sections.

Complaints of shedding are still received from the eastern section and the northern portion of the western section of the cotton belt, but reports of rust are not so general. Except in North Carolina the staple is opening rapidly in all districts, in some localities prematurely, and picking is general, although delayed by rain in portions of Texas, from which state as well as from Georgia scarcity of pickers is reported.

Dry weatner is causing injury to late cotton generally in the central and eastern sections, and a light or no top crop is indicated in the central and caterpillars are causing injury in Oklahoma, Louisiana, Alabama and South Carolina. In Texas the boll weevils continue as damaging in southwestern, coast, central, eastern and a number of northern counties as the advancement of the season permits.

Army Marriages.

That no army officer be permitted to marry until he has first secured the permission of the secretary of war and satisfied that official that his income will support himself and his family, and that he is entirely free from debt, is the recommendation made by Henry G. Corbin, adjutant general commanding the Atlantic division and department of the east, which was issued at the war department.

Decatur Library.

The new Carnegie library is almost completed and work is well under way on the new brick Presbyterian church which will cost upward of $10,000.

Payment on Friars' Lands.

The first payment of $2,000,000 on account of the purchase of the friar lands in the Philippines has been authorized by the war department. There has been on deposit in New York since last December the fund of $7,236,000 realized from the sale of bonds authorized to be issued in purchase of the friar lands, and a draft for the first payment will be made on the Bank of England.

The Advocate continues to "hare rang," but the populist administration has lost its rabbit foot.

"Plunkett" should do all his writing by proxy. The phraseology, by proxy, is a little better than his usual matter.

All Democrats are now at work to make the majority for their ticket so big that the opposition will wonder what struck 'em.

Three City Court bills received Judge Longshore's supporting vote while he was in the Legislature. The Judge says it's a no-such-a-thing, but the House Journal has his vote recorded "aye" all right enough.

The populist leaders have never been able to explain why the tax rate in Shelby county jumped in one year from a four mill tax rate under Democratic administration, to a seven mill rate under the populist maladministration?

The Advocate is getting desperate. That is not to be wondered at, when it knows its ticket is losing ground every day. Poor Handy Andy; it is hard to be cut off from the public pap upon which he has been living lo these many years.

The correspondence(?) from Beat 9, in the Advocate last week, bears the familiar earmarks, "hare rang" and all, of one of the many editorial(!) writers on that sheet. The people know that "Honest John" in the sky parlor had a finger in the pie.

Dissolution Notice.—On November 9th, the partnership now existing between the populist bosses and the black and tans, will be dissolved because of mutual disagreement. As there will be no assets, the appointment of a receiver will be dispensed with.

The "trial order" plea, in relation to the road machinery, which Judge Longshore hugs so closely to his bosom will not go down with people who believe in abiding by a contract. The road machinery, next to the illegal tax levies made by the populist administration, is causing considerable worry to the populist bosses.

The Advocate's triumvirate of editorial(!) writers would not recognize the truth if they were to meet it in the middle of the road. Its slam at that old, gray-haired and crippled ex-Confederate soldier, W. R. A. Milner, is so glaringly false that even some of its own following condemn it. However, that expression is in keeping with the campaign of deception, prejudice and falsehood that sheet has strictly adhered to all through this campaign.

Time after time has the populist administration taxed the people of Shelby county for bridges which have never been built. Neither were they contracted for nor the debt created for them which the Constitution requires must be done before the levies are made; and when Judge Longshore admits is true. The people have been made to pay all these unlawful, illegal and infamous tax levies, while the railroads, the rich corporations, sit in the easy chair and watch the common people pay tribute to populist usurpation. The railroads don't pay, you know. Such discrimination against the people—the wage earner, the merchant, the farmer, the doctor—smacks of the sentiment once expressed by Vanderbilt: "The people be damned!" The railroads like it because they do not have to pay; the common people are compelled to pay whether they like it or not. That's an illustration of "equal rights to all, and special privileges to none," as demonstrated by the populist administration in this county.

A Monumental Prevaricator.

To keep in line with its course of misrepresentation, deception, falsehoods, etcetera, which the Advocate has persistently followed during this campaign; it worked off the following last week—a mighty effort during its throes of approaching disruption and dissolution:

"Every charge that D. R. McMillan and The Sentinel made against the populist during the canvass has proven to be false and without foundation. The people see that the Democratic party is trying to bluff its way through."

Ananias is out-classed all round when the Advocate winds up its prevaricating machine, and it is a close second to its political advisers.

The Circuit Court of Shelby county says the tax levies made by the populist administration were without authority of law, therefore illegal. The same court excused the railroads from paying that illegal tax. The Advocate says this court decision is "false and without foundation."

A decision of the Supreme Court of Alabama rendered in 1902, says that a levy for county purposes in excess of five mills is contrary to Constitutional provision, without authority of law and therefore illegal. The populist administration levied six mills. According to the Advocate the decisien of the Supreme Co rt is "false and without foundation." Yet under this same Supreme Court decision Judge Longshore instructed the Commissioners' Court to refund the excess tax collected from one of the large corporations in this this county. In all his speeches in this campaign Judge Longshore has contended that all tax levies under populist administration are legal. If what the Judge says be true, why, then, was a refund of taxes made to a rich land corporation? Was it a discrimination against the people in favor of the corporations? Under the same Supreme Court decision the railroads refused to pay the tax, and they have not paid it. Yet, the Advocate says the charge of illegal tax levies made against the populist administration "has proven to be false and without foundation." Great is the Advocate—as a prevaricator.

Contrary to Constitutional law the people of this county have been taxed for bridges that have never been built, never been co.tracted for, nor ever was the debt created for them. Judge Longshore admits that these specific bridge tax levies were illegal when he proclaimed from the stump time and again, that "you can't levy a tax for bridges under the State Constitution until you first build the bridges, or create the debt." Upon the same subject the Advocate whipsaws Judge Longshore's statement in the following:

"If the Sentinel was not trying to prejudice the people it would have said that there was a law compelling the Commissioners' Court to levy taxes for building bridges before the bridges are built."

We challenge the Advocate to produce any such law It cannot do it, for there is no such law. One of the charges against the populist administration is that it levied a special tax for bridges in direct violation of the organic law of the State, yet the Advocate says it is "false and without foundation," and in making such a statment it repudiates the minutes of the Commissioners' Court. Great is the Advocate—as a prevaricator.

The populist administration contracted for road machinery to the amount of nearly eight thousand dollars, and although Judge Longshore vehemently denies this yet the contract signed by that gentleman as Probate Judge is the best evidence. It is the contract against the Judge's denial. He calls it a "trial order," yet there is nothing in the contract about a "trial order"—it is simply a straight out purchase on the one condition: that the machinery will do work as guaranteed, and this is admitted by the administration. In its last issue the Advocate attempts to mislead the people when it says "time for filing complaint has expired." In other words the Advocate would lead the people to believe that suit cannot be brought for the collection of this claim because the time has expired in which to bring suit. This is not true. Suit can be brought in either the United States Court or the Circuit Court within three years from date of contract. Great is the Advocate—as a prevaricator.

Judge Longshore has tried to make a great deal of capital in the campaign by saying McMillan worked for the establishment of an "infamous" City Court in this county, and yet the House Journal records Judge Longshore with having voted for three "infamous" City Court bills while he was in the Legislature. The Judge says "I didn't do it. I didn't do it," but the records are against him, and you know, Judge Longshore said he was going to stand by the records in this campaign, but his record in the Legislature on City Court bills places him in such a ridiculous and inconsistent attitude just now that it gets next to him. Again it is the record of the House Journal against Judge Longshore's unsupported denial. The Advocate says the charge is "false and without foundation. Great is the Advocate—as a prevaricator.

The populist administration has almost doubled the tax rate from what it was under Democratic administrations, and this, too, with an increased valuation of over a million dollars. The Advocate says it is "false and without foundation." Great is the Advocate—as a prevaricator.

The above facts are some of the things the populist administration is charged with, and every one of them is substantiated by the records or the judgments of the courts. The Advocate says "every charge against the populist has proven to be false and without foundation." Great is the Advocate—as a prevaricator.

Pay Your Poll Tax.

Next week the Tax Collector will start on his first round, and The Sentinel would admonish all to pay their poll tax. The payment must be voluntary on the part of each, and the Tax Collector lays himself liable to fine and imprisonment if he asks or prompts you to pay it. For the benefit of our readers we quote Section 105 of the election law in relation to the payment of poll tax:

"Any person who shall pay the poll tax of another or advance him money for that purpose in order to influence his vote shall be guilty of bribery, and upon conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary for not less than one nor more than five years."

A person who offers to vote who is in possession of a poll tax receipt for which he has not paid, or which has been furnished him by another, is liable to imprisonment in the penitentiary.

Strange, Isn't It?

Sterrett, Ala., Sept. 26, '04.
Editor Sentinel, Columbiana.

It is beyond the comprehension of ordinary mortal how any white man with Southern blood in his veins can support the Republican party, or any part or tittle thereof, with the present black stain upon it. I am a Republican from principle but I am not for nor in sympathy with that element in the party which places itself upon a plane of equality with the negro, either socially or politically. And when the people of the South are confronted with such a condition (and it confronts them now) no self-respecting white man, no white man who has any regard for the sanctity of his home, for the safe-guard of his wife and daughters, or those of his neighbors, can nor will support any party or men who have thrust those conditions into the faces of the peop'e of the South. But one thing remains for him to do and that is to align himself with the party which in this State has hoisted the banner of "White Supremacy" until such time as the Republican party rids itself of a chief who dines with a negro, thus recognizing him as a social equal. When the Republican party rids itself of this contamination it will have become decent once more.

There is in Shelby county a wing of the Republican party which endorses every act of Mr. Roosevelt—a nation's leader who has fallen to the plane of social equality with the negro. This black and tan element has formed a fusion with the Peoples party in this county and have divided the ticket with them. Every Peoples party man who endorses that fusion also endorses the negro social equality acts of Mr. Roosevelt, and publish to the world that he believes in recognizing the negro as a social equal. He may deny this, but it is a fact nevertheless. The man who votes for the fusion ticket endorses the action of Mr Roosevelt when he deprived the white people of Indianola, Miss., of a postoffice for many months because they objected to a negro woman being their postmaster. I have in my possession a copy of the Congressional Record containing speeches and evidence before the United States Senate on the Indianola postoffice affair, and it is enough to make the blood boil in the veins of every Southern born white man. The man who votes the fusion ticket in this county endorses that scene in the Republican convention in Chicago when a little white girl, too young, too pure, too innocent to understand tne foul, degrading insult offered her, was placed upon the stand and hand with a kinky-headed negro marched back and forth before that great crowd of people, making a vivid illustration of Mr. Roosevelt's social equality yearnings for and with the negro. Is there a white man in this county who would see his little girl thus publicly degraded?

Again I say, the black and tan wing of the Republican party in this county endorse Mr. Roosevelt, and the Peoples party in this county does the same thing when it endorses the black and tan candidates upon the fusion ticket and asks the people to vote it. White men who believe in white supremacy; white men who are opposed to social recognition of the negro; white men who would hold in abeyance the inroads of an evil which otherwise must drag down the white race, will vote with the party next November which has adopted for its motto "White Supremacy."

REPUBLICAN,
Without any Negro Annex.

Practice What You Preach.

The Advocate, in its last issue, publishes the national platform of the Peoples Party, and of which the following is a part:

"As to those trusts and monopolies which are not public utilities or natural monopolies, we demand that those special privileges which they now enjoy and which alone enable them to exist, should be immediately withdrawn."

In view of the fact that the populist administration in this county has been extending "special privileges" to the railroads by levying an illegal tax upon the common people, and which the railroads do not pay, the above extract from the Peoples party platform places the populist leaders in this county in such an unenviable and ridiculous position that they deserve the condemnation of all men who believe in equal rights and justice to all.

The Advocate says The Sentinel shows a "littleness" in again referring to the Spring Creek affair. Well, brother, "littleness" does not express the manner in which you attempted to sugar-coat an action of which you and your dictators should be ashamed.

HARPERSVILLE.

Dentist John Stone, of Easonville, was in our community last week operating on teeth....The cotton crop will all soon be opened, gathered and sold, probably before the waive notes and mortgages are due ...The two Misses Bentley, of Vincent, were around last week telling their friends goodbye, as they expected to leave the next day for that grand old school of learning, the Judson....Our jovial farmer and ex-mail carrier, Mr Darling, says he is actually going to make two more bales of cotton this year than he will need....Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Martin moved last week to Falkville, North Alabama, where they expect to reside in the future. We regret very much to see these good people leave Harpersville, but hope they will be pleased with their new home. Mr Martin had lived here forty years or more, mercha dising most all of that time. He was foremost in church, politics and everything that came up which he thought would be best for his community and the people generally, and we always regret very much to see such men leave us. It seems that the whole country is in a moving way ....Mr. William Martin, aged about 60 years, died at his home on Kelley's Creek last Wednesday morning. He had lived within half a mile of the place he was born nearly all his life. He made a gallant soldier during the civil war, and if I mistake not was wounded a time or two. We have often heard him tell of the great battles that he was engaged in during that memorable time. He was a good citizen and neighbor: always ready and willing to accommodate. He was a member of the Rehobeth Methodist church, and his home was always a home for his preacher and his friends. To the bereaved wife and children we extend our sympathy. They have lost a kind husband and father; the community a good citizen, and the Democratic party a faithful number. Peace to his ashes. JAKE.

A change in the advertisement of Milner & Christian in this issue of The Sentinel may be of interest to our readers. People who are located on the rural routes recently established out of Columbiana will be interested in something this firm has to say.

E. W. D. Shirley, one of the farmer friends of The Sentinel, was in the city Saturday, and while here came in and had his subsciption pushed up to 1905. Mr. Shirley informs us that a little boy babe came to his home on Tuesday of last week, and that he is a thoroughbred Democrat.

Death of W. A. Spear.

It is with the deepest feeling of sorrow that The Sentinel chronicles the death of Hon. W. A. Spear, which occurred at Ashland, Sunday, September 18, 1904.

Mr. Spear was quite well known to the people of Shelby county, having taught school for several years past at Wilsonville, where he made an enviable reputation as an educator and a man of sterling worth. In the spring of 1903, he returned to his native county—Clay, to enter upon the study of law, and while pursuing his studies there the Democratic party of that county made him its chairman. A few days later he was called upon to resign this place to accept the Democratic nomination for Superintendent of Education, and had he lived he would have been overwhelmingly elected in November.

The deceased was a young man, and from all indications had a brilliant future. He leaves a wife and three little boys to mourn his death.

The Shelby County Musical Convention.

The Semi-Annual session of this convention will be held at Mt. Chapel church (Calvary, Ala.), on the first Saturday and Sunday in October, commencing on Saturday at 2 p m A full attendance is desired "How to Increase the Musical Interest in the Church, Sunday School and Home," will be discussed by the convention. All ministers of the gospel, Sunday school worker, singing teacher, organists, singing classes and all lovers of good music are cordially invited to be present. Music teachers are required to report their work in the song field. Come and bring your song books.

W. H. FARR, Secretary. JOHN M. DYE, President.

Hon. Sydney J. Bowie, Congressman from this district and nominee of the Democrats for re election, was in town for a few hours Tuesday Mr. Bowie is among the most popular of Alabama's delegation in Congress, and his re-election this fall will be by a larger majority than he ever before received. The Sentinel acknowledges a pleasant call from Mr. Bowie.

Miss Ada Finley spent Sunday afternoon at Shelby with friends.

WILSONVILLE.

George Smith and family, of Covington, Ga., are visiting at the home of his father, Col. W. T. Smith .... Leon and Elgin Pope left Wednesday for Marion, where they will attend the M. M. I. this year....Mr. Lanier, of Kymulga, visited friends here Sunday....Dr. H. A. Griffith, of North Alabama, visited friends here Friday and Saturday....Misses Minnie Weldon and Vera Jackson left Wednesday for Marion, to enter the Judson Institute....G. Kytle and family are visiting relatives here this week..... The citizens of Wilsonville and surrounding community were very much pained to hear of the death of Prof. W. A. Spear, of Ashland, Ala. Prof. Spear taught school here for 3 years. He came here a stranger, but left us, honored and loved by all who knew him. He was indeed, a perfect gentleman, a loyal cltizen, and a true christian. This truly is one of the great mysteries that God holds from us in taking away from earth, so soon in life, one so full of intelligence and refinement with such bright prospects to make his name famous upon the pages of his country as a true christian and loyal citizen....Mrs. Jno W. Tumblin arrived in the city Sunday, p. m., and joined her husband. Prof. and Mrs. Tumblin are at home to their friends at the hotel.....Messrs. Simpson and Nivens of the Southern Railroad visited friends and relatives here Sunday....Rev. O. P. Bentley, of Vincent, filled his appointment here Sunday and Sunday night, but Bro. J. H. Rear Admiral Hichborn Recommends Pe-ru-na

Philip Hichborn, Rear Admiral United States Navy, writes from Washington, D. C., as follows:

"After the use of Peruna for a short period, I can now cheerfully recommend your valuable remedy to any one who is in need of an invigorating tonic."—Philip Hichborn.

No remedy ever yet devised has received such unstinted eulogy from so many renowned statesmen and military men as Peruna.

Our army and navy are the natural protection of our country. Peruna is the natural protection of the army and navy in the vicissitudes of climate and exposure.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Sunshine is so rare in England that the government takes care to measure it. The official summing up for 1903 as regards sunshine shows that all districts in the British isles, with one exception, fell short of the average. Commonly the islands in the English channel have a large share of sunshine, but last year they were 135 sunny hours short.

The Milk Veins.

The milk veins found along the stomach of the cow should be very tortuous. They wind about on the belly and pass into the body through orifices in the rear of the fore flank. Their duty is to convey the venus blood to the lungs for purification. Hence, the larger the vein and the greater its ramifications, the better indication it is that the circulation of the blood through the udder is very large; and naturally, the larger the circulation of the blood the greater will be the milk production; because milk after all is really a product of the blood.—American Cultivator.

The Southdown Sheep.

The Southdown sheep still stands at the head of all the mutton breeds for quality of flesh, but some breeders favor Shropshire, because it is larger than the Southdown and shears more wool. The matter of wool should not be considered at all in the mutton breeds. While the Shropshire is a breed that is not easily excelled, yet the Southdown can subsist where the Shropshire would not thrive, and they can also be kept in larger flocks than any of the breeds except the Merinos. For improving the mutton qualities of common flocks the Southdown is claimed to be superior to all others.

Improving the Meadow.

There are many meadows yearly turned into pastures which might be saved for hay yields several years longer with a little care at the right time. One of the best ways of doing this at small expense is to plow the meadow early in August after manuring it well, and here is a way of utilizing manure one is storing under the shed, and which is going to waste, and sow rye in early September at the rate of two bushels an acre.

In April or as early as possible, plow under the rye, smooth and sow with grass seed, using a mixture best suited to your section or using a mixture of timothy, red top and clover, which is excellent in most sections, and will not contain enough clover to injure it for sale as prime mixed hay.—Indianapolis News.

The Colt the Coming Horse.

It should be remembered that if the colt is neglected in food or management there will be no good coming horse. Sometimes the mare is not a good nurse, and which case the milk may be supplemented with warm fresh cows' milk, diluted one-third with water. And a small amount of bran or oil, meal may be added occasionally to keep the digestive organs in a healthier condition, supply more bone and muscle-forming food, and give a sleeker finish to the colt. Oats should be added to the ration as soon as the foal is old enough to eat them. By teaching the foal to eat grain early it can be weaned much more easily. Plenty of good clean water should be at hand at all times. A little attention in these things will make a horse twice as valuable when put on the market or in the field.—Indiana Farmer.

Exhibiting Crops.

Any farmer who will religiously follow his county fairs from year to year will observe the opportunities there to make a reputation if he can grow one particular crop better than another. As everyone knows, one soil worker is an expert potato grower, another raises prize swine, another understands corn better than other crops, and so on.

Let each one take a specimen of that which he can grow best to the county fair and exhibit. Possibly he may not win a prize, but he will have a chance to see what others are doing and thus ascertain his own shortcomings. Again, his exhibit may attract the attention of some one who wants just the product he produces and a profitable business is worked up.

The educational advantages of the county fair ought not to be overlooked and the family should be taken to every one that can be reached at a moderate cost. Get out into the world and see what other farmers are doing; one will find them willing to talk and one may get enough good ideas at a single fair to pay for the expense of attendance 20 times over. Bear this item in mind as the fairs begin next month and in September.

Give the Boys Poultry.

As usual there is loud complaint from farmers that the children brought up on the farm are getting uneasy and want to try their wings elsewhere. This is not to be wondered at when these young people hear and read of what is going on in the world. The monotony of country life seems unbearable to them, especially when from the farm they obtain only plenty of hard work, the food they eat and the clothes they wear. True, one may say that is about all any one gets out of life, but if we can plan some way by which the younger people can make a start for themselves they will be much more contented.

Poultry offers a way of trying out the feeling of the young folks at small expense. Give them a chance to raise poultry and have the proceeds for their own use and in a year or two they will have become reconciled to country life and be willing to make it their future or they will have shown their utter lack of adaptation for it, in which case the best thing for them and for the parent is to let them leave the farm and take up the work for which they are better fitted, but don't lose your grasp on the young people without first giving them a chance to do for themselves on the farm and show what is in them.

The Seeds Readily Take Root.

On nearly every farm there are several acres of ground deemed hardly worth reclaiming, yet much of this soil is sufficiently strong to make a fair growth of trees with little or no expense. One hardly realizes how readily the native trees grow until something calls his attention to it. The writer has had much to do with growing trees in the nursery, yet until this summer did not realize how readily the seed of the well known sugar maple sprouts. A number of pods were blown from a nearby maple and broken apart by a small boy of an investigating turn of mind. After satisfying his curiosity, the pods were thrown lightly aside.

Some of the seed came in contact with the soil and last week four miniature maple trees some five inches high were found growing nicely.

In sections of the country are located nurserymen who make a business of supplying small seedlings of native trees and at a price so low it is a shame that there is not a grove of trees on every farm in this country. The time is not far distant when there will be a great cry over the forestless sections of the country and we will probably import the lumber necessary to build houses and make furniture when by a little planting each year this disaster would be avoided. Do your share, reader, in increasing the wood supply of the country; even the farm wood lot will help in the grand aggregate.

Wheat for Fattening Pigs.

There are a number of states, notably in the west, where corn cannot be grown, but where wheat thrives. Considering the comparatively low price that prevails and has prevailed for a number of years for wheat, can this grain be successfully fed hogs? A number of farmers have asked this question, and recently an experiment was performed at the Oregon experiment station for the purpose of ascertaining the value of wheat as a pig feed. Oregon is a state where corn cannot be grown except in favored sections, and I have seen corn thrown to hogs there and the swine would run from it. It was indeed like "casting pearls before swine." But wheat. Well, the results of the experiment was such as to settle fully the question of whether wheat could produce pork equal in quality to corn-fed pork. The fat of wheat-fed hogs is very heavy and thick, and firm in texture. The lean meat is very juicy, and light in color. As to the rates of grain produced, the results will compare very favorably with any experiment ever performed by corn feeding. Some farmers mix oats, with wheat, chopping the two, and feeding it to the pigs in this way. It has been found that it is not advisable to do this. Pigs do not like the coarse hulls which are present in such abundance in chopped oats. Chopped wheat alone proves to be a splendid feed for hogs. On an average, and when fed judiciously there are 13 pounds of gain for each bushel of wheat fed. From this it can easily be seen that the western farmer who is obliged to sell his wheat for 38 or even 55 cents a bushel, could much better feed it to his hogs. Pigs should be fed slops from the kitchen for a while previous to the beginning of the wheat ration. They should not be allowed to run at large, but should be confined to a pen connected with a small lot, to which the pigs can have daily access. Each ration should be weighed out and allowed to soak till the next time for feeding. A handful of salt should be added each feed, and a double handful of charcoal fed twice each week. The breed of pigs used in the particular experiment referred to above, were Poland Chinas and Berkshires, the Berkshires predominating. The hogs were slaughtered when they reached the age of 11 months. Dennis H. Stovall, the Epitomist.

Radium in Spring Water.

Some of Prof. Curie's more recent experiments with radium have dealt with its presence in mineral waters. To an English interviewer the scientist said: "My experiments leave no room for doubt. There are certainly radio-active principles in these waters. But as I am not a doctor, it would be rash of me to say they have a curative virtue. However, in view of the facts we have to go upon, it seems highly probable that they have."

It is a very old medical opinion that the waters of certain famous springs must be taken on the spot or their curative virtues are lessened. Analysis is unable to give any explanation of the potent virtues of Carlsbad waters.

The discovery of radium in several springs offers a new and most interesting explanation of the hitherto mysterious and curative activity, which vanishes when they have been some time bottled. Taking samples of the radio-active springs, Profs. Curie and Laborde found that after bottling their activity fell by a half in four days, and eventually vanished altogether.

The Wise Cat.

"Labor saving inventions never do any real harm to laboring men and women," said Professor S. P. Langley, the scientist and aeronaut. "They who bemoan the appearance of labor saving devices are unwise."

Professor Langley smiled.

"Such unphilosophical persons," he resumed, "should learn a lesson from the stable cat. Have you heard of the stable cat? It sat on the horse's back.

"'Dear, dear,' the horse wailed. 'Now that automobiles are coming into such favor, I fear I shan't be wanted.'

"'Nonsense, said the stable cat. Don't carry on so, brother. The mouse trap didn't do away with me, did it?'"—New York Tribune.

Quinine in India.

The inhabitants of malarious regions in India can now purchase quinine at practically cost price. It is put up in small packages by the government and sold at the rate of one cent for ten grains.

BOY FIEND POMEROY.

He Has Read Steadily For Twenty-five Years in His Prison Cell.

If Jesse Pomeroy, the boy murderer in Charlestown prison, the juvenile fiend incarnate of 1876 be released from custody to-day he would come forth one of the most thoroughly read men of his age in Boston or in the world, so far as English literature is concerned. Since September 17, 1876, the date he entered prison, until now, he has spent almost the whole of his time, when not sleeping or eating, in reading. He has had access to the prison library, and has perused everything from the lightest novel up to the choicest classic.

When condemned to life imprisonment he was extremely illiterate. Although a pervert, he possessed a brain which was otherwise above the average.

His thinking faculties were sharp, shrewd and quick. Over twenty-four years spent in a prison cell has not dimmed them. To-day, at the age of forty-one, he is just as active mentally as he was when as a youth he concocted the crimes which startled the country.

"He does no work whatever except that which is necessary to keep his cell clean," said Warden Bridges. "Most prisoners doing solitary want employment. They make unique canes and curios to keep their minds employed, but Pomeroy is different. All he wants is books, and he devours them with the greatest avidity.

"Life-time prisoners who are not condemned to solitary confinement usually die before they have spent a quarter of a century in prison, and the average convict becomes mentally queer after eight or ten years behind the bars.

"Pomeroy is a phenomenon. He is to-day hale, hearty and of sound mind, barring his homicidal mania. He is quiet and tractable, but we always keep a sharp eye on him, for he is deep and crafty.

"He eats and sleeps well. The majority of people imagine that he is confined in a little four by eight cell, but that is a mistake. His quarters are commodious, well furnished and supplied with two windows."

Pomeroy confidently expects to receive a pardon, and frequently talks to his guards about it when his food is passed in to him.—Boston Post.

One of the street decorations in San Francisco during the Masonic meeting was a bell formed of 7,000 electric lights, strung from a crown of steel to a great ring, the crown and ring also being studded with incandescent bulbs. It was suspended fifty feet in the air over the street. The top was 175 feet from the ground and the ring was 150 feet in circumference. Shining down from the inside of the crown was a plate on which were a crown and cross and the motto, "In Hoc Signo Vinces," done in multicolored lights. The bell, which is said to have been the greatest piece of electrical illuminative work ever constructed, weighed six and one-half tons.

The eight largest diamonds in the world are what are known as crown jewels. Some of them are in an uncut state, and others are carefully cut and finished, so that there is a wide difference in their value. The Kohinoor, the smallest in weight, has been thus reduced by cutting, and is much the most valuable of the lot and has been estimated at less than $500,000. The list is as follows: The Braganza, part of the Portugal jewels, weighs 1880 carats; Kohinoor, belonging to the English crown, 103 carats; Star of Brazil, 125 carats; Austrian Kaiser, 139 carats; Russian Czar, 193 carats; Rajah of Borneo, 367 carats.

The Manu group of islands has been ceded to the United States by the king of Manu and his chiefs. This is the result of the fair rule of Tutuila by the Manu chiefs refused to cede the islands when the group was divided among the three powers. The Manu group are small islands, about seventy-five miles east of Tutuila. The population is less than 1,500.

In Armenia children are not allowed to play with dolls. It is feared that if this were permitted the little ones would learn to worship them as idols.

Many old houses in Holland have a special door, which is never opened save on two occasions—when there is a marriage or a death in the family.

The custom of marrying girls when they are mere children of 9 or 10 years is increasing rather than decreasing in Bengal and other parts of India. The resulting racial degradation is becoming so obvious that laws have been passed in several regions forbidding the marriage of girls under fourteen.

It is said that whenever Andrew Carnegie has in mind the gift of another library he first asks his wife's advice. If she approves, the donation is made. Mrs. Carnegie was Miss Louise Whitfield, of New York, and she married the iron king in 1887. They have one child, Margaret.

Keeping a tobacco shop in France is a position greatly coveted by gentlewomen in reduced circumstances. The sale of tobacco being a state monopoly the government generally bestows the right to keep a bureau de tabac on the widows and daughters of officers and government officials.

Charles E. Bliss, 26, a painter from Peru, Ind., where his father is a Seventh Day Adventist preacher, committed suicide by swallowing carbolic acid. At the coroner's inquest a woman testified that she and Bliss played a game of cards, the stake being his life against hers. Bliss lost.

There is a shortage reported in the cranberry crop this year.

To Prevent Tuberculosis in Germany.

The German Department of the Interior has issued a set of instructions conveying compulsory precautions to be taken against the spread of tuberculosis in the empire. The instructions consist of seven articles, providing that doctors, under all circumstances where their patients have lung or larynx tuberculosis, must give written notice to the police as soon as the case in question has been diagnosed; that immediately after the death of a person from this form of the disease the room he used and his effects must be thoroughly disinfected; professional women who lay out the dead must report at once in writing to the police authorities whether the disease was of the lungs or larynx; and that keepers of hotels, lodging houses, asylums or other public institutions shall report immediately the appearance of the disease in the establishment under their control. Non-compliance with these regulations is subject to a fine of $35.70 or six weeks' imprisonment.—Medical News.

An All-British Pacific Cable.

The new all-British Pacific cable has been definitely decided upon, and a tender of $8,985,000 for furnishing and laying the same accepted. The cable will be 7000 miles in all. The longest link, approximately 3500 miles, will be the longest single section in the world. The route taken by this new cable from Canada to Queensland, will be via Fanning Island, Fiji and Norfolk Islands, but the exact route will be kept secret in order to enhance the difficulty of cable-cutters in war time. As a matter of fact the cable is being laid with the idea of affording greater security to Great Britain and her colonies in times of war by ensuring uninterrupted cable communication by means of a cable touching only at British ports. It will be laid largely in deep water, and is to be completed before the end of 1902.

Mississippi appropriates $200,000 annually to her veterans, and South Carolina gives a like sum each year. The appropriation in Louisiana is but $75,000 a year, in Arkansas it is $55,000. Texas votes to the veterans $250,000 a year. Florida sets aside a tax of one mill to the pension fund. Tennessee pensions her old soldiers and maintains a soldiers' home.

The gambling propensities of the Russians are indicated by the fact that more than $1,500,000 is spent in Russia for playing cards. The Tsaritsa Maria charitable institutions have a monopoly of the manufacture and they make a large profit, as the production costs only about $250,000.

M. Dubois, of Paris, shows that it is possible by means of Roentgen rays to examine the living oyster without in any way injuring it and to ascertain whether or not it contains a pearl. If it contains only a tiny pearl the oyster is returned and is allowed to live until the disease has developed a large pearl.

There is a healthful hardiness about real dignity that never dreads contact and communion with others, however humble.—Washington Irving.

Thirty or forty years ago what one may call the public supply of toothpicks was unknown. Every gentleman carried one in his pocket, of gold or silver if he could afford it, one made of a goose quill if he could not afford the other, but it was not the practice to use it until after one had left the table.

Lieutenant George G. Warren, of No. 3 Chemical, Washington, D. C., says: "It's an honest fact that Doan's Kidney Pills did me a great lot of good, and if it were not true I would not recommend them. It was the strain of lifting that brought on kidney trouble and weakened my back, but since using Doan's Kidney Pills I have lifted 600 pounds and felt no bad effects. I have not felt the trouble come back since, although I had suffered for five or six years, and other remedies had not helped me at all."

COLUMBIANA SENTINEL.

ESTABLISHED 1875. COLUMBIANA, ALA., OCTOBER 6, 1904. VOL. 30. NO. 6

CROP PROGRESS.

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

Climate and Crop Bulletin of the Weather Bureau—Alabama Section—For Week Ending September 26, 1904.

GENERAL CONDITIONS.

While the weather conditions of the past week were generally favorable for gathering crops, dry weather continues in middle and southeastern counties, injuring late cotton, late corn and minor crops, but elsewhere over the state fairly well distributed and beneficial showers fell, being locally heavy with high winds, damaging crops in Calhoun county on the 22d. Complaints of cotton shedding and rusting are still received, but not so general as previously reported; it continues to open rapidly and picking is active, though pickers are scarce in some localities, the top crop will be light, and the indications are if the weather continues favorable, that the staple will be picked earlier than usual, with a yield quite as good as that of last year. Early corn is being gathered slowly, on account of cotton picking taking preference, with a very good yield, but late corn is deteriorated through lack of moisture in middle and southeastern counties. Sorghum and sugar cane is being ground with satisfactory yields. Pastures, gardens and all minor crops have improved, where rains were received. The saving of hay continues with an excellent yield.

EXTRACTS FROM REPORTS OF CROP CORRESPONDENTS.

(County—Place.)

NORTHERN DISTRICT.

Blount, Snead: Cotton shedding rapidly, considerable open, picking progressing slowly, little top crop, late almost a failure.—C. C. Sulser.

Calhoun, Anniston: Heavy rain and high wind 22d, damaging cotton and late corn; cotton being picked rapidly; laborers scarce.—P. M. Watson.

Cherokee, Mackey: Light shower 22d; pastures need rain; cotton picking general, promising light yield.—B. F. Mackey.

Cleburne, Abel: Cotton continues to shed from dry weather, little top crop; corn not eared well on account of previous wet weather.—E. H. Taylor.

Fayette, Pilgrim: Very dry weather continues; considerable cotton picked, promising light yield; some corn gathered with good yield.—V. Savage.

Lamar, Vernon: Showers 22d, though still dry in most localities; corn excellent; cotton being picked rapidly, though rust and shedding not decreasing.—J. A. McCollum.

Lauderdale, Cloverdale: Cotton opening rapidly, picking begun, little top crop; corn fairly good; much fodder and hay saved; rain on 20th.—H. L. Reeder.

Lawrence, Hillsboro: Good rain; corn very good; cotton promises yield below an average; gardens and pastures damaged considerably by previous drought.—I. L. James.

Limestone, Athens: Local rains though too late to benefit cotton, picking progressing, prospective yield promises to be below that of last year.—W. H. Dougherty.

Marshall, Sidney: Weather dry; rust and shedding in cotton, opening rapidly, some being picked, no top crop.—J. W. Cowen.

St. Claire, Asheville: Cotton opening very rapidly, the top crop and late corn damaged by continued drought; turnip crop light.—G. R. Cather.

Winston, Mellville: Cotton picking general with light yield, no top crop; apples rotting.—H. J. Wilson.

MIDDLE DISTRICT.

Autauga, Wadsworth: Cotton opening rapidly, being picked rapidly, no top crop; minor crops need rain.—W. W. Wadsworth.

Bullock, Inverness: Cotton opening rapidly, picking progressing, no top crop, prospective yield about the same as last year's.—H. McLean.

Chambers, Lafayette: Good rain 22d, cotton has opened rapidly, picking backward; minor crops very promising.—W. Andrews.

Chilton, Stanton: Most of cotton open and picked, prospective yield far below an average; little corn gathered; minor crops need rain.—W. O. Perry.

Choctaw, Tullis: Hail storm east of here 22d, doing much damage; most of cotton open; pastures good; minor crops promising.—J. A. Bell.

Clay, Pyriton: Rain 22d, benefiting turnips and potatoes; cotton opening rapidly, picking general, much shedding, promising an average yield.—J. S. Headrick.

Coosa, Batson: Week dry; all crops damaged by continued drought; sorghum and turnips yielding well.—Ira Bailey.

Dallas, Tyler: No rain; most of cotton open; no corn gathered, though good yield promised; minor crops deteriorating from dry weather.—D. B. Edwards.

Elmore, Coosada: Cotton about all open, no top crop, considerable picked; late crops need rain.—H. F. Anderson.

Green, Boligee: Week favorable for picking cotton; no prospects of top crop on cotton.—E. F. Bouchelle.

Hale, Gallion: Favorable weather for picking cotton, about all will be open and picked by November 1st; late corn poor.—J. T. Collins.

Montgomery, Hope Hull: Most all cotton open and being picked rapidly, no top crop; some corn being gathered, yielding well.—J. W. Smith.

Perry, Uniontown: Cotton damaged by drought, picking progressing slowly, prospective yield about the same as last year's.—J. M. Richeson.

Randolph, Napoleon: Week favorable with light shower; cotton opening and being picked, promising yield about the same as last year's.—L. W. Townsend.

Russell, Heard: Nearly all cotton open, some farmers up with picking; minor crops damaged by dry weather.—John E. Bush.

Shelby, Vincent: Cotton being picked and ginned rapidly, promising yield about the same as last year's.—B. H. Samuel.

Sumter, Ramsey: Weather dry; most of cotton open, picking progressing slowly, one picking will get about all; minor crops damaged by drought.—T. L. Jenkins.

Talladega, Fayetteville: Weather dry; cotton opening rapidly, all will be gathered by November 1st; hay being saved in good condition.—W. M. Watters.

SOUTHERN DISTRICT.

Butler, Garland: Dry weather continues; cotton opening very rapidly; no top crop; hay being gathered; minor crops need rain.—J. C. McClure.

Coffee, Enterprise: Cotton being picked rapidly, promising yield about the same as last year's; some corn gathered; all fall crops need rain.—B. W. Fleming.

Conecuh, Brooklyn: Cotton picking progressing slowly, promising yield below last year's.—M. H. Saunders.

Clarke, Whatley: No rain, damaging fall crops; cotton picking well advanced; some corn gathered; much hay saved.—J. A. Hill.

Crenshaw, Honoraville: Cotton picking progressing rapidly; all will soon be open, no top crop.—P. F. Roper.

Escambia, Pollard: Cotton being picked, promising yield below last year's; sweet potatoes fairly good.—J. W. Kelly.

Mobile, Grand Bay: Some rain; hay being cut and corn housed; sweet potatoes and cane excellent; turnips and peas doing well.—J. Schnadelbach.

Monroe, Jones Mills: Week dry; cotton about all open, laborers scarce; little corn gathered; minor crops need rain.—W. L. Middleton.

Pike, Olustee Creek: Drought continues, damaging minor crops; cotton about all open and will be gathered earlier than usual.—J. M. Carter.

Washington, Deer Park: Week dry; haying and cotton picking progressing rapidly; minor crops would be benefited by rain.—H. H. Best.

THOMAS CRAWFORD,
Observer, Temporarily in Charge.

FRANK DUNCAN CAUGHT.

Noted Robber and Assassin in Jail at St. Augustine, Fla.

After two years and eight months of liberty, Frank Duncan, the pal of Frank Miller, safe blowers, who escaped from jail at Birmingham, has been captured.

His arrest occurred in Florida about ten days ago, following the blowing of a safe and the theft of its contents.

Frank Duncan, according to information, has been in Florida for some little time. He is said to have been making his home in a remote section of Florida, living in a little cabin. His wife has been with him in Florida. They are said to have been passing as sister and brother.

Recently he is said to have robbed a safe in the vicinity of Palatka, Fla., securing some money and other valuables.

The fact of the robbery was quickly discovered and the officers struck the trail while it was yet warm. They followed the fleeing robber until he was brought to bay and finally overpowered and captured him with the booty on his person.

New Coal Company.

Declaration of incorporation of the Blount Mountain Coal company are filed. The capital stock is $50,000. The principal place of business is Birmingham.

Sentenced for Life.

The Shelton jury at Florence returned a verdict of guilty and fixed the punishment at the penitentiary for life. This is the first time in six years that a verdict of guilty has been returned in Lauderdale county, when the charge was murder in the first degree. The defendant killed his uncle near Lexington.

The boy's father visited his son after he was put in jail and returning home shot himself, dying the next day.

Lamar County Books.

Of the six officials of Lamar county reported on by Assistant Examiner of Public Accounts W. F. Wilkinson, three were given clean sheets and three were reported as having made more or less important errors. Incidentally the examiner called attention to the gratifying increase of assessments in Lamar county as showing a decided growth and prosperity. This increase, the examiner says, for the last year will amount to $117,752.

UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

Supreme Court's Verdict Concerning the Test Case on the Lusk Bill.

MUDDLE IN MADISON COUNTY

Cases Against Lynchers May be Invalid—Jefferson County Affected.

What is commonly known as the Lusk law, an act which redistricted the judiciary system of the state and which was passed at the last session of the legislature, has been declared unconstitutional by the supreme court of Alabama. As a result leading lawyers say the judiciary system of the state is in the worst tangle experienced since the admission of Alabama into the union in the year of 1819.

Citizens have been nominated to offices which do not exist, under this decision, and pressure will be brought to bear upon Acting Governor Cunningham to call an extraordinary session of the legislature at once to remedy the trouble before it sinks hopelessly into the mire of legal complications.

The decision of the court reads:

"Board of Revenue of Jefferson County et al. vs. Edward C. Crow, appeal from Jefferson court; affirmed."

The court holds "that the journal of the house does not show that the house concurred in the amendment adopted by the senate as required by section 64 of the constitution, and that therefore the bill as signed by the speaker of the house and president of the senate and approved by the governor, was not constitutionally passed by the two houses."

The supreme court will hand down an opinion at a future date, but will presumably announce its findings early so that time would be had for the finding of any remedy deemed advisable before the judges are elected in November.

The journals of the senate and house show that the Lusk bill passed the house and was sent to the senate. The senate committee reported back with a substitute for the Lusk bill, and this was adopted by the senate. The senate then added two amendments to the substitute and sent the bill back to the house. The house refused to concur in the amendments, and a conference committee was appointed. The conference finally decided that the senate should recede from the amendments, and this report was adopted by the house. In some manner, however, the house failed to pass the substitute as passed by the senate and consequently the bill that passed the senate did not pass the house. This is the point in detail on which the decision was reached by the supreme court.

The most serious trouble arising from the decision is the peculiar conditions which surround the court now engaged in hearing the cases of alleged lynchers at Huntsville. Under the decision the law by which Judge Paul Speake and Solicitor Erle Pettus were appointed is invalid and they have been conducting a court which is legally not a court.

Under these conditions the indictments found against the alleged lynchers will not hold, and all of the work of that court will have to be done over with Madison in the eighth judicial circuit as it was before the Lusk bill was passed.

The matter now rests with Governor Cunningham. If he calls an extra session and the Lusk bill is regularly passed and made a law all of the present nominations will stand and the acts of the courts which have already met can be validated. Otherwise the circuits will be the same as they were

One Inch from His Heart.

Ed Carleton, a white man, was stabbed within one inch of his heart at Helena by another white man whose name is said to be Joe Phillips. An operation was performed. He is considered out of danger and will probably recover.

TONGUE BROKE,

Resulting in a Runaway That May Prove Fatal.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hartwig and an adopted son were seriously injured while on their way to town by the horses they were driving becoming frightened and running away. Both of Mrs. Hartwig's jaws were broken and a gash cut on the head. She also sustained serious internal injuries. She is expected to die.

Mr. Hartwig and the adopted son were seriously hurt, but not fatally. The runaway was caused by the carriage tongue breaking while going down a steep grade.

LYNCHING CASES

At Huntsville Disposed of for Some Time.

The seven lynching cases on the docket of the circuit court at Huntsville have all been disposed of for the present. The jury on the murder case of James H. Mitchell was unable to agree, standing eleven for acquittal and one for conviction, and on no ballot was the standing changed. This one juryman was the only one in 72 jurors who favored the conviction of an alleged lyncher.

Mitchell will have to spend several months in jail until the February term of court, application for bail having been refused. It is the opinion of those who heard the evidence that the old man would have been acquitted had he not talked so much.

Tom Winkle, charged with arson, was acquitted, his jury remaining out only a few minutes.

About one hundred and fifty talesmen were examined and a jury formed for the trial of the case of James Armstrong, charged with murder, when it was found that an important witness for the state had disappeared. The state asked for a continuance, and it was granted. Efforts were made to induce the judge to allow Armstrong to make bond, but Judge Speake refused. However, he agreed to give Armstrong a trial at the civil term of court in November. There were six trials of alleged lynchers in ten days. Five were acquitted and there was one mistrial. There are eighteen unserved warrants for alleged lynchers in the hands of the sheriff, and it is probable that many of them, seeing the result of these trials, will return home, surrender and stand trial at the next term of court.

WRECKED IN THE GULF,

And Cast Away on an Island for Days.

Captain Frank Lighton, a collector for the Smithsonian institution, Washington, was brought into Biloxi, Miss., from Chandleur island, Mississippi sound, where he had been cast away since Thursday night last.

Captain Lighton was out in his sloop Hero looking for specimens, and was some miles in the open gulf when he encountered a terrific gale, in which his sloop was overturned, and he was thrown into the sea to battle for his life against a gulf stream. He succeeded in reaching a skiff which he was towing and first tried to reach a schooner about a mile out to sea, but the weather getting so thick and the waves running so high, the night coming on, lost sight of the schooner, and he made for Chandleur island.

May Change Course.

From indications it appears that there is a strong probability that the bed of the Rio Grande will be shown when the waters have receded to be occupying the bed of the Arroyo Colorado, which ages ago was its original bed.

Should this be true, the people of Texas, who would be bereft of the river, would suffer greatly. The city of Brownsville would be cut off from the river, the miles of irrigation ditches and canals dug would be rendered worthless and property values dependent upon the Rio Grande's flow would be materially cut down.

Tennessee River Low.

Reports from towns along the Tennessee river are to the effect that unless there is a rise in the water in the next few days there will be great losses sustained by shippers. Many steamboats are tied up and those that are running have to pick their way carefully through the deeper channel.

The Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway has been compelled to lighten the cargoes of its transfer boats between Hobbs island and Guntersville and even now nearly twice the schedule time between the two points is consumed in the trip.

New Industries in Georgia.

Washington—Ice factory.

Savannah—Cotton compress.

Cartersville—$25,000 cotton mill.

Cordele—Implement works; $75,000 oil mill, gin and fertilizer plant.

Monroe—Water works and electric light plant (projected).

Higdon Resigns.

Colonel E. L. Higdon, of the Third regiment, A. N. G., tendered his resignation to Acting Governor Cunningham, for the sake of harmony in the regiment. He says his action was the result of several days' consideration of the situation. He states that he now sees an opportunity to resign and allow the regiment to have a complete set of officers.

The resignation is without condition, Colonel Higdon not even requesting to be placed on the retired list, although he says he considers that his seventeen years in the national guard entitles him to this honor.

Comes South.

Record for railway mileage moves from Illinois to Texas, which now has more steam railway mileage than any other state. Texas now has 11,563 miles, while Illinois has 11,517 miles, including the elevated roads of Chicago.

Cmmander Peary's new Arctic ship is being built at Bucksport, Maine.

NEW WARSHIP IS LAUNCHED

Battleship Connecticut Christened at New York Navy Yard.

30,000 SPECTATORS PRESENT

Grand-Daughter of President Lincoln's Secretary of the Navy Was the Sponsor—Rear-Admiral Barker the Officer in Command—Fourth Ship of Her Name to Serve Uncle Sam.

New York City.—Despite the ugly rumors of attempts to tamper with her cradle, the battleship Connecticut was successfully launched, gliding with silken ease down smooth, untrammelled ways. Fully thirty thousand persons in the shipyard and as many more from outside saw the ponderous mass of fighting steel sweep down into the water of the Wallabout Channel, at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, at exactly 11.18 a. m.

As early as eight o'clock the vast crowd began to stream into the navy yard, special details of marines and yard policemen being stationed near every entrance and along the roadways leading to the scene. By 10.45 o'clock, fifteen minutes before the hour set for the launching, the throng had become fairly settled, and made a spectacle not lightly to be forgotten. Dressed rainbow-wise, the Connecticut, red lead hued from keel to gunwale, a section of main bridge and a stumpy aft turret alone showing above her hull, lay stern on toward the river, resting on her ways. On her starboard quarter lay the Kearsarge, flying the red pennant of Rear-Admiral Barker, the blue jackets laying aloft to her signal yards and manning her fighting tops as thick as swarming bees.

Over on the Hancock, on the Kentucky and the Texas further thousands gazed and waited. Two hundred feet away from the Connecticut the big Cob Dock showed black with living humanity, and within the inclosure was the same dense throng.

By the time the patrol fleet of tugs and cutters had cleaned the navy yard waters of all moving craft it was 10.55 a. m.

Then suddenly from the waiting war ships six bells sounded. Then across the water a bo'sun's whistle began to blow, and the excitement mounted. Then upon the narrow walkway directly under the Connecticut's bow, just where the forefoot rose to the ram Naval Constructor Baxter was seen to raise a megaphone. A moment later he called "Stand by!"

At that a hush fell on the crowd. From somewhere a muffled bell began to whir. On the sound men sprang to the keel blocks, bled the sand bags and knocked the blocks away.

For the fraction of a second the watchers saw the red lead hulk hang, then quiver as if she felt a thrill of life. "She moves!" the cry ran from mouth to mouth. In less than twenty-four seconds she was in the water, and a new battleship had been added to Uncle Sam's fleet.

Those on the stand alone knew that Miss Welles, the sponser, who is the grand-daughter of President Lincoln's Secretary of the Navy, had failed to name the vessel or crash the champagne bottle across her bow.

The bottle swung from a decorated lanyard attached to a slender boom. Just how it happened that Miss Welles failed at the critical moment to do her part was not made clear.

Quartermaster Byrnes stepped into the breach and saved the day. He took the lanyard short and swung the bottle down. It shivered into fragments, and the frothing champagne streamed down over the steel plates as the vessel cleared the ways and shot out into the channel.

After the launching Secretary Morton with his party attended an informal luncheon at the officers' pavilion, Rear-Admirals Rodgers and Barker making brief speeches. Afterward Secretary Morton, with Colonel John J. McCook and Miss Ellen Miller Gould, paid a brief visit to the Naval Y. M. C. A.

The Connecticut is a sister ship of the Louisiana, and both vessels were authorized by an act of Congress in 1902. The Connecticut was built in a Government yard and under Government supervision, while the Louisiana was built by a private shipbuilding firm at Newport News, Va.

This is the fourth United States naval vessel to bear the name of Connecticut. The first served in the Revolutionary War on Lake Champlain. The second was in the little Franco-American naval shindy of 1798-1801. The third served in the Civil War.

COLOMBIAN SENATE ANGRY.

Opposition to Resumption of Amicable Relations With This Country.

Bogota, Colombia.—President Reyes is meeting with much opposition in the Colombian Senate to the resumption of amicable relations with the United States.

Forts Recaptured.

Three supplementary forts at Port Arthur, captured by the Japanese in the attack which began on September 19, are said to have been abandoned under Russian fire.

SENATOR HOAR IS DEAD

Passes Out After Long Illness at Worcester, Mass.

Was Senior United States Senator From Massachusetts For Many Years—Supposed to Have Left Little Money.

Worcester, Mass. — George Frisbie Hoar, senior United States Senator from Massachusetts, died at his home in this city at 1.35 o'clock in the morning. The end followed a period of unconsciousness that had continued for three days, and came so gently that only the attending physicians were aware of the exact moment of death.

The attending physicians despaired of the Senator's life six weeks ago, but such was the vitality exhibited by their distinguished patient that even they were surprised, and the public was at times led to cherish a faith in an ultimate recovery.

However, all hope was abandoned after a last unsuccessful attempt to administer medicine and nourishment. Brief lucid intervals were followed by longer durations of unconsciousness, until the venerable statesman sank into a state of coma from which all efforts to rouse him proved futile.

Of the entire representation in the United States Senate it is probable there is not one member who is not richer in this world's goods to-day than was the venerable Senator from Massachusetts. It is not likely that his estate will be appraised at more than $20,000. During his long public life he never could afford to own or even rent a house in Washington, D. C., and was one of the few Senators who made his home in a boarding house. He never possessed the faculty of accumulating wealth. He opposed his own party vigorously when he thought the party was wrong and he was right, and in the evening of his days he was an opponent of the most popular policy which that party ever had advocated. He was a classicist and a scholar, a litterateur and a writer as incisive with his pen as he was in his speech, and his "Autobiography of Seventy Years," published when he was seventy-eight years old, is a monument to his lucidity of thought, clearness of expression and vigor of utterance.

The Senator from Massachusetts was born in Concord, Mass., August 29, 1826, and received his preliminary education in the old Concord Academy. He was graduated from Harvard in the class of 1846, and after a law course, was graduated at the Dane Law School, Harvard University, and began the practice of his profession in Worcester. The first elective office he held was in 1851, when he became a member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives. He went to the State Senate in 1857, and then to the National House of Representatives in the Forty-first Congress, and was re-elected to the three succeeding Congresses. In 1877 the Legislature sent him to the United States Senate to succeed George S. Boutwell, and he was re-elected in the succeeding terms.

TO BUILD A MONO-RAIL ROAD.

Between Baltimore and Washington—Speed of 100 Miles an Hour.

Baltimore, Md.—Representatives of a New York City syndicate have made a deal with E. L. Tunis, of Windsor Hills, the holder of a patent upon a mono-rail system, for the purchase of the patent by the American Mono-rail Company.

Among those present at the conference were J. Coleman Drayton, John H. Ostrup, A. Norvale, Henry A. Seymour and George L. Upshur, of New York City, and Henry L. Williams, Ruxton Ridgely, E. L. Tunis and H. H. Tunis, of Baltimore, Md.

The contract has been given for the completion within two months of a five-mile track for testing purposes from Baltimore to a point on the Patapsco River. A new car, based on the Tunis model, to be entirely of steel, is in process of construction. It is said for this method of locomotion that a speed of 100 miles an hour can be maintained with safety. The motive power is electricity.

The ultimate object of the company is the construction of a quick line from this city to Washington.

LOCAL JUSTICE APOLOGIZES

For Speeding His Automobile Through the Streets of Lee, Mass., Member of the British Embassy Was Arrested and Fined by Justice Phelps—His Recall is Possible.

Lenox, Mass.—Hugh Gurney, Third Secretary to Sir Mortimer Durand, the British Ambassador, who has been spending the summer here, was fined for contempt of court and for violating the speed law relating to automobiles, by Special Justice H. C. Phelps, in the Lee District Court. Mr. Gurney was charged with running an automobile through the streets of Stockbridge at a greater speed than ten miles an hour.

Mr. Gurney, when arraigned in court, positively refused to plead, holding that as he was the Third Secretary to his Britannic Majesty's Ambassador he could not be arrested or held for the offense charged. Special Justice Phelps said he did not recognize "international law" in his court, and informed the defendant that he must enter a plea.

Despite this statement Mr. Gurney continued in his refusal. Then a fine of $25 was imposed for contempt of court, and another fine of $25 for violation of a town ordinance.

Mr. Gurney did not have in his possession sufficient money to pay the fine, and was paroled in the charge of the officer, Deputy Sheriff Noble, of Stockbridge, who had made the arrest. The officer accompanied Mr. Gurney to Lenox, where the money was secured.

Mr. Gurney immediately notified the State Department, in Washington, of the act of the Massachusetts courts, and the President was notified.

Justice Phelps said that he found nothing in the Massachusetts common law which exempted any one from breaking the laws of the State, and he acted accordingly.

Boston, Mass.—Governor Bates held a conference with Assistant United States District Attorney Nash and Justice Phelps, as a result of which an apology made by Justice Phelps has been forwarded to Washington, D. C., and the fine paid by the Third Assistant Secretary of the British Embassy has been returned to him.

At the same time it is understood that the Governor of Massachusetts, while acknowledging the violation of the statute to safeguard international courtesy, is determined to maintain the dignity of the Commonwealth, and to this end, accompanying the apology from Justice Phelps was a suggestion from the Governor to the United States authorities that the British Government be requested to recall Mr. Gurney on the ground that in speeding his automobile faster than local laws permit he failed to comport himself with the dignity befitting his office.

Washington, D. C.—Secretary Moody was advised by a dispatch from the United States District Attorney at Boston, Mass., that all the papers in the case of Third Secretary Gurney had been forwarded by mail.

It is not known whether the Massachusetts authorities have asked the recall of the Secretary, but in case Governor Bates has made any such request it will get no further than the State Department, which will act on its prerogative in deciding whether there has been a breach of international courtesy or not.

HERRICK LEAVES THE BENCH.

Sits For the Last Time as a Supreme Court Justice—Bids Adieu to the Bar.

Albany, N. Y.—Justice D. Cady Herrick for the last time sat on the bench as Supreme Court Justice, when he opened the regular trial term here. Just before adjournment he bid the bar adieu as a Justice. The court room was crowded with members of the bar of all political faiths, and William P. Rudd, who is mentioned as the Republican successor of Justice Herrick, responded in fitting terms. At Justice Herrick's request neither his nor the remarks of Mr. Rudd were reported by members of the press.

Justice Herrick will resign just as soon as he announces decisions in cases pending before him, which will be in about a week.

SLAYS WIFE, KILLS HIMSELF.

Couple Separated, and the Woman Spurned the Man.

Raleigh, N. C.—Louis F. Carmichael, a carpenter, aged sixty-four years, killed his wife, aged fifty years; seriously wounded his twelve-year-old step-daughter and committed suicide at Kernersville, Forsyth County.

Carmichael and his wife separated several weeks ago. He went to her home near the passenger depot and told her that if she did not consent to live with him again he would kill her before night.

Those who talked with Carmichael a short while before the crime was committed say he was sober, and insanity is suggested.

THE CHARGES PROVEN

Against the Populist Leaders by Court Judgments, Records and Constitutional Law.

The Populist Administration Has Delegated to Itself Powers not Warranted by Law, and the Constitutional Rights of the People are Trampled Upon Most Outrageously.

"The joint canvass in the county clearly showed up the falsehoods of the Democratic party. The charges made by The Sentinel have every one been shown up to be falsehoods of the first water, and the reaction of these infamous falsehoods have proven helpful to our cause."—Advocate.

And if there was ever a more willful, premeditated false statement put into type we have never seen it. How the Advocate can hope to retain the good will of self-respecting people by such perversion of truth, and its utter disregard of records, court judgments and law (each of which convicts that paper and the little coteric of populist bosses of practicing a most shameful deception upon the people in order to uphold a record that is rotten) is beyond comprehension.

The Sentinel says, and will prove to the satisfaction of anyone who is not prejudice blind, that the populist administration has placed upon and collected from the people of Shelby county illegal tax levies, and for which there is no shadow of law upon which to stand, and that the courts have so decided.

Let us first glance at the road law behind which the populist administration seeks to hide when charged with making illegal levies, and see if the administration has not delegated to itself powers which the Constitution of Alabama absolutely forbids; which the Circuit Court of Shelby county says was unlawful, and which the Supreme Court of Alabama says is illegal.

In the session of the Legislature of 1898-9, there was enacted a road law for St. Clair, Cherokee, Franklin and Shelby counties, and which was approved in December, 1898. Section 17 of that law reads as follows:

"Be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners of said counties shall levy a special tax of not less than one-tenth (one mill) nor more than one-fifth (two mills) of one per cent. on all taxable property of St. Clair, Cherokee, Franklin and Shelby counties, to be assessed and collected as other taxes, and when paid into the county treasury, it shall be kept separate from other funds and used ONLY for the purposes indicated in the Act, which special tax SHALL BE A PART OF THAT WHICH IS AUTHORIZED BY THE CONSTITUTION FOR COUNTY PURPOSES."

In direct violation of the above law the populist administration transferred nearly eight thousand dollars (raised by special tax) from the road fund to the general fund. Will the Advocate or the populist bosses say this charge is false? They dare not, for the sworn statement of State Examiner Gorman to the Governor says it is true, and it is a matter of public record.

In 1899, the populist administration made a levy of six mills, which was contrary to and a violation of the Constitution, Article XI of which says: "No county in this State shall be authorized to levy a larger rate of taxation, in any one year, on the value of the taxable property therein, then one-half of one per centum (five mills.)" The same section further provides that to pay any debt created for the erection of necessary public buildings or bridges, "any county may levy and collect such special taxes as may be authorized by law." The law says that this "special tax shall be a part of that which is authorized by the Constitution for county purposes," and the Constitution says "no larger rate, in any one year, than one-half of one per centum (five mills) for county purposes." Does not the law uphold the Sentinel that the levy was an illegal one. The Advocate will tell you that the above is a decree written by The Sentinel. Let's see about that:

Court Judgments and Decisions.

The railroads refused to pay that part of the tax which was in excess of the constitutional provision, claiming that the levy was an illegal one. Suit was brought in the Circuit Court of Shelby County to compel the railroads to pay. A hearing was had in March term, 1902, Judge Pelham presiding, and the judgment of the court was in favor of the railroads—that the levy was unconstitutional, therefore illegal. The Sentinel has said the railroads did not pay the illegal tax, and that the courts upheld them in their refusal, but that the common people were compelled by the populist administration to pay the illegal tax. The Advocate must admit the truthfulness of The Sentinel's statement, or deny that the Circuit Court of this county gave such judgment. The populist administration could have appealed to the Supreme Court, but it did not. Why? Because in the November term of the Supreme Court of that year (1902), that court rendered a decision on a like case appealed from Franklin county, where a levy of six mills was made under the same special road law by the Commissioners of Franklin county. That decision reads as follows:

Supreme Court of Alabama.—Frederick vs. Northern Alabama Railway Co.

1. Special road tax; levy of special and general tax by county can not exceed constitutional limit.—Under the provisions of the act "to better provide for the working of the public roads of St. Clair, Cherokee, Franklin and Shelby counties," approved December 13, 1898. (Acts of 1898-99, p. 199), which authorized the levy of a special tax of not less than one-tenth or more than one-fifth one per centum on all the taxable property of said counties, "which special tax shall be a part of that which is authorized by the constitution for county purposes," the commissioners court of each of said counties is without authority to levy a special tax in addition to the regular county taxes for county purposes, if the latter tax rate is fixed at the rate of one-half of one per centum, which is the full constitutional limit; and therefore, where in one of said counties the commissioners court levied a regular tax rate for county purposes of one half of one per centum for the year 1899, and, in addition thereto, for the same year, levied a special tax of one-tenth of one per centum on the value of the taxable property in said county, the levy of the special tax was unthorized by the constitutional provision fixing the limit of regular county tax rate for county purposes.

The opinion is by Justice J. Haralson of the Supreme Court, and from that opinion we copy his words:

"Section 5, or Article XI of the Constitution limits the tax rate of counties, providing, that "No county in this State shall be authorized to levy a larger rate of taxation, in any one year, on the value of the taxable property therein, than one-half of one per centum" (five mills). The section further provides, that to pay any debt created for the erection of necessary public buildings or bridges, any county may levy and collect such special taxes as may be AUTHORIZED BY LAW.

"The language of said Section 17 (special road law), is, that this "special tax shall be a part of that which is authorized by the Constitution for county purposes." It is thus made to appear, that this special tax of one-tenth of one per centum (1 mill), WAS IN EXCESS OF THE ONE-HALF OF ONE PER CENTUM (5 mills) AUTHORIZED BY THE CONSTITUTION FOR COUNTY PURPOSES, and in addition thereto, said special tax of one-tenth of one per centum (1 mill), was levied and collected making a sixty instead of a fifty per centum on plaintiff's property in the same year for county purposes—opposed alike to the provisions of said section of the Constitution and of said act of the Legislature. When the Commissioners levied a tax of one-half of one per centum (5 mills), as they did for county purposes, their power in this respect was completely exhausted, and there remained to them no room for or authority to levy and collect said special tax."

That is the reason the populist administration did not appeal from the judgment of the Circuit Court of this county—a decision of the Supreme Court had already been given covering the circumstances here, and under that decision Judge Longshore told the Commissioners' Court, of which he is the presiding officer and counsellor, that the excess, or illegal, tax collected from the Southern Mineral Land Co. under that six mill levy would have to be refunded—an admission on his part that the levy was an unlawful one. The law compelled him. See?

That the populist administration continued to impose illegal tax levies upon the people is proven by the laws of Alabama. In 1901 the administration decided the program must be changed, and this is the way it reads on the Commissioners' minutes:

"It is further ordered that a special tax of one mill on each dollar's worth of taxable property be, and the same is hereby levied, to build bridges and causeways in this county."

In this levy the populist administration again exceeded its authority. The Constitution says for debts created for the erection of necessary public buildings or bridges. There is nothing in the levy above to show that any debt had been created for which the levy was made. Even Judge Longshore admits this is true, for in his speech at Dunnavant, August 12, 1904, and other places, he said:

"You can't levy a tax for bridges under the State Constitution, until you first build the bridges and create the debt."

Such being a fact and the law, how can Judge Longshore justify the levy for "bridges and causeways" in 1901 when some bridges for which it was claimed the levy was made had not been built, for which no debt had been created, nor had they even been contracted for. The populist administration went right along making levies which even Judge Longshore says was contrary to Constitutional law. In 1902 and 1903 the people of Shelby county were levied to the amount of $6,000 to build the Parker's Mill bridge (the cost of which, according to the Commissioners' minutes, was to be $3,200) and at the time the levies were made Parker's Mill bridge had not been built, the debt for the same had not been created, nor was it contracted for until the year 1904, when $1,300 more was tacked onto the $6,000 already levied to build it. The people were taxed also for Buck Creek and Beaver Dam bridges in the same manner, neither of which was built, the debt created, nor contract made. Will the Advocate and Judge Longshore say these levies were legal? And by way of parenthesis we may add, the railroads have never paid a cent of this illegal tax—the common people have paid it. The position of the Advocate and the populist administration on these tax levies is in line with Judge Longshore's public declaration that "I will not support the State Constitution only so far as the law compels me." In totally ignoring Constitutional law together with Judge Longshore's declaration that he will not support the Constitution, The Sentinel would ask: is such doctrine—is such an administration—are such leaders worthy to be followed? Has not the populist administration been a menace to good government? Has it not trampled upon and taken from the people rights and privileges guaranteed them by the Constitution?

Longshore Votes for Three City Courts

Judge Longshore has made an attack upon Judge McMillan all over this county for trying, with others, to secure a City Court for this county,—"an infamous thing," Judge Longshore calls it. The position of Judge Longshore in this matter is inconsistent and contrary to his course while in the Legislature. Take up the House Journal of the session of 1888-89, turn to page 420, and you will find there recorded that Judge Longshore voted for the Anniston City Court bill and he also voted for the City Court bills of Gadsden and Decatur. Longshore flies into a rage when told of his votes for these "infamous" bills, and shouts "I didn't do it, I didn't do it!" but the House Journal says he did. Take the character of the two men on the City Court business: Judge McMillan, with no thought of deceiving the people, admits he gave his assistance to secure a City Court for this county. Judge Longshore voted for three City Court bills while in the Legislature, yet he goes before the people and denies it. Demagoguery doesn't express such an action!

The populist administration has contracted for road machinery to the amount of nearly Eight Thousand Dollars, and in support of this statement we give to our readers a copy of the contract for the machinery, and which is signed by A. P. Longshore, Judge of Probate of Shelby County:

ROCK CRUSHER ORDER

$7,471.50. April 9, 1903.

Good Roads Machinery Co.,
Kennett Square, Pa.

Please ship to A. P. Longshore, at Columbiana, County of Shelby, State of Alabama, on or before the first day of June, 1903, by order attached marked "A," on the following conditions, viz: That on the arrival of said Rock Crusher, or rock crushing outfit, at the above R. R. Station, the undersigned hereby agree to pay the freight charges, set up the crusher, and there work it under the direction of the Good Roads Machinery Co's agent unless otherwise agreed. When, if the crusher does work as warranted on the back of this order, the undersigned hereby agree to pay the Good Roads Machinery Co. or order, Seven Thousand, Four hundred and seventy-one and fifty one-hundredths dollars, in cash or note bearing interest at the of 6 per cent. per annum from date of trial, payable at Columbiana Savings Bank at Columbiana. If the Crusher does not do work as warranted, then the Good Roads Machinery Co. agree to receive back the crusher at the R. R. Station from which it was taken and cancel this CONTRACT. It is understood that this contract embodies the entire understanding, is not subject to countermand, and is not to be effected by any verbal agreement.

(Seal.) A. P. LONGSHORE.
Judge of Probate of Shelby County.

The above contract Judge Longshore says is only a "trial order" and is not at all binding. The Sentinel asks the taxpayers to read the last sentence of the contract and see whether or not it is binding. The only provision in the contract is that the Rock Crusher shall "do work as warranted." That it does and did do work as warranted Judge Longshore admits in a letter to the agent, and also wrote a letter commending the machinery as being the best he had ever seen. In his speeches Judge Longshore made a school boy explanation(?) of his statement, that it was the only machinery of the kind he had ever seen. Before this road machinery contract became public the Judge stated time and again that he had never signed any papers in connection with the much talked of road machinery, thereby trying to deceive the people. When the contract was produced, he says it is a "trial order"—yet he said he had never signed any papers in connection with the road machinery. That it was purchased the contract is the best evidence. Judge Longshore attempts to repudiate that contract now, just as he repudiates his vote in the Legislature where he voted for three "infamous" City Court bills; just as he repudiates the Constitution of his State.

Who Has Misrepresented the Facts?

We leave it with an intelligent people whether or not The Sentinel has proven its charges against the populist administration. Where do the false statements rest—on The Sentinel, or upon the Advocate and the populist bosses? Every charge The Sentinel has made (but one) against the administration is substantiated by law and the records. The one referred to was when The Sentinel said the Democrats had turned over to the populists sixteen thousand dollars when the latter came into power. This The Sentinel found to be incorrect, and a correction was made in just as public a manner as was the charge.

The Sentinel believes that on the 8th of November the people will repudiate an administration that has heaped upon them such gross injustice and indignities—an administration which discriminates against the common people in favor of the railroads.

The Bosses Dictate.

Those who assume to be the dictators of the populist party in this county met in this city Monday night and nominated the black and tan Republicans on the fusion ticket as populist candidates and they will be placed on the populist ticket. There was a feeling against the black and tans among a number of populists, and especially among those who had wanted a straight populist ticket nominated in the first place, and it is said the bosses hope to draw the middle-of-the-road faction to support the ticket by white washing the black and tans.

One populist, who had favored a straight party ticket, was heard to say that this action of the dictators would cut no figure, that the ticket remained just as it was before the white washing process, and that those who had opposed the ticket because of its black and tan element, and for other reasons, would continue to do so. The white washing process will not change the attitude of the lily white Republicans in the least.

There are many populists who will not endorse this last action of the dictators.

LONGSHORE'S BUGABOO EXPLODED!

During the joint canvass Judge Longshore made it a strenous point to attack the new Constitution, and that its provisions disfranchised white men in this county while negroes had registered. He cited to a man in Beat 9, John Jarvis, whom the registrars had refused to register because Jarvis told them he could not read or write. Great capital did the Judge try to make out of it. But another chapter was added to this incident last week, when Mr. Jarvis came to Columbiana, signed his name in a legible hand in the presence of the board, made oath he was qualified and was registered. It is believed all over the county that this was a scheme of the populist leaders to prejudice the people against the Democrats, and Judge McMillan predicted that Jarvis would again apply for registration; that he did so, and was registered is a verification of Judge McMillan's prediction. What do the fair-minded people of Shelby county think of such a deception and misrepresentation of circumstances?

SOUND SENSE.

From Collier's Weekly (Rep.)

That the South is solid, and that the anti-Republican feeling is stronger than when McKinley died, are conditions easily understood and sympathized with by Northerners who have sufficient imaginations to project themselves out of their own environment. No wonder there is but one issue, and no wonder the South cannot vote for the party of reconstruction outrages, force bills, bloody shirts, and negro exploitation. Who is going to consider tariff problems when his wife and daughter are in danger? Who is going to put currency and imperialism ahead of the survival of his own race? The Republican party earned glory by freeing the slaves and giving the final answer to a disrupting question. It deserves obloquy for the narrowness, tactlessness and political chicanery with which it has handled negroes and the Southerners ever since. Our latest editorial on the Southern spirit has been met with straightforwardness and sincerity. "I am what you might call a 'stalwart' Democrat," writes one Southerner, "and intensely partisan, but I am also an American in its broad sense, and though I fought under the 'stars and bars,' I love the flag of my country and everything for which it now stands. I am a Democrat because the party stands for the entire nation and does not believe in sectional legislation that shows passion and hate, and tends to arouse one section against another. It is time for the immortal words, 'Let us have peace,' to influence and control all sections, even though the President seems to be a man of war both at home and abroad." It is, indeed, time for those words to control all sections. A vast work is to be done before terrible conditions are cured.

There is food for thought in the above for every true Southern white man.

Beautiful Gates Ajar.

A deep feeling of sadness swept over our community last Tuesday night, when it was learned that Mrs. J. R White, who had been a victim of typhoid fever, had closed her eyes in death. For two weeks she had battled nobly for a return to health, and her efforts were augmented by all the aid that physicians and good nursing could render. But it was not to be, and at 8:30 Tuesday night, surrounded by those whom she had so dearly loved in her lifetime, she passed into the great unseen.

Willie Prince Roberts was born in Jefferson county thirty-seven years ago. She afterwards came to Columbiana with her parents, and eighteen years ago was married to Mr. J. R. White of this place, and has lived here ever since that time. The fruit of that union has been four daughters, three of whom are now living. She united with the Methodist church when quite a little girl, and her whole life has been that of a devoted christian woman. No woman in our little city has, probably, been more universally loved than Mrs. White. Hers was a noble character, sympathetic in disposition and kindly in manner to all.

The funeral occurred yesterday from the M E. Church at 3 o'clock, the services being conducted by Rev G. T. Harris, pastor of the deceased, and Dr. Branscomb, of Talla lega, and the large number of friends present attested her worth to this community, and the great loss it had incurred in her death, and the beautiful flowers that were so profuse over and about the casket were tributes from those who had loved the good woman who had been taken from them.

She will cheer no more nor brighten the social and religious circle of our little city; in the sick room no more will be found her comforting presence, and today loving ones are weeping and sigh for the "tender touch of a loving hand, and the sound of a voice that is still." Mrs. White illustrated in her every day life those christian graces and virtues which bloom alike under brighest skies and darkest clouds. As a daughter, wife, mother, neighbor and friend she was most dearly loved, and the little world—this community—that has known her for so many years is the better for her having lived in it. She has gone the way that all must go. Whether we today are rejoicing in the vigor of youth, or exulting in the strength of matural manhood or womanhood, or bending beneath the burdens of age, we must admit as did David when he was being hunted by the emissaries of King Saul. "As the Lord liveth, and as my soul liveth, there is but a step between me and death." We can build no wall of defense which will bar its approach, and in spite of all our effort death is constantly robbing us of friends, neighbors and loved ones. Only time can heal the wounds thus afflicted, but to live a life as did Mrs White takes away much of the sting caused by its visitation.

To the devoted, patient and thoughtful husband, and to the little daughters who are now passing through their first great sorrow, to the mother, the sisters and brothers, our heart goes out in its fullness of sympathy, and although the memory of her who has been taken from them will never grow dim, yet how earnestly and hopefully we trust that time may, in a measure, soften their sorrow and ease the great throbs of these aching hearts which have been so sadly torn

Mrs. Jas. McGowen received a letter last Saturday from Longview, Texas, announcing the death of Mrs. John Morrison, who moved to that place from Columbiana some years ago. Mrs. Morrison was a Miss Holland before her marriage, and was a sister to E. W. Holland, of Wilsonville, and of Mrs. Huston, whose death recently occurred. The deceased was a good christian woman, and was a member of the Presbyterian church. She leaves a husband and two children to mourn her death.

Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Bailey, of Calera, came up Monday morning, Mr Bailey to serve as a juror in court and Mrs Bailey to visit her mother, Mrs. Weaver. Mr. Bailey was excused by Judge Pelham and returned to Calera Tuesday, while his wife will remain for a short time. While here Mr. Bailey called and pushed his subscription to The Sentinel ahead for another year.

Eddie Barnett, the accommodating operator who has been with Agent W. F. Davis for a long time, has gone to Stanton as relief operator for a while. Although burdened with a great bodily affliction Eddie is one of the most pleasant, self-satisfied little fellows one will meet in a long time. He is the youngest operator in the employ of the Southern Railway.

On the first day of October of this year the Girls' Industrial School at Montevallo had 406 pupils enrolled as against 386 at the same time last year. Many improvements have been made about the buildings and grounds the past vacation, and there is promise of many more during the next year.

The display of handsome millinery at the Columbiana Milliner Shop last Friday and Saturday was a pretty one, and Miss Fallaw is to be congratulated upon the success of the opening. The interior of the store was nicely decorated in the national colors.

The Fourth Quarterly Conference for Columbiana circuit will be held in Methodist church at Columbiana on October 10th, at 10:30 a. m. The public is invited.

Miss Mary Liles departed for St. Louis on Tuesday for a visit at the World's Fair. Her nephew, Grover Liles, expects to return with her.

The new Methodist church at Farmer will be dedicated on October 9th, at 7 p. m. Rev. L. C. Branscomb will preach the dedication sermon.

Miss Gertrude Gordon returned from Calera last Sunday where she had been visiting friends and relatives for a short time.

Hon. W. F. Aldrich, of Aldrich, was in town Monday and attended the conference of the Populist-Republican leaders.

There will be no evening service at the Methodist church next Sunday. The morning service will be as usual.

Mrs. Hughson, of Chicago, whose letter follows, is another woman in high position who owes her health to the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered for several years with general weakness and bearing-down pains, caused by womb trouble. My appetite was fitful, and I would lie awake for hours, and could not sleep, until I seemed more weary in the morning than when I retired. After reading one of your advertisements I decided to try the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so glad I did. No one can describe the good it did me. I took three bottles faithfully, and besides building up my general health, it drove all disease and poison out of my body, and made me feel as spry and active as a young girl. Mrs. Pinkham's medicines are certainly all they are claimed to be."—MRS. M. E. HUGHSON, 347 East Ohio St., Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Pinkham Tells How Ordinary Tasks Produce Displacements.

Apparently trifling incidents in woman's daily life frequently produce displacements of the womb. A slip on the stairs, lifting during menstruation, standing at a counter, running a sewing machine, or attending to the most ordinary tasks may result in displacement, and a train of serious evils is started.

The first indication of such trouble should be the signal for quick action. Don't let the condition become chronic through neglect or a mistaken idea that you can overcome it by exercise or leaving it alone.

More than a million women have regained health by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If the slightest trouble appears which you do not understand write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for her advice, and a few timely words from her will show you the right thing to do. This advice costs you nothing, but it may mean life or happiness or both.

Mrs. Lelah Stowell, 177 Wellington St., Kingston, Ont., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—You are indeed a godsend to women, and if they all knew what you could do for them, there would be no need of their dragging out miserable lives in agony.

"I suffered for years with bearing-down pains, womb trouble, nervousness, and excruciating headache, but a few bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made life look new and promising to me. I am light and happy, and I do not know what sickness is, and I now enjoy the best of health."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound can always be relied upon to restore health to women who thus suffer. It is a sovereign cure for the worst forms of female complaints,—that bearing-down feeling, weak back, falling and displacement of the womb, inflammation of the ovaries, and all troubles of the uterus or womb. It dissolves and expels tumors from the uterus in the early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors. It subdues excitability, nervous prostration, and tones up the entire female system. Its record of cures is the greatest in the world, and should be relied upon with confidence.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness.

AN AMERICAN YOUTH.

A Famous Son Who Won the Cecil Rhodes Scholarship.

New York has cause for self-congratulation in the representative that the State has chosen for the Cecil Rhodes scholarship at Oxford in the person of Warren Ellis Schutt, Cornell, 1905. The sturdy Ithacan will be as splendid a type of American manhood as will be sent abroad to the English university by any State in the Union. Schutt's career is thoroughly interesting. He is the son of a prosperous farmer who lives six miles from Ithaca. Young Schutt got his primary education at a country school near his home, and then won a four-year scholarship in the Ithaca High School in a competitive examination. Instead of moving into Ithaca to live, or even driving to and from school with one of his father's teams, as he might easily have done, Schutt walked to and from the high school each morning and night. In this way he prepared for Cornell University. His first year in college he continued to walk to and from his home. His scholarship continued to be of the same high standard as in the high school, and he took all the prizes and scholarships to which he was eligible, ending up with the Cecil Rhodes scholarship at Oxford University. In his sophomore year for the first time Schutt entered college athletics. There the trainer took him under his care and developed him into the greatest cross-country runner in the country. It was here his twelve miles of daily walking to and from his home counted in Schutt's favor in the physical condition of the athlete. He ran in Cornell's victorious cross-country teams against Harvard, Yale, Princeton and Pennsylvania. On the track team he captured the two-mile intercollegiate run and lowered the time. Last May he duplicated the feat and was subsequently elected captain of Cornell's 1905 track team. This position he will, of course, resign upon his going to England. He is only twenty years old, stands more than six feet in height and weighs more than 165 pounds.—Illustrated Sporting News.

The Venetian courts have been trying to ascertain whether Prince Carlo Vincenzo Giovanni, who is known to have been alive in 1703, is dead yet. The disposal of a claim to more than $1,000,000 is at issue. So far no death certificate in the case has been producible, but a priest has offered to swear that the prince is no longer alive, and his deposition will be accepted.

In pensions women are in the lead. Mrs. Garfield and Mrs. McKinley receive $5,000 a year each. Mrs. Philip H. Sheridan receives $2,500, while the pensions of Mrs. Logan, Mrs. McClellan and Mrs. Frank Blair are each $2,000. Eighteen widows of generals and admirals receive $1,200 a year.

The making of shoes for dogs has now developed into quite a big industry, and is especially flourishing in Labrador. The dogs attached to sledges travel at great speed over the rough ice, and some protection for the feet is necessary. The shoes are made of sealskin.

The returns in London for the quarter ending June 30 show a decrease of revenue of $12,500,000. A large meeting under the presidency of a dignitary of the Church of England, therefore pointed out to the chancellor of the exchequer that it would be advisable to tax cats half a crown a head.

To show the progress made in shipbuilding in Japan it is shown that of the new steamers put in commission in 1902, 67 were built at home and 10 purchased abroad. Of the sailing ships same year 137 were built at home and none purchased abroad.

Announcement is made that Rear Admiral Schley will shortly publish his autobiography under the title, "Forty-five Years Under the Flag." About one-third of the book will be devoted to the Spanish war.

The raffesia flower of Sumatra weighs fifteen pounds. The cup, free of its contents, will hold twelve pints of water. The odor, however, is that of tainted beef

FITS permanently cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer, $2 trial bottle and treatise free. Dr. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

Piso's Cure cannot be too highly spoken of as a cough cure.—J. W. O'BRIEN, 322 Third Avenue, N., Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 6, 1900.

One-tenth of the world is still unexplored.

Dyeing is as easy as washing when PUTNAM'S FADELESS DYES are used.

Waked Up All Kinds of Snakes.

Snakes are unusually plentiful in the Middletown Valley this year, if the report of Farmer George Cramer is reliable, for he tells the champion story of the season. He lives at Catoctin Switch, in the southern part of the valley, and says that while he was mowing clover a few days ago a large blacksnake jumped up from the grass and landed on the machine. He stopped the machine and killed the reptile, which measured five and a half feet.

Later in the day he picked up a bunch of hay to give to one of the horses, when he felt something move in his hand. Investigation revealed the fact that he had picked up a rattlesnake in the hay. He dropped it pretty quick and killed it. But this is not all. Toward evening, while hauling the hay from the field to the barn, he heard a peculiar noise back of his head while seated on the saddle horse. Upon glancing around, his face came almost in contact with a large copperhead snake that was sticking out of the load of hay. He stopped the team and killed the intruder.

While cutting the hay during the day he killed two blacksnakes and three copperheads.

Mr. Joseph Huffer, south of Middletown, has so far this season killed twelve large blacksnakes on his farm. Mrs. Christopher Ringgold, of the same vicinity, killed a six-foot blacksnake in her henhouse.—Baltimore Sun.

The Coffee Smokers.

Two old men in blue uniforms, veterans attending the soldiers' reunion, sat on a bench in Boston Common.

"What was your hardest week during the war?" said the first veteran.

"My hardest week," the other answered, "was the one when I had no tobacco. I'll never forget that."

He paused to light a cigar. Then he went on:

"Do you know what we all smoked during that week? Why, sir, we all smoked coffee. We ground up our coffee coarse, and smoked it in our pipes."

The other veteran looked interested.

"How did it taste?" he said.

"Taste? Why, it tasted about like you'd think it would."

"Smelt good, I bet you."

"Yes, smelt all right."

"Any bad effect from it?"

"Gorry, yes. Took the skin off all our tongues."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

A Whopper From Pennsylvania.

While picking huckleberries on the mountains near Hagerman's Run, near Williamsport, on Sunday, D. W. Mack and son, Lewis, of South Williamsport, walked into a den of about thirty rattlesnakes. An exciting fight followed, the two men using stones and clubs. Seventeen of the snakes were killed, the others seeking safety in the crevices of the rocks.

During the battle Mr. Mack, who held an open jack knife in his hand, ribbed a gash ten inches long in a snake's body, and a mink, which had been swallowed by the reptile, crawled through the hole and tried to get away, but was so nearly dead from the squeezing it had received and confinement in the reptile's body that it could not get far, and Mr. Mack killed it with a blow of his club.—Wellsboro Agitator.

Guatemala's Big Coffee Crop.

When the volcanic eruptions in Guatemala last year covered the coffee fincas it was believed that the industry was ruined and that Guatemala had received a blow from which recovery would be slow. Many planters abandoned their ash covered plantations and believed themselves ruined. But the activity of the volcanoes was followed by heavy and long continued rains, which washed away a great deal of the ashes and incorporated more of them with the soil. The rain also seemed to bleach the ashes and extract from it a liquid fertilizer which proved of great benefit to the coffee trees. The result is a crop nearly as large again as last year's. Hereafter when the volcanoes of Guatemala erupt and spout ashes the only unfortunate coffee planters will be those whose fincas are outside of the showers.—London Globe.

A small boy with an insatiable thirst for knowledge came over from Baltimore in the same car with me day before yesterday. He talked all the way over, and everything he said had a "why, ma," in it. Ma was worn to a frizzle when the train reached Washington.

"Come on," said she. "Thank goodness we're home. No, don't go that way. Come this way."

"I want to go out of that end of the car," said the boy.

"You can't," snapped ma. "This is the end to go out of."

"Why, ma?" asked the boy. "Why, ma? Don't the car step at both ends?"—Washington Post.

DESTRUCTION OF CORK FORESTS.

It Goes on in Italy at an Alarming Rate and No Check Seems Possible.

The cork industry, which is quite an important one, will receive a fresh impetus, a new process having been discovered by which large pieces can be made out of small ones so that cork waste can be utilized in large quantities. This is all the more important as the price of cork increases steadily, both on account of the growing demand and the lessened supply of the raw material.

Formerly Italy was a large producer of cork, but a great part of the splendid cork-oak forests has already been destroyed. In some provinces—as, for instance, in Calabria—the trees have been felled and used for charcoal making; in other provinces they have been cut down on account of their high potash contents.

Larger forests of cork-oak trees are still existing in Spain, Portugal, France, Algeria and Tunis. None are found in Asia Minor and only rarely in Greece and European Turkey, although the climates seem to be favorable for their growth. The area covered by these forests is estimated at 300,000 hectares (741,300 acres) in Portugal, 250,000 hectares (617,750 acres) in Spain, 280,000 hectares (691,880 acres) in Algeria, and only 80,000 hectares (197,750 acres) remain in Italy.

While Spain still furnishes 32,800 tons of cork annually, the production of Italy has decreased to 4000 tons. The value of the Spanish exports of cork amounts to $6,000,000 per year, against less than $250,000 for Italy. Only Sicily and Sardinia are still producing cork to any considerable extent in Italy, while the former great oak forests of Calabria are almost totally destroyed. It seems incomprehensible that this destruction has been permitted. The trees easily reach an age of 200 years. They yield cork in their thirteenth year and continue to do so every seven years. Seventy-five years ago the English demand for cork was supplied exclusively from Italy. The destruction of the remaining forests goes on uninterruptedly, and nobody seems to try to prevent it or to plant new forests in spite of the fact that Italy possess the most favorable climate and soil for the cork oak, the most favorable conditions for its growth being found in the volcanic soil of the peninsula.

Substitutes for Wit.

Chinese school teachers do not strengthen the brains of children with algebra and calculus, but stuff them with Confucian morals, says a writer in the Chicago Record-Herald. He further declares that in China he found no wit or imagination, but tells the following incidents, which prove that the Chinaman has good unconscious substitutes for one or the other:

One day in Shanghai, when I was feeling sick, I called a Chinaman to me and said, "John, do you have good doctors in China?"

"Good doctors!" he exclaimed. "China have best doctors in wo'ld."

"Eudon, over there," I said, pointing to a house covered with a doctor's signs, "do you call him a good doctor?"

"Eudon goo doctor!" he exclaimed. "He great! He best doctor in China. He save my life once!"

"You don't say so!" I said. "How was it?"

"Me velly sick," he said, confidentially. "Me callee Doctor Han Kou. Givee some medicine. Get velly, velly sick! Me call Doctor Sam Sing. Givee more medicine. Me grow worse. Going to die! Blimeby call Doctor Eudon. He no got time, no come. He savee my life!"

In Chefoo my wife engaged a Chinese cook. When he came she asked his name. Shaking hands with himself and smiling, he said, "My namee Yong Hang Ho."

"Oh, that's too long!" said my wife. "I can't remember all that. I call you John."

"All light," he said, smiling. "What your namee?"

"My name," said my wife, slowly, is Mrs. Melville D. Landon."

"Hi," cried John. "Too long namee! Can't 'member all lot. Callee you Charley."

The Shoe Shampoo.

Willie is a precocious youth of about three summers. He was out with the boys the other evening, and among his dissipations was the indulgence in a shoeshine in a real up-to-date shoeblack's chair. Next he got his hair cut, and when the barber asked him if he wanted a shampoo he replied: "Suttinly, I want all the fixin's."

Recently when his father came home Willie had a chair in place and was ready to do business like a professional shoeblack. He addressed his father as follows: "Say, dad! get into de chair and I'll give your shoes a shampoo."

He got his words a trifle mixed, but there was one feature of the business he had down to the queen's taste To humor him his father got into the chair and the boy went through the shoe shining operation in pantomime, wich was so true to nature that every one laughed. The operation over, the youngster called out in a brisk tone: "Next! Five cents, please!" at the same time holding out his hand for the coin. He got it and immediately closed his shop until he could spend the nickel.—Albany Journal.

The Lawyer and the Painter.

Last summer at a dinner at Delmonico's Senator Depew told the following very laughable story: A certain lawyer who was noted for his success on cross-examination found his match several years ago in a long-suffering witness. He had plied the witness with question after question, and finally asked him how long he had work at his business of painting. The witness said, "I've worked at it off and on, but for the last twenty years I've worked at it steady."

"How long off and on have you worked at it?"

"Fifty-five years," was the reply.

"How old are you?" asked the lawyer.

"Fifty-five," answered the witness.

"Then you have been a painter from birth?" asked the lawyer.

"No, sir," responded the witness.

"Then why did you say you have worked at your trade for fifty-five years?" inquired the lawyer.

"I have worked at it off and on fifty-five years," said the witness. "Twenty-five years on, and thirty years off."

The Same Mosquitoes.

Charles Oliver Iselin, the well-known New York yachtsman, last summer at the yacht club very neatly called the turn on an overly fresh young man. "Talking about mosquitoes," said the young man, "I shall never forget the swarm of them that overtook my yacht just off Newport last summer. I tell you, gentlemen, those mosquitoes were as big as sparrows. Why, ten minutes after they came down on us they had carried away every inch of sail on the yacht."

"Phew!" exclaimed the yachtsmen.

"It's true," cried the young man; "it's true."

"Yes," interrupted Mr. Iselin; "I can vouch for every word of it."

"How can you do that—you weren't there!" exclaimed the young man.

"I know I wasn't, but I ran into the same bunch of mosquitoes the next day at Bar Harbor," said Mr. Iselin.

"How do you know that they were the same mosquitoes?" inquired the young man.

"Because," said Mr. Iselin, "they all wore canvas overalls."

WHERE THE TROUBLE LIES.

I think as many thoughts as most.
And some of them are really great.
I do not say the thing to boast—
I only care the fact to state.
Yet other men accumulate
No end of wealth with something pat
I could have done, but left too late.
Well, then, I wish I'd thought of that.

I might have known that stocks would rise.
The indications were that way—
It was a thing beyond surmise,
To buy a lot was bound to pay.
I noticed, too, the other day,
They rose sky high, but I was flat
Enough to miss the chance—oh, say,
I wish that I had thought of that.

Why can't I think of things in time!
My failure fills me with disgust.
It always seems to me that I'm
Behind and getting all the dust.
Had it not been for this, I must
Have been long since a plutocrat;
Each good thing missed, I find, is just Because I did not think of that.

Margaret.

MARGARET HUNGERFORD stood under the shadow of a gallery in St. Matthew's Church and watched the man to whom she had been engaged six months before come down the aisle with the woman who had superseded her upon his arm.

A year ago she had joyously invested this man with qualities whose nobleness existed only in the intensity of her own ideals. He had rewarded her by losing his head under the flattery of a pair of shallow blue eyes.

Margaret had stood aloof, almost as an outsider, and watched the thing from its very beginning—watched it with a slow death within herself which was as the hard departure of youth.

Never by the lifting of a hand did she seek to stay what she saw. Then came the day when Darrel asked to be released.

She realized with a quick glance into the future that here was an experience which time might not gloss over. It left her a woman of clear vision, with no vestige of the inconsequent glamour of girlhood.

Yes, as she walked from the church, when the bridal party had dispersed, a deep thankfulness filled her heart. Her life was yet her own. The bitterness she had felt was more for the rude tearing away of the sheltering visions of girlhood than for any deeper hurt.

"Now," she said, and threw back her strong shoulders while she descended the church steps as though she would thus throw off forever this phase of her life, "new work."

And work it was for three years, as day by day, in her nurse's dress, she trod the ward of a hospital. It was also what the pruning of a careful gardener is to a vine.

Under it Margaret's somewhat angular figure grew into a graciousness of womanhood seldom seen. Then she met Paul Gerhardt, and life blossomed for her with a resplendence of joy which at times held her dumb.

She stood one evening by the bed in a private room looking down upon the woman who lay there. The patient had just been brought from the operating room and given into Margaret's care.

On the whiteness of the pillow the fair, damp strands of hair showed strangely familiar in spite of the wasted features beneath. Margaret waited with locked hands for the heavy eyelids to lift themselves. Then she looked up suddenly and saw Darrel in the doorway, and knew.

His anxiety for his wife, if such it could be called, was swallowed up in his amazement at Margaret. That the former was perfunctory the nurse saw at a glance.

And in the eyes of Eleanor Darrel—when the effect of the ether had passed—there burned a fearful eagerness. Even the surprise of finding herself in the care of the woman she believed she had wronged was immersed in it.

Margaret saw that what little strength her patient had was dissipated in the effort to drag one word of real concern from her husband, and followed Darrel from the room.

Darrel's eyes narrowed to pin points as he watched her. Suddenly he caught a fold of her apron, crushing its fine whiteness in his hand.

"Margaret"—his voice was husky—"I see now—what a mistake——"

She looked at him dully, with knitting brows. It was hard at a bound to bring her mind to this. Then, as she would have avoided unnecessary contagion, she drew her apron from his grasp.

"Mistake!" her eyes pierced the shifting ones and held them. "Mistake! You did but one wise thing in all your weak, vacillating life, as far as I know, and it was when you married Eleanor!"

His eyes writhed under hers, but she would not release them.

"Why," she went on, "she loves you in spite of the fact that she knows you as you are. To me it seems incredible, it is incredible. She must be nearer the divine than we are."

Her look went beyond him to the door of the sick room, and he breathed more freely. Now it came back.

"What I knew what He had saved me from how do you suppose I thank Him now, when I know what He has saved me for? Within a month I am to be the wife of Paul Gerhardt."

The great oculist's name was familiar enough for Darrel. It was a pity that Gerhardt himself, bending at that moment over a pair of sightless eyes, could not have lifted his head and looked into those of the woman he loved.

The man who did look into them wondered if, after all, and in spite of Margaret's beauty, he had not had a narrow escape. Strenuousness was the one thing in life to be avoided. His thoughts turned to his wife with a sense of relief.

"Henry!" The nurse conquered her aversion enough to touch his arm. "Ever since the operation your wife has yearned—hungered for some sign that you really cared."

His weak under lip protruded itself sullenly. It was the look which his wife knew best on his face. To Margaret it was revealingly new.

"Go in now," she said quietly, "and give her what she has been craving for."

He shifted from one foot to the other in hesitating uncertainty. Then, as it was always easier for him to yield than to resist, he moved slowly back along the corridor.

His wife's eyes went quickly from one face to the other as they re-entered the room. Darrel took a chair beside her.

"You must hurry up and get well," he said awkwardly, patting the white hand which lay on the counterpane.

She scarcely seemed to breathe while she waited, her eyes fixed on his face. Still he hesitated, feeling Margaret's compelling eyes upon him.

"The house—does not seem—like home without you—little girl."

The very utterance of the words moved him, for Darrel was easily moved emotionally.

Slowly, in faint waves, the color rose to Eleanor Darrel's temples, seeming to force the moisture into her eyes as it came. Margaret thought involuntarily of parched ground when a healing rain has fallen upon it.

The wife's fingers were clinging like weak tendrils around her husband's.

Darrel looked around for Margaret, but she had left the room, feeling her way blindly out. Then he stooped, laying his face against the white one near his own.

Margaret's face as she ran down the hospital steps that evening to the man who stood waiting for her at his horses' heads was a benediction. Gerhardt turned to it afresh as he gathered up the reins in his strong hand.

"I don't know that I like you to look like that," he said, smiling, "when I am not the cause. It makes me jealous."

The eyes which raised themselves to his were glowing with the wonder of faith which has become certainty.—St. Louis Star.

An Eskimo Salmon-Trap.

The Eskimos along the Yukon River have an odd method of catching salmon, which is described by Mr. Jeremiah Lynch in "Three Years in the Klondike."

The Eskimos take boards a foot wide and an inch thick, and nail them together lengthwise in a triangular spout, a little wider than a good-sized salmon. This is submerged in five feet of water a foot from the surface and twenty yards from the shore.

The salmon, swimming along the side of the shore against the strong current, go straight into this simple trap and cannot get back, and those in the rear press on those in front.

We saw eighteen large salmon taken from one of these spouts in a few minutes, and the Indians said they caught scores every day while the runs continued.

At an old Russian settlement we observed how the natives live and prepare for the winter. The fish were running plentifully, and every Indian, even to the little children, was busy bringing them up from the bank, opening them and hanging them on the trees, or temporary scaffolds, or tops of huts and cabins, in every conceivable place where a salmon could be put to dry out of reach of the dogs.

The run lasts about six weeks, and in that interval the natives must provide food for their families and dogs until next season. Very few wild animals exist on this lower Yukon, and with the addition of geese and ducks, salmon is the only food that the country provides for its inhabitants. No grain is cultivated. The Indians buy flour and light supplies from the traders, paying in dogs and furs, for they trap all through the long winter.

Telephone Girls of Europe.

A London correspondent who has a London-Paris-Milan wire in his room writes that in his opinion the telephone girl is not quite an angel. He finds the London telephone girls slow and indifferent, the French intractable and impertinent. When the Whittaker Wright trial was proceeding he found himself late with some news and rushed to the telephone. Absolute silence followed his frantic ringing, until he almost pulled the telephone from the wall. After twenty minutes or so a sweet voice said: "Number, please?" "But," he protested, "I have been ringing for half an hour!" "Oh, really! I am so sorry. I was drinking my tea!"

In Paris the girls are absent-minded and usually make the connection badly, but have invariably an excuse and will not hear remonstrances.

The Italian telephone girl by the side of her London and Paris sisters shines indeed. She is obliged to repeat the number wanted, and so seldom makes a wrong connection, she is prompt, and not exceptionally pert, but she is lazy, and will often tell you that the person you want does not reply when she has made no effort to ring him up.—Rome Secolo.

WEINSEIMER CONVICTED

Ex-President of Building Trades Alliance Guilty of Extortion.

END OF AN IMPORTANT TRIAL

Jury Was Out Over Six Hours When the Verdict Was Finally Rendered—Prisoner's Wife in Court at the Time—Weinseimer Appeared to Weaken Physically at the End.

New York City.—The jury which had tried Philip Weinseimer, ex-President of the Building Trades Alliance, on the charge of extorting $2700 from George T. Essig, a plumbing contractor, on the Chatsworth apartment house, at Seventy-second street and Riverside Drive, rendered a verdict of guilty at 11.59 at night, after being out six hours and a quarter. Weinseimer was remanded to the Tombs until sentence will be pronounced.

When the jury came in Weinseimer stood outside the railing. Judge Newburger asked the foreman if a verdict had been agreed upon. Weinseimer was half smiling at this time, but the smile left his face as the foreman announced that a verdict had been reached, and then replied to a second question:

"Guilty, as charged in the indictment."

Weinseimer trembled when the words were pronounced, and grasped the railing as if to steady himself. He gave a quick glance at the jury and then at his counsel. The jury was then polled and discharged. Weinseimer's pedigree was next taken. He answered the questions in tones so low as to be almost inaudible, and the clerk had to bend his head to hear them.

The wait during the evening was one of anxiety for both counsel for the defense and Assistant District Attorney Rand. When the jury desired supper at 6.30, and afterward spent so long a time without coming to a decision, counsel for the defense were jubilant. They sent for Weinseimer about 10 o'clock, and he was sitting in the rear of the courtroom when the jury filed in with the verdict. Mrs. Weinseimer was in court during the evening.

Only one ballot was taken by the jury previous to supper. The jury was at supper nearly two hours, and up to after 11 o'clock only one other ballot had been taken. A majority were always for conviction, it is said, the jury standing nine to three until the last ballot, when the three were won over to a conviction.

In summing up, Mr. Raines, for the defense, declared that the charge against Weinseimer had been fostered by Charles L. Eidlitz, President of the Building Trades Employers' Association, in conjunction with George Johnson and other members of the Johnson-Kahn Company, building contractors, who put up the Chatsworth. Because of this fact Mr. Raines declared the charges had been tainted when they were presented to the District Attorney's office.

Mr. Rand followed Mr. Raines and denied the story of the alleged plot against Weinseimer, declaring that the employers had acted like any other honest men who had become sick and tired of the way in which Weinseimer had been grafting on both capital and labor.

Judge Newburger took only a few minutes in charging the jury. He said that no overt act need be committed, or any particular form of words used to inspire fear, according to the statute. The jury must determine from the evidence, he said, whether any money had been paid, but it was immaterial where Essig obtained the money he alleged he paid to Weinseimer.

RUSSIA BUYING RAIDERS.

Reported to Have Secured Several South American Warships.

London, England.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Telegraph revives in a new form the story that Russia is obtaining South American warships. He says that judging from the status of the officials who affirm the statement it must be true.

It is to the effect that Russia has induced three of the South American republics to depart from strict neutrality and to sell warships, which will be used to prey on American and British trade with Japan.

Chile and Argentina have each sold three cruisers and Brazil one. The financial arrangements connected with the purchases were made through banks in Berlin and other capitals where Russia keeps gold deposits. The actual payments are to be made in London to a citizen of a neutral State.

YOUNG MOTHER IS SLAIN

Shot by Assailant of Her Honor After Desperate Struggle.

Mrs. Frank Rasinger, of Shiloh, N. J., Found Dead by Her Young Husband With Their Baby.

Bridgeton, N. J.—With her baby, nine months old, nestling on her breast, Mrs. Frank Rasinger, twenty-four years old, was found dead in her home in Shiloh, near here, by her husband. A charge of heavy bird shot had been fired at a range of a few feet into her left side, just below the heart. Death had been instantaneous, a circular wound two inches in diameter reaching nearly through the body.

A posse of farmers began scouring the country for the murderer, their wrath increased by the emphatic statement of Rasinger that his wife was attacked before she was killed. There was every indication of a desperate struggle in the house, and it is thought that after the young mother had been overpowered she was murdered to keep her from making known the identity of her assailant. The shot was fired from Rasinger's double barreled gun, which had been standing in a corner of the kitchen, each barrel containing a charge of No. 4 shot.

Rasinger left his wife at the house with their baby at 1 p. m. She was ironing in the kitchen, but walked a short distance from the house with him, and, kissing him good-bye, returned to her work. He went to a remote part of his farm to examine some cattle and was returning when he heard the report of a shot in the direction of the house. He has told the police he thought the sound was that of a door banging. When he entered the kitchen he found his wife dead on the floor, her head close to his feet. Apparently she had been shot down when trying to flee into the open. The baby had its arms around her neck and was crying piteously. It had upset its cradle and crawled across the floor. Its hands were stained by its mother's blood and the front of its little white frock was crimson.

Rasinger was so overcome by the discovery that he delayed in looking for the murderer. When he did give the alarm no sign of the mysterious criminal was to be found. Escape from the farmstead was easy, as big areas of the surrounding country are covered thickly with timber. As soon as the news of the murder had spread through the little community the posse was organized and a thorough search begun. All towns through which the murderer might pass were informed of the crime and close watch was maintained at all these points. Rasinger went with the posse.

Mrs. Rasinger was a daughter of Ananias Wentzell, of Seeley. She was married about two years ago and had been happy.

KILLED BY MEXICAN BANDITS.

Soldiers Battle With Brigands Near Mexico City.

Mexico City, Mexico.—Three killed and fifteen more or less seriously wounded was the result of an outrage by brigands and a subsequent battle between them and a party of soldiers near here.

Crazed by drink, the three bandits, Flores, Saledo and Herrera, went to the residence of Vincento Godinez, at Santa Julia, a northern suburb of this city, and called for Godinez. When he came out, accompanied by Laurino Frias, a servant, the bandits opened fire upon them. Frias was instantly killed and Godinez badly wounded.

When news of the tragedy reached the authorities of the city, twelve rurales were at once dispatched to a plantation, whither it was learned the desperadoes had fled. A pitched battle ensued, in which nearly every soldier in the squadron was wounded and two were killed.

SENATOR ASKED TO RESIGN.

Arkansas Official Accused of Immorality Denounced by Citizens.

Little Rock, Ark.—A mass meeting of citizens of Perry County was held at Perryville to take action against State Senator Albert W. Rison, against whom charges have been preferred by his older brother, R. E. Rison. A committee reported, stating that the charges have been fully investigated and found to be true.

With the evidence offered was a copy of the divorce complaint of R. E. Rison against his wife. A resolution was unanimously adopted requesting Senator Rison to resign his seat in the State Senate, and if he refuses to do so, a committee was appointed to prefer charges against him and endeavor to have the State Senate expel him. The Senator says he will not resign.

SENATOR PROCTOR RE-ELECTED

Democrats in Vermont House Voted For John H. Senter.

Montpelier, Vt. — Senator Redfield Proctor was re-elected to the United States Senate by the Vermont Legislature. The election will be officially confirmed when the two branches meet in joint session.

In the upper branch of the Legislature every vote cast was for Senator Proctor, but in the House the Democrats supported their candidate, John H. Senter, of this city. Of the 236 votes cast, 205 were for Senator Proctor and 31 for Mr. Senter.

LUNATIC RAN WILD IN SHOP

After Pursuing Many, Patrick Harrigan Cut His Throat.

DYING, HE FOUGHT HARD

Elderly Widower, Suddenly Becoming Insane in a Brooklyn, N. Y. Shop, Dashed Through the Building Armed With a Razor—Panic Among Girls as He Slashed at His Neck.

New York City.—Becoming suddenly insane in the brass finishing shop of Staats & Dillmeier, at 36-40 South First street, Brooklyn, Patrick Harrigan, a widower, sixty years old, after trying with a razor to wound his fellow employes and terrorizing everybody in the building, cut his throat. Notwithstanding the fact that his injuries were fatal, he fought Policeman Fallon, of the Bedford avenue station, like a tiger and cut the policeman's left hand.

Harrigan's wife died a year ago and it is said he never recovered from the blow. He kept house with his sixteen-year-old son. Some time ago he lost a job in a brass finishing plant through a strike, and he has since hung around Staats & Dillmeier's shop in an effort to get employment. William Dillmeier, a member of the firm, took pity on the man and gave him a job as brass moulder. Harrigan's mind did not appear to be on his work, but Dillmeier said nothing to him. At 7 o'clock in the morning Harrigan reported for work and was at his bench until 10 o'clock.

Then he suddenly screamed, and, drawing a razor, ran at the other workmen, slashing at them with the steel. They outran him and escaped without injury. Schneider Brothers, shoe manufacturers, and J. Albert, a manufacturer of cut glass, are in the same building. Harrigan ran up to Schneider Brothers' place, where forty girls were at work. In their presence he cut his throat. The girls became panic stricken and rushed frantically down the stairs to the street. A number of them fell and were trampled on.

Meanwhile Harrigan had entered Albert's shop and terrified the employes there. All this time he was hacking at his throat. All the people in the building ran into the street and left the madman in complete possession.

Policeman Fallon was attracted by the tumult. Fallon drew his club and entered the building. Harrigan was behind a door and he made a savage attack upon the policeman. Fallon used his club, and although he struck the maniac again and again, the crazy man seemed to be possessed of superhuman strength and succeeded in wounding Fallon.

Harrigan finally broke away from the policeman and ran up an iron stairway. Fallon followed. On the second landing they had another desperate fight and both rolled down the stairs. Harrigan arose and staggered into the yard, where he fell on a pile of ashes. Fallon then disarmed the man and quickly sent for an ambulance to the Eastern District Hospital. Dr. Cameron found Harrigan dying and took him at once to the hospital.

The Rev. Father O'Brien, of Sts. Peter and Paul's Church, was summoned and he administered the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church to Harrigan.

Some of the women who had been chased out of the building were afraid to return to work and went home.

FOUR DAYS IN LOCKED CLOSET.

Woman Who Left Home While Delirious Found in Critical Condition.

New York City.—Locked in a dark closet of a building at 1 Thatford avenue, East New York, Mrs. Ray Singer was found half starved and blue from cold by Mrs. Rachel Levy, a tenant. She had been there four days without food or water.

Mrs. Singer, who has been ill, eluded her nurse and escaped from her home at 40 Thatford avenue, while delirious. Though her absence was discovered in a few minutes, the young woman seemed completely to have vanished. Her husband appealed to the police of the Liberty avenue station, which is only a stone's throw from the house in which she was found, and the police sent out a general alarm for her, while Singer with friends continued the search for her daily without result.

For a few days the tenants of the house at 1 Thatford avenue have heard strange noises in the building, but thought little of it and made no effort to trace them. Finally, however, Mrs. Levy, while passing through the lower hallway, heard scratching and cries coming from the closet, which is rarely used. She was frightened and, running into the street, called several men, who burst open the door.

On the floor they found Mrs. Singer, emaciated and moaning. She was in a state of collapse and a doctor was called.

WRECKED SHIP IS SAVED

Waterlogged Syanara Worked 180 Miles Off Carolinas—Men Saved.

Sailors Build Fire of Wood and Fat and Then Flash a Light by Raising Covers—Brought to New York by Clyde Liner.

New York City.—Five men, who constituted the crew of the British three-masted schooner Syanara, of Barbados, who for seven days battled the Atlantic off the coast of South Carolina, were brought to this port by the Clyde liner Apache from Jacksonville and Charleston. The men were rescued about 3.30 o'clock in the morning, an improvised flarelight from the forecastle stove having attracted the attention of the officer on the bridge of the Apache.

The Syanara's flarelight bids fair to go down in marine history in a class all by itself. When the vessel became waterlogged and her rigging had been swept away, Captain Morehouse discovered that he had no flarelights on board. He accordingly had the forecastle stove removed to the deck and filled it with grease and wood. Every once in a while one of the crew would remove the lid of the stove and then quickly replace it.

It was a week ago that the Syanara ran into the gale that was to prove her master. The wind freshened early that morning, and by night was blowing at a hurricane rate. The starboard deck load stanchions gave way first. Next the port stanchions went, and with them the deck load. The seams forward then opened, and in less than two hours the Syanara's hold was full of water.

For four days the storm raged with unabating fury, and then when darkness came the Syanara was level with the water, her decks awash, and not a shred of her sails remained in place. At this time the craft was 250 miles off the South Carolina coast, and Captain Morehouse realized that his only chance of rescue lay in getting back into the track of the coastwise trade.

Accordingly, George Rudolph, the mate; Seaman Nyberg and Jack London, a negro, set to work to rig a jury sail. To do this they took the foretaysail boom and lashed it to the break of the forecastle. Then they made a square sail of part of the mainsail, and with this managed to work what remained of the vessel to within seventy miles of the coast. Then it was that the Apache found them.

WEDDED IN SMALLPOX WARD.

Magistrate, Four Miles Away, Used 'Phone to Unite Patient and Fiancee.

Philadelphia, Pa.—A marriage by telephone was performed by Magistrate Mecleary. Mrs. Eva Lyons became the wife of Frederick Mehren, a victim of smallpox, standing at the man's bedside in the Municipal Hospital. Seated at the telephone in his office, almost four miles from the wedding party, Magistrate Mecleary asked the required questions and heard the answers from the sick room.

William I. Morgan, superintendent at the hospital, repeated the Magistrate's words, and the sick man, propped up in bed and watched by Dr. Royer and a nurse, listened intently and replied in a feeble voice. The young woman, however, talked through the telephone directly.

Mehren was in a critical condition, and his bride, once having entered the smallpox ward must remain there fourteen days, in which time she will be constantly exposed to the disease. Before entering the hospital she was vaccinated.

JOINT DISCUSSION.

Judge McMillan and Judge Longshore will discuss political issues in Dogwood on Tuesday, November 1st, at 10 o'clock a. m, and at night on the same date at Maylene at 7:30 p m.

Card From Judge McMillan.

Editor Sentinel.

In Judge A. P. Longshore's letter published in the Advocate of last week, in answer to The Sentinel's criticism of his proposed road law, he states that I was in the mass meeting in February, 1903, which appointed him and others a committee to prepare the road law bill, and that I made a talk on good roads, and otherwise participated in the meeting. This is incorrect. I was not not in said meeting, and so stated to Judge Longshore, last week, before his said letter in the Advocate was published. Why he made the statement after I disclaimed being present at said meeting I do not understand. I was present in a mass meeting in December, 1900,, held in the Court House, called for the purpose of agreeing upon some amendments to the Sturdivant road law. This meeting appointed a committee to prepare said amendments and submit to the meeting, on January 10, 1901, to which date an adjournment was taken. This was while Hon. G. B. Deans was in the Legislature from this county. I remember distinctly making a talk in the meeting either in December, 1900, or in January, 1901. Putting the case mildly, in a spirit of charity, the Judge evidently has the dates of these two meetings confused, and the confusion in his mind must have grown out of the fact that I was in the meeting in 1900, and made a talk on good roads.

Respectfully,
D. R. McMILLAN.

WARNING.

The Sentinel wishes to warn the voters in this county against believing any stories circulated about candidates on the eve of election—when too late to be answered. Such stories carry falsehood on their face, as, if time were given to answer, they could be refuted.

It will be remembered that an infamous stock law story was sprung upon Judge McMillan six years ago on the eve of election, and it entered largely into his defeat. It was afterwards proven to be absolutely false. The Sentinel could have turned loose Judge Longshore's proposed road law too late for him to answer it. But we preferred the honorable way. Again we say, put no credence in campaign stories circulated at too late an hour to be answered.

If the Washington "accident" is elected in November it is the expressed determination of the Republicans to cut down the South's representation in Congress. Is there a true Southern white man in Shelby county who wants that done? If you don't, you'll vote against anything that is tainted with Republicanism.

If a business man employs a clerk, a bookkeeper, or a cashier, sentiment does not enter into the transaction at all; competency is the thing considered. Taxpayers, elect competent officials to look after and preside over the business affairs of the county. Read the recent grand jury report.

The late grand jury says Shelby county is in debt $16,000, NOT including the new jail debt of $11,000. Add to that the expenses of the present four weeks' term of court, and the long list of claims allowed at the last meeting of the Commissioners' Court. Is debt Democratic?

JUDGE LONGSHORE TRIES TO DODGE.

Judge Longshore tries his hand at explanation, again, in last week's Advocate, and the effort is even weaker than that in which he labored to show that an agreement to purchase is not a contract.

The Sentinel had called attention to the proposed road law, drafted by Judge Longshore, and sent by him to be enacted by the last Legislature, and pointed out, in some respects, its iniquities, but without attempting to touch them all. Last week, The Sentinel published the proposed bill, in full, and it speaks for itself. Judge Longshore knew we had "the ink" on him, and his explanation is in the nature of a confession and avoidance. He could not deny the preparation of the bill, so he exerts himself to put the responsibility on the "other fellow.' It won't work, Judge! You do not state, and you cannot show, that in the preparation of the bill you conferred with your colleagues on the committee, or that you submitted it to them. On the contrary, your statement, in black and white, is that the bill was prepared "by myself."

Judge Longshore asserts that The Sentinel "attempts to deceive the people, and make them believe that I prepared the bill of my own will." There is no room for charging deception. The Sentinel simply stated facts, and the Judge has not, and cannot, gainsay them. The facts are that the Judge prepared the bill himself, without any assistance, and that he did not show his committee the courtesy to even submit for their consideration, the result of his labors. Can he say, in the light of these facts, that he was not exercising his own will? that he was coerced?

If Judge Longshore prepared the bill himself and alone—he admits that he did—and if he did not "fight" the license tax feature—and he asserts that he did not—and if he took the sole responsibility of forwarding the bill for enactment, with all the obnoxious provisions in it, without any consultation with the other members of the committee—and if this is not practically admitted it is capable of indubitable proof—then is it a "deliberate falsehood" to conclude and state that he wanted the bill enacted? Did he, with such deliberation and self-satisfaction, concoct a law that he did NOT want enacted? All the legal and moral principles of the doctrine of estoppel are against you, Judge, on such a proposition.

The Judge is "a most amoosin' fellow" when he gets in the explanatory mood. His estimate and opinion of the mental grasp of the taxpayers and voters is, indeed, infinitesimally small, if he expects the following to go down: "I did not advocate the tax on vehicles, and did not fight it. I simply read the letter, and quite a number of farmers present favored the tax, and it was argued that a farmer would be willing to pay a license of ten cents a year, in order to make saw-mill drays pay five dollars a year, as it was recognized that the saw-mill drays, coal wagons, etc., cut up the roads." Now, the bill, as "prepared" by himself, did not say one word about saw-mill drays or coal wagons, nor does it fix a license of ten cents for the farmer's wagon and five dollars for th saw-mill man's dray; but this is the language of Judge Longshore's proposed law:

BE IT FURTHER ENACTED, THAT SAID COMMISSIONERS' COURT ARE HEREBY AUTHORIZED AND EMPOWERED TO LEVY A LICENSE TAX UPON ALL HORSES, MULES, OXEN AND VEHICLES OF ALL KINDS USED IN TRAVELING ON THE PUBLIC ROADS."

The fact of the business is, that few saw-mill drays and coal wagons are used in "traveling on the public roads"; they are generally found in the pine woods, remote from public roads. It is principally the farmers' horses, mules, oxen and vehicles that are so used on the public roads, and there is no way of getting around this stubborn fact. Judge Longshore, Chairman (if we mistake not), "Assistant Secretary." and "Committee on Preparation" — the "Whole Thing"—made no attempt to give assurance in said bill that the license tax would be limited in any case to ten cents—or any old sum, or that the fee for issuing the licenses provided for, which is his own peculiar perquisite, by the way, would fall below fifty cents, as provided by general law for such service. As a lawyer, Judge Longshore was bound to know that there could have been no discrimination in such vehicle tax, against one class of vehicles and in favor of another; except, that, as the law was "prepared," the saw-mill drays and coal wagons might have escaped altogether, as being vehicles not "used for traveling on the public roads," just as railroad coaches would have escaped. In the same painfully serio-ludicrous way, the Judge says: "The farmers, many of whom were young men and had no vehicle or horse (think of it! a farmer without vehicle, horse or ox(?)!) had to work the road, and the object of the Mass Meeting was to make those who used the roads work them." Plump! we come back to the bald proposition that the owners of vehicles, and horses, and mules, and oxen, must dance to the music of the rock crusher; and who can resist the conclusion that the Judge approved it, for he "writ it" himself.

Further, he says: "The following statement by The Sentinel is untrue, and the writer knew it when he penned it: 'This Bill, prepared by Judge Longshore fairly bristles with taxation schemes and bond issues, etc.' The Mass Meeting endorsed the Bill (When?) and I drafted it. THERE IS NOT A SECTION IN THE BILL THAT PROPOSED A TAX UPON VEHICLES, LAND OR ANYTHING ELSE. The Bill ONLY authorized the Commissioners' Court to levy a license if they saw proper." Gee whiz! For reckless juggling with the truth we cite the public to Judge Longshore. Let's see if there is anything at all that this Bill did NOT propose to tax!

Section 1 provides for the levy of a special tax of 20 cents on the hundred dollars in value of all the taxable property of the County, which includes land, live stock, vehicles, and every species of property that is taxable for the State. This is an ad valorem property tax.

Section 6 provides for six days' work—no less—by every person liable to road duty; or else the payment of Three Dollars annually. This is a Sweat and Muscle tax.

Section 9 provides for the famous license tax for horses, mules, oxen and vehicles, upon the value of which the unfortunate owners would already have been taxed under Section 1. This is a Buck-and-Ball tax.

Section 10 provides for a penalty of double the amount of the license against anyone who failed to take out the license. This is a Blood and Carnage tax.

The general law allows the Probate Judge a fee of 50 cents for issuing each license required by law. This is a Paternal tax, going to the Daddy of the law.

Section 11 provides for the issuance of $100,000.00 of bonds. This is a Posterity tax, payable by your grandchildren.

Section 14 makes it the DUTY of the Court to levy and collect such property tax as may be authorized by the Constitution for the construction of roads, and payment of principle and interest of said "proposed" bonded indebtedness. This is a Great-Grand-Child tax.

If this is not bristling with taxation schemes and bond issues, then it is something infinitely worse. Pull the bristles out, and the hide comes off the whole thing. And yet, Judge Longshore goes before the people over his own signature and says "there is not a section in the Bill that proposed a tax upon vehicles, land or anything else." Who makes the false statement: The Sentinel, or the reckless Judge. Perhaps he has some other word for bristle? We respectfully pass it up to the resourceful Judge: When is a bristle not a bristle, and in such a case what does it become?

Judge Longshore was furnished with a copy of the Bill, as he said he wanted to publish "the whole thing." Did he do it? Nay! His "explanation" wouldn't chime with it worth a cent. Now, what did he do? He published the last three of the 17 sections. Why did he do this? Simply to try to create the impression that the operation of the law was left to a vote of the people. Read the Bill and see for yourself if the dodge is a good one. The sole proposition to be voted on is "For Macadamize," or "Against Macadamize." The power attempted to be given the Commissioners' Court to levy oppressive taxes is in no manner dependent on a vote of the people.

In Judge Longshore's pitiful struggle to shift his burden, he attempts to bring Judge McMillan into participation; but the extent of this is stated to be that McMillan "was present and made a short speech on good roads." The fact of the matter is, Judge McMillan was not present in that meeting. (See his card in this issue.) Judge Longshore names the silent members of his committee; but he does not and cannot show that they had anything to do with the Bill, which was, and remains the handiwork of the Judge "himself," which he, again comically, confesses thus: "The committee never did ALL get together at the SAME time." We are also informed that they did not all get tegether at different times, nor, collectively, or separately, get together at any time, on this great road law.

Another remarkable statement of the Judge, as showing how careless he can allow himself to become of the facts, and we are done—for the present. In his "explanation," the Judge says: "and just before the Legislature adjourned, I PREPARED THE BILL and sent it to Mr. Lyman." The Legislature convened on the 12th of January. The letter transmitting the Bill to Mr. Lyman bears date February 12th, when only twenty-five of the sixty working days of the Legislature had elapsed, and the Legislature did not finally adjourn until the 3rd day of October following, after an extensive recess.

There is no escape from the fact, Judge, that you had the proposition all to yourself. You were the "only pebble" so to speak, and of it you made a "terrible mess," which same, also, is your attempted explanation. So long!

FROM BRIDGETON.

Bridgeton, Ala., Oct. 24, 1904.

Editor Sentinel, Columbiana.

I am not given to writing for the newspapers, nor am I a defender of the Democratic party, for I expect to vote for Watson. But I was a little amused when I read in the Peoples Advocate that the farmers and laboring class had no representation on the Democratic ticket. As I read, my mind reverted to a meeting held in Columbiana when the only farmer of the three populist officials was told he would not be supported for re-election as his place was to be given to a black and tan republican. This, too, after he had announced himself a candidate. I refer to my friend and old neighbor, John P. Pearson, Circuit Clerk, a man whom Judge Alston said is as good a clerk as he ever saw in any court. Why was not Judge Longshore or John Pitts, farmers (of politics) pushed aside? For the simple reason that Longshore and Pitts favored fusion with the black and tan republicans—were willing to push aside an honest populist for the support of the black and tans. John Pearson, like myself and others, believe that fusion is dishonest, just as Tom Watson does, and on November 8th these would-be party bosses will learn the e are populists in Shelby county who have honest party convictions.

Compare the report of State Examiner on Pearson's books and Longshore's books, and then see what the grand jury says of the books of these two officials, and yet Pearson had to stand aside to make room for a black and tan Republican!

A WATSON POPULIST.

ADVOCATE DEFENDS ROOSEVELT.

The Advocate, controlled and edited by Longshore, in issue of October 13th, in two editorials, defends Roosevelt and those who vote for him. Longshore's mouthpiece in one breath defending the man who has defamed Confederate soldiers, Southern character, populists, laboring men and farmers, and in the next breath asking these men to vote for Longshore is a parody on political impudence. In a speech in Washington, after he became President, Roosevelt said:

"The Confederate soldier was an anarchist, and a menace to good government—a man who was bent on destruction."

In his book on the Life of Benton, Roosevelt declares:

"Through the Southern character runs a strain of coarse and brutal barbarism."

In the following, Roosevelt gives his estimation of the farmer and the laborer, in his "Ranch Life and Hunting Trail":

"The cowboys of the West are brutally disputed, but they are much better fellows and pleasanter companions than small farmers or agricultural laborers; nor are the mechanics and workmen of a great city to be mentioned in the same breath."

In a speech in New York, in October, 1896, Roosevelt said:

"Mr. Bryan and his adherents have appealed to the basest set in the land, the farmers."

Again, in his "American Ideals," Roosevelt says:

"The men who object to what they style government by injunction are, as regards the the essential principles of government, in hearty sympathy with their remote skin-clad ancestors who lived in caves, fought one another with stone-headed axes, and ate the mammoth and woolly rhinoceros. They are interesting as representing a geological survival, but they are dangerous whenever there is the least chance of their making the principles of this ages buried past living factors in our present life. They are not in sympaty with men of good minds and sound civic morality."

In the same book, speaking of the populists, Roosevelt says:

"Refinement and comfort they are apt to consider quite as objectionable as immorality. A taste for learning and cultivated friends and a tendency to bathe frequently cause them the deepest suspicion. Though they often make war on vice, they prefer making war on prosperity and refinement."

And again, in his pamphlet on the campaign of 1896, Roosevelt says:

"Thrift, industry, and business energy are qualities which are quite incompatible with true populistic feeling. Payment of debts, like the suppression of riots, is abhorrent to the populistic mind. Such conduct strikes the populist as immoral."

Roosevelt has expressed his contempt for Southern people; he has expressed contempt for the farmer; he has expressed contempt for the laborer; he has expressed contempt for the Confederate soldier; he has expressed contempt for the populists. This is the kind of a man the Advocate defends. This is the kind of a man the Republican candidates in this county endorse and are supporting by their allegiance to his party, and the populist candidates are doing the same thing by being on the same ticket in party fusion, a coalition which Longshore and other populist leaders manipulated against the express wish of the middle-of-the-road populists. Roosevelt is the man who is trying to force upon the Southern people social and political equality with the negro. This is the man who wined and dined at his own family table a negro. This is the man who turned down a white Republican in our own county, who has spent his time and money in trying to keep the party alive, and instead has given the federal patronage in Alabama over to the dictation of Booker Washington. In other words, a white man in Alabama, seeking an appointment under Roosevelt must first receive the endorsement of a negro. Never before has such an insult been offered the Southern white man. A notorious illustration of where Roosevelt makes the white men in Alabama subservient to the will and caprice of the negro.

The above are ample reasons why Theodore Roosevelt nor any of his following should not receive a single vote in Shelby county; ample reasons why the Democratic ticket, which stands for white supremacy and a white man's government as against negro dictation and domination, should receive the support of every white man in Shelby county.

Going the Pace!

The following is what the Advocate, in an issue of last April, had to say about the indebtedness of Shelby county:

"The facts are, as we learn from the Treasurer, that every dollar the county owes has been paid, except one thousand dollars that is not due until Jan. 1, 1905. Judge Longshore stated to the Calera mass meeting that the taxes due last fall would put the county out of debt, and his statement has been verified."

On the above statement the Advocate is in the hole whichever way it jumps. If the county owed but a thousand dollars in April then the populist administration has plunged the county into debt since that time at the rate of $3,000 per month, for the grand jury of two weeks ago reported the county in debt $16,000, not counting the new jail debt of $11,000. At that rate the expense of running the county would be $36,000 per year.

On the other hand, if the county owed more than the thousand dollars claimed, the Advocate and the populist bosses are guilty of willfully deceiving the people as to the true financial condition of the county. But they have done that so often that it has become habitual with them.

Whatever way they fix it, they are in a very unenviable predicament, to say the least of the matter.

Six years ago Judge Longshore defeated Judge McMillan by a majority of about 150. In that election Longshore received a large majority of the negro vote, leaving McMillan with a comfortable majority of the white vote cast at that time. This statement was made at the time by the Chronicle and was not denied. The conditions being at this time much more favorable to Judge McMillan in his relations to the white voters, the query very naturally arises where is the Longshore ticket going to get the votes to elect it, with the seven or eight hundred negro votes eliminated. On the other hand, it was claimed in the former race that a large number of white voters refused to vote at all on account of the fusion between the populists and Republicans, the latter being dominated by the negroes in their conventions and at the polls. Admitting this claim to be true, the same reasons exist for these same straight middle-of-the-road populists and white Republicans to withhold their support from the Longshore ticket in the present campaign. The same fusion exists and the Republican part of the ticket was named by the same methods and by the same crowd of black and tans. How can they expect to win in the coming election?

Kerslap, Dab!

"There is not another county in the State with the same amount of business that is nearer correct than Shelby county. Take Mobile county for instance, the Tax Collector there is said to be short $11,000, and he is a democrat."—Advocate.

And while you are about it, there's Probate Judge Whatley, of Clay county, a populist, if you please, who robbed the State of thousands of dollars by signing the names of Confederate soldiers, who had been in their graves for years, to pension warrants and appropriated the money to his own use. When exposure came Whatley went straight up or straight down, the good Lord only knows what route he took, but to this date he has not been apprehended. And, by the way, this same Judge Whatley stumped Shelby county two years ago in the interest of the populist ticket in this county.

The above extract from the Advocate has reference to State Examiner Wilkinson's report on Shelby county officials. The Examiner made no report on Shelby county's indebtedness, for the simple reason the State has no interest in the matter. The grand jury, under oath, reports the county's indebtedness to be $16,000, not including the new jail debt of $11,000.

The State Examiner made no report on the Treasurer's books of this county because the State has no interest there. The grand jury makes a sworn-to report on the Treasurer's books. Read the report.

The last tax levy under Judge McMillan's administration was four mills. The grand jury report following that tax levy reports no indebtedness on the county and nearly nine thousand dollars cash in the hands of the treasurer. Under a populist administration and a tax rate of seven mills the grand jury (two weeks ago, reported the county in debt $16,000, not including the new jail debt of $11,000. Voter, it's up to you to change such a condition of affairs.

A straight middle-of-the-road populist was turned down for circuit clerk by the bosses to make room for a nominee of the black and tan Republican postmasters' caucus, who represents less than a hundred voters. Verily, Longshore needs votes badly.

According to the Advocate and Judge Longshore the populist administration has pushed Shelby county into debt $15,000 since April, this year. That's going some!

One candidate on the fusion ticket says he cannot make a living if he is not elected, and yet, this same candidate is a partner in a mercantile establishment at Helena.

Men who have made a success of their own private business, are the men who will successfully administer the affairs of a county.

Roosevelt endorses social and political equality with the negro; the black and tan element in Shelby county endorse Roosevelt, and the populist bosses and dictators endorse the black and tans—and there you are.

If the past six years reign of populist administration in this county is a fair illustration of its ability, the quicker the voters retire it the better for the prosperity and welfare of our county.

In Memory of My Sister, (Mrs. J. R. White.)

"There lives and dwells in Mansions far
Beyond the ken of erring mortals,
A soul whose virtues, like a star
Resplendent, shine beyond their portals.

"The joys and griefs of childhood born,
She shared with all a sister's fervor,
My joys were jewels in her crown,
My griefs, her clouds of sadness ever."

There comes to us all sometime, someway, sorrow, that for the moment, seem to pluck from our hearts, our very life's blood, and we feel a longing for a Haven of Refuge where we may be forever free from such bitter pangs. So when God in his infinite wisdom reached out his hand and took from us our darling sister, it seemed impossible to grasp the meaning of such an affliction. Who but those who live in daily touch and harmony with a loved one, can really know the trueness and purity of such a character? Passing over the sweet days of childhood, we come to our association in latter years, when each thought for the future and every plan or ambitious dream were shared together, each looking to the other with a most peculiar trust, and after twenty years of daily companionship, is it strange that there should come to us an indescribable sense of loneliness and longings? Who was first, in the dark hours that come to every one, to share my burdens, and point me to ONE who doeth all things well? My sister. Who enjoyed with me every blessing that God bestowed, and shared every anticipation and realization? My sister.

Has eveything come to naught? will the dream be merely dreams? am I to walk alone? No! I feel as of yore, a sacred influence near me, and as I try in a way, to carry out the life work before me, there will be a guiding PRESENCE near me, and I will not feel all alone. Oh! my loved ones, let us carry on the good work she begun; let us live as she lived, so that we TOO, may be ready when the summons come. We will yearn for our dear one, it is but human; we will miss her at morn—and at eve; we will miss her in the cold winter's day; we will miss her in the spring time; but most of ALL we will miss her among the flowers, that she loved with an inexpressable fondness; the likeness was so great, pure and sweet, a comfort and pleasure to all. Farewell! dear sister; we cannot murmur when God has spoken. Some day we will meet you with our loved ones in the Beautiful Beyond where our dreams will not be in vain, but as real as Heaven.

"And when the sunset gates unbar,
Shall I not see thee waiting stand,
And white against the evening star,
The welcome of thy beckoning hand?"

SALLIE LILLIE.

BOWIE AT SHELBY.

Congressman Sydney J. Bowie, our representative in Congress, addressed the people of Shelby on Monday night last, and for an hour and forty minutes was given the closest attention by those present.

The meeting was held in the school house, and every seat in the building was occupied, while many stood up in the rear of the room. Mr. Bowie was introduced to the audience by J. F. Averyt in a few well chosen remarks. There were a large number of ladies present, and that they endorsed what Mr. Bowie said was evinced by their applause and the waving of their handkerchiefs frequently during the course of his speech.

Mr. Bowie devoted a few minutes to local politics, and then took up the administration of affairs by the "ac cident" now holding forth in Washington, and in forcible tones and a production of the facts showed clearly to his hearers that a continued administration of Roosevelt was a menace to good government, as he had at numerous times trampled upon the laws of the Constitution of the United States, and especially did he emphasize this fact when referring to the Idianola, Miss., postoffice affair. He also showed that the administration of Mr. Roosevelt was one of oppression to the Southern people, and one which no self-respecting Southern white man should endorse or support. His analysis of Alabama's election law, and the benefits to be derived from the new Constitution by our people was one that every voter in the county should have heard. In a review of the administration upon its negro political and social equality tendency, it was clearly demonstrated that Roosevelt was largely responsible for the troubles between the races in the past year or two because of his determination to thrust the negro into the face of the Southern people upon every occasion possible. He took up the black and tan movement in this State, and gave it a most artistic skinning—showing how a large number of self-respecting white Republicans had made an effort to organize a clean, respectable Republican party in this State, but that Roosevelt had sat down upon the movement most emphatically—that the leaders of that movement must recant their resolution to organize a white Republican party—a respectable Republican party, or that no Federal patronage would be given. He was glad, too, that there were white Republicans in this State who refused to obey the commands of the political despot at Washington, and that today they hold themselves aloof from the black and tan movement. Not satisfied with thus humiliating white men he appointed a negro Booker T. Washington, as one of his referees in this State to dispense the Federal patronage due Alabama; demanded that negroes be permitted to enter the Republican conventions in this State as delegates; demanded that the negroes be allowed representation from Alabama to the National Republican Convention, and the result was that six negro delegates were sent from Alabama to the Republican Convention of 1904, and one of these six negroes was given a place on the platform committee to represent the white people of Alabama. Mr. Bowie closed by referring to the fact that there are two negroes on the Roosevelt electoral ticket in Alabama, and that any man who votes the Republican ticket in this State must vote for those two negroes.

At the close of his speech Mr Bowie was given and ovation by his large audience.

John M. Dye, of Beat 7, was in town on Monday, and honored this office with a call. The recent death of Mr. Dye, Sen., has caused a feeling of deep sorrow in the community in which he lived, and all regret his demise. He was an ex-Confederate soldier, a good husband, a kind father and a respected neighbor. He had lived in this county since before the war between the States.

What has become of the effort being made to have the Southern run a train between Talladega and Birmingham, via Columbiana, going down in the morning and back in the evening? This train would be of great advantage to all the towns between Talladega and Birmingham.

Rev. John Milner, who has been in Michigan for several weeks for the benefit or his health, returned home Friday. The many friends of Mr. Milner will be glad to know that he is much improved by his trip.

Card of Thanks.

No wonder Judge Longshore is knocking on the new Constitution and says he will not support it unless compelled to by law. He was elected six years ago by a majority of the negro vote. The new Constitution took away the bulk of his support, and, naturally, he does not like it. That Constitution has not disfranchised a single white man in this county, and now that there is no negro vote to ratify fusion Longshore will learn what white men think of his past performances in making deals with black and tans and negro politicians.

NOTE.—The following article has been widely published and is one of the most remarkable illustrations of the value of careful marshalling and analysis of facts in presenting a subject to the public.

LEVELERS.

The Mission of Whisky, Tobacco and Coffee.

The Creator made all things, we believe.

If so, He must have made these.

We know what He made food and water for, and air and sunshine, but why Whisky, Tobacco and Coffee?

They are here sure enough and each performing its work.

There must be some great plan behind it all; the thoughtful man seeks to understand something of that plan and thereby to judge these articles for their true worth.

Let us not say "bad" or "good" without taking testimony.

There are times and conditions when it certainly seems to the casual observer that these stimulant narcotics are real blessings.

Right there is the ambush that conceals a "killing" enemy.

One can slip into the habit of either whisky, tobacco or coffee easy enough, but to "untangle" is often a fearful struggle.

It seems plain that there are circumstances when the narcotic effect of these poisons is for the moment beneficial, but the fearful argument against them is that seldom ever does one find a steady user of either whisky, coffee or tobacco free from disease of some kind.

Certainly powerful elements in their effect on the human race.

It is a matter of daily history testified to by literally millions of people, that Whisky, Tobacco and Coffee are smiling, promising, beguiling friends on the start, but always false as hell itself in the end. Once they get firm hold enough to show their strength, they insist upon governing and drive the victim steadily towards ill health in some form; if permitted to continue to rule, they will not let up until physical and mental ruin sets in.

A man under that spell (and "under the spell" is correct), of any one of these drugs, frequently assures himself and his friends, "Why, I can leave off any time I want to. I did quit for a week just to show I could." It is a sure mark of the slave when one gets to that stage. He wiggled through a week fighting every day to break the spell, was finally whipped, and began his slavery all over again.

The slave (Coffee slave as well as Tobacco and Whisky) daily reviews his condition, sees perfectly plain the steady encroachments of disease, how the nerves get weaker day by day and demand the drug that seems to smile and offer relief for a few minutes and then leave the diseased condition plainer to view than ever and growing worse. Many times the Coffee slave realizes that he is between two fires. He feels bad if he leaves off, and a little worse if he drinks and allows the effect to wear off.

So it goes on from day to day. Every night the struggling victim promises himself that he will break the habit and next day when he feels a little bad (as he is quite sure to), breaks, not the habit, but his own resolution. It is nearly always a tough fight, with disaster ahead sure if the habit wins.

There have been hundreds of thousands of people driven to their graves through disease brought on by coffee drinking alone, and it is quite certain that more human misery is caused by coffee and tobacco than by whisky, for the two first are more widely used, and more hidden and insidious in the effect on nerves, heart and other vital organs, and are thus unsuspected until much of the dangerous work is done.

Now, Reader, what is your opinion as to the real use the Creator has for these things? Take a look at the question from this point of view.

There is a law of Nature and of Nature's God that things slowly evolve from lower planes to higher, a sturdy, steady and dignified advance toward more perfect things in both the Physical and Spiritual world. The ponderous tread of evolutionary development is fixed by the Infinite and will not be quickened out of natural law by any of man's methods.

Therefore we see many illustrations showing how nature checks too rapid advance. Illinois raises phenomenal crops of corn for two or three years. If she continued to do so every year her farmers would advance in wealth far beyond those of other sections or countries. So Nature interposes a bar every three or four years and brings on a "bad year."

Here we see the leveling influence at work.

A man is prosperous in his business for a number of years and grows rich. Then Nature sets the "leveling influence" at work on him. Some of his investments lose, he becomes luxurious and lazy. Perhaps it is whisky, tobacco, coffee, women, gambling, or some other form. The intent and purpose is to level him. Keep him from evolving too far ahead of the masses.

A nation becomes prosperous and great like ancient Rome. If no leveling influence set in she would dominate the world perhaps for all time. But Dame Nature sets her army of "levelers" at work. Luxury, over eating and drinking, licentiousness, waste and extravagance, indulgences of all kinds, then comes the wreck. Sure, Sure, Sure.

The law of the unit is the law of the mass. Man goes through the same process. Weakness (in childhood), gradual growth of strength, energy, thrift, probity, prosperity, wealth, comfort, ease, relaxation, self-indulgence, luxury, idleness, waste, debauchery, disease, and the wreck follows. The "levelers" are in the bushes along the pathway of every successful man and woman and they bag the majority.

Only now and then can a man stand out against these "levelers" and hold his fortune, fame and health to the end.

So the Creator has use for Whisky, Tobacco and Coffee to level down the successful ones and those who show signs of being successful, and keep them back in the race, so that the great "field" (the masses) may not be left too far behind.

And yet we must admit that same all wise Creator has placed it in the power of man to stand upright, clothed in the armor of a clean cut, steady mind and say unto himself, "I decline to exchange my birthright for a mess of potage.

"I will not deaden my senses, weaken my grip on affairs and keep myself cheap, common and behind in fortune and fame by drugging with whisky, tobacco or coffee; life is too short. It is hard enough to win the good things, without any sort of handicap, so a man is certainly a 'fool trader' when he trades strength, health, money, and the good things that come with power, for the half-asleep condition of the 'drugger' with the certainty of sickness and disease ahead."

It is a matter each individual must decide for himself. He can be a leader and semi-god if he will, or he can go along through life a drugged clown, a cheap "hewer of wood or carrier of water."

Certain it is that while the Great Father of us all does not seem to "mind" if some of His children are foolish and stupid, He seems to select others (perhaps those He intends for some special work) and allows them to be threshed and castigated most fearfully by these "levelers."

If a man tries flirting with these levelers awhile, and gets a few slaps as a hint, he had better take the hint or a good solid blow will follow.

When a man tries to live upright, clean, thrifty, sober, and undrugged, manifesting as near as he knows what the Creator intends he should, happiness, health and peace seem to come to him. Does it pay?

This article was written to set people thinking, to rouse the "God within," for every highly organized man and woman has times when they feel a something calling from within for them to press to the front and "be about the Father's business;" don't mistake it; the spark of the Infinite is there and it pays in every way, health, happiness, peace, and even worldly prosperity, to break off the habits and strip clean for the work cut out for us.

It has been the business of the writer to provide a practical and easy way for people to break away from the coffee habit and be assured of a return to health and all of the good things that brings, provided the abuse has not gone too far, and even then the cases where the body has been rebuilt on a basis of strength and health run into the thousands.

It is an easy and comfortable step to stop coffee instantly by having well-made Postum Food Coffee served rich and hot with good cream, for the color and flavor is there, but none of the caffeine or other nerve destroying elements of ordinary coffee.

On the contrary, the most powerful rebuilding elements furnished by Nature are in Postum and they quickly set about repairing the damage. Seldom is it more than two days after the change is made before the old stomach or bowel troubles or complaints of kidneys, heart, head or nerves show unmistakable evidence of getting better and ten days' time changes things wonderfully.

Literally millions of brain working Americans to-day use Postum, having found the value and common sense in the change.

Initialed Hosiery.

The pronunciamento of collegians that Oxford shoes should be the vogue throughout the year will doubtless meet the approval of a majority of young men who favor adopting the pace set by college boys in the realm of fashion. More low shoes are sold to-day than has been the case in many years.

There is no denying the fact that in considerable degree wealthy students are responsible for establishing styles in masculine apparel. Initialed half-hose are now considered the proper caper, and especially en regle for wear with Oxfords. Handwork is preferred on the silk embroidered letters or monograms. White stitching on black ground makes the most effective combination. An extensive assortment in tone treatments and designs is shown by retail haberdashers catering to fine trade.—New York Press.

Chinese Burial Customs.

When a rich and important Chinaman dies his funeral is conducted with much pomp and splendor. His friends and relatives, instead of sending wreaths, send innumerable banners. These are made of white silk, with inscriptions beautifully worked in black velvet, and express the senders' good wishes to the deceased, himself or to members of his family for many generations. On the day of the funeral these banners are carried by hired men, who are all dressed alike for the occasion. After the funeral, which lasts several hours at the cemetery, is over the banners are all brought back, and eventually grace the rooms of the late Chinaman's house.

The Carnegie Steel company has issued a circular to heads of departments instructing them to employ no man over 35 years old in some branches of the system, and none over 40 years old in any branch. The Pennsylvania Railroad company, has also made 35 years the deadline.

THE FEAST OF THE WHALE.

An Incident of the Social Life Among the Eskimos of Arctic Alaska.

The principal occupation of these Eskimos (of Arctic Alaska) during the spring is the hunting of the bow-head whale in the leads, or open water, and among the floe ice of the Arctic ocean. The taking of a whale is always a time of great rejoicing with these people, for it means not only an abundance of food and fuel, but a large amount of valuable trading material.

After the whaling season is over, the boats which have been used in the chase are gathered on the leads between the pack and shore ice, which is often some miles from shore, at the foot of some road that has been cut through the rough ice from the land to the water. The most successful boat's crew, with their umiak (a whaling boat covered with skins), takes the lead, followed by the other boats in the order of their success. The harpoons, floats, paddles and everything pertaining to the chase of the whale are placed in their respective positions. The umiak is then placed on a flat ivory runnered sled and lashed firmly in place. The owner, who is called omelic (head man), stands on the ice at the right hand side of the bow; the boat steerer stands at the stern and the paddlers stand at their respective places along the sides of the boat. When all is ready, the omelic gives the word to go forward, and each of the crew slips over his shoulder a broad breast strap of sealskin, which is attached to a short line made fast to the thwarts of the boat. When all is ready, the boat is pulled forward a few lengths, and the next boat in order goes through the same form, moving on in its turn, until all the umiaks are strung out in a long line on the grounded ice, ready for their return to land.

At a signal from the head boat, all move forward, chanting weird songs of the goodness and power of the whale; for one of the superstitions of these people is that whenever working on any object to be used in whaling, or doing anything connected with whaling, they must constantly extol the merits of this great animal.

Long before the boats reach shore the entire population left in the village—men, women, children and dogs—congregate on the beach to welcome the homecomers. When the first boat nears land it is brought to a halt a few feet from the shore line, and its talisman, which is always carried in a little pouch in the bow, and may be a wolf's head, the head of a raven, iron pyrites or any odd thing, is lifted out by the omelic and held in his right hand toward the shore, where stands the chief medicine man of the tribe who pours over it a little fresh water to refresh it and thank it for the benefits given, if the boat has secured a whale; or, if the boat has not been lucky, to appease any slight that may have been put upon the talisman, in the hope that it will give them better luck in the future.

After reaching shore, a day or possibly two may be given for preparation, and then the great feast begins. Each successful boat owner, beginning with the one whose boat secured the most whales, gives a feast, to which he invites all the members of the tribe and any other people who may be in the village. First a wind break of umiaks, sails or skins is built to act as a shelter against the chilly blasts of the polar winds. It is placed in the form of a large circle, if enough material can be secured, in the centre of which a walrus hide is placed on the ground; and to its four corners are tied long ropes, which are passed over tripods placed about 25 feet from the skin. The ends of the ropes are then drawn tight, and made fast with stout stakes driven into the ground, thus raising the skin about four feet. The skin thus becomes a platform some eight or 10 feet square, which serves as a sort of movable stage on which the young women dance.

The feast usually begins at the time when the sun reaches a due western point, about 6 o'clock in the afternoon; for during the 80 days of summer at Otkeavic the sun never sets, and being without timepieces, the Eskimos mark their time by the position of the sun while it is visible, and by the moon and stars when the sun has gone for the long Arctic night. These feasts sometimes last 24 hours. —From Edward A. McIlhenny's "The Nelicatar of Arctic Alaska" in the Century.

A Philistine.

A few years ago a lady whose soul had been attuned to lofty ideals by communion with the poets, historians, philosophers and tragedians of Greece, wrote her name in the guestbook at Delphi and beneath she spoke in terms of praise of the entertainment of mine host of Delphi and added that she accounted as an epoch in her life the fact that she had been permitted to look upon one of the holy places of the earth. The person who entered his name below hers was a Mr. S——, of America, who travelled with a dragoman as his mouthpiece. Beneath his name the American wrote: "The above is O. K. as to grub, but am still in search of the holy features." The Orient is not for Philistines of the type of Mr. S.—Harper's Magazine.

Spinning Bee in Maine.

The Martha Washington Benevolent society of Deer Isle met at Sunset the other day for its annual spinning bee. Old-fashioned spinning wheels were in actual use. Among the exhibits was a quilt presented to the society for the benefit of the library, made by Aunt Salome Sellers, who is now nearly 104 years old.—Kennebec Journal.

A "Foreign" Opera.

London may soon see Macaulay's New Zealander sitting on its bridges. It is to have a Maori comic opera by a New Zealand composer, with a libretto by an Australian journalist. The piece will be called "Tapu," and 24 native Maori dancers wil take part in it.

A VOICE FROM THE PULPIT.

Rev. Jacob D. Van Doren, of 57 Sixth street, Fond Du Lac, Wis., Presbyterian clergyman, says: "I had attacks of kidney disorders which kept me in the house for days at a time, unable to do anything. What I suffered can hardly be told. Complications set in, the particulars of which I will be pleased to give in a personal interview to any one who requires information. This I can conscientiously say, Doan's Kidney Pills caused a general improvement in my health. They brought great relief by lessening the pain and correcting the action of the kidney secretions."

Fighting "En Deshabille."

It is reported from Laio-Yang, says the Westminster Gazette, that owing to the heat the soldiers often fight in their underclothes. The most remarkable instance of fighting en deshabille is the famous Battle of the Shirts, which took place in 1544 on the shores of Loch Lochy, in the Highlands of Scotland, between a band of Frasers and MacDonalds. The day was so hot that the combatants threw off not only their plaids, but the rest of their clothes, and went at it in their shirts. Even then the heat was unbearable, and many, wearied with the big two-handed swords, rushed into the cool waters of the loch and fought there with their dirks. Lord Lovat, whose desperate valor earned for him the name of "Cruaidh Choscar" (the hardy slaughterer), and his son were killed. In fact, it is said that only four of the Frasers came out of the fight alive, and not many more of the MacDonalds, who, however, secured the victory.

Women Who Shun Men.

On a small island in the Greek archipelago there is a colony which is composed entirely of women. It is a sort of religious order which considers it a disgrace for one of its members to even look at a man. When a fisherman approaches the island, the women pull the cowls of their cassocks over their heads and turn their backs. Provisions are never imported, as the women, strict vegetarians, grow their own products. Only the matron, who is annually elected head of the colony, is ever allowed to leave the island. The others remain there all their lives, taking their turn at tilling the soil, washing and housekeeping.

A Record Commodore.

Captain Clay, commodore officer of the London and Northwestern Railway Company's fleet of steamships running between Holyhead and Ireland, who has just retired, has crossed the Irish Sea nearly 20,000 times as commander and has navigated the railway company's vessels about 1,500,000 miles and carried nearly 1,250,000 passengers.

An Italian named Luciano Butti has perfected a photographic apparatus capable of registering the incredible number of 2,000 photographic impressions per second. The most minute and least rapid and casual movements of birds and insects on the wing which have hitherto defied science, can, it is claimed, be registered with accuracy, thus opening a new world of natural observation to ornithologists. The films used cost 2 pounds per second for the 2,000 impressions.

Labor-Saving Hand Organs.

Labor-saving devices have got to the hand organs at last, says the New York Sun. In one of the latest, instead of the organ man turning the crank, he presses a button. The music plays on till he releases his finger. The music is sweeter than that of other organs and it can be heard blocks away.

WOMEN INDIAN BARBERS.

Some Peculiar Customs of the Far Eastern Land.

In India, where a man's trade is almost always determined by that of his father, the village barbers form a class apart. They always marry in caste; their wives, like themselves, are descended from countless generations of barbers.

These women shave and cut hair as skillfully as their husbands, fathers and brothers. Most customers steer clear of them, however, for they have a way of leaving men whom they do not like half shaved, and then driving them through the streets of the village with jeers and mockery. It is a terrible disgrace in India to be seen only half shaved. The poor villager covers his face with his turban and goes home filled with sorrow and shame.

The barbers' wives are most in request as nurses, and are useful in attending sick children. When children suffer from any kind of throat complaint, such as bronchitis or a cough, the barber's wife can be depended upon to cure it. She rubs the child's throat with some mixture made of herbs, applying it with her fingers. It is a rough treatment, but singularly effective.

The barber's wife has regular customers in all the Brahmin widows of the village, who must have their heads shaved twice a month or so, in token of their mourning. The mother or widow sister of a barber always takes up the profession of midwife. Very frequently she is an angel of death in that capacity, being both cruel and ignorant. Medical missions and zenana work are, however, driving her out of the business nowadays in many parts of India.—New York Press.

FIBROID TUMORS CURED.

Mrs. Hayes' First Letter Appealing to Mrs. Pinkham for Help:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been under Boston doctors' treatment for a long time without any relief. They tell me I have a fibroid tumor. I cannot sit down without great pain, and the soreness extends up my spine. I have bearing-down pains both back and front. My abdomen is swollen, and I have had flowing spells for three years. My appetite is not good. I cannot walk or be on my feet for any length of time.

"The symptoms of Fibroid Tumor given in your little book accurately describe my case, so I write to you for advice."—(Signed) MRS. E. F. HAYES, 252 Dudley St. (Roxbury), Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Hayes' Second Letter:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Sometime ago I wrote to you describing my symptoms and asked your advice. You replied, and I followed all your directions carefully, and to-day I am a well woman.

"The use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound entirely expelled the tumor and strengthened my whole system. I can walk miles now.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth five dollars a drop. I advise all women who are afflicted with tumors or female trouble of any kind to give it a faithful trial."—(Signed) MRS. E. F. HAYES, 252 Dudley St. (Roxbury), Boston, Mass.

Fire broke out in the rear of the Alabama stables in Montgomery and soon ignited 1,000 bales of cotton in the warehouse of the Roman Cotton company entailing a loss of $30,000. One of the horses running from the stable knocked down E. O. Marion, a gunsmith, and trampled on him, inflicting serious and probably fatal injuries.

When the fire broke out negroes ran into the stable to release the horses, and forty or fifty of them dashed out into the streets running like mad. They raced away in every direction. In a few moments several ran back and tried to get into the stable and were only kept out by hard work.

The loss at Faunsdale is estimated at between $15,000 and $20,000, five stores being burned, including the dispensary. The fire originated in a negro restaurant, evidently from a defective flue, and was quickly communicated to adjoining buildings, among which was the brick store house of G. H. McKee, just completed a few weeks ago. The amount of insurance carried on the rest of the property is not known, but Mr. McKee is said to have carried no insurance whatever, and the heaviest loss perhaps falls upon him.

The railroad station house at Benton, on the Western Railway of Alabama, was totally destroyed by fire. A car of cotton sitting on the track near the depot suddenly burst into flames and from it the depot caught fire and was completely consumed. The building was an old frame one, but was substantially built. The car of cotton, consisting of about thirty-five bales, was destroyed, as well as the depot.

LATER.

E. O. Marion, who was run over by a frightened horse during the fire in a cotton ware house at Montgomery, died Sunday as a result of his injuries.

BOND FOR AIRSHIP.

Furnished by the World's Fair Company.

The $16,000 bond required by the custom house authorities has been furnished by the exposition company and the flight of the French airship will be made free from any hindrances along this line.

This was done because Mr. Francis had been informed that his ship, being a duitable exhibit in bond, it could not be taken out of bond at the fair grounds unless a bond was filed. As its ascension at the fair might result in its fying without the bounds of the exposition site, Mr. Gallenkamp ruled that the ascension could not be permitted unless bond had been furnished.

Southern Steel Ingots.

The Birmingham Steel and Iron company, which has been in operation only a few months, has purchased the ingot equipment of the old Henderson steel plant at North Birmingham, and will manufacture small steel ingots for the southern trade.

The plant will work day and night, making steel castings in the day and ingots at night.

Customers who have purchased their steel ingots from the north stated that they would rather have their orders filled in the south, if possible.

For New Cars.

The Gulf and Ship Island and the Southern railroads have both filed equipment mortgages with the state of Mississippi to secure the purchase of 250 box and fruit cars for the one and 3,000 similar cars for the other.

Mobile and West Alabama.

The Mobile and West Alabama Railroad company is reported in capital shape. The contract for constructing the road has been let and $500,000 has been collected to begin the work. Engineers have completed a survey as far as Bessemer. The new road will penetrate the Blue Creek district, and may be able to take the place of the Birmingham, Huntsville and Gulf road.

Steamers Sunk at Port Arthur.

Delayed advices forwarded from Port Arthur between Nov. 2 and 4, say that two steamers of about 3,500 tons each, anchored in the west harbor, were sunk by the Japanese guns.

Attempted Hold Up.

According to the crew of the Philadelphia and New York express train on the Pennsylvania railroad, which left Washington at 6:50 Sunday night, two unsuccessful attempts were made to hold up the train at Havre de Grace and Perryville by two men, one of whom was a negro. The men escaped.

It is believed the men boarded the train at Baltimore.

BETTER PAY FOR MUSICIANS.

Recommended By Gen. Elliott, Commanding the Marine Corps.

Brigadier General Elliott, commandant of the marine corps, is trying to secure better pay for the members of the marine band. This is rendered necessary, it is claimed, because of the opposition of the musical unions, who have by their opposition prevented the band from securing any outside engagements upon which they formerly depended to equalize their earnings with those of civil life. General Elliott suggests that the leader be given the pay and allowances of a captain in the corps, the second leader the pay and allowance of a second lieutenant, and the first and second class musicians be paid $100 and $75 a month respectively. It is thought by many if the change in pay is not made that many of the best musicians now in the band will not re-inlist at the end of their term and it will be difficult to supply the vacancies with limited pay that is now allowed.

IRON FURNACES.

And Something of the Iron Business in Alabama.

Contracts for the second quarter of 1905 are being booked at $13 on a No. 2 foundry basis.

Pig metal stocks in Alabama amount to less than 100,000 tons. Of the 26 furnaces in Jefferson county, only 14 are in blast. The Tennessee's No. 4, which was started up a few weeks ago, was banked because of scarcity of coke, the Ensley stacks consuming more than usual. No. 4 will probably resume operations this week.

The Sloss-Sheffield's No. 1 city furnace, which has just been rebuilt, will be ready for the torch soon.

The Tennessee company's five Ensley furnaces are doing splendid work. They made a record last month. President Bacon reports that the company's coal production is now about 50 per cent. of normal. He is having thirty new houses built at No. 5, and thirty at No. 7, Pratt, and expects to build forty more.

ORDER OF EASTERN STAR

Concludes Fourth Annual Session.—At Ensley in 1905.

At New Decatur the grand chapter of Alabama of the Order of the Eastern Star, in its fourth annual session completed its work Friday. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Worthy grand matron, Mrs. Hannah D. Chaffee, of Montgomery; worthy grand patron, H. A. Killen, of Greenhill; associate grand matron, Mrs. Mary Camps, of Wylam; assistant grand patron, Dr. W. M. Cunningham, of Corona; grand secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Salter, of Birmingham; grand treasurer, Mrs. Sue Cunningham, of Ensley.

The next annual meeting will be held at Ensley. The new officers were installed.

WEST PRATT COAL CO.

New Owners Will Make Marked Improvement in the Properties.

The West Pratt Coal company has been purchased by Henry B. Gray, W. H. Soper and associates. The purchase price is said to be about $100,000.

The West Pratt coal properties are located in Walker county and belong to that group that have been recognized as independent in operation. The property was first opened and development began by the Stoberts, a stock company being later organized to manage the property. The daily output has been in the neighborhood of 800 tons.

The property is situated on the Frisco system. Considerable improvement was recently made and the new owners will go further in their developments. The output will be materially increased.

Three white men, John Pruitt, Wiley Pruitt and Will Fox, are in jail at Anniston charged with robbing a mail pouch at Lincoln last Thursday. The robbery was discovered as soon as the pouch was received on the train bound for Atlanta, and reported to the officials, who have had them arrested on circumstantial evidence.

Russell's Books.

Examiner J. T. Gorman has filed his report on the officials of Russell county. All the officials were complimented for the neatness of their books and the correctness of their accounts. The tax valuation in the county has increased $34.718 over last year, but the examiner says that the property is given in at about 50 per cent. of its actual value. He also stated that there were three corporations that owed the state $190 licenses.

A. P. Longshore, probate judge of Shelby county, who was found due the state $55.12, has paid the money into the state treasury.

Wright to Make Tour.

Governor Wright, of the Philippines, will leave Nov. 12 for a twenty day tour of inspection in Jolo and Mindanao.

Navigation Resumed.

It is announced that regular steamboat service will be resumed on the Alabama and Tombigbee rivers, the recent suspension being occasioned by low water.

PLOT TO WRECK SHIPS.

Intercepted Message and Balloons the Subject of Controversy.

Not yet has there been received official confirmation of the sensational report that an intercepted dispatch from the Japanese minister at The Hague would be produced in the court of inquiry into the recent North sea incident to prove the existence of a plot to destroy the Russian Baltic fleet.

There is, however, said to be good grounds for believing the report to be true, and that there are many indications that the Russian government has been long in possession of strong evidence of a Japanese plan to intercept all of Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's warships. It also developed that Emperor Nicholas during an audience with British Ambassador Hardinge last Sunday, declared in the most positive terms that there were Japanese torpedo boats in the North Sea.

Apparently Denmark was impressed by the same belief.

Another remarkable story is current to the effect that two balloons were seen hovering over the Skagerack when the Russian fleet entered the North sea.

RAILROAD EXTENSION

Another Line is Working Toward Atlanta.

The Georgia, Florida and Alabama railroad is making active arrangements to extend its road northward from Cuthbert to Columbus and Atlanta. For several days an engineering corps has been in the field north of Cuthbert, looking at the different routes.

A deed for $1,100,000 is being recorded in Randolph county to secure an issue of bonds to make this extension.

The route indicated in the paper is from Cuthbert to Richland, and thence to Columbus and Atlanta or from Cuthbert to Lumpkin and thence to Columbus, or to build a line from Cuthbert to both of these places. Another route is from Cuthbert near Springvale and thence to the Chattahoochee river valley, and up this valley to Columbus, leaving Lumpkin and Richland to the west.

COTTON GIN BURNED.

No Insurance and Several Farmers Lose Their Cotton.

The steam cotton gin of John A. McWilliams, in Tuscumbia, including engine and boiler, was completely destroyed by fire, entailing a loss of approximately $5,000. Beside the gin plant, valued at $3,000, twenty bales of cotton and 2,000 bushels of cotton seed were consumed.

The burned cotton was the property of numerous farmers in the vicinity, the cotton having been ginned and baled and left on the yard subject to their disposal There was no insurance on any part of the property destroyed, the owner of the plant neglecting to renew the insurance which had expired only a few days ago.

The origin of the fire is thought to have been in the engine room of the building.

Delayed Pensions.

Some of the pensioners who will come in this year for money from the old soldiers' fund are getting impatient and want to know why the warrants are delayed. The explanation is this: For several years the names of the pensioners have been written in a big book, and that book became entirely full this year and every name had to be copied into a new book. This could not be done until after the state board of pension examiners met and passed on the lists, which was the last of August.

Since that time two men have been working night and day to get the names transcribed. There were 15,500 of them, and they had to be placed in alphabetical order. Only two men could work at it. The old soldiers will get their money before the last of November.

New Industries in Alabama.

Bessemer—Planing mill; stove foundry.

Camden—$25,000 naval stores company.

Duncanville—Cotton gin.

Georgiana—Saw mill.

Mobile—Ice and cold storage plant.

Montgomery—Ice factory.

Will Enlarge Plant.

It is understood that the United States Cast Iron, Pipe and Foundry company will shortly begin making considerable improvements and enlarging on its plant in Bessemer. It is also reported that the improvements will represent an expenditure of something like $200,000.

The company has now perfected arrangements to secure sufficient pig iron to keep the plant operating on full time.

Reserves Called.

The Japanese reservists residing in the Philippines have been called to the colors. Their number is estimated at 600.

Commerce and Labor Budget.

Acting Secretary Murray, of the department of commerce and labor, made public the estimates of appropriations for the department for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1905 The estimates aggregate $14,339,529, being $549,425 less than the estimates for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1904. The estimates for the fiscal year of 1906 exceed the appropriations for the current fiscal year by $4,218,444.

PLANS ARE ACCEPTED.

Russia Agrees to Settlement Conference and Details are Arranged.

COMMISSION TO MEET IN PARIS.

Something of the Russian Claims of a Torpedo Boat Attack.—Other War News.

Russia has accepted the telegraphic draft of the Anglo-Russian convention for the commission of inquiry into the North Sea incident, submitted to Russia Wednesday, and the final exchanges will be ratified in London. The convention covers six articles. The commission will sit in Paris and will consist of five members, Russian, British, American and French, the representatives of the four nations to choose a fifth member. Broad outlines for the inquiry are laid down by the convention, but the commission will have wide latitude in determining all the relevant facts. Although the convention is agreed to, it is believed that some minor factors connected with the subject, the exact nature of which cannot be ascertained, are still undecided.

The letter from Vigo represents practically the substance of Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's detailed report submitted to Emperor Nicholas.

Four points of the Russian case are as follows:

Information which reached Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky as he was leaving Danish waters showed that suspicious vessels were in the North Sea, navigating first under one flag and then under another.

The transport Kamtchatka's report by wireless telegraphy some time before the incident occurred, that she had seen two torpedo boats.

Later the receipt of a suspicious wireless message signed "Kamtchatka," asking for the exact latitude and longitude of the squadron, a message which it was afterwards ascertained was never sent by the Kamtchatka.

The appearance of two torpedo boats alongside the squadron, which could not have been Russian, as all the Russian torpedo boats were then in the English channel.

The fact that only seven torpedo boats are now with the squadron, whereas eight left Libau, is explained by the fact that one of them broke down before the squadron left Danish waters and was towed back to Libau by the Russian ice breaker Ermak.

It is expected that the commission will assemble in about a fortnight. Satisfaction prevails at the foreign office at the agreement reached, and hope is expressed that the American admiral to be selected by the United States to sit on the commission will prove an impartial judge of the facts submitted.

It is reported the Japanese have occupied Wantai hill, sunk several transports and have set fire to a battleship at Port Arthur. There is no confirmation of the report. Wantai hill is one of the extensive semi-circle of forts defending Port Arthur. It is situated in about the center of the semi-circle between the Antse mountain forts and Sungchow fort, which is situated on an adjoining hill. The capture of Wantai hill means the dividing of the eastern fortified ridge. The Japanese had previously and unsuccessfully attacked Wantai hill, particularly during the latter part of August.

It is reported that the Baltic fleet fired on the Danish torpedo boat Sabjaren while off Langeland Island. The torpedo boat was not hit. The government is said to be attempting to conceal the incident, fearing complications with Russia.

Medal for Carnegie.

Andrew Carnegie acquired a new medal last week, the guest at the dinner of the Iron and Steel Institute. The medal awarded was the Bessemer gold metal and the presentation was made by Sir James Kitson in recognition of Mr. Carnegie's service to the iron and steel trade of the world.

COMPLAINT AND PROTEST

Presented by Panama to the United States Government.

The full text of the complaint and protest made by the republic of Panama against the present administration of affairs in the canal zone has reached Washington in the form of a letter written by Senor Abaldia, the Panama minister to us, to Secretary of State Hay. In the letter Abaldia lays particular stress on the charges that General Davis, governor of the canal zone, has been guilty of unwarranted usurpation of authority and violation of the provision of the Hay-Varilla treaty. Various instances are cited.

Representative Resigns.

J. F. Thompson, the nominee for solicitor of the Fourth circuit, has written the governor resigning as a member of the house of representatives.

Studying Our Systems.

Fernandi Benendel, mayor of the City of Mexico, with his wife and two children is touring the United States making a study of our municipal governments.

FIRE AT TIFTON, GA.

Results in Loss of a quarter of a Million.

Tifton, Ga., suffered the most disastrous conflagration in the history of the city Friday. The loss is estimated at approximately $250,000. There were no casualties. The burned district includes the Slack building, owned and occupied by S. G. Slack & Co., hardware; Dr. G. W. Julians, the second floor of which was occupied by the Gress Manufacturing company; H. H. Hetler Lumber company; the Ensign Lumber company; Dr. O. L. Chestnut, dentist, and Fullwood & Boatwright, lawyers; the Regent hotel; Brown's photograph gallery; C. B. Holmes, residence; Bowen & Tift building occupied by the Tifton Drug company; E. P. Browne, merchandise; H. Kent & Son, furniture; C. W. Rickerson & Son, groceries; Postal Telegraph company; Tifton telephone exchange; Hall & Eve, lawyers; Warren, real estate; E. L. Vickers, naval stores; Tifton opera house and several sleeping apartments.

FROM STEAM TO ELECTRICITY.

Railroads' Change of Motive Power Means Much to Industry.

Apparently authoritative announcement is made that the New York Central railroad is about to change the motive power on the West Shore, a distance of 432 miles. Electricity is to be substituted for steam. To make the change will cost at the lowest calculation $25,000,000, and the amount may be considerably in excess of that figure. If the move proves to be economical then all the railroads in the country will have to follow suit, and that means practical rebuilding. The iron and steel interests and the electrical companies hail the movement with intense satisfaction. They say it means ten or fifteen years of employment for every mill and electrical machinery factory in America—work at high pressure and without intermission.

Oil in Indian Territory.

The management of the Republic Iron and Steel company is devoting considerable attention to its oil territory in Indiana and Ohio. The corporation is in receipt of an income of close to $1,000,000 a year from this source. It is to the Indian Territory, however, that oil specialists are now looking for greatest development. In that part of the country the petroleum prophets agree that before the exploitation is over the field will be disclosed as the largest ever discovered in the United States, excelling the old Pennsylvania oil region as well as that of California. The Standard Oil company is building a pipe line from the Indian Territory field to Atlantic tidewater.

Killed Divorcee.

In East Nashville Mrs. Lillie Blazer was shot and almost instantly killed by Alfred Blazer, from whom she had secured a divorce Monday.

Mrs. Blazer was in the kitchen of her home with James Agee, a boarder, when Blazer suddenly entered and attacked Agee, beating him up badly and probably fracturing his skull. The woman ran screaming into the yard and Blazer gave purusit, firing three shots, one of which struck her in the head. She died without making a statement. Blazer escaped.

Crushed Between Cars.

S. S. Sandberry, car inspector for the Louisville and Nashville railroad, was instantly killed at Selma by having his head caught between two cars. The train for Myrtlewood had just pulled out of the Louisville and Nashville station when the front coach became detached from the rest of the train and the airbrake disjointed. Mr. Sandberry ran up and began examining the air brake, when the second half of the train, left on a grade, rolled noiselessly down upon him, catching him between the cars and breaking his neck.

Cargo Burning.

The Norwegian steamer Guernsey, from Savannah, Ga., Oct. 15, arrived at Bremen with her cargo in the afterhold, about 3,000 bales of cotton, burning. The fire broke out a fortnight ago. The captain thinks the fire is now practically extinguished.

Congressional Trip.

Members of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce have arranged to make a trip to the Panama canal zone, starting from New York on the 14th inst., for the purpose of acquiring information as a basis of legislation. The transport Sumner will be placed at their disposal for the tour and they will go direct from New York to Colon.

Another Tunnel.

Definite plans for another tunnel under the Hudson river have been made by the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad, and a company for the construction of the tunnel has been incorporated.

Trust Cuts Price.

In Illinois the announcement that the basis price of whiskey had again dropped from $1.24 to $1.23, making a fall by successive stages of 5 cents in about two months, caused a sensation among independent dealers. Independents say they are convinced that the trust has begun a war of extermination.

Well informed whiskey men say the price may go still lower.

THE PEARLS OF CEYLON.

FISHING FOR THEM A MONOPOLY OF THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT.

Tricks of the Arab Divers—Purchase By Auction is Made by East India Merchants—Life in a Fishing Town—Bazaars of Pearltown.

"The Pearls of the East" come in these days mainly from the fisheries of Ceylon. It is a primitive industry, although it is carried on under the monopoly of the British government, which, after paying the fishers their share, makes 1,000,000 rupees a year, gross, says the San Francisco Chronicle.

"Few that dive for the pearl of the deep but are crushed in the kraken's laws," sang George Meredith; and from this it has been inferred that diving for pearls is a dangerous occupation. The struggle of the pearl diver with the shark has been a favorite theme for the authors of dime novels and sensation stories. The fact is that the occupation is attended with no more than the ordinary risks of life—that it is a vocation less dangerous, on the whole, than deep water sailing.

The banks where the pearl oysters live are fifteen miles off the coast. They are fished only a part of the year. Last season, for example, the work lasted about two and a half months. The fleet, on a certain day set by the government officials, starts together. It consists usually of about 100 boats, each carrying from twenty to thirty expert native divers. A government boat, carrying the British superintendent, is in command; and from this the officials are expected to maintain a sharp lookout to see that no oysters are opened. The fishing is done within prescribed limits, marked in advance by lines of buoys, topped by red flags. There is a severe penalty for fishing outside of these limits.

Arrived at the banks, the boats drop their painted lateen sails, take anchorage, and the divers begin their work. Best of all these divers for efficiency are the Arab divers. Once they held a monopoly of the trade. But they are not trustworthy, and for holding out pearls they have more dodges than a politician. Moreover, being half wild, they are impatient of discipline and prone to mutiny. For this reason they are being crowded out by the divers of Keelakarai, a little town on the coast of India. These people, although they do not compare with the Arabs for expertness, are more tractable, honest, and amenable to discipline, and hence are being engaged in larger numbers every year.

The Keelakarai people have a regular method of going at their work. Each man fastens two baskets to his waist and is let down by a rope, to which a heavy stone is attached. Arrived at the bottom, he makes haste to fill his baskets while the supply of air in his lungs holds out. When the basket is full, or when his ability to hold his breath gives out, he gives the rope a pull and is hauled to the surface. Each dive occupies about two minutes, the time varying, of course, with the endurance and lung capacity of the diver.

While some of the Arabs use the same methods, the best of them scorn ropes and stones and dive without assistance, bringing up more shells in a day than the Keelakarai men. These master divers take the plunge head first and go down and up by their own efforts. Splendid fellows are these Arab divers. No men of the tropics are so hardy, and their physical development is superb.

The fishing lasts for about six hours. By that time the divers, what with the hard work of storing air in their lungs for their work below, are exhausted. Sharp at noon a gun from the government launch gives the signal to hoist sail and return. One or two government launches scurry from boat to boat all the way home to guard against attempts to open the oysters. Formerly there was a government guard on each boat, but this practice is going out, because as the present superintendent humorously remarks, "the guards add to the number of thieves on board.'

Under full sail the fleet sweeps into port again. The preponderance of the lateen sail makes this scene resemble the coming of the fishing fleet into San Francisco harbor, only multiplied by ten. There is indescribed confusion, a thousand tongues clamor together, screaming, yelling, tugging, carrying, hurring. All is noise and animation. On the loose, sandy beach 1,000 naked mandaks are groaning under loaded baskets and hurrying to the inclosure; angry guards are gesticulating; detectives rushing from group to group. An amused and amazed handful of English men and women look on, and over all a gorgeous horizon. It is the gorgeous East all over, but the gilt wears off the ginger bread a good deal when one is on the spot.

The oysters, still under the official eye, are piled up in thatched huts, which are dignified by the name of storehouses. Here one-third of the still unopened shells are handed over to the divers as their share. The remainder goes to the government. After the tropic sun has set the government agent, overlord of the fishery and everything therewith connected, puts up the government share at public auction in lots of 1,000. The buyers, mostly native merchants from India, plunge heavily, after buying as many of 1,000,000. The largest number ever offered for sale in one night was 1,867,000 and the smallest 400,000. Of course, this is largely a gamble. No one knows until he opens his purchase whether he has bought a fortune or a few worthless shells and insignificant oysters.

Curious is a fishing town in the time of the pearl market. A month before the fishery commenced it was open ground covered with a miserable brownish grass, but the fishery brought its thousands and tens of thousands of ephemeral population—trade merchants, divers, boatmen, cunning artificers in wood and stone, jewellers, peddlers, hawkers, bazaar-keepers, and men of every occupation, trade, class, religion, race, and creed, from the diversified population of the great Indian continent. With their advent sprang up bazaars, liquor shops, eating houses and resorts for business or pleasure. Side by side with the brass rings and trinkets of cheap Brummagem from the West are displayed all the marvels of oriental handiwork, all the fruits of Eastern ingenuity and cunning, Eastern trickery and fraud. Pearltown boasts 1,000 bazaars in all directions, and in and among them have arisen a network of streets, undesignated, unmapped, but created out of the exigencies of the situation—squalid, dirty, dusty, unswept, stinking streets strewn about with offal, and lined on both sides by shanties and hovels, in which half-clad men sit stolid, imperturbable; gloating over handfuls of pearls. Turn where you will, it is the unfathomable, the changeless, the gorgeous East, filth and squalor, dust and grime, and dirt, vile smells and viler flies, and in it all—part and parcel of it, life and soul of it—these gems, priceless gems.

A TINY COUNTRY.

Liechtenstein is in the "After-Dinner-Coffee Size" Class.

What one might call an "after-dinner-coffee size" country is the principality of Liechtenstein, a tiny land between the Austrian province of Tyrol and the Rhine, recently described by a writer in Harper's Magazine. Its area is about sixty-one square miles of territory, and its population less than ten thousand. Although practically a part of Austria, it has been more or less independent for nearly three centuries, and was, according to a local pleasantry, forgotten by Bismarck when he reorganized Europe after the Prussian wars with France and Austria.

Once Liechtenstein had a standing army. In full force, armed and equipped, it marched away to join the Austrian forces in the war with Prussia, and had it arrived in time might have turned the scale, for although it consisted of but eighty men, with a captain and a trumpeter, it was a whole army in itself, and very brave. Fortunately, the country was mountainous and the roads bad, and when the army arrived at the camp of the Austrians the war was over.

That was its last appearance in public. The Liechtensteiners had grown weary of supporting the onerous military burden imposed upon the principality by these eighty idle men, and sent a weighty and respectful protest to the Prince, who discontinued the army. So there is now no military service, no national debt, no direct taxes. The Prince is very rich, and pays much of the expense of his little country instead of taxing it to support him. He issues coins with his head on them, and stamps of the same design. That is a pleasure in itself worth supporting a small country for, and he is the only member of the Austrian nobility who enjoys such distinction.

His little capital, Vaduz, is but a modest city, and the Prince visits it but seldom. He wears an Austrian title as well as that of Liechtenstein, and sits in the Austrian House of Lords. But from Vienna he can call up his own country by long-distance telephone, and its serves him all the purposes of a suburban village to which to retire for rest from his duties as an Austrian nobeman.

The Man Who Knew.

Many stories are told of judicial ignorance, but here is a good one of a Chief Justice who did not affect ignorance upon the bench, and who in consequence succeeded in clearing up a scandal which was beating counsel and witnesses. Sir John Jervis had before him a young man who had been mercilessly pilaged by a gang of scoundrels. Jervis tore aside the network of sophistries woven round the case by counsel for the blacklegs, and skillfully elucidated the cryptogram employed to keep a record in their note-books showing transactions with the "pigeon." Then a pack of cards was put in, for whose fairness the detective vouched.

Jervis took them and in his summing up said, "Gentlemen, I will engage to tell you without looking at the faces the name of every card in this pack." He was as good as his word. The backs of the cards were figured with wreaths and flowers, with dots and line all over. In the right-hand corner of each was a small flower. The kings had so many dots each, the knaves so many, the ace and queen their due number. So that you had but to look at the back to see as plainly what he had as if the cards were laid face uppermost upon the table.

Lord Justice's Shops.

Lord Justice Vaughn Williams, of England, owns many flourishing butcher shops in the kingdom. This opens a broad field for speculating as to just what judicial action he might take were a few labor strikes of the modern American type brought before him for violent interference with the meat output and the right of other laborers to work.

COLUMBIANA SENTINEL.

By H. E. WHITAKER.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY

Entered as second class matter, Apr. 13, 1904 at the postoffice at Columbiana, Ala., under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Office over Columbiana Savings Bank.

COLUMBIANA, ALA., Nov. 10 '04

Telephone No. 17.

"It's all over" for a time.

Pretty near got our breath!

Green River seems to have been a good campaigner.

Kind o' staggered us, but we're right side up with care.

Some people like it mixed, but we prefer to take it straight.

We are "wid ye" for another trial. Now is the time to subscribe.

We're not whipped; just bruised in spots. But they are not sore, however.

If we must eat crow, we'll stave it off until Thanksgiving and mix it with turkey.

Did you hear from Ohio? Well, it has gone Republican, too. Are you surprised?

The railroads should do something for past favors. Or are they entirely soulless.

Beat 16 has the Democratic flag sure enough. It rolls up a majority of 86 for the ticket.

The fusion supporters in Beat 2 evidently shook the bushes down there on election day.

Heflin, the indiscreet, is elected by a big majority in the Fifth, and Burnett is an easy winner in the Seventh.

Six years hence is not so very far away, yet even in that short a time empire can be pushed into bankruptcy.

A man is just as much a thief if he steals to the value of five cents, as he would be if he stole twenty-five dollars.

Booker T. will soon decide who are to receive rewards of merit in Alabama from the Big Stick in Washington.

Excepting the solid South, the Republicans carried everything, including China, Russia, Katamazoo and Timbuctoo.

Now that the election is over, The Sentinel would like to hear from its correspondents throughout the county.

If the dispatches in the metropolitan papers are to be believed, last Tuesday was a sure enough Republican day.

A rise in the price of coal oil is about due. Campaign contributions must be paid even if extorted from the people.

The next thing in order should be a dinner by Roosevelt, with Booker T. Washington occupying the seat of honor.

The latest report is that the Fiji islands have gone Republican. The Big Stick and Booker T. must have been in close touch.

The Democrats are not disappointed that Pennsylvania sends up its measly Republican majority. It was expected.

A telegram of congratulation to Roosevelt from Parker shows the sterling character of the latter as a man and gentleman

Word should be sent to the Big Stick in Washington. Through the Tuskegee "gemlen of cullah" the faithful might get something.

"Maryland, My Maryland," has gone wrong. By going Republican it followed the example set by poor dog Tray, and fell into bad company.

Another black and tan primer will now be issued from Booker Washington's school, and those who expect any favors from Roosevelt must stand for the Tuskegee censor.

Congressman Bowie is re-elected by a big majority, any opposition to him, outside of Shelby county, being almost unknown. There is little likelihood of his ever being displaced.

The Sentinel takes its hat off to the Democrats of Wilsonville for the great effort they made on election day. They closed up their places of business and gave their time to the cause of Democracy.

THE ELECTION.

The whole world, including Russia, China, the Fiji islands and Booker Washington's school, has gone Republican, the Solid South excepted, thus showing that the people of the South still retain their self-respect so far as an endorsement of Roosevelt and his social equality theory with the negro is concerned. Parker stood for a fair and honorable administration of the country's affairs; opposed the manipulation of administration by the trusts; showed conclusively that the enormous contributions from the trusts to the Republican campaign fund was purely a barter and sale transaction, and he had the courage to say so. For this manly, fearless declaration, and for holding aloft the banner of American honor, all the great power of the trusts and corporations in every Northern State was bro't to bear against him and his defeat was accomplished.

In Shelby county the election was warmly contested, and while the result is not yet known, the fusionists are claiming the election of their ticket by a majority of anywhere from one to a million or two. The Sentinel makes no prediction as to the actual result, but will give the official count, which will be made tomorrow, in the next issue, at which time we may have more to say of the matter.

DONE US A JOB.

The Democrats—a part of us at least—were up against it good and hard last Tuesday. The fusion element lambasted us without the least mercy; whollopped us body and breeches, up one side and down the other, crosswise, sidewise, endwise and otherwise. The fusionists were thicker about the polls than the "cullud" population at a nigger picnic, and even called on the poorhouse colony to reinforce their strength. They ran right over us just because we could not get out of the way. They tramped upon us, then picked us up, shook us, and then sat down upon us hard. Their majority, they say, from one to a million (including the United States and Africa) or might just as well be. The face of the returns show that the entire fusion ticket is elected, but—well, that is another story.

For another six years, possibly, Judge Longshore will stand at the county commissary and issue meager and unpalateable lunches made up of illegal tax levies, and a light desert made up of double and triple assessments for bridges, and if you don't like the mess of pottage, the sheriff will get in behind you and there you are.

Are we whipped? Not a bit of it. You see, it isn't always the under fellow who howls. One of the fusion pushers, who will soon be an "ex," says the writer of this hasn't sense enough to know when he is whipped, but, then you know, the face of a rumor, and especially when it comes from a source with a split in it, will not always stand investigation. Once one is one, but twice three is not thirteen.

Last Saturday, Mrs. J. T. Pealmann, a white woman and a leader in Chicago society, gave a luncheon in "honor" of a Virginia negro woman. Seven white women and three other negresses made up the party, while a white girl was the serving maid. Good Lord! Is this what is coming?—Nashville American.

The Birmingham Ledger thinks there is little hope of a decent Republican party in Alabama because as it argues, enough Democrats will not go over to it to make it respectable either in numbers or character. That is not exactly a fair argument. There are thousands of Republicans in Alabama who are honest in their Republicanism. They always vote with their party in national elections but will not affiliate in home matters with the sort of party that controls Republican politics in this State. With a party which would be something better and higher than a pie-hunting aggregation of negro sympathizers there would be a real decent Republican party in in Alabama without depending on accessions from Democrats. As to whether that time will ever come or not is another and different matter.—Montgomery Advertiser.

It too early to obtain full and accurate figures on the complexion of the House of Representatives, but enough is known to show decided gains for the Republicans in that branch of the government. A Republican majority of one hundred in the House is regarded as possible, whereas the present Republican majority is thirty-four. The Republicans already have a good margin in the Senate.—Birmingham News.

Even though the fusion crowd claim a victory, which is not conceded, the Democratic candidates are not bitter and denunciatory like some of the opposition, but, as all through the campaign, they are gentlemen

The result Tuesday, is an object lesson to many who did not pay their poll tax. Better pay up when the tax collector comes around and be ready to vote two years hence.

W. L. Douglas, the famous shoe manufacturer, and who is a Democrat, was elected governor of Massachusetts, a Republican State. It pays to advertise.

The telegraphic dispatches continue to rub it in, and say the Republican victory "is the most complete in the history of the country. $ $ $

The Democrats of Shelby county are proud of the canvass and fight put up by their candidates. Honorable men, all of them.

May be things will be different and better in the future. They cannot get much worse than they are at present.

Turn your attention to boosting Columbiana and Shelby county.

There is an old saw which says "he laughs best who laughs last."

We are up with a second breath, and ready for it again.

P. L. Lucas, of Dry Valley, was here yesterday for a few hours.

Sam Harrell, of Shelby, was in town a few hours Tuesday night.

Sam Wallace, of Klien, has been in the city for the past few days.

I. S. Chancellor and son Walter, of Creswell, were in town yesterday.

Jim Fulton, of Saginaw, was in town Tuesday, to hear the result of the election.

Commissioner R. B. Posey, of Harpersville, was town Tuesday for a few hours.

Postmaster Abercrombie went to Birmingham Tuesday afternoon to hear the election.

Dr. B. H. Smothers, of Beat 9, was in town Tuesday to learn the result of the election.

Dr. Chas. Acker was in Montevallo, on Tuesday visiting his parents for a few hours.

Better fill up your coal and wood house—a cold wave is reported as being due next Sunday.

Philip Erllick was a visitor to Bessemer yesterday, and will be gone two or three days.

W. E. Millender, one of the good old Democrats from near Harpersville, was in town yesterday.

Mrs. A. Friedberger, of Talladega, is in the city visiting her daughter, Mrs. Max Lefkovits.

Mrs. S. V. McCauley, of Montevallo, is in the city for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. H. E. Whitaker.

R. M. Hollis, of near Sterrett, was in town yesterday, having come to bring the returns from his beat.

T. M. Dennis, of near Pelham, was in town Tuesday, and while here joined our list of new subscribers.

Turkey will surrender to the United States on Thursday, November 24th. Are you prepared for the occasion.

Mrs. Simon Friedberger and children, who have been visiting in Wilcox county for some time have returned home.

Green Abbott was up from Beat 2 Tuesday night. When we asked him about the election he said there was nothing doing.

J. E. Adams, of Weldon, is in town today. Mr. Adams says "nothing doing" in politics out his way.

Clarence Smith, of Wilsonville, one of the young Democrats of the county was in the city Tuesday and cast his first vote.

Dr. W. P. Hamner has removed his dental office to his residence near the Louisville and Nashville station. His phone is 47.

Lewis Sessions, who is attending school here, went to Montevallo last Tuesday and cast his first vote—straight Democratic, too,

Tommy Dump says it was all a mistake—he did not get to vote and he don't like it a bit. Now he says he will organize a party of his own.

Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Bowdon and Mrs. Margaret Bowdon, of Calera, were in the city last Sunday visiting at the home of Mrs. Jennie Wilson.

Take the children to hear "Betsey Hamilton" at the Academy tomorrow night. They will enjoy her dialect stories just as well as you will.

The many friends of Henry Latham will be pleased to learn that he is about well again after a long seige with typhoid fever, and that it will not be long until he returns to Columbiana.

J. H. Abercrombie is now receiving the goods for his new store, and will put them on the shelves just as fast as possible. He has one of the finest store rooms in this section of the State.

Uncle Ben Cardwell, of near Shelby, was in town yesterday and made this office a pleasant call. He is eighty two years old, and says he does not expect to live to vote in another presidential election. The Sentinel trusts he may live to vote in several presidential elections yet to come.

In this issue of The Sentinel will found the advertisement of The Peoples' Store, of which R. W. Callaway is manager. A cordial invitation is extended the public to call and see the line of good goods which The Peoples' Store has to offer. Mr. Callaway will be glad to have you call and get acquainted anyway.

J. H. Shirley, father of E. D. W. Shirley near Nelson, was in town several days during the past week visiting friends, and made The Sentinel office a pleasant call yesterday. Mr. Shirley is one of Shelby county's oldest and best citizens, and makes his home with his son, although he visits a daughter in Chilton county a great deal.

A distressing and fatal accident occurred on the Coosa river in the southeastern past of the county last Monday night. A young Swede whose name we did not learn, came down from Bessemer for a day's fish, and while on the river fell from a boat and was drowned. The body was found after dragging the river for several hours with grapnels, and his body shipped to his home in Bessemer. G. E. Abbott, of Beat 2, gives us the information.

Quietly Married.

On November 2d, in the presence of a few friends at the Hotel Hillman, in Birmingham, Mr. John H. Walker and Mrs. Maggie Pope Smith, of Shelby, were quietly married. After the ceremony the wedding party adjourned to the Hillman cafe where a sumptous dinner was served.

The bride is well known and loved by a large circle of friends Mr. Walker is Superintendent of the Shelby Iron Company at Shelby. The newly wedded couple are at home at the Dannamora in Shelby.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker have numerous friends in Columbiana who extend them best wishes for a happy and prosperous future.

To Our Readers.

Many of our readers who receive their mail through the Columbiana office complained that they did not get their copy of last week's paper until Monday of this week. The editor of The Sentinel delivered his mail for this office to the postoffice at 8 o'clock last Saturday morning, and it should have been distributed before dinner at least. Parties called for their paper Saturday as late as 4 o'clock and were told that there was none there for them.

"Betsey Hamilton" Coming.

At the Academy tomorrow (Friday) night, "Betsey Hamilton" the noted dialect reader will appear, and if you go to hear her you will be entertained. She is greeted with crowded houses wherever she goes and no doubt a large audience will be present tomorrow night.

Rev. W. I. Sinnott preached his last sermon at the Presbyterian church, as its pastor, last Sunday. He had sent his resignation to the Presbytery, and we understand it was accepted. For fifteen years Mr. Sinnott has been the pastor of the Presbyterian church at this place, with the exception of about eight months. He has been faithful to his trust, and no man goes away from Columbiana with the best wishes of more friends than does Mr. Sinnott. To know him is to love him for his goodness of heart, and his kind, genial disposition. In Mr. Sinnott and family, Tuscaloosa gain people in whom they can place every confidence.

In this issue of The Sentinel appear the statements of the Columbiana Savings Bank, and the Merchants' & Planters' Bank, of Montevallo. The statements show these two institutions to be in an excellent condition, and as both are comparatively young in the banking world the officers in charge are to be congratulated on the great success which is attending them. They are both substantial, and the people of the county and especially patrons of them are proud of these two institutions.

W. B. McMath, of Montevallo, was in the city Tuesday, being returning officer from Beat 4. Mr. McMath informs The Sentinel that he has accepted a position with the Swift Packing Co. at Savannah, Ga., and will leave in a few days for his new work. Mr. McMath is well known in Columbiana, and his friends will be glad to know of him securing a position with such a substantial company as the Swift.

The town has been full of visitors for the past few days. The election is what did it, and our merchants, too, have had something to do with bringing them in.

Our merchants are as busy as bees, politics are now a thing of the past. Two years from now, the thing will be grinding again.

If you want good job work, bring it to The Sentinel. If you want any other kind, take it to some other shop.

Do not fail to go out and hear "Betsey Hamilton" at the Academy Friday night. Take the little folks, too.

Two weeks from today is Thanksgiving. The Sentinel is thankful he escaped alive last Tuesday.

Resolutions of Respect.

Mrs. Willie White.

Whereas, We, the Ladies Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Church, of Columbiana, Ala., are called upon to record the decease of one of our most valued members; and whilst to us, her surviving friends, death was a sad messenger, it is comforting to realize that it came to this true handmaiden of our Lord only as a glad summons "to cease from her labors and enter into rest;" and

Whereas, Being painfully sensible of our loss, and desiring to express our high appreciation of her untiring work in our organization, therefore, be it

Resolved 1. That in the death of our sister, Mrs. Willie White, we have lost a beloved co-laborer whose years of faithful services had endeared her to our hearts, one whose sweet counsel, cheerful co-operation and fervent prayers we sadly miss.

2. That we thank God for the beautiful exemplification of our holy religion in her useful, unselfish life, and her lovely christian character, and that we will hold in loving remembrance her steadfast loyalty to her duty, her perseverance, strong faith and earnest consecration.

3. That we hereby extend our warmest sympathy to her deeply afflicted husband and his sorrowing daughters and other relatives, and pray that they may find consolation through Jesus Christ "who hath abolished death and brought life and immortality to light through the gospel."

4. That this preamble and resolutions be spread upon the minutes, published in our local papers and the Alabama Christian Advocate and the Woman's Foreign Missionary Advocate, also a copy be sent to the bereaved family.

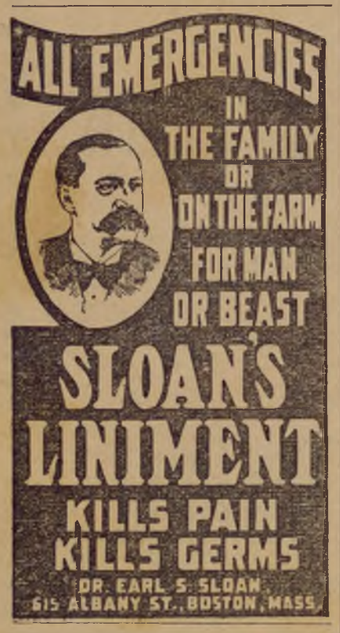
Miss Whittaker, a prominent club woman of Savannah, Ga., tells how she was entirely cured of ovarian troubles by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I heartily recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a Uterine Tonic and Regulator. I suffered for four years with irregularities and Uterine troubles. No one but those who have experienced this dreadful agony can form any idea of the physical and mental misery those endure who are thus afflicted. Your Vegetable Compound cured me within three months. I was fully restored to health and strength, and now my periods are regular and painless. What a blessing it is to be able to obtain such a remedy when so many doctors fail to help you. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is better than any doctor or medicine I ever had. Very truly yours, MISS EASY WHITTAKER, 604 39th St., W. Savannah, Ga." — $5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

The testimonials which we are constantly publishing from grateful women prove beyond a doubt the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to conquer female diseases.



Birmingham the Coming Pittsburg

A FEW years ago lots in Pittsburg which sold for a few hundred dollars are now selling at fabulous prices. Birmingham is now following in her footsteps, she makes the Iron, she makes the Steel, she makes the finished product from a Corless Engine to a wire nail.

The growth of every city, town and hamlet in every state south of Mason & Dixon's Line means a corresponding growth to Birmingham.

This means that every suburb of Birmingham is reaping and will continue to reap the benefit of this great expansion.

Now is the time to get in on the ground floor on IVANHOE LOTS. Only a few minutes ride on electric car from the center of Birmingham—high, dry and beautiful. Prices range from $85 to $160. Terms: $5.00 cash and $5.00 per month. No interest. Titles perfect.

☞Send $5.00 and let us select you a good lot. You cannot lose on a proposition like this.

ROMANCE AND REALITY.

For soul's mate her fancy had painted
A hero, with soft, silken curls,
Melting eyes, and pure brow, with a sainted,
Soft halo of love, like a girl's;
And the fates had accorded a "hubby"
That most of such qualities lacked—
A bald-headed, red-bristled, chubby,
And coarse mass of matter-of-fact.

For household her romance had builded
A proud palace-hall by the wave,
With music and flowers, and gilded
In and out, with the world for a slave;
And reality sealed her amazement
With apartments up five flights, or so,
With a shoemaker's shop in the basement,
And ash-barrels flanking the row.

In place of the music, and singing,
And dancing, that were to have been,
At the tub she stands washing and wringing,
Or she jogs at the sewing-machine;
And instead of the seraph-faced cupids
That her dream's wedded life were to crown,
Three or four little meddlesome stupids
Tug and clutch at her calico gown.

And think you she mourns for the vision
That romance so airily wove?
Not at all; for her home is elysian
With the soft human magic of love.
When the real true man was presented,
A small voice, that her romance had not,
Whispered down to her heart, and, contented,
She gave up herself to his lot.

For, dream as we may, the conditions
For which we have languidly yearned
Are soon lost in the solid fruitions
Which faith and strong purpose have earned.
Love makes its own world for the humble,
Which may well be a heaven on earth,
In whose beams all our fantasies crumble
When a wife's palace-hall is the hearth.

Now and then a regret for old fancies
May cause a shy tear-drop to swell,
Make her sing about helmets and lances,
Or pound the piano a spell;
But a kiss from the good man, or, maybe,
A light, eager step at the door,
Or a full-throated summons from baby
Will content with the real restore.

A CLEVER CAPTURE.

By "THE CAPTAIN."

"Take care of it, Hugh."

"All right, sir. Good morning."

Randall put on his hat, and passing through the bank, took his way into the town with £11,000 under his charge.

He was frequently employed in the execution of such transactions as the present between his uncle's bank and the other banks. On reaching his destination he marched up to that portion of the bank counter which was appropriated to such business transactions.

The elderly and precise clerk who occupied the high stool on the opposite site of the counter was almost shaken out of his propriety by Hugh's start and confused exclamation, as, after searching vainly in the depth of his pockets for the precious notes, the fact dawned upon him that they were gone, unmistakably gone.

"What's the matter, Mr. Hugh? What is it?" was repeated more than once before his scattered senses were recalled and then the query was only met by another, and one which, alas! was not to be so easily answered.

"What am I to do?" were the words which he at last stammered out.

He returned in a most crestfallen condition, as fast as a hansom cab could carry him, to the room which he had left so complacently less than an hour before.

Once in possession of the facts of the loss, Mr. Randall's views instantly shaped themselves into the definite form of "the police station."

He and his uncle were ushered into the inspector's presence. The examination—which, indeed, elicited little else—being ended, an ominous silence ensued, broken after a few minutes by the inspector, who ejaculated. "I have your man!"

Further explanation put them in possession of the fact that a celebrated detective was at the moment in the police station itself, having come down from London in the course of an investigation in which he was engaged.

Mr. Taplin soon added his presence to the council of war, and the story of the loss was gone over with him.

The detective was not one of the people who carry on all their mental processes outside their heads, and a silence fell on the whole party for several minutes, during which, with amazing rapidity of thought, he laid his schemes, the first step in which was to visit the post office just before the bags were made up.

In accordance with the detective's directions, the registered letters were spread out before them.

As he bent over the letters, Hugh saw a flush of pleasure in the grey eye as it rested on an envelope addressed, in a scrawling hand, to

MRS. G. HOPKINS,
19 P—— street,
Harwich.

The detective just laid one finger on it, turned to Hugh, and said, with an emphasis which carried weight with it:

"Your money is in that letter, or it's gone beyond our reach. You must come to Harwich with me tonight."

A few hours later the two were shooting along the line on their way to Harwich.

The curtain next rises upon a trio passing along the streets of Harwich. This trio consisted of our two friends and the postman in whose beat P—— street was posted.

All hope of seeing the money had faded from Hugh's mind again and again; but his heart beat faster than usual as they turned into the dingy looking street, and by the time they reached the door of No. 19 it was beating like a sledgehammer.

The double knock was quickly answered and when the door opened it disclosed a rather showy looking woman. Mr. Taplin stood back, just hidden from her sight, but in the quiet of the dull street every word came distinctly through the frosty morning air.

"Registered letter. 'Mrs. G. Hopkins.' Can she sign the paper?"

Then the answer:

"I am Mrs. Hopkins. Give it here."

In accordance with his orders, the postman produced only the paper, while apparently searching in his pouch for the letter. Mrs. Hopkins walked away, and after a few moments of suspense the anxious listeners heard her footsteps as she returned with the signed paper, and handed it to the postman, who then placed the letter in her hand.

In another moment Mr. Taplin was in the narrow passage, and had snatched the letter from its owner's hand. As Hugh pressed up to his side he tore open the seal, and the rustling notes lay in his hand! The unhappy woman had realized something of what had taken place, and, with a faint cry of "It's all up with us!" fell back against the wall. The detective supported her into the shabby parlor, and laid her on the black horsehair sofa. With a mutered, "Are there no womankind in the house?" he left the room, and Hugh heard the firm step sounding through the passage, and the clear voice calling at the top of the stairs:

"Here, Betty—Susan—whatever your name is, where are you?"

A slatternly maid-of-all-work answered the summons, in no small amazement at the sight of two strange gentlemen, and to her charge Mr. Taplin left her mistress, while he and Hugh assured themselves of the identity and completeness of the notes.

Mrs. Hopkins soon recovered sufficiently to pour out a flood of tears and bewildered lamentations, but with calm patience the detective at length drew from her the facts which he needed.

"Ah!" sh cried, bitterly, "he told me he would make our fortune this time, and I should have plenty then. He drank everything he made before, the wretch, and left me here in this miserable hole. But I'll be revenged on him yet!"

As they left the room, when Mr. Taphad made such arrangements as suited his good will and pleasure, he desired Hugh to look at a photograph hanging in a frame over the chimney-piece, and no sooner were they in the street than Hugh beheld issuing from Mr. Taplin's pocket book the duplicate of the carte.

"That's the man," observed Mr. Taplin at last, with a ring of triumph even in his calm voice, "after whom I came down to your parts. Strange, now, isn't it? That was a little matter which took place weeks ago, and we were altogether off the scent. Well, we get a new track early this week, and I went down believing, if I caught my bird anywhere, it would be there. Then your business turned up, and, like a flash, it crossed my mind that in finding out the one I should be carrying on the work I came after. I knew enough of the fellow I was after to be pretty sure that if your notes were in his hands, they would either come here on their way to the Continent or go direct to America. When I saw 'Mrs. Hopkins' I was as sure as that I was a living man that the money was there, for I knew 'Hopkins' was one of my man's aliases."

And so Hugh Randall went home again, not grudging his hundred mile journey, inasmuch as he carried with him £11,000—but not in his coat pocket.—New York News.

The "Made-Up" Woman.

A very pretty subject for discussion has been opened up by the assertion of a lady novelist that the made-up woman invariably reigns supreme despite the rulings of moralists and the prevalent superstition that the sweet, gentle woman who is neat in her dress and nothing more is really man's ideal. That virtue is literally its own reward in such cases is the substance of the lady novelist's attack.

Certainly clothes alone will not give a plain or an unpleasant woman the advantage over one whose wardrobe is demode, if the latter have beauty and grace, for it is possible to recall many instances where the family governess or the vicar's daughter has scored over a veritable bevy of faultlessly dressed women. Still, on the whole, perhaps, it is safer for every woman to make the best effort she can to enhance such charms as she may possess and to simulate them as artistically as she can when nature has not been liberal.

Beauty unadorned may and often does have a very good chance, but when by no manner of means can beauty be claimed, even in unadorned fashion, then assuredly it is decidedly risky, and one might almost say undutiful to one's neighbor, not to seek artificiality's artful aid. No woman with the slightest self-respect would go about toothless or bald; she would assuredly expect if she did that the "faked woman" would triumph over her. And if she is justified and indeed compelled by the laws of decency to supply dental and hirsute deficiencies, why should not a woman who is pallid, inclined to wrinkles, small eyed or of indifferent figure similarly improve herself?

The Experiment Failed.

Mr. Appleby had read somewhere that a judicious planting of old files in the exposed parts of one's garden would protest it from the depredations of chickens. He decided to give the plan a trial.

By visits to all the carpenter and blacksmith shops he succeeded in getting a large collection of old files. These he placed just below the surface of the ground in his garden, with special reference to the spots where an old hen and chickens belonging to his next-door neighbor had been doing the most damage.

A few days later one of his friends, who knew of his plan, met him, and asked him how it had succeeded.

"For several days I was a good deal encouraged," said Mr. Appleby. "They didn't seem to know what was the matter with the garden. Then all at once they began to do more mischief with the growing plants than ever before. I watched that old hen, and after a day or two I caught her. She was sharpening her bill on the files!"—Youth's Companion.

QUICK RESULTS.

W. J. Hill, of Concord, N. C., Justice of the Peace, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills proved a very efficient remedy in my case. I used them for disordered kidneys and backache, from which I had experienced a great deal of trouble and pain. The kidney secretions were very irregular, dark colored and full of sediment. The Pills cleared it all up and I have not had an ache in my back since taking the last dose. My health generally is improved a great deal."

Radium and the Diamond.

In the course of some experiments concerning the effect of the emanations from radium upon diamonds, Sir William Crookes made a curious discovery. When a diamond was placed in the path of the radiations it was converted from the carbon crystal into the common form of graphite, while in addition its color was quite changed. As a result of this strange metamorphosis Sir William Crookes suggests that the radium rays may prove of great commercial value to the jeweler since by this meanes diamonds which are of an indifferent and defective color may be appreciably increqased in their commercial value by treatment under the radium rays. He also observed that the prolonged action of the radium also increased the intensity of the pale-colored gems.

BENEDICT ARNOLD RELIC FOUND.

A Mute But Eloquent Reminder of the Well-Known Traitor.

Those of us interested in early American history, whether absorbed at school or acquired by maturer reading, recall Benedict Arnold, his brilliancy and treason, perhaps more vividly than almost any prominent figure of the Revolution, says the Lewiston Journal.

The students of those times recall that Washington sent him with 1100 soldiers on the ill-fated expedition to Quebec in 1775 by the way of the Kennebec River through the forests of Maine. Two miles below Gardiner, in Colburn's yard, his command halted long enough to construct 200 bateaux with which he proposed to transport troops and supplies through the Northern waters.

A week ago J. Rafter and Abbot Lord, Gardiner business men that fish the river for sport, brought up in their great sturgeon net, directly opposite where the bateaux were built, an anchor, or grapnel, which is undoubtedly a genuine Arnold relic. The stalk is some four feet long and carries five curved arms welded to its base. It was evidently fashioned of wrought iron, over an anvil.

These anchors were thrown out ahead of the bateaux, by which means they were pulled through rapids and swift water. For 129 years the anchor remained in the waters of the Kennebec, to now come to light, a mute but eloquent reminder of the man who betrayed his country.

In Many Counties the Vote was Light. Returns are Slow in Coming In. Comer Polls a Large Vote.

Alabama gave the democratic national ticket a good majority and elected nine democrats to congress.

Returns are too incomplete to estimate the majority for Parker and Davis, but such reports as have been received indicate that a large vote was cast in most places, and that the majority in the state will range above 50,000.

Autauga.

Parker carries the county by a large majority. Heflin receives solid democratic vote. Special school tax almost unanimously carried. About 75 per cent of vote was cast.

Blount.

Kelton, probate judge, 70; Davidson, republican, 56; Hood, Kelton 21, Davidson 16; Chepultepec, Kelton 57, Davidson 30. Kelton's majority 16. Six years ago Davidson's majority in these beats was 90, which indicates Kelton's election by 200.

Baldwin.

The election was quiet. Baldwin county voted democratic ticket about four to one for Parker, but few precincts heard from. Contest for county commissioner in the second district seems in favor of McMillan, the incumbent.

Calhoun.

Election day passed off quietly here. There was no contest in Calhoun county for county offices, but a larger vote was polled than in 1900. S. J. Bowie for congress carried Anniston by 500 majority over Kitchens, republican. Indications are that Kitchens will carry but one county, and that by a small majority, while Bowie carries five by large majorities, re-electing him to congress. Returns are slow coming in from rural districts on account of large number of names on the tickets.

Cherokee.

Returns so far indicate a majority for Burnett of 500. For judge and solicitor, Haralson and Hunt have 600 majority. The entire county ticket will be elected.

Chilton.

Indications are that Chilton county, in the Fourth district, usually populist, has gone democratic, though both sides claim it. Thorsby shows democratic gain, Cooper also shows democratic gain.

Clay.

Clay county goes democratic for the first time in twelve years. Heflin gets five hundred majority there.

Cleburne.

A full vote was polled in nearly all beats heard from. In the race for probate judge, J. B. Barker, opposition candidate, has a small majority in the latest reports. The opposition ticket may be elected in the county.

Heflin polled 174 votes, giving Carruth, democrat, 153.

Colbert.

Colbert county gives the democratic ticket, headed by O. G. Simpson for probate judge, a majority estimated at 900, with the exception of G. M. Drisdale, who ran about 300 behind the ticket. Parker's majority is estimated at 900 and Richardson for congress the same.

Coosa.

Election passed off quietly throughout the entire county. Reports from precinct 18 in the county give Judge of Probate J. A. Crawford 50 votes over A. D. Bentley, independent. Reports from precincts to hear from can't possibly change results, but will perhaps increase democratic majority. All the balance of the ticket is in effect the same as for judge of probate.

Columbia.

Vote light, 151 polled. Parker 110, Roosevelt 41. State and county ticket: Solid vote in contest for probate judge of Houston county. Leslie will carry beat over Crawford by small majority.

Courtland.

About one hundred votes were polled at this place, of which the democratic ticket will receive 90 per cent. Impossible to get returns from county precincts before tomorrow.

Cullman.

Indications from precincts heard from give the democratic ticket a good majority, with the exception of possibly one man. John L. Burnett is getting a heavy vote. Reports from the country will not be in until Wednesday morning.

Dallas.

Returns so far reached in Dallas county indicate a full vote having been polled. In Selma, 819 votes were polled, of which the republicans received 17, the populists 11 and the socialists 11. . Only two precincts in the county have been heard from, and they gave a solid vote for the democratic ticket.

DeKalb.

Democrats claim election of entire county ticket. Haralson and Hunts carry this county

Etowah.

Etowah county goes democratic overwhelmingly. Every county officer is elected by 500 majority.

Fayette.

Returns from sixteen of twenty precincts are as follows: Probate judge, J. R. Collins (democrat), 620; Thomas E. Goodwin (fusionist), 778; circuit clerk, D. O. McConnell (democrat), 709; F. A. Brotherton (fusionist), 350; tax assessor, R. A. Couch (democrat), 503; G. W. Coggin (fusionist), 814; tax collector, R. P. Caine (democrat), 745; A. J. McCleb fusionist), 644; treasurer, W. F. Smith (democrat), 793; J. H. Willingham (fusionist), 511; county superintendent of education, J. T. Lucas (democrat), 657; Walter Barnard (fusionist), 580. The other returns will change the result very little.

Franklin.

Partial returns show that democrats have carried Franklin county by a majority of about 100, electing their entire county ticket. Burnett for congress will probably lead the ticket a few votes.

Jackson.

A very light vote was polled in the county. Out of 4,300 registered voters in the county there were only about 3,000 polled. All of the precincts have not been heard from owing to the fact that for the first time since the war the democratic county ticket had no opposition, therefore little interest was taken in the election. Only 288 votes were polled at Scotsboro.

Parker 250, Roosevelt 25. For congress, Richardson 275, Roberts 18. Parker's probable majority in the county 2,500, and Richardson's about the same for congress. The vote here for circuit judge is Haralson 278, Nicholson 10.

Jefferson.

The election passed off quietly in Birmingham. It is estimated that between 2,900 and 3,000 votes were polled at the four voting places in Birmingham, a large majority for Parker. The largest vote cast at one box was 799 at the court house. More negroes voted than had been expected. It is estimated that one hundred negro votes were cast in Birmingham.

B. B. Comer, the democratic nominee for president of the railroad commission, carried Jefferson county by an overwhelming majority.

Not a single challenge was reported. The managers did not compare the poll tax nor the registration lists whenever a voter applied.

There was no organized opposition to the re-election of Oscar W. Underwood for member of congress from the ninth district.

Lauderdale.

About half of the registered vote of Lauderdale county was cast. Unofficial returns give Parker 1,400, Roosevelt 360. In 1900 this county gave McKinley a small majority. Judge William Richardson for congressman from the eighth district had practically no opposition.

Lee.

About 1,200 votes were polled in the county, and Parker's majority will be something over 1,000.

The following county officers, the nominees of the democratic primary, were elected without opposition: Probate judge, J. B. Lyons; circuit clerk, J. I. Meadows; tax collector, W. M. Bass; tax assessor, H. C. Johnson; county treasurer, T. J. Stevens; county superintendent of education, D. M. Banks; commissioners, C. E. Jackson and W. C. Davis. The election was very quiet.

Madison.

The complete returns from Madison county show the vote as follows: Parker, 2075; Roosevelt, 125; for congress, Richardson, 2,075 ;Roberts, 125. The county democratic ticket had no opposition.

The republican ticket got not more than 10 per cent of the votes polled in Madison county. Estimated result: Parker 2,250, Roosevelt 250. For congress: Richardson, 2,250, Roberts 250. The vote was unusually light.

Marion.

Marion box polled 230 votes out of a total strength of 360. Republicans get 4 out of 7 of negro votes cast. Total vote of county estimated at 800; virtually solid democratic. Total strength of county about 1,550. For local taxation for public schools, Marion box, for 169; against 49.

Millport.

Result of election: 77 and 2; Bankhead 57, Crumpton 2. County officers practically the same. Special school tax 6 to 1.

Montgomery.

Out of a total vote of nearly 2,000 in the seven city beats, including Highland Park, Roosevelt received only 47 votes, Judge Parker's majority reaching the great total of 1,895 votes.

Morgan.

Returns are coming in slow. The precincts heard from indicate that Parker's vote will be 2,500, Roosevelt's 500. County ticket elected without opposition, as was also circuit judge and chancellor.

The election passed off quietly in the Decaturs. There were no fights nor drunkenness. But little interest was manifested by the political parties.

Estimates at this election place Richardson's, democrat, majority over Roberts, republican, at 7,000.

Randolph.

Randolph county gives 492 majority for the county democratic ticket. Returns are incomplete for the national and state tickets, but Heflin will have a majority of about 750 over Walker.

Sumter.

Livingston: Parker 140; Roosevelt 2; Epes, Parker 60, Roosevelt 3; Bluffport, Parker 18, Roosevelt 2. Majority in Sumter for Parker about 1,500. Congressional ticket the same.

Talladega.

About fifteen hundred votes were polled in this county, less than three hundred republican. Bowie leads the ticket.

Tuscaloosa.

There were 500 votes polled here today, more than at the county primary in July. Parker 448, Roosevelt 52. J. H. Bankhead's majority for congress and Judge Sprott's for judge of the sixth district will probably reach 1,600. Parker's majority is estimated at 1,700.

As I have often said, I wonder that monarchs cannot officially meet without each arraying himself in the uniform of the other, asks a writer in London (Eng.) Truth. If I were to call on a Turk I should not put on a fez and expect him to cover his head with a hat. Why, indeed, monarchs should wear uniforms except when taking part at reviews I do not know. They are the heads of state which are composed of civilians who pay a certain number of persons to be soldiers, or who oblige all to serve as soldiers for a fixed period. Wry, too, an English citizen who is asked to attend the Leveeof his Sovereign—supposing that he has no uniform—as is the case with many—should be called upon to array himself in the dress of a bygone age of velvet and frills, with a sword by his side, is also a thing that surpasses my understanding. ALABAMA SCHOOLS

State Superintendent of Education Hill Submits His Annual Report.

REVENUE FOR 1904, $1,041,560.97.

This Does Not Include Poll Taxes. School Tax Elections to Be Held Will Swell the Fund.

In his annual report made to Acting Governor Cunningham, State Superintendent of Education I. W. Hill touches upon all phases of the school question, and discusses all the machinery.

In part it reads as follows:

The provisions of the present constitution, which provide for a special tax for school purposes, is a great improvement over the old plan of raising revenues. Under the former constitution it meant a fight at every session of the legislature to procure an appropriation for the common schools. The constitutional provision guarantees a permanent school fund, and this fund will not only be increased by every raise in the tax valuation of the state, but the legislature has the power, when the finances of the state will permit, to make an especial appropriation for the schools. The amount from the special tax reported to this office on October 1 by the state auditor is $879,246.33. This, with the sixteenth section and other interest funds, gives for school purposes this year the grand total of $1,041,560.97. This does not include the poll tax nor the many large appropriations made by cities and towns for the support of schools.

The constitution allows counties, under certain conditions to levy a one-mill tax for the support of the schools of the county. It is pleasing to note that a good number of counties have ordered elections to be held for the purpose of levying this tax. Jefferson, Walker, Talledega, Marion and Tuscaloosa have already levied this tax. Not a single county in which an election has been held up to this day has failed to levy the tax.

While the county tax will be of the greatest assistance to the schools of the various counties in which it is levied, there is still further need for revenue. There is only one way in which the rural schools can be put on a basis commensurate with their needs and this is by allowing a local tax by districts. The present school fund can be used for but one purpose—the paying of teachers. Not a cent can be used for school buildings or for equipments or for defraying the actual incidental expenses of the schools. If allowed local taxation by districts, the funds raised could be used, if the district authorities saw fit, for building and improving the school houses and for other purposes which are absolutely necessary in order to have an efficient public school system.

For years there has been a complaint that the school census of the state was padded. As a matter of fact, under the old plan of taking the census in a great many sections, an actual enumeration was never made. Township trustees, too busy with personal matters, to attend to the taking of the census without compensation, simply made estimates. It is safe to say that these estimates were never too small. Seeing the evil which was naturally arising from this incorrect census, I, this year, acting on the advice of the attorney-general, ordered the census to be taken giving the name, age, parent or guardian and address of each child. I am pleased to state that I am of the opinion that the school census taken in August of this year is the most correct school census ever taken in Alabama.

The last legislature passed a law which we call the re-districting law. The object of this law was to provide for the formation of school districts with regard to centers of population and natural barriers. Until this law went into effect, school districts, with the exception of a few which had been created by special legislative enactment, had as their boundaries arbitrary township lines. The redistricting board, under this law, consisted of the county superintendent of each county, a member of the court of county of commissioners or board of revenue, and the county surveyor. This board was required to redistrict the county so as to form school districts in such a manner that no child would be more than two and one-half miles from a school house. This work was done in all the counties of the state except Escambia, Mobile and Baldwin. These counties had already been districted under provisions of special or local school laws.

The law provided that the qualified electors in each district so laid out should meet at a specified time and elect three trustees who should be householders and freeholders and residents of the district for which they were elected. The district board was required to meet and elect a president and secretary. The various district presidents met at the various court houses at the time specified by the law and elected a county board of education. This county board of education consists of the superintendent of education, who is an ex-officio member and executive officer, and four citizens selected from the county.

The county board of education has complete control of the schools of the county.

There is a law on the statute books requiring that teachers' institutes be held in every county of the state. The great majority of the counties hold from three to four institutes a year. These institutes, while they do a great good, are not meeting the purposes for which they were intended. In most instances, the institutes are held on Fridays and Saturdays during the school year and the teachers are worn out by the school room duties. In my opinion, it would be better to have several large institutes in different parts of the state, composed of the teachers in several counties, and employ for conducting such institutes, expert conductors. The institutes should be held during the school term, and the teachers should be allowed to draw their regular pay while attending the institutes. Moreover, every teacher should be required to attend who has not a valid excuse.

In my investigation of educational work in other states, I have found that great benefit has been derived from requiring teachers to meet monthly in what is called reading circles. A light course of study of a general nature is prescribed, and the county teachers are required to meet once a month for the purpose of discussing the lessons which have been prescribed for the previous month.

A change for the better was made when the legislature provided for the monthly payment of teachers. Under the old plan teachers were paid quarterly. In a great majority of instances their salaries were small and their necessities required them to hypothecate their claims at an exorbitant rate of interests.

The average Alabama school house is not only a disgrace to the community in which it stands, but a disgrace to the state. As a usual thing, these school houses have been built without any regard to scientific arrangement, proper lighting and all of the things that go to make up a comfortable school house. Knowing that the redistricting of the state would require a great number of school houses, at the last meeting of the Alabama Educational association, I suggested that an appropriation be made for having made designs for school buildings from one to eight rooms. The association made the appropriation and a committee was appointed to secure the plans. The plans were made and the Alabama Polytechnic institute kindly furnished a thousand blue prints. These blue prints have been put into the hands of every county superintendent of the state and this office is sending them to any district board upon request. There is a healthy sentiment in the state in favor of better school houses.

The last legislature passed a law providing for the selecting and use of a uniform form series of text-books in the public schools of the state.

The books adopted were to be put in the schools on the first of September, 1903. As the contracts were made in July, and the publishers had to manufacture a great many of the books, there was slight trouble in the early part of the year in procuring the necessary text-books. That difficulty has been remedied, however, and I am inclined to feel that the plan is working smoothly.

After watching for two years from the standpoint of superintendent of education, the operations of the state law for the examination of teachers, I am more than ever before convinced of the wisdom of such a statute. Under this law, the standard of the teaching force has been raised at least fifty per sent. Until the passage of this law only a few of the more enthusiastic teachers gave any attention to the study of their profession. Under the present law, if a teacher expects to keep abreast of the times, and to hold desirable positions he must do as other professional men and women do—study.

As an evidence of the remarkable effect of this law, the state is absolutely unable to supply the demand for first and second grade teachers. A few years ago, I am informed, requests would come to the state department asking for teachers. The grade of the certificate held by the teacher was not taken into question. Now 99 out of every 100 requests that reach the office demand a first or second grade teacher.

A serious defect in the law, and one that should, if possible, be remedied, is the provision which attempts to prevent the examination questions from getting into the hands of applicants before the day of examination.

The state schools, including the State University, the Alabama Polytechnic institute, the normal schools, the Girls' Industrial school, and the nine district agricultural schools are nearly all in a flourishing condition. The last term of the university and of the Alabama Polytechnic institute, were the best in the history, and I am informed that, for the present scholastic year they have opened with greatly increased attendance.

The increased appropriation given to the normal schools by the last legislature has put them on a better financial basis and has enabled them to more nearly accomplish the work for which they were intended.

The Girls' Industrial school at Montevallo is doing, as far as possible, the work for which it was established. The lack of funds and of accommodations naturally hampered the school in its work.

The Institute for the Deaf, Dumb and Blind, located at Talladega, deserves consideration not only on account of the object for which it is intended, but on account of the superior work which it is doing.

A long step towards providing the state with competent teachers was taken in the establishment of a summer school at the University of Alabama The first school held under this law was a distinct success, and the experience had by those in charge will contribute to the further success of the schools in the future. I am informed that more than three hundred and sixty enthusiastic teachers attended this school for six weeks.

During the summer there was conducted at the Alabama Polytechnic institute a very successful school for farmers. There were in attendance nearly 400 farmers who attended the session regularly for ten days. The very best talent that could be procured in the United States lectured to the farmers on various subjects connected with their profession.

Gone to Supreme Court.

The case testing the constitutionality of the Greater Ensley act will come before the supreme court at its next session beginning Nov. 14. The bill was passed by the last legislature and almost since it became effective has been vigorously opposed by the citizens of West Ensley. The case was heard by both Judges Senn and Ferguson, of the Birmingham city court, and was decided in favor of the city.

Will Bore Again.

The New York-Alabama Oil company is moving its outfit at Hazle Green to a point a few hundred yards from well No. 3, and will drill another well. A government geologist recently examined the lands in that locality and advised the company to continue operations. So confident are these speculators that they will eventually find oil, they have bought another drill outfit and will sink two wells at a time in future.

Hay Will Remain.

President Roosevelt makes the announcement that John Hay will continue as secretary of state during the four years beginning March 4 next.

"You may positively state," were his words. "that Mr. Hay will continue as secretary of state up to the 4th of March, 1909."

The president was asked regarding other possible cabinet changes, but indicated that there was nothing to be said at present.

ONE DUELLIST DEAD.

The Other Fatally Injured—Mob Threatens the Injured One.

Fred Tharpe, a contractor, is dead, and Frank Christian, contractor and painter, is dying in a hospital as the result of a fierce duel with knives at Macon, Ga. Tharp's daughter married Rafe Plunket, who was a stepson of Christian and his partner in business. Some time ago Plunket accidentally shot and killed himself. Since his death there has been some discussion between Tharpe and Christian as to the manner in which he was shot, and also on account of some family trouble. The fatal dispute was because of these matters.

Tharpe drew a knife and cut Christian across the stomach, whereupon the latter brought his own knife into play, caught his assailant by the hair and cut his throat. Tharpe died instantly and Christian cannot live.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict in the case, finding that the killing was justifiable homicide. A crowd of friends of Tharpe have marched to the hospital where his slayer lies wounded.

At 1 o'clock a mob composed of several hundred of the dead man's friends formed, and marching to the hospital, where Christian lies wounded, demanded to see him.

Dr. Elder, the surgeon in charge, asked if they were friends of Christian, and upon receiving a hot reply in the negative he drew his revolver and informed them that he would kill the first man who attempted to enter the hospital.

CHARTER REVOKED.

Chicago Federation Expelled by President Gompers.

Formal notice that the charter of the Chicago Federation of Labor had been revoked, and that the organization was expelled from the American Federation of Labor, was given to Secretary Nickels by telegraph. The telegram was signed by President Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, and was dated at Denver, where the members of the executive council of the federation made a stop on their way to San Francisco convention.

Street Car Collision.

Two cars on the Powderly-Bessemer line had a collision in West End, and one man was slightly injured as a result. The two cars were damaged, one of them seriously and the other only slightly.

The accident occurred while one of the cars was backing into a switch which it had passed. The other car ran into it.

FATAL WRECK.

Eleven persons were killed, several injured, two seriously, in a head-on collision between a Union Pacific passenger train, and a freight train, west of Azusa, Wyo.

YARDS FOR REPAIRS.

Private Concerns Can Build War Vessels Cheaper Than Government.

Although recognizing the desirability of having some of the government yards equipped for building naval vessels of the largest size, Rear Admiral W. L. Capps, chief constructor of the navy, in his annual report says that "the repairing and overhauling of the fleet must at all times remain the most important work of the navy yards and in times of war their resources will be taxed to the utmost in performing such work. The navy is increasing so rapidly that ample work will be provided for the navy yards by the 'repairs and refits' alone.

Of the work on the battleship Connecticut, building at the New York yards, the chief constructor says that despite every effort to reduce the cost of this, the first battleship to be constructed in a government navy yard, to the most economical basis, "it can hardly be hoped that the work will be done as cheaply as when performed in private shipbuilding yards, whose rates of pay for nine hours' work are, in many cases, less than those being paid for eight hours' work at the navy yard in New York."

ANNUAL REPORT

Issued by the Auditor of the Postoffice Department.

The annual report of the auditor for the postoffice department shows that the fiscal business transacted through the postal and money order branches of the department during the last year was:

Revenue of the postal service, $143,582,624.

Expenditures of the postal service, $152,362,116.

Total amount of money orders issued:

Domestic, $383,452,373; foreign, $37,875,265.

Total amount of money orders paid:

Domestic, 385,100,020; foreign, $6,714,846.

The deficit in the postal revenues, therefore, was $8,579,492.

New Machine Shops.

The new machine shops of Strickland Bros. at Tuscaloosa is nearing completion, and will be in operation in a few days. The building is of brick, being 50x200 feet, and has a spur track from the Mobile and Ohio. It is being fitted up with the latest improved machinery and also has a fifteen-ton electric crane.

Over Thirty Thousand.

A corrected casualty list of the ten day battle of the Shakhe river issued by the war office places the total killed or wounded at 33,250, of whom 900 were officers. The first returns, it is explained, contained duplications, and some of the men were so slightly wounded that they returned to their ranks in a few days.

Coming Home.

Telegrams received from Bishop Charles B. Galloway announce his safe arrival at Vancouver, and that he will arrive in Jackson, Miss., in about a week. The bishop has been holding conferences in Japan, China and other oriental countries the past three or four months.

Orphanage.

The trustees of the Methodist orphanage, which it is expected to be moved from Water Valley to Jackson, Miss., and for which the required bonus of $10,000 was raised in a few days, have been to Jackson looking over the field with a view to the selection of a site.

Austria Pleased.

Emperor Francis Joseph has telegraphed to President Roosevelt his congratulations on the latter's electoral victory.

Hand Injured.

Erle Townsend, a young man about 23 years of age, happened to a very painful accident at Sylvan. He was engaged in adjusting a rip-saw and in some way his hand got too near the saw and was pulled in, and before he could extract it several of his fingers were cut off and his hand badly lacerated.

Japanese Colony Going to Florida.

Five Japanese, the advance guard of a colony of forty or fifty families, are on the way to Dade, Fla., where they intend to cultivate 67,000 acres of land. The colony will raise silk, cotton, tobacco and pineapples and experiment with them.

Mrs. Cleveland Acted.

Mrs. Grover Cleveland performed the ceremony of laying the cornerstone of the new building of the Hebrew technical school for girls in New York. Former President Cleveland acted as presiding officer of the exercises and delivered an address.

New Mileage.

The year now drawing to a close will show between 180 and 200 miles of new railroad completed in Mississippi, which is the largest amount ever constructed within an annual period in the history of the state.

New Court Houses.

There is now being spent on new court houses in Mississippi no less than a half million dollars.

COLUMBIANA SENTINEL.

Entered as second class matter, Apr. 13, 1904 at the postoffice at Columbiana, Ala., under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Office over Columbiana Savings Bank.

COLUMBIANA, ALA., Nov. 17, '04

Telephone No. 17.

Let Shelby county be first with our people, and the world afterwards.

A good many were worried how to scratch their ticket, who have yet to learn how to scratch for a living.

Watson says if Parker and Roosevelt had gotton out of his way he would have been elected president. May be so.

The business men of Shelby county will find The Sentinel the best advertising medium. And but one price to all.

The Sentinel is proud of its rapidly growing subscription list. We have added twelve new names during the past week.

Turkeys cost so much this year that every housewife is recalling that last year she entertained, and that it is not now her turn.

Crumpacker says he is now going after the South's representation in congress, and will try to have it reduced one-third.

The dispatches say the president is in exhuberant spirits. Well, we know of no reason why he should look like he hadn't a friend in the world.

The Russian soldier, as a rule, is so dirty that people say he smells bad. The Japs say that after a Russian soldier has been dead a week he smells better than he did when alive.

Good cooks are so scarce in this country that students attending the Nebraska State University are learning cooking, intending to become "hired girls." Then the women who earn their living can marry them and the problem will be solved.

We are glad the women of Alabama do not vote. The women in Colorado vote on every old proposition, and are having their pictures "took" in dresses cut short at the top, giving them a strong resemblance to a lot of antiquated chorus girls. Yes, we are glad the women in Alabama do not vote.

There is no law to compel a man to pay for a paper he never ordered or subscribed for. The best way to do is to refuse to take from the postoffice a paper you have not ordered. We would like to have every man in Shelby county on our list, but The Sentinel must be ordered by you before it will be sent.

Editor Frank Crichton, of the Clanton Banner, is able to be at his office again after an illness of several months. Although confined to his room, yet his pen was used in the cause of Democracy, and its effect was seen in the result of the election—victory for part of his ticket. Here's to you, Frank.

From our earliest childhood we have always been led to believe that the preachers are a pretty good class of people to be associated with in any kind of a movement, while the lawyers, doctors and merchants are not a bad class, even though some little demagogue may try to make you think otherwise.

Among all the Democrats in this county none are more deserving than Hon. E. S. Lyman, of Montevallo. Laying aside whatever disappointment he may have had at not receiving the nomination for Probate Judge, he worked earnestly and faithfully for the ticket of his party from the time it was nominated in April until the polls closed on the 8th of November. Just how faithful and true he was probably no one knows so well as the editor of The Sentinel. He is a true Democrat, a conscientious, upright man, and The Sentinel is ready to support him for whatever office he may aspire to. We have known him for six years, but we have come to know him better in the past few months than in all the years before.

WARNING.

The states of Massachusetts, Colorado, Minnesota and Missouri, says the Birmingham Ledger, elected democratic governors while giving their national votes to Mr. Roosevelt. Several other states have democratic governors. When things get too bad even for Pennsylvania, it elects a democratic governor to purify the departments.

Then, too, the people did not intend by Tuesday's election to give the republicans an unlimited lease on life. They turned down the administration good and hard in Wisconsin and elected the man under the President's frown.

These incidents mean that the people wanted to show that they can do as they please at the ballot box. That they can give their votes to a democrat as well as to a republican. That they can elect a republican president and a democratic governor at the same time. They intended to indicate that there should be some isles of safety even in a landslide. That even in the most conservative state a democrat can be placed in the executive chair. They spread these warning signals all over the whole country.

The republicans are given four more years of power, but there are reservations, and the reservations are intended to warn the republicans that the voters were not blindly following the party, but were voting with a purpose.

VINCENT.

Miss Ada Nolan, of Woodlawn, who has been spending a week with her sister, Mrs. O. P. Bentley, has returned home....Dr. Bell and wife, of Woodlawn, visited in town last week....Miss Rosa Lyde, of Birmingham, visited her mother, Mrs. E. C. Lyde, Saturday and Sunday....At the last meeting of the council of the town, Mr. Cunningham was elected city marshal....Mr. Berkely, of Birmingham, and Julian Fulenwider, of this place, spent several days last week on Coosa river, hunting and fishing.

IMPROVE RIVERS.

A convention was held in Montgomery on Monday of this week looking to the improvement of the Alabama rivers.

Among the prominent speakers present was Congressman Bowie. The feature of his remarks was the remarkable statement that the neglect of the Alabama River by various congresses was mainly due to the neglect of the people thro' whose lands the river flows. Conventions had been held time and again, he said, to memorialize congress to improve Mobile Bay, to improve the Warrior and the Coosa rivers, but for the first time in the history of the greatest of all Alabama rivers, a convention was being held for its improvement.

Mr. Bowie reviewed the scant work done by the government on the Alabama River, and said there was no willful spite on the part of Congress against the river, but on the other hand, its condition was a result of the neglect of the people.

The Sentinel refrains from making any comment upon some of the methods practiced in the late election, until after the meeting, next week, of the Democratic Executive Committee at which time it will be determined what course to pursue in relation to fraudulent votes which were cast, the evidence of which is now in hand.

In State Superintendent Hill's recent report on the public schools of Alabama, he says that in 1903 there was a school population of 707,269, whereas for 1904 there are 689,051, a decrease in one year of 28,218. He gives as the reason for this apparent decrease, that there had been a padding of lists in almost every county heretofore, but that the school census of this year is by actual count. The school fund for the present school year amounts to $1,041,560.97. Mr. Hill reports all the State schools as being in excellent condition.

If all reports are to be accepted, more men have been killed and wounded than the Russian and Japanese armies actually number in the war in Manchuria, and more ships have been sunk in and about Port Arthur than the navies of the two nations ever have been able to muster. The pen of the war correspondent appears to be about as mighty as the sword when it comes to staggering humanity.

The many friends of Governor Jelks will be glad to know that he will be home about the first of the new year.

If you have any property to sell list it with the Columbiana Land Company. No charge unless a sale is made.

We would like for correspondents to mail their letters to reach us not later than Tuesday noon

"The Melancholy Days."

"The melancholy days have come," writes the poet, but why they should be called melancholy is beyond the ken of ordinary man for truly no days in the year are more resplendent with glory, lending an inspiration for sweetest and at the same time, saddest reflection. With rarest aroma is the air filled with the fragrance of the harvested clover blooms and the old fashioned ragweed. Here and there the dew-kissed leaves are turning to gray and gold and crimson hue—the artistic work of an early frost. Occasionally one finds a late flower blooming along the roadway, and only a little while ago I saw one or two violets looking more bright and beautiful because of the surrounding decay. As the shades of night begin to fall the partridge whistles for his mate which has gone astray or fallen a victim to some sportsman's aim. Away off yonder in the distant wood another sound is heard—'tis a whip-poor-will—and while not at all unpleasant to the ear, yet there is a plaint about it that reminds one of a requiem o'er the death of the green leaves and the flowers. At twilight the chirping of crickets is heard—the little insects having been driven by chill autumn air to the warmth under the cabin floor, or near to the hearth about the wide open fireplace with its cheerful blaze.

To me these melancholy days hold a latent charm. They bring back to me my boyhood days, when with other boys—just as the boys do now—we scampered to the woods and hills on cool, frosty nights, and with baying hounds we sought the coon and the 'possum. The husking bee was one of our jolliest affairs—generally within some great barn—and the red ears of corn were sought with ardor and glee, and when some sweet lass stripped the husks away from one of these the plump, red grains were not more crimson than her rosy cheeks as she thought of the forfeit she must pay.

Just why these days should be called "the melancholy days" I am at a loss to understand, but it appears to me a misnomer. At no time in the year do the birds sing more sweet, and their is a soothing enchantment in the soft cooing of the doves, like unto a lullaby from the mother to her young babe. The sun appears brighter; the light of the moon is a soft, mellowy silver; the gay and variegated hues of the foliage on the trees more beautiful; the chimes of bells have a softer tone, and the sunsets appear as a great cluster of opalescent fires. Nature is at her best, and methinks Eden's garden could not have been more entrancing and beautiful. "Elwood Keeno."

Sam Wallace is visiting his mother in Klien for a few days.

Which would you rather people would do: Cuss, or look grieved?

Miss May High spent last Sunday in Montgomery with her brother.

Clarence Smith was down from Wilsonville last Sunday between trains.

Judge J. L. Peters visited with his children in Montevallo Friday and Saturday.

The successful business man is the one who knows what the people will not buy.

Judge D. R McMillan was a visitor to Birmingham Tuesday on legal business.

Mrs. M. T. Wood was a visitor to Birmingham last Sunday, returning home Tuesday.

G. D. Baldwin, of Beat 2, was in town Tuesday, and paid The Sentinel a pleasant call.

Before calling a man a liar it is best to size up his physique; it might save you trouble.

Dr. J. H. Gunn, of Calera, Shelby county's health officer, was in town a few hours Tuesday.

Mrs. Tommy Dump says her husband is so lazy that he eats only to keep from starving to death.

After the undertaker gets through with a man there is never any danger of his coming to life again.

When a man wants to sharpen a knife he hunts up a whetstone; but a woman just takes a few swipes on a crock.

These frosty mornings make a fire feel very comfortable. Ice has formed several nights during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam'l Goldberg, of Talladega, are in the city visiting their sister Mrs. Max Lefkovits, for a few days.

There is a change in the advertisement of I. Gordon, the tailor, in this issue. Better read it, you may be interested.

Howard Latham will go to Montevallo next Sunday for a short visit with his wife at the home of J. E. Hendrick.

A. C. Galloway is among the number who have renewed their subscription to The Sentinel during the past week.

Mrs. H. M. Roberts went down to Montevallo last Sunday for a short visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E W. Chapman.

Mrs. Wm. Crossett, Mrs. C. F. Avery and Miss Lula Wade, of Shelby, were visiting friends here the fore part of the week.

Patronize the merchants who advertise in The Sentinel; they will treat you right, and guarantee their goods to be as represented.

Mrs. Tommy Dump says that for once her husband came home sober on election night, and now she wants an election every day.

Miss Mae Bell, who was the guest of Miss Gertrude Glazener several days last week, returned to her home in Vincent last Sunday.

A Calhoun county woman says she has raised a beet weighing 14 pounds. There was a bigger "beat" than that in Shelby county last week.

Mrs. S. V. McCauley, after a visit of a week with her daughter, Mrs H. E. Whitaker, returned to her home in Montevallo last Sunday.

What has become of the old fashioned mother who used to put mustard plasters on her children for all aches and pains to which they are heir?

Some of our local sportmen have been camping on the trail of birds for the past week. We are told there are a good many partridges in this section.

Last Saturday was one of those cold, measley rainy days—just after election when a fellow was feeling bad enough without any other grievance, too.

R. G. Weldon, of Wilsonville, was in town Monday and paid The Sentinel a pleasant call. The Sentinel had done some commercial work for the Weldon Company.

C. C. DuBose has gone to Indianapolis for a short visit, and will return in a few days accompanied by his three daughters, who will make their home with Mrs. E. W. Burt.

The Sunday schools have been increased in membership in the past few weeks because of the number of out of town young people who are attending the Columbiana Graded School.

Thos. Adkinson has purchased the stock of goods formerly owned by D. C. Glenn, and will add to it considerably within the next few weeks. The Sentinel wishes for Mr. Adkinson success in his new venture.

Some of our merchants are getting in their holiday goods, and old Santa Claus promises to rule the roost next month. The Sentinel invites the merchants to tell the people about their goods through its colums.

R. E. Bowdon has gone to Ohio on a business mission. A letter from him to The Sentinel, written at Cincinnati, says it is colder than gee whiz, and that the Republicans are so thick that they want the Democrats to get off the earth.

D. C. Glenn and family will remove to Louisiana early in December. Mr. Glenn has been a resident of Columbiana for the past five or six years, coming here from Shelby, and it is with regret that our people see him and his family leave. May they find their new home in Louisiana all they expect it to be.

Owing to the increase in our advertising patronage, The Sentinel will probably run 8 pages through the month of December. Merchants who are not advertising, should prepare to tell the people what they have to offer for the holiday trade.

P. F. Whorton, of Aldrich, was a pleasant caller at The Sentinel office on Monday. Mr. Whortod was one of the working Democrats in beat 4 during the last campaign, and he tells some interesting stories about the manipulation of that beat.

Rev. G. T. Harris will attend the North Alabama Conference of the Methodist church which meets in Talladega next week. Mr. Harris is loved by all the people here, and especially so by his congregation, and it is hoped he will be returned here for another year.

Rev. M. E. Butt, of Childersburg, was in the city over last Sunday a guest of Rev. G. T. Harris. A quarter of a century ago, Rev. Mr. Butt was pastor of the Methodist church in this city, but he is now a superannuate of the North Alabama Conference. He preached a very interesting sermon at the Methodist church last Sunday morning.

Wedding at Montevallo.

The following account of a wedding at Montevallo is taken from the Age-Herald of the 10th, inst.:

A wedding of more than local interest occurred here Tuesday afternoon. Miss Sallie Miles was united in marriage to Mr. Farmer Scals of Selma. The ceremony was performed at the residence of Mr. G. F. Harper, the brother of the bride, at 4 o'clock, in the presence of over a hundred guests. Dr. J. W. Willis was the officiating clergyman. The bride wore a gown of cream crepe de chine, with real lace trimmings. Her going-away gown was a dark blue tailor-suit. They left on the 5:30 train for Selma, where they will go at once to housekeeping. The presents comprized many valuable gifts of silver and cut glass.

Miss Grace Walker's Loss.

Miss Grace Walker, of this city, was unfortunate in having a residence destroyed by fire at Jacksonville last Thursday. The building was occupied by a Mr. Lively who lost all his household goods. The fire originated, it is said, from a defective flue.

Miss Walker informs The Sentinel there was no insurance, caused by the neglect of an agent to whom her father had written some time ago. The numerous friends of Miss Walker in this city sympathize with her in her loss.

ANOTHER LIFE SAVED.

Mrs. G. W. Fooks, of Salisbury, Md., wife of G. W. Fooks, Sheriff of Wicomico County, says: "I suffered with kidney complaint for eight years. It came on me gradually. I felt tired and weak, was short of breath and was troubled with bloating after eating, and my limbs were badly swollen. One doctor told me it would finally turn to Bright's disease. I was laid up at one time for three weeks. I had not taken Doan's Kidney Pills more than three days when the distressing aching across my back disappeared, and I was soon entirely cured."

Without thought, grave, deliberate, self-conscious thought, life will run shallow in every channel. Every active duty needs to build foundations downward through habits of quiet thought.

TILL NOON.

The Simple Dish That Keeps One Vigorous and Well Fed.

When the doctor takes his own medicine and the grocer eats the food he recommends some confidence comes to the observer.

A grocer, of Ossian, Ind., had a practical experience with food worth anyone's attention.

He says: "Six years ago I became so weak from stomach and bowel trouble that I was finally compelled to give up all work in my store, and, in fact, all sorts of work for about four years. The last year I was confined to the bed nearly all of the time, and much of the time unable to retain food of any sort on my stomach. My bowels were badly constipated continually, and I lost in weight from 165 pounds down to 88 pounds.

"When at the bottom of the ladder I changed treatment entirely and started in on Grape-Nuts and cream for nourishment. I used absolutely nothing but this for about three months. I slowly improved until I got out of bed and began to move about.

"I have been improving regularly and now in the past two years have been working about fifteen hours a day in the store and never felt better in my life.

"During these two years I have never missed a breakfast of Grape-Nuts and cream, and often have it two meals a day, but the entire breakfast is always made of Grape-Nuts and cream alone.

"Since commencing the use of Grape-Nuts I have never used anything to stimulate the action of the bowels, a thing I had to do for years, but this food keeps me regular and in fine shape, and I am growing stronger and heavier every day.

"My customers, naturally, have been interested and I am compelled to answer a great many questions about Grape-Nuts.

"Some people would think that a simple dish of Grape-Nuts and cream would not carry one through to the noonday meal, but it will and in the most vigorous fashion."

GEN. KUROKI KILLED

The Secret of His Death Has Been Kept Since October 4 ---Over a Month.

NODZU SUCCEEDS TO COMMAND.

Splinter From Russian Shell at Liao Yang Struck Kuroki—News From the Front.

Nemirovich Danchenko, a Russian war correspondent, telegraphing from Mukden Sunday, says the reports of the death of General Kuroki are confirmed. According to his version, a splinter of a shell struck General Kuroki, tearing out a portion of his breast and abdomen. He died on October 4 at Liao Yang, and his body was sent to Japan.

A rumor is persistently circulated that a kinsman of the mikado, Siaosandi, literally "little third prince," has been appointed to succeed General Kuroki, but the actual command of the army is entrusted to General Nodzu, who is reviewing operations.

"For the last week," says Danchenko, "we have not advanced at any point on the whole southwestern front, even a few versts further than we stood on October 5. On the contrary, at several places we have been obliged to retire several versts, but the present lines of defense must be consideded permanent, in view of the strong fortifications constructed. The Japanese positions at several points are only 800 paces distant from ours, and must be considered to be definitely occupied by the enemy.

The latter's fortifications are acknowledged by all competent persons to be skillfully constructed. Their trenches in many places are so cleverly concealed, as not to be noticeable a short distance away, the earth removed being carefully thrown in front of the trenches. The general position causes a great tension on both sides.

"At army headquarters no news has been received from Port Arthur, but the absence of reports during the last few days makes it evident that the movement of one or the other Russian armies will be dependent upon the course of events there.

"On November 11 scouts on our right flank attempted to pierce the line of the Japanese fortifications, but were met with a stubborn resistance, and finding the enemy strongly reinforced, retired."

Rear Admiral Greve, the newly appointed commander of the port of Vladivostok, has arrived.

It is denied that the French press in Italy is again trying to interest the powers of intervention with a view of ending the Russo-Japanese war, and it is remarked again that any such action would be impossible until the belligerents were disposed to accept the good offices of one or more powers.

It is understood that arrangements have been completed for the floating of a loan of $250,000 in Berlin, of which German banks have underwritten three-quarters and Holland banks the remainder.

General Baron Kaulbars, recently appointed to command the third Russian army, has gone to Odessa, from which place he will proceed to the Far East November 25.

Wireless Messages.

As the result of a scientific experiment at a balloon ascension from the aeronautic concourse on the world's fair grounds the practicability and accuracy with which wireless messages could be received both as to altitude and distance were satisfactorily tested. More than twenty messages were transmitted from the world's fair wireless tower and received by the operator in the aerial craft.

Grippenberg to Command.

In sending General Grippenberg to command the new Russian army in the far east the czar has practically taken the chief command awdy from General Kuropatkin. While both generals have equal rank, General Grippenberg is several numbers the senior of Kuropatkin on the list of generals. As a result, when the two combine forces Grippenberg will actually command by seniority.

ANNUAL ARMY REPORT.

There Are About 70,000 United States Soldiers Enlisted.

The annual report of Gen. F. C. Ainsworth, the military secretary of the army, the first issued from his office since its creation by congress at its last session, gives the total strength of the army at the close of the last fiscal year 3,871 officers and 58,946 enlisted men. The loss of officers from death, dismissal, retirement and other causes was 155. The number of enlisted men lost by death was 456.

A reduction in the number of malarial fever cases at West Point is attributed to an attack made on the mosquitoes.

The average cost of subsisting cadets was stated to be 64.3 cents, against 53.9 cents the previous year.

"This increase in cost," the report recites, "was partly due to the unusually high prices of all food supplies and partly to the maintenance of an extra table during the active athletic season and to the visits of instructions made by the classes during the year."

Of the 27,380 recruits enlisted during the past fiscal year 3,662 were foreign born. Complaints as to the number of unsatisfactory recruits are said to have been unusually numerous

Speaking of the militia it is said very satisfactory progress has been made toward bringing the organized militia, respecting armament, equipment and discipline, up to the standard of the regular army. A total of 6,966 officers and 83,102 enlisted men of the militia organizations were present at the inspections.

In referring to the act of congress providing for a roster of officers and enlisted men of the Union and Confederate armies, the report says the responses of the governors addressed inviting their co-operation have been such as to assure the department that they fully appreciate the importance of the work and will co-operate heartily with the department in its efforts to give to the Confederate soldier the place that is due him in the proposed compilation.

On Half Time.

The Gadsden saw mill of the Queen City Lumber company, which has been idle for several months on account of the low stage of Coosa river, logmen being unable to raft logs, has started up on half time and will run this way until the river rises sufficiently to float down more logs. The stave mill in connection with the saw mill is running full time. The planing mill of the Kyle Lumber company at Alabama City, has also started up again after an enforced idleness of some two months, caused by the low water.

New Jersey Launched.

The battleship New Jersey, built for the United States government by the Fore River Ship Building company, was successfully launched Thursday in the presence of a large number of guests, including Governor Franklin Murphy, of New Jersey; Governor John L. Bates, of Massachusetts, and former Secretary of the Navy John D. Long. The battleship was christened by Mrs. William B. Kinney, daughter of Governor Murphy.

Medals Stolen.

A thief entered the Birmingham Athletic club and stole forty-two gold medals and two razors. Nearly all the medals were the property of Ed Warren and Sid B. Jones, and were trophies of victories on the track and field and gymnasium. Some of them were set with jewels. Their intrinsic value is about $500.

Going to World's Fair.

President Roosevelt has promised to attend the Louisiana Purchase Exposition on Saturday, the 26th of November.

Wyoming Injured.

Secretary Morton received a telegram from the commander of the monitor Wyoming saying that when she grounded in a heavy fog leaving Puget Sound, her starboard strake and several frames were injured and compartments were flooded. It will be impossible to determine the extent of the damage until she has been docked.

Judge Advocate General.

Major General George P. Harrison, commander of the Alabama division, United Confederate Veterans, has appointed Captain Daniel Coleman, of Huntsville, as judge advocate general with the rank of lieutenant colonel. Captain Coleman is commander of Egbert Jones camp of Huntsville.

The Same Members.

For the first time in a number of years Mississippi makes no change in the personnel of its delegation in the lower house of congress, all the members of the present delegation being returned.

Soil Survey.

The party of the United States geological survey who have been encamped at Tuscaloosa just back of the University of Alabama buildings for the past week, who have completed the soil survey of the Brookwood quadrangle, have moved to Cottendale, where they are now encamped on another quadrangle. While located near the University of Alabama they compared notes with Dr. Eugene A. Smith, state geologist.

Japanese Loan.

Half of the new $60,000,000 Japanese loan to be offered in this market will be payable, interest and principal here at the fixed rate of exchange $4.87 per pound sterling. Assurance has been given the syndicate managers that the Japanese government will permit the proceeds of the loan to remain on deposit in New York banks "subject to the requirements of the Japanese government."

RAT TWO FEET LONG.

It Gives a Philadelphia Policeman a Hard Fight.

While patroling his beat on Germantown avenue, near Bristol road, in the northwestern part of the city, Policeman Nice, of the Twenty-third District, saw a large object creeping stealthily from under a doorstep. In the dim light he was unable to make out the form and would have passed it by but for the many rumors that recently have been circulating in the neighborhood regarding a strange animal, so he determined to investigate.

Of late weird tales of scares have been told the police. The animal which caused all the disturbance had been variously described as a wolf, fox, escaped zoological monstrosity and by the less timid as merely a vicious dog.

Seizing his club, Nice boldly approached the animal, which suddenly made a lunge at him, just missing him. Then commenced such a battle royal as Nice declares he does not wish to go through again. Despite the vicious defense the animal put up, the policeman's club was finally effective and the creature lay dead at Nice's feet.

Examination showed that the body was that of a huge rat, measuring nearly two feet in length, the tail alone being over a foot long, and the teeth were large and sharp. To verify his statement of the battle, Nice picked up the carcass and took it to the Park and Lehigh avenues station house, where it is now on exhibition.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. Astor Got Rich Buying Property.

Your attention is called to an advertisement of a new subdivision of town lots, "known as Ivanhoe," near the city of Birmingham. Ivanhoe is within a few minutes street car ride of the court house. Birmingham is growing so rapidly that its confines are being pushed out on all sides, more especially in a westerly direction where all the great industries are located. Ivanhoe lots are being sold at a price and on terms which mean a substantial and profit within the near future.

Farmers and merchants throughout the state, as well as near by citizens, have investigated the merits of these lots and have been among the first purchasers. The property is high, dry and healthy and is destined to be one of the most flourishing suburbs of the MAGIC CITY.

Why So Formal?

A member of the Metropolitan Club of Washington tells this story on General Miles:

The General was engaged in conversation with a number of friends in the billiard room of the Metropolitan when a man having a vary slight acquaintance with General Miles approached. The man evidently had been drinking, for as he stepped beside the General he slapped him on the back and in a loud tone exclaimed:

"Well, Miles, old man, how are you?"

For an instant a frown shadowed the face of the officer; but it soon gave way to a quizzical look, so he replied to the offender:

"Don't be so formal, old chap! Why don't you call me Nelse?"—New York Press.

Miss Gannon, Sec'y Detroit Amateur Art Association, tells young women what to do to avoid pain and suffering caused by female troubles.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I can conscientiously recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to those of my sisters suffering with female weakness and the troubles which so often befall women. I suffered for months with general weakness, and felt so weary that I had hard work to keep up. I had shooting pains, and was utterly miserable. In my distress I was advised to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it was a red letter day to me when I took the first dose, for at that time my restoration began. In six weeks I was a changed woman, perfectly well in every respect. I felt so elated and happy that I want all women who suffer to get well as I did."—MISS GUILA GANNON, 359 Jones St., Detroit, Mich., Secretary Amateur Art Association.

It is clearly shown in this young lady's letter that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will certainly cure the sufferings of women; and when one considers that Miss Gannon's letter is only one of the countless hundreds which we are continually publishing in the newspapers of this country, the great virtue of Mrs. Pinkham's medicine must be admitted by all; and for the absolute cure of all kinds of female ills no substitute can possibly take its place. Women should bear this important fact in mind when they go into a drug store, and be sure not to accept anything that is claimed to be "just as good" as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for no other medicine for female ills has made so many actual cures.

How Another Sufferer Was Cured.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot praise your wonderful remedies enough, for they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. For the last eight years and more I suffered with female troubles, was very weak, could not do my housework, also had nervous prostration. Some days I would remain unconscious for a whole day and night. My neighbors thought I could never recover, but, thanks to your medicine, I now feel like a different woman.

"I feel very grateful to you and will recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all. It has now been four years since I had the last spell of nervous prostration. I only weighed ninety-eight pounds at that time; now I weigh one hundred and twenty-three.

"I consider your Vegetable Compound the finest remedy made. Thanking you many times for the benefit I received from your medicine, I remain, Yours truly, MRS. J. H. FARMER, 2809 Elliott Ave., St. Louis, Mo."

Remember Mrs. Pinkham's advice is free and all sick women are foolish if they do not ask for it. She speaks from the widest experience, and has helped multitudes of women.

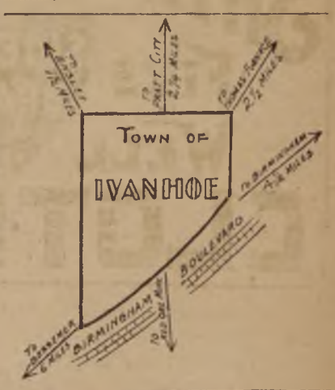
Birmingham the Coming Pittsburg

A FEW years ago lots in Pittsburg which sold for a few hundred dollars are now selling at fabulous prices. Birmingham is now following in her footsteps, she makes the Iron, she makes the Steel, she makes the finished product from a Corless Engine to a wire nail.

The growth of every city, town and hamlet in every state south of Mason & Dixon's Line means a corresponding growth to Birmingham.



This means that every suburb of Birmingham is reaping and will continue to reap the benefit of this great expansion.

Now is the time to get in on the ground floor on IVANHOE LOTS. Only a few minutes ride on electric car from the center of Birmingham—high, dry and beautiful. Prices range from $85 to $160. Terms: $5.00 cash and $5.00 per month. No interest. Titles perfect.

☞ Send $5.00 and let us select you a good lot. You cannot lose on a proposition like this.

FIRE AT WORLD'S FAIR

Destroys Missouri Building—Two Persons Overcome—Valuables Lost.

The Missouri state building was destroyed by fire, resulting from an explosion of the hot water heater in the basement.

The flames shot up through the rotunda, and the north wing of the cupelo were a mass of flames within ten minutes after the explosion. The principal loss is in the contents of the building. It contained thousands of dollars' worth of furnisings, the most valuable of which were portraits of all former Missouri governors.

The fire was spectacular. Sparks were carried over the United States government building, and as far as the liberal arts palace. Bucket brigades were hurried to the roofs of these buildings to prevent ignition.

Mr. T. Davis, president of the Missouri world's fair commission, was in the building when the explosion occurred.

"The fire seemed to rise in an instant," he said. "I seized a few things and ran through the building sounding the alarm. The buildings with all its furnishings cost in the neighborhood of $224,000. There was not one dollar of insurance. If we had endeavored to sell the building we could not probably have raised more than $50,000."

Mrs. Bell Small, one of the hostesses, rushed into her apartments in the building to seclure some valuables. A fireman found her lying on the floor overcome with smoke.

J. P. Nixon, of Lebanon, Mo., an attache of the building was overcome by smoke while securing some property.

After the flames were under control and had been sufficiently extinguished to admit the firemen entering the building, the south wall fell and buried Lloyd Randolph, driver of a fire engine, and Frank O'Connor, another fireman. Several escaped by a small margin.

Battle With Mosquitos.

The French steamship Provincia from Sabine Pass, Texas, for Hamburg, has her captain disabled, her first mate so ill he was sent to a hospital and several of her crew suffering severely on account of an encounter with a huge swarm of mosquitos which settled upon the Provincia's deck while the ship was in the gulf.

Captain Courtade's right arm is useless, and Mate Vincontelle, in addition to hundreds of of mosquito bites, is suffering from a bronchial disorder.

The crew of the ship fought the insects for hours with smoke and improvised fans. Almost every man on board has a swollen face and lacerated arms.

Forest Fires Raging.

Forest fires which originated in the vicinity of South Park, ten miles south of Louisville, have spread to an alarming extent, and the entire population of the neighborhood, including women and children, has been pressed into service to fight the flames.

The United States mails carry in a year 8,500,000,000 pieces of matter, at a cost of $150,000,000 and if the rural delivery service, which now serves one-seventh of our people at an expense of $22,000,000, were eliminated, the postoffice would be self-supporting.

The practice of naming horses after eminent persons is common in England and France, but in Russia it is considered disrespectful.

KNEW HE WAS A BIGAMIST.

Wife Makes Statement Saying That Her Husband Had Two Wives For Sixteen Years.

Mrs. Matilda Conklin, the first wife of Dr. Conklin, who died suddenly in Farmington, Ill., last election day, made a statement in which she declares for the past sixteeen years the doctor has lived in an open state of bigamy.

She says that during this time both his families in Farmington and Peoria were aware of his relations with others. Mrs. Conklin says that she was married to Dr. Conklin forty years ago and that sixteen years ago her husband married a woman named Herron in Farmington. Since that time Dr. Conklin has contributed to the support of his family in Peoria and at numerous times seen his children by his first wife. Mrs. Conklin declares that she is his only legal wife and she will fight for the estate.

FIGHTING AT MUKDEN.

Baltic Fleet to Go to Vladivostok Instead of Port Arthur.

It is reported that a battle between the two armies before Mukden is in full swing. The Russians, according to General Kuropatkin's report, are pressing the Japanese left, while a very significant movement of the Japanese is reported at Sintsintin, forty-five miles east of Mukden.

A special correspondent says the battle has begun, and that the thunder of the guns is unceasing.

In the absence of all reliable news the expectations regarding Port Arthur being captured have so far subsided that the possibility of the garrison making a last stand against time at the Golden Hill and Tiger's Tail is dismissed.

Russian officers say the Russian second Pacific squadron will not be handicapped should Port Arthur fall. The squadron will go to Vladivostok even in the event of Port Arthur's holding out, because there is better accommodation at Vladivostok. Small hopes are entertained for the relief of Port Arthur.

FIRE AT EUFAULA.

Destroys Harding Block—Loss Estimated at $110,000.

The entire Harding block, one of the chief sections of Eufaula, was totally destroyed by fire Saturday night. The flames originated in the Pecree Furniture company. With almost incredible rapidity they spread and in the course of a few moments the entire block was a seething mass of flames. The losses are estimated at about $110,000, half covered by insurance.

The destroyed buildings are: The Darling undertaking establishment, Crawford's bowling alleys, Fay's grocery, Fay livery stables, the armory of the Eufaula guards and the Pecree Furniture company.

MISSING PURSE

Causes Filingo f Two Suits in Limestone County.

At Athens J. A. Roads has brought charges against Morris Hull, his friend, for the alleged theft of his pocketbook containing some $200. Several days ago, while driving Hull, Roads lost his pocketbook and money. Roads says that he knew that Hull took the pocketbook from his trousers pocket, but believed he was playing a practical joke. When the book was demanded, however, Hull denied any knowledge of it. In counteraction of the charges of Roads, Hull has filed suit for damages against his accuser.

Run Over and Killed.

Jimmie Frank Gorum, son of James Gorum, living near Opelika, was accidentally run over by a wagon and killed. The boy ran out of the school yard as his father was driving past, Lon Jemison, a cousin, driving immediately behind.

The lad attempted to catch on to his father's wagon, but was waved off by Mr. Gorum. He paused in the road and the mules trampled him down, and the wagon following passed over his body, crushing out his life.

Parker's Appointments.

Former Judge Alton B. Parker was Thursday appointed a member of two commissions to acquire dock and wharfage rights for New York—on the East river. The appointment was made by Justice O'Gorman in the supreme court.

Statue of Frederick the Great.

Hailed by a military blare of twenty trumpets, the bronze statue of Frederick the Great, presented to the American people by Emperor William was unveiled Saturday afternoon by the Baroness Speck Von Sternburg, the wife of the German ambassador. The ceremony was marked by great miles of display. The statue was presented on behalf of the emperor by his personal envoy, the German ambassador, who made a brief address.

As personal gifts from the Mikado, Prince Fushimi sent to Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Hay, wife of the secretary of state, teak-wood chests, mounted in solid silver, each containing priceless silks, embroideries, fans, carvings, etc.

UNCONSTITUTIONAL

That is What Circuit Judge Decided Concerning the Dispensary Law.

APPEAL TO SUPREME COURT.

Uniontown Case May Create a Precedent That Will Affect Entire State.

Judge Daniel Partridge of the circuit court has been hearing arguments in the quo warranto proceedings brought by E. H. R. Glass, Jr., of Uniontown, against the municipality of Uniontown requiring the latter to show by what right of law it conducted a dispensary.

The city, of course, set up that it was operating by right of law passed by the last legislature, and Mr. Glass, through his attorneys, attacked the constitutionality of the local law, setting up that sufficient notice had not been given as required by the constitution. The consolidated court bill of Jefferson was cited as a precedent, the insufficiency of notice being that the substance of the bill passed was not set out.

Contrary to this the municipality set up that the supreme court had defined the meaning of the word dispensary, and when it was cited that the bill would provide for a dispensary the substance of the measure was immediately conveyed to every mind.

Judge Partridge held that the local law was unconstitutional, and therefore the city of Uniontown had no lawful right to conduct a dispensary. An appeal will be taken to the supreme court, now in session, and pending the decision of that tribunal bond will be given and the dispensary continued in operation.

The legal fight between Uniontown and Mr. Glass has grown out of the latter disposing of liquor in the city and having been arrested and fined in the mayor's court.

He appealed to the circuit court on the latter charge, and was dismissed by Judge Partridge owing to there being no law on the city statutes against his conducting the saloon. There are pending indictments against him in the circuit court which will be nullified should the supreme court affirm the decision of Judge Partridge, declaring the local dispensary law unconstitutional.

SOLDIERS' CLOTHING.

Widows or Corporations to Be Given the Work?

Gen. G. W. Davis, judge advocate general of the army, submitted an opinion to Acting Secretary Oliver in regard to the legal points involved in the controversy over the award of the contract for making soldier's clothing at the Schyulkill arsenal, near Philadelphia, and the opinion was immediately forwarded to President Roosevelt for his information and guidance. The main question involved is whether the quartermaster general of the army is authorized to give this work to certain seamstresses in Philadelphia, widows and orphans of soldiers and sailors at the rate of 75 cents for each pair of trousers when the same work can be done by contract for 37 1-2 cents per pair, in view of the general statutes that such work shall be open to general competition and given to the lowest responsible bidder.

The opinion of General Davis has not yet been made public, but it is understood he holds that the materials should be purchased as other materials by advertisements and bids, but the manufacture of the article may be as the secretary of war in his discretion decides.

Fatal Row.

Tom Pace, a well known citizen of Sheffield, a man with a wife and six children, and an employe of one the furnaces, was shot and killed. Cal Byrd, a stranger, who resides in the Iuka, Miss., neighborhood, said to have done the shooting, made his escape. The tragedy occurred at a saloon and there were no eye-witnesses to it. The two men were in the rear part of the saloon and the barkeeper heard two shots fired, saw Pace fall. Byrd rushed to the door in which the bartender was standing, and commanded him to let him out or he would kill him.

Negro College.

It has been formerly announced that on Tuesday afternoon, November 29th, work will begin on the $200,000 negro college to be erected at Mason City by the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education society. The society now has the funds in hand and it is expected that the work will be rapidly pushed to completion.

Bank of Cuba.

The Bank of Cuba has filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state. The capital stock is $25,000, with $15,000 paid in. The place of business is Cuba, Sumter county.

Fatal Trolley Wreck.

At Chattanooga, Tenn., in a head-on collision on the Rapid Transit electric car line one man was killed and five persons were seriously injured

The officials of the company say that the collision was due to the dense fog prevailing at the time the accident occurred.

Child Burned.

The thee-year-old daughter of J. S. Norred, of Pineapple, came very near burning to death.

She was under the house and called to an older sister to come an extinguish the flames. Upon reaching her the older sister found the little one's clothing all ablaze. The family can not account for the fire unless the child had a match playing with it. The doctors think she will recover.

Another Judge Wanted.

Members of the Bar Association of Birmingham have adopted resolutions which call upon congress to pass a bill providing for an additional United States district judge in Alabama.

New Settlers.

More homeseekers from Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and other middle states are visiting county this season than before. The county has been well advertised and an excellent class of people have been moving in here.

Big Building.

President Murray, of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, announces that his company will build a two million dollar office building in Baltimore.

GAS EXPLOSION

In Chicago Destroys Life and Property. Windows and Walls Wrecked Nearby

EIGHT ARE DEAD

And Several Injured By Gas Explosion in Chicago.

Many lives are believed to have been lost and a number of men were probably fatally injured in the explosion of five small purifying tanks. There were from twelve to twenty explosions.

It is reported that a brick building containing five tanks and twenty workmen completely collapsed burying the men and crushing them to death.

The explosions were so forceful that for a radius of half a mile windows were broken and walls of buildings thrown out of plumb. For fear that the explosions might continue and cause the explosion of the two big tanks which hold millions of feet of gas, no one would venture near the ruins of the plants.

Persons living in the vicinity deserted their homes and storekeepers left their stores, all fleeing with what valuables they could seize.

To prevent the explosion of the gas in the mammoth tanks, Superintendent Ralph Wells ordered the waste pipes opened. These pipes run outside of the plant and in a short time the big tanks were discharging the gas into the air. This was a dangerous undertaking, but it was chanced and proving successful, prevented a larger destruction of property.

JUBILEE EXPOSITION.

Movement Started to Hold One in Chattanooga in 1905.

At Chattanooga announcement is made of a formal movement to hold there in 1915 a world's fair to be known as the semi-centennial peace jubilee exposition, commemorating the end of the war between the states It is stated that assurances of aid from the government and various organizations has been secured. The announcement explaining the nature of the exposition has this to say:

"Chattanooga is the geographical center of the scenes of the civil war; it was the most stragetical point, and is immediately surrounded by some of the greatest battlefields of that war. With the great national interest that centers here, the United States government would no doubt contribute generously to such an exposition. It has had for years in contemplation the erection of a peace memorial arch at Chicago, which is to surpass anything of the kind in the world. This could be finished and dedicated in 1915."

Making Iron.

After being banked temporarily for several weeks on account of scarcity of labor and coke, furnace No. 4 of the Tennessee company at Robertstown was relighted Thursday. This makes two of the furnaces of the Bessemer division that are in operation and preparations are under way to relight Nos. 1 and 2 in the next few days.

Says They Are Forgeries.

Notes aggregating $12,000, on which appears the name, as maker and indorser, of Mrs. Fannie McCue, for whose murder former Mayor Samuel J. McCue, of Charlottesville, Va., is now under sentence of death, are due, and have been presented to the administrator of the estate, who informed the holder that the signatures were not made by Mrs McCue

Cases Dismissed.

Cases of forty-three men who had been charged with complicity in the Independence depot explosion and the Victor riot of June 6 last, have been dismissed.

Since the election about fifty men who had been deported have returned to the district and have not been molested.

Call For Government Deposits.

Secretary Shaw has announced a call upon national banks holding government deposits to the amount of 25 per cent of their holdings, 10 per cent to be paid on or before January 15th next, and 15 per cent on or before March 15th next. This the secretary estimates will bring into the treasury about $25,000,000.

Negro Library.

Andrew Carnegie has recognized the color line in an offer to Atlanta of $10,000 for a negro library on condition that the city give a site and $1,060 a year for its support. The city council is now considering the matter.

Church Burned.

At Indianapolis, Ind., the Meridian Street Methodist church was destroyed by fire Friday. Loss $75,000. Vice-President-elect Fairbanks and Senator Beveridge were trustees of the church.

For School Tax.

Marshall county voted for the additional tax for the public schools Superintendent Hill is working hard to have all the counties adopt it.

RUSSIAN NAVY.

To Be Completely Rehabilitated.—Ship Building Interests Will Profit.

America is likely to profit both directly and indirectly from the execution of the large naval program which Russia is now elaborating.

The vital importance of the sea power has been Russia's bitterest lesson of the war, and the government is determined that the maintenance of the empire's position in the future as a first-class power will be impossible without an adequate navy.

If the losses the Pacific fleet has already sustained should be followed by disaster to Admiral Rojestvensky's squadron it will be necessary not only to rebuild the whole navy, but to increase its strength. Vickers Sons & Maxim and Armstrong, Whitworth & Son, limited, of England, have already made advances, but owing to the anti-English sentiment British firms are not meeting with a cordial reception. The disposition is to turn toward France. Germany and the United States, and a great plant at Libau or on the banks of the Neva, directed by American brains, and possibly an association of French and German enterprises, is one of the possibilities of the near future.

SYNOD ADJOURNS.

Will Build College at Once—Next Session at Montgomery.

The Alabama Synod of the Presbyterian church adjourned Friday after selecting Montgomery as the next place of meeting. The directors of the Synodical college which will be located at Anniston, were instructed to begin the erection of a $30,000 building at once. The board of directors of the college is as follows:

Dr. J. W. Stagg, Birmingham, chairman; Dr. D. N. McLaughlin, Anniston; Judge T. W. Coleman, Eutaw; Col. Caldwell Bradshaw, Birmingham; Hon. Frank P. Glass, Montgomery; T. C. Carmichael, Dothan; Hon. John B. Knox, Anniston; Capt. J. M. Elliott, Gadsden; Capt. W. P. Weatherly, Anniston; Rev. Neal Anderson, Montgomery; Rev. W. E. McIlwain, president ex-officio member.

Selma was released from subscription to the fund to amount of $5,000.

Fee System Scored.

Dr. Shirley Bragg, physician member of the state convict board, in his report to President Carmichael, says:

"The fee system, so far as the convict is concerned, is a blot upon the fair name of the state. Men, women and children alike are made to feel its withering blight. It does not spare the old man tottering on the verge of the grave nor does it respect the child scarcely old enough to leave its mother's care. Perhaps some day this will be changed and the county convict placed on the same plane with the state convict."

The county convict system is condemned. Many old decrepid men are sent to the convict camp he says that should be in poor houses, but neighborhoods must be rid of beggars and officials have their fees if it takes the last drop of blood from suffering humanity.

The conditions of the state convicts are reported good with the death rate low.

Duncan Petition Denied.

The supreme court denied the petition of ex parte Frank Duncan for writ of error, because there was filed with the papers no transcript of the record of the Jefferson county court. Duncan, who is under sentence of death, November 25 being the day set for his execution for the killing of a Birmingham policeman, made the plea before the criminal court of Jefferson county that certain errors had been made and he seeks a new trial as a result of these shortcomings alleged to exist, and also by reason of failure to have his case properly looked into when he escaped.

Cockrell to Succeed.

A reliable report says that the president will appoint Senator Cockrell, of Missouri, to the civil service commission to succeed the present democratic member, General John C. Black, who will be made pension commissioner.

Senator Cockrell was the only democrat who voted to confirm the nomination of General Leonard Wood.

Tear Down Chinatown.

With a capital stock of $25,000,000 a San Francisco company has been incorporated for the purpose of building a model oriental city on the bay shore at South San Francisco and moving the Chinese quarters to that place, and further to transform the present district known as Chinatown into a residence neighborhood.

Creosote Works Burned.

Wednesday night the Hattiesburg, Miss. Creosote works was completely wiped out by fire in spite of all efforts to save it. The loss was $20,000; $5,000 insurance. The fire was discovered too late for the department to be of much use.

Judge Randolph Free.

Ex-Probate Judge F. C. Randolph, of Montgomery, was acquitted in one case and the solicitor nol prossed the other five.

This makes Judge Randolph a free man. He was indicted on the charge of embezzling about $30,000 from the state and county, but he had made a settlement in full with both.

There were thirteen indictments against him, but the others were nol prossed several days ago.

A RAILROAD REVOLUTION.

It May Be Brought About Through the Automobile.

The bicycle paved the way for the automobile and the automobile threatens to effect a revolution in the transportation methods on land and sea. The motor boat is the fad of the moment, and these tiny craft will be seen by the thousands darting over the smoother waters of the inland lakes and rivers and the more protected bodies along the coast. Now it is announced that a well known engine and motor manufacturing firm of Europe has for several years been experimenting with a vehicle designed for railroad purposes. It is announced that they have succeeded to the point of putting out several vehicles for actual use on the tracks, and in the course of a few weeks it is expected to demonstrate that these vehicles may be made use of by railroad companies, with a great economy over that of engines. This announcement is made in a recent report of United States Consul Gowdy at Paris. He says the experiments of the firm referred to have taken practical form, and the system is now in use on two tramway lines in Paris and has been used on a short line in Wurttemberg (Germany) for some time past. It will in a few weeks be tried on a more extensive scale on the Paris, Lyons & Mediterranean railway, and if successful, may revolutionize railway travel.

The advantages of such a system are obvious. The fastest express train does not ever average more than 55 miles an hour, and this speed could not be greatly surpassed without increasing the weight of the engine and consequently causing extra wear and tear of the road. An express locomotive of the present day weighs about 110 tons, and a great part of this weight could be saved. It should be mentioned that automobiles have accomplished 80 miles per hour on the high road, and could, of course, far exceed that speed on steel rails.

Another great advantage is that trains would not have to stop in the course of a long run to take in water or fuel. The longest run made by any English train without stoppage is rather less than 200 miles, but an automobile could easily go four or five times that distance.

In a few weeks' time cars of this kind will be running on some of the branch lines of the Paris, Lyons & Mediterranean railway. The cars will not be coupled together, as the French regulations discountenance that, but each will have its own motor and carry from 30 to 40 passengers with about 2 1-2 tons of baggage. The speed will be restricted to 30 miles an hour.

Arrangements are also made to run a line of cars between Antwerp and Brussels at a rate of 75 miles an hour, and even this high speed could be exceeded if desired.

The cost of such a car as has been mentioned above would not exceed $10,000, machinery and all. No stoker is required, as the petroleum is pumped to the burners mechanically. The motion is devoid of jerking, jolting or shaking, and the inventors assert that the train could be stopped in 200 yards, even when traveling at over 70 miles an hour. The only danger to be guarded against is that of fire from overheating.

The announcement has already been made in these columns of the introduction of these motor cars on some of the English railways, being used principally as feeders for the main line, and, as far as known, they have filled the demands admirably. It has enabled the railroad company to establish regular service connecting the smaller towns located away from the line, without the necessity of going to the expense of building a roadbed and maintaining a line for a traffic which may not be a profitable one for many years, if at all.

QUAINT AND CURIOUS.

The oldest graduates of Yale and Harvard are ministers.

All the soldiers in the army of Argentina are forced to play football. It is said to train them to bear the hardships of battle.

There are about 45,000 hotels in this country, representing a capital of $6,000,000,000, and giving employment to 3,500,000 people.

A Japanese bride gives her wedding presents to her parents as a slight recompense for the trouble they have taken in bringing her up.

In Laland the crime which is punished most severely next to murder is the marrying of a girl against the express wish of her parents.

In England the annual consumption of southern fruit amounts to 15 pounds per head. In Germany it averages not quite three pounds per head.

In Armenia children are not allowed to play with dolls. It is feared that if this were permitted the little ones would learn to worship them as idols.

The criminal code of China has been revised and "slicing to death" has been done away with. It is said that all forms of torture will soon be abolished.

A Chelsea (England) hospital is mourning the loss of a bequest of $6000 through a legal informality. The testator signed his will in his bedroom, and the witnesses thoughtlessly carried it into another room before signing it, thus making the document invalid.

NOTICE.

Until further notice, Mr. Sam'l Wallace is authorized to solicit business for The Sentinel, receipt for supscriptions paid, and transact such other business for this paper as may come his way Any courtesies shown Mr. Wallace will be appreciated by the management of The Sentinel.

Christmas is but a little more than four weeks away.

This is the day you should be thankful whether you want to be or not.

Turkey (in America) capitulates today. Are you invited to the surrender?

An awkward man in society is generally a thoroughbred when it comes to business.

You know the red cartoons in the big Sunday papers? Well, they say some people like them.

The Athens Democrat says that Shelby is the only county in the State that is still floundering in darkness.

What impresses a visitor in the country most is the little time the host and hostess have for listening to the lark.

After you have been with some people five minutes, you are as full of secrets as an old cusion is full of pins.

The new version is that the prodigal son is not worth the price of a calf. He's getting worthless, sure enough.

Eufaula had a hundred thousand dollar fire last Sunday which destroyed several of the largest dry goods stores, together with their stocks.

Roosevelt's advisers are looking for something to break loose, he has been so quiet the past few days. None of them can get next to the big stick man.

The Centerville Press expresses the hope that Roosevelt will give this country a "straight hair" administration. Do not bank too heavily on it, brother.

If you have holiday goods, or any other kind of merchandise to sell, The Sentinel is the best medium through which to solicit the patronage of the public.

Talk for your town and county when away from home. It will be sowing seed in fertile ground, with the harvest to come, possibly, when we are not looking for it.

Next week The Sentinel will go to its readers in 8-page form. Increased business in our advertising department demands that we enlarge the paper for a time, at least.

There are but two parties represented in congress—Republican and Democratic. Nary a populist, socialist, fusionist or any other kind of an ist is on your Uncle Samuel's congressional register.

Again is the president determined to press the negro Crum's appointment, and yet he says he wants to deal fairly with the people of the South. His idea of fairness is off color and narrow contracted.

The Chefooo club is the latest. Every one who willfully lies or exaggerates is eligible to membership. The organizer passed Columbiana as he couldn't find a sufficient number of eligibles to get a charter.

Judge Parker was given a ten thousand-dollar retainer fee the morning after the election. He has been given also two commissions which will pay $5,000 each per year for five years. Parker is all right.

Calera is making a commendable effort to land a good factory there. The effort might well be emulated by our own town. The Sentinel hopes to see Calera land its prize. Even though a factory may be small, it means an increase in population and more money in circulation.

Had you noticed it? De Jedge done had his pictur took; yes, and printed in a paper, too. And in a double header, too.

The organization of a Commercial Club would be the about the proper thing for Columbiana now. Get ready for the new year, and make up our minds to push our town and county for all there is in it. Push!

It is the popular thing just now to blame General Stoessel, who refuses to surrender Port Arthur. Stoessel will be shot if he surrenders, and he will be shot if he don't; what would you do if you stood in his shoes?

No wonder the Birmingham papers are raising sand about the passenger station in that city being inadequate because the city has outgrown it. One day last week the writer was in Birmingham, and when it came time to board our train, the shed was jammed with people from the ticket windows to the gates, and when we got thro' the crowd we looked and felt like we had been in the middle of a rush in a foot ball game. Birmingham is growing; has grown beyond its present passenger station several sizes, and the railroads should come across with a new one that will insure comfort and accommodation to the traveling public. Talk about a jam at the ticket wagon of a circus; it doesn't compare with the rush for the gates at train time in the Birmingham passenger station. Here's hoping that prosperous city will have a new passenger station in the near future deserving of the name.

A communication in this issue from Wilsonville will be of interest to readers of The Sentinel. "Veritas" does not mince his words in the least, but calls things by their right name. When the leader of a party, or a newspaper admits that a cause which it champions is opposed by the preachers and the business interest of a community or county it is an admission that that movement is none too worthy. Take the influence of the preachers from a community and you establish a menace to all that is moral and good; vice and disregard for law and order will become rampant, and every man become a law unto himself. Jeopardize the business interest of a community and it is the stepping stone to oppression, and a making of the weak subservient to the will of the strong, no matter how unjust that will may be. Preachers may not always be right, but their lead, as a rule, is pretty safe to follow in all things.

When you can't think of any one else to cuss out, just give it to the newspaper man; he's used to it, and won't mind.

The newspaper man is always glad when a subscriber pays up. Try it once, and see a smile creep across his countenance.

AS OTHERS SEE.

Editor Sentinel, Columbiana.

Will you allow me space in your paper, in which to make "a few remarks" in relation to a communication which appeared in the Peoples Advocate last week over the name of A. P. Longshore?

If ever there was anything written that is more of a travesty upon truth and honesty, or that more thoroughly reeks with demagoguery and prejudice than this letter of Mr. Longshore's I have never seen it. With the cloud of suspicion and doubt as to him being honestly and fairly elected which hangs over the transaction, Mr. Longshore would have appeared before the people of this county in a much better light if he had kept his mouth closed and sealed, for so flagrant was the violation of the election laws that I was vividly reminded of some of the darkest and most damnable methods practiced during the reconstruction period. And yet Mr. Longshore cries out in that self-righteous style in which he prides himself, but which is in reality a cloak of hypocrisy, that "the people should rule, and not the bosses." I challenge him or any of those who consorted with him, to point anywhere in history to a more shameful triumph of boss rule over the will of the people than the recent burlesque on a fair and honest election recently held in this county. Laws trampled upon with an impunity that is not only wrong but a disgrace to our county. All through the campaign this summer and fall honorable, upright men of our county were slandered and villified by the Longshore following, even going so far as to say that some of Shelby county's best men had met in our town and plotted and planned to murder. Ask one or two of the newly elected(!) officers if they did not tell this slanderous falsehood time and again?

Mr. Longshore says the doctors, the preachers, the merchants and the lawyers were arrayed against the "co-operatives"—an attempt on his part to create a feeling of distrust and prejudice between the classes named by him, and the laborer and the farmer. Mr. Longshore did not include the bankers in the list of those against the "co-operative" ticket because one of that class is a populite, has charge of the sheriff's mess room for the prisoners of the county, and he was for the "co-operative" ticket heart and soul. Mr. Longshore, in his usual way, tries to leave the impression that no farmers or laboring men supported the Democratic ticket. If that be true this county is well supplied with doctors, preachers, merchants and lawyers, for the official count gives the Democratic ticket 1194 votes. Such argument as is advanced by Mr. Longshore is the argument of the demagogue, the argument of the man who has nothing to expect when the truth is told, the man who could not win upon merit, but puts all his hope for success upon an appeal to passion and prejudice, and not to justice and right.

In his "manifesto" Mr. Longshore even tries to array the farmers against the business men of our town in the following sentence: "The merchants of Wilsonville went so far as to close their stores in order to do more effectual work against a ticket composed almost exclusively of farmers." Nobody would make such a statement in the face of the facts but a demagogue. The candidate for Probate Judge is a lawyer, and retired merchant; the tax assessor is not a farmer, but another retired merchant; the county treasurer is no farmer, but he is a merchant. Thus we find three of Mr. Longshore's "farmer" candidates not farmers at all, but merchants, lawyers and retired merchants. All our merchants did just what I believe they would do again—worked to defeat an administration which has doubled their taxes and plunged the county into thousands of dollars indebtedness. The merchants here did what every taxpayer in Shelby county ought to have done—tried to defeat those who have so shamefully betrayed a confidence once imposed in them, and Mr. Longshore's evident intention to array the farmers against our merchants shows the littleness of the man.

"The wealth of this country is being concentrated in the hands of the few. * * All the vast wealth of the mines and all the industries of the land, less the amount that is necessary to feed and clothe the laborer, goes into the hands of the men who never did an honest days work in their lives. This all wrong, those who produce the wealth should have their just share of it, and the platform of the popalist party is the only one that demands such a distribution of the wealth of the country." Here again we hear Mr. Longshore, the demagogue, raising his voice like a modern Moses. Posing as a friend of the common people, and professing great faith in the principles of the populist party, what did he do in the last campaign? Trampled under his feet the principles of a party which is emphatically opposed to the trusts and the money power, lifts up the banner of the Republican party, the breeder of trusts, the enemy of honest labor, the implacable foe of the South and Southern institutions, and all this for the sake of being re elected to office. This is the kind of principles advanced by Mr. Longshore, demagogue. The poor man of this county has labored under burdensome taxation in the past six years, and if he thinks it is going to be any better in the next six, let him turn to the Book of Books and there read: "And there will be troublous times in the latter days," and find any comfort if he can.

VERITAS.

Wilsonville, Nov. 21st.

Turkeys are a mighty scarce arin the Columbiana market just now; yes, and eggs, too.

If you have a bountiful dinner today, share it with some one who is not so fortunate. Yours will taste much better.

There is a certain unfortunate and melancholy gentleman of whom you have all heard. His name is Dennis. With some people Mr. Donnis would be a congenial and cheerfnl companion.

Mrs. R. F. Thiess and children, who have been visiting at the home of Judge D. R. McMillan and H. S. Nelson for several weeks, returned to their home in Stockton yesterday. Mrs. Thiess is a sister of Judge McMillan and Mrs. Nelson.

Our advertising columns show what the merchants think of The Sentinel as an advertising medium. We have six more columns of advertising to run through the month of December, necessitating an eight page paper during that time.

The parents of attorney John J. Haynes celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary at Lineville one day last week. Mr. and Mrs. Haynes, sen., visited here some months ago, and they are well remembered by our people.

Visit the dry goods stores any afternoon, see the shoppers there, and you will laugh at the stories of hard times some people tell. We often wonder what the women do with all the stuff they buy at the dry goods stores? No man knows.

Do you know, girls, that the fuzz on your face is as necessary to the softening of your features as the down is to the perfection of a peach? At least that is what Edward Bok says in the Ladies' Home Journal, but if any one else said it, he would get the hoot-hoot.

The Sentinel believes that if the matter was gone at in the right manner, an up town telegraph office could be secured for Columbiana. That the telephone exchange is a great convenience in the absence of an uptown office, is true, but Agent Davis nor his assistants can always spare the time to take a message over the phone to be sent by telegraph. Why not look into the matter?

SHOES IS MY HOBBY . . .

I have just received a complete line of all kinds of shoes in Gents' and Ladies' Rubber Goods.

I also keep a complete stock of Staple and Fancy Groceries. A lot of Texas Rust Proof Oats just received. Highest price paid for Cotton on account. Nice line of Gents' Furnishing Goods. Thanking you for patronage in the past, and hoping for a continuation of the same I am, as ever your friend,

TOWN AND COUNTY.

"I know not how true the tale may be,
I tell it as 'twas told to me."

County court is in session this week.

W. E Merrell, of Shelby, was in town a few hours Monday.

Geo. D. Campbell made trip to Shelby Springs last Sunday.

W. D. Lacey, from beat 19, is in the city this week, a juror in the county court.

Harry Roberts and Henry Chapman visited with relatives in Montevallo last Sunday.

Several of our subscribers have paid us their subscription during past week. There is room for more.

Supt. Walker, of the Shelby Iron Works, accompanied by Mrs. Walker, was in town a few hours Saturday.

If you are going to have holiday goods, tell your friends and customers about what you have through The Sentinel.

Mrs. John S. Pitts was a visitor to Birmingham last Wednesday to hear Henry Walthall in "Under Southern Skies."

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Pope, of Wilsonville, heard Henry Walthall in "Under Southern Skies" in Birmingham last Thursday.

Henry Latham has returned from Montevallo, and is behind the counters of the Latham Drug Co. again. Henry shows the effects of his long illness.

A heavy rain fell all of Monday night. It came in a good time, as it will have a tendency to fill the wells before the winter sets in good and hard.

J. R. White is a delegate from the Methodist church in this city to the North Alabama Conference which is in session in Talladega this week.

Rev. G. T. Harris, pastor of the Methodist church in this city, and Rev. J. G. Walker are attending the North Alabama Conference in Talladega this week.

R. E. Woolley, one of the staunch Democrats of beat 4 and living near Montevallo, was in town Monday for a few hours and made this office a pleasant call.

The many friends of Mrs. Ellie Christian regret that she is very low with pneumonia at the home of her father, W. R A. Milner. She is reported better today.

John Alexander, rural mail carrier on route No. 1 out of Montevallo, was in town last Thursday, and while here called on The Sentinel and renewed his subscription for another year.

Rufus Lester, who has been attending the World's Fair for the past ten days, returned home Monday. Mr. Lester says he would not have missed the trip for anything.

Uncle Ben Cunningham and a Mr. Butler, of Beat 4, are in the city attending county court. The Sentinel acknowledges a pleasant call from these gentlemen on Monday.

A most delightful evening awaits those who may attennd the entertainment of the Harvard Musical Club which is to appear at the Academy on Friday night, December 2d. Of course, you're going; everybody is.

C. C. DuBose will put his two older daughters in the Girls' School at Montevallo, while the youngest one will make her home with Mrs. L. M. Dyke, at Attalla, instead of with Mrs. E. W. Burt as stated in The Sentinel last week.

In this issue will be found the advertisement of Thos. F. Atkinson, who recently purchased the store of D. C. Glenn. Mr. Atkinson asks a share of your patronage and will give you good goods and a square deal every time.

Dr. C. T. Acker, who been in St. Louis for past week or ten days, a witness in a lawsuit, returned home Sunday. J. W. Bandy, of Montevallo, who was in the World's Fair city on the same business, also returned home.

Rev. Mr. Upshaw, who has been pastor of the Baptist church in this city for some time, tendered his resignation last Sunday. He goes to Fort Deposit where he has a larger field of work. Rev. Mr. Upshaw is an excellent man, a good preacher, and he carries with him the best wishes of all Columbiana people who have come to know him during his pastorate in this city.

The attention of Sentinel readers is called to the large advertisement of the Latham Drug Co. in this issue. This company has purchased a large and elaborate stock of holiday goods, and they invite your inspection of the same. Take the little people in to see what the boys have, and at the same time decide on what you want to have laid aside for Christmas for some friend.

The following from the Birmingham News will be of interest to our Montevallo readers: "Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Miss Mary Frances Bibb, of Montevallo, and Mr. Edgar L. Allen, of this city, on Tuesday, the 22nd of November. Miss Bibb is a member of the faculty of the Montevallo school, and Mr. Allen is a prominent young lawyer of this city. A farewell reception will be tendered Miss Bibb on the afternoon of her wedding day."

Uncle Sam Gist, of Calera, an old patriarch in the newspaper business, was in Columbiana Tuesday looking after some pension warrants for old soldiers' widows who live in and near Calera.

A wreck on the Southern at Nelson's switch last Thursday delayed the passenger trains several hours. Aside from demolishing one car, no damage was done.

Miss Minnie McGibony, of near Nelson, visited friends in the city Tuesday.

E. B. Nelson came down from Walker county last Friday for a few days' visit with his family.

The press throughout the country speaks very highly of the Harvard Musical Club which is to appear at the Academy Friday evening, December 2d.

Miss Driscoll Vincent, of Vincent, who has been a guest of Miss Louise Reynolds for the past few days, returned to her home in Vincent last Sunday.

Mrs. E. J. Harris, of Mumford, was in the city several days last week, visiting at the home of Rev. G. T. Harris. She went down to Montevallo Friday to visit a daughter who is attending school there.

The Sentinel is in receipt of late St Louis papers kindly sent by R. E Bowdon, Superintendent of the Keystone Lime Company, who has been visiting the World's Fair. He returned home Monday of this week.

W. W. Wallace, Jas. N. Robertson, O. O. Bird and R. W. Callaway were visitors to Birmingham last Wednesday to hear Henry Walthall in "Under Southern Skies." Mr. Walthall is a first cousin to Mr. Wallace, is a Shelby county boy, and has many friends here who would have been glad to have seen him in the pretty Southern play.

C. L. O'Neal, of Calera, one of the lime manufacturers of this county and a most excellent man, was in town Tuesday, and while here called and renewed his subscription to The Sentinel. It will be remembered that Mr. O'Neal lost his saw mill by fire some months ago at Varnons but he has rebuilt it and is in better condition than ever before.

The Sentinel is informed that Rev. Joseph Dunglinson will be called by the Presbyterian congregation of this city for their pastor to supply the vacancy caused by the resignation of Rev. W. I. Sinnott. Rev. Mr. Dunglinson has preached in Columbiana several times, and the people here formed a strong liking for him, and they will be glad to learn that he is to be the new pastor of the Presbyterian church.

New County Solicitor.

District Solicitor Bordon H. Burr has appointed J. T. Leeper solicitor for Shelby county, and he received his commission last Monday.

Mr. Leeper is the junior member of the firm of Browne & Leeper, of this city, and is one of the prominent young lawyers of this section of the State. As a practitioner Mr. Leeper has been very successful, and we feel sure that success will attend him as prosecutor for the State in this county. His friends are congratulating him upon his appointment, believing he will serve with credit to himself and to the county.

The Sentinel is informed that Mr. Browne, the senior member of the firm, will not defend in the county court during the time that Mr. Leeper serves as solicitor.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Avery, of Shelby, were in town a few hours last Saturday.

The Harvard Musical Club will be at the Academy, in Columbiana, on Friday evening. December 2d. Bear the date in mind, and be there, for this is one of the finest attractions of the Lyceum course.

The Sentinel enters a protest against the Birmingham papers claiming Henry Walthall as a Birmingham boy. Mr. Walthall was born and reared in this county, within a few miles of Columbiana, and this town is not one of the many suburbs of the Magic City by any means. We do not care to take from Birmingham anything which belongs to it, but we also claim the right to retain our own.

Dr. C. T. Acker, of this city, and J. W. Bandy, of Montevallo, have been in St. Louis for the past ten days, witnesses against the St. Louis Street Railway Company in a suit brought for damages against that corporation. When these gentlemen were in St. Louis some months ago, they witnessed the ejection from a street car of an old man who had paid his fare but whom the conductor said had not. A policeman threw the old man from the train, and otherwise maltreated him. Dr. Acker and Mr. Bandy stood by the side of the old man and saw him pay his fare, and told the conductor as much, but he would not believe them. The difficultiy took place, and the old gentleman, who by the way is a retired merchant of St. Louis, brought suit for damages.

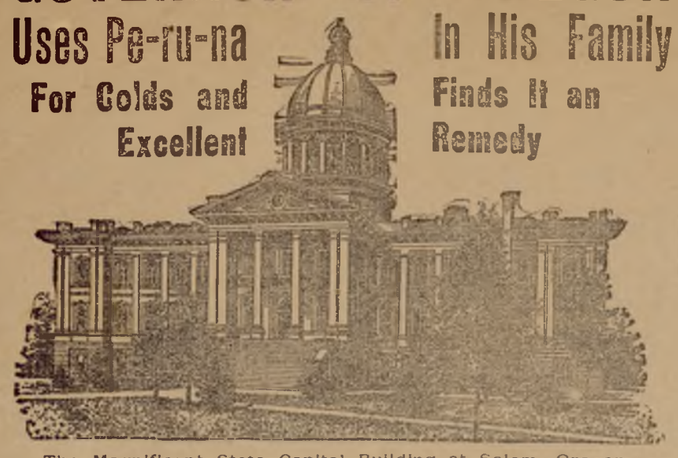
GOVERNOR OF OREGON

Uses Pe-ru-na In His Family

For Colds and Excellent Finds It an Remedy



The Magnificent State Capitol Building at Salem, Oregon.

PRAISE FROM THE EX-GOVERNOR OF OREGON.

PERUNA is known from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Letters of congratulation and commendation testifying to the merits of Peruna as a catarrh remedy are pouring in from every State of the Union.

Dr. Hartman is receiving hundreds of such letters daily. All classes write these letters, from the highest to the lowest.

The outdoor laborer, the indoor artisan, the clerk, the editor, the statesman, the preacher—all agree that Peruna is the catarrh remedy of the age.

The stage and rostrum, recognizing catarrh as their greatest enemy, are especially enthusiastic in their praise and testimony.

Any man who wishes perfect health must be entirely free from catarrh. Catarrh is well-nigh universal; almost omnipresent.

Peruna is the only absolute safeguard known. A cold is the beginning of catarrh. To prevent colds, to cure colds, is to cheat catarrh of its victims.

Peruna not only cures catarrh, but prevents it. Every household should be supplied with this great remedy for coughs, colds and so forth.

The ex-Governor of Oregon is an ardent admirer of Peruna. He keeps it continually in the house.

In a letter to The Peruna Medicine Co. he says:

STATE OF OREGON, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.

Dear Sirs:—I have had occasion to use your Peruna medicine in my family for colds, and it proved to be an excellent remedy. I have not had occasion to use it for other ailments.

Yours very truly,
W. M. Lord.

It will be noticed that the ex-Governor says he has not had occasion to use Peruna for other ailments. The reason for this is, most other ailments begin with a cold.

Using Peruna to promptly cure colds, he protects his family against other ailments.

This is exactly what every other family in the United States should do—keep Peruna in the house. Use it for coughs, colds, la grippe and other climatic affections of winter, and there will be no other ailments in the house.

Such families should provide themselves with a copy of Dr. Hartman's free book, entitled "Chronic Catarrh."

Yesterday evening, as the shadows had begun to lengthen and indicate the close of another day, a woman, driving a prancing steed hitched to a rubber-tired buggy, came to our office. "I am Mrs. J. B. Snodgrass," she said, "and I notice that you said in your paper that I was posing as a clairvoyant." "Don't remember just what was said," we replied. Picking up the paper, the woman of fast horses and pretty hounds pointed out the article that had made her angry. We had to own up to the corn. "I want you to understand that my husband is a drummer running out of Wichita. He supports me, and I do not have to be a clairvoyant to earn a living. The Chanute papers have lied about me repeatedly. I have ridden astride all my life, and I intend to do so in the future. As for my hounds, I will say that I have had as many as fifteen at one time, and, furthermore, I race them, and I also race horses. I am a great woman for out-of-door sports." We told her we thought she drove a nice horse, and she seemed pleased and went away.—Coffeyville (Kan.) Record.

Life Worth Living Now.

The hustling borough of Belleville is not asleep. A new water line is the latest improvement. Belleville is now ready to receive congratulations on this added improvement. Think of the difference between drinking pure, sparkling, soft water and filthy well or stale cistern water; think of the difference between having the water always at hand, ready to come forth at a turn of the spigot, and walking a block or two to wear out your neighbor's pump; think of the difference between having your wife lay awake at night in order that she may rout you out at two minutes past 3 o'clock on Monday morning to carry wash water from your neighbor's pump, and the pleasure of snoozing on until daylight while your thrifty better half lets the water run into those once hated tubs; think of the pleasure it gives you to know that your town is rapidly moving onward and keeping up with the outside world; truly, Belleville deserves congratulation.—Belleville (Pa.) The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

PREHISTORIC SAFETY PINS.

Said to Have Been Invented in the Bronze Age.

Mr. R. C. Bosanquet, director of the British school at Athens, described in a recent address delivered in London this year's excavations at Heleia (Palaikastro) and Praisos, in eastern Crete, the discoveries including terra cotta figures of goddesses, delicately carved ivory, statuettes, with figures of conventional crocodiles, betraying indirect Egyptian influence, also seals of ivory and steatite, a miniature gold bird, daggers, sickles, beaked jugs, bronze implements, beads and vases, and a steatite libation table engraved with Minoan linear script. At Praisos a temple on the summit seems to have been thrown over the cliff, presumably when the Hierapytnians destroyed the town about the third or fourth century before our era, the inscriptions showing that it was probably the temple of Dictaean Zens mentioned by Strabo. A later cemetery, containing larnax burials, yielded bronze implements, beads and vases like those in the palance magazines. Mr. Bosanquet also described numerous architectural inscriptions found during the researches at Praisos, the most important one being in the ancient Eteocretan language, hitherto known only from one or two inscriptions, and being in Greek characters of the third or fourth century before our era.

In the same section Professor Oscar Montelius (Stockholm) spoke of the Geometric Period in Greece, and mentioned that the safety-pin (fibula) was invented in the later Bronze Age, and also that the Geometric style was not derived from the countries north of Greece, all the ornaments characteristic of this style being earlier in Greece than in other parts of Europe. The Geometric Period began in the twelfth century B. C.

Professor Valdemar Schmidt did coursed of the latest discoveries in prehistoric science in Denmark, and said that trumpets of the Bronze Age found in Denmark are even now played annually in public on St. John's Day. It has been discovered lately what kinds of corn, wheat and barley were used in the prehistoric days of Denmark by impressions of grains found on pottery made, probably, on what had previously been a threshing-floor.

Japan the Cherry-Blossom Land.

In America we have our own cherry blossoms only in cultivated orchards, where they are admired more for what they promise than for what they are, but in Japan it is different. Here the cherry trees are purely ornamental, and they bear no fruit. They are planted everywhere and grow wild where they are not planted. The hills, covered with the deep green of the pines, are mottled everywhere with the lighter green of the cherry leaves, and in the springtime Japan is indeed the land of the cherry blossom. All along the Katsuragawa (gawa is Japanese for river) there are beautiful little houses which the people rent and live in just during the cherry season, and they must be happy indeed under the serene blue sky, where the noise of the swift little river murmuring over its rocky bed is the only sound to break the sweet silence. To the foot of Arashiyama, where we stopped, the people came by thousands from Kioto and surrounding villages to drink tea in the little white tea-houses nestling in the leafage, and to worship the beautiful flower that is to them the best expression of their national life.—Eleanor Franklin's Japan Letter in Leslie's Weekly.

The Boy and the Flag.

The board of education of Orange, N. J., is considering the question of allowing boys in the public schools to raise the flag each morning as a reward for good behavior. At present the janitor has the job. As janitors are models of deportment, nothing is gained by allowing them to raise the flag. On the other hand, what could make a boy more inclined to subdue the old man Adam in him than the prospect of being allowed to raise the flag over the school building? The Orange educators think that the plan would foster patriotism. At any rate, it might serve to discourage deviltry in ingenious youth. Still, it is possible to suspect and there are grounds for the suspicion that in case of war, the "baddest" boys would be among the first to volunteer. Let goodness have all due honor, but the fighting bad boy is often very useful to his country.—Everybody's Magazine.

"The Prison of Ten Thousand" is the name given to the fortress monastery of Mar Saba on the Dead sea. Not many years ago there were actually 10,000 monks living in this retreat, and even today there are more than 1,000 left. The monastery is one of the oldest in the world, having been founded some 1,300 years ago by Euthymius, who lived there in a cave. The Empress Eudoxia formed a romantic attachment for this anchorite, and built near by a tower, which still exists, from which she might watch him, for, true to his vows, Euthymius utterly refused ever to see or speak to a woman. Now the tower is inhabited by a watchman, who keeps constant guard against the incursions of prowling Arabs. Many of the inmates go mad from the horror and desolation of their surroundings. No woman is permitted to come within sight of Mar Saba.

"WHACKS"

And What They Mean.

When Old Mother Nature gives you a "whack" remember "there's a reason" so try and say "thank you" then set about finding what you have done to demand the rebuke, and try and get back into line, for that's the happy place after all.

Curious how many highly organized people fail to appreciate and heed the first little, gentle "whacks" of the good old Dame, but go right along with the habit whatever it may be, that causes her disapproval. Whiskey, Tobacco, Coffee, Tea or other unnatural treatment of the body, until serious illness sets in or some chronic disease.

Some people seem to get on very well with those things for awhile, and Mother Nature apparently cares but little what they do.

Perhaps she has no particular plans for them and thinks it little use to waste time in their training.

There are people, however, who seem to be selected by Nature to "do things." The Old Mother expects them to carry out some department of her great work. A portion of these selected ones oft and again seek to stimulate and then deaden the tool (the body) by some one or more of the drugs—Whiskey, Tobacco, Coffee, Tea, Morphine, etc.

You know all of these throw down the same class of alkaloids in Chemical analysis. They stimulate and then depress. They take from man or woman the power to do his or her best work.

After these people have drugged for a time, they get a hint, or mild "whack" to remind them that they have work to do, a mission to perform, and should be about the business, but are loafing along the wayside and become unfitted for the fame and fortune that waits for them if they but stick to the course and keep the body clear of obstructions so it can carry out the behests of the mind.

Sickness is a call to "come up higher." These hints come in various forms. It may be stomach trouble or bowels, heart, eyes, kidneys or general nervous prostration. You may depend upon it when a "whack" comes it's a warning to quit some abuse and do the right and fair thing with the body.

Perhaps it is Coffee drinking that offends. That is one of the greatest causes of human disorder among Americans.

Now then if Mother Nature is gentle with you and only gives light, little "whacks" at first to attract attention, don't abuse her consideration, or she will soon hit you harder, sure.

And you may also be sure she will hit you very, very hard if you insist on following the way you have been going.

It seems hard work to give up a habit, and we try all sorts of plans to charge our ill feelings to some other cause than the real one.

Coffee drinkers when ill will attribute the trouble to bad food, malaria, overwork and what not, but they keep on being sick and gradually getting worse until they are finally forced to quit entirely, even the "only one cup a day." Then they begin to get better, and unless they have gone long enough to set up some fixed organic disease, they generally get entirely well.

It is easy to quit coffee at once and for all, by having well made Postum, with its rich, deep, seal brown color which comes to the beautiful golden brown when good cream is added, and the crisp snap of good, mild Java is there if the Postum has been boiled long enough to bring it out.

It pays to be well and happy for good old Mother Nature then sends us her blessings of many and various kinds and helps us to gain fame and fortune.

Strip off the handicaps, leave out the deadening habits, heed Mother Nature's hints, quit being a loser and become a winner. She will help you sure if you cut out the things that keep you back.

"There's a reason" and a profound one.

TOWER OF LONDON.

Famous Building Is Older Than Any European Palace.

Possibly few persons are aware that in comparison with the tower the palaces and prisons throughout Europe are modern creations. Hepworth Dixon establishes this fact clearly in his admirable history. The oldest bit of palace in Europe—that of the west front of the Burg in Vienna—is the time of Henry VIII. The Kremlin in Moscow, the Doge's palace in Venice, are of the fourteenth century. The seraglio in Stamboul was built by Mahomet II. The oldest part of the vatican was commenced by Borgia, whose name it bears. The old Louvre was begun in the reign of Henry VIII.; the Tuilleries in that of Elizabeth. In the time of our civil war Versailles was yet a swamp.

The 16th century claims the Escurial; the 18th, San Souci. Jerusalem's Serail is a Turkish edifice; the palaces of Athens, Cairo, Teheran, are all of modern date. So it is, too, with the prisons. With the sole exception of St. Angelo in Rome all are of modern date as compared with that one from which Ralph Flambard escaped in the year 1100, the date of the first crusade.

The crown jewels in the tower are worth, it may be supposed, some £3,000,000. Everything of state regalia is there, with one notable exception. The Koh-i-Nor is represented by a crystal. Queen Alexandra wears the original, on great occasions, as part of her personal jewels. The tower has been the sovereign's strong room for the storing of treasure ever since tower dwelling monarchs were. The old jewel house itself was built simultaneously with the royal mint, when that establishment was within the tower walls.

The only attempt to steal the treasure is historic. It was the feat of that picturesque villain, Col. Blood. He had ingratiated himself with the deputy keeper of the jewels, had gone so far as to propose a match between his ward and the daughter of the official. All went smoothly. The bogus swain turned up to be inspected; with him three others and the colonel. They beat and gagged the old man, secured the crown, orb and scepter, and were just making off, when, by the strangest coincidence, the son of the jewel keeper arrived from Flanders.

The scene which followed would do credit to the dramatist. The colonel, disguised as a clergyman, had the crown concealed beneath his cassock, and added his voice to the hue and cry, "Stop the villain," he roared. He had reached his horse before the imposture was discovered. When they made for him he turned and fired in the face of the men nearest him. The pistol missed fire, and the crown was saved; but not uninjured. Trampled in the mud, its jewels were all knocked out, and many of them lost. An apprentice found the great pearl, a scavenger the biggest diamond. "Well, it was a gallant deed; it was to gain a crown," was all Blood had to say as they carried him a prisoner to the dungeons.

But no ill befell him for this and other treason. He had played for high stakes before, had attempted to surprise Dublin Castle and capture the Duke of Ormonde, and that failing, had coolly laid his plans to seize and hang him when he returned to London. The outcome of all was that, confessing to having plotted to take his sovereign's life, he was granted a pension, and lived and died in the odor of sanctity at court.

All this took place in the Martin tower, which is haunted to this day, you are desired to believe. The ghost is that of Harry Percy, ninth earl of Northumberland, who spent 14 years of his life a prisoner there. The wizard earl, they called him. For his companions he had Raleigh, working on his mystic preparation which he hoped would produce an elixir of life; and Heriot Allen, Torperley, his Magi, as they were known. This little coterie discovered sun spots before the alert eye of Galileo had detected their existence, and was the first to detect the satellites of Jupiter. When, at the end of his long imprisonment, the earl returned to his home, he founded a library from which half the learning of following years had its inspiration. Only a sun dial, fixed by Heriot's own hands, remains to commemorate that remarkable fellowship which did so much for the glory of English science.—St. James Gazette.

Great Shavers.

The feature at the industrial exposition last night was a shaving contest for a gold medal valued at $10. The contest was one continued from last Thursday night. There were three entries, Sam Rubenstein, C. B. Miller and Roy Jenks.

When the barbers and the victims who were ready to sacrifice themselves on the tonsorial altar mounted the platform a deep hush fell upon the crowd. It was followed by wild applause as the first of the contestants emerged from a cloud of lather and flying whiskers and the victim bobbed up smiling serenely. Then the other two had their try at the shaving, and the judges, after a consultation with the timekeeper announced that the medal was awarded to Sam Rubenstein for completing his work in a skilful manner in twenty-six seconds. Roy Jenks shaved his man in thirty seconds and C. B. Miller in thirty-four seconds.—St. Paul Pioneer-Press.

Smart Women in Maine.

Somerset county is bragging a bit on its smart women. An East Skowhegan correspondent started the ball a-rolling and other towns are reporting. For instance, one of Larone's smart women ran the mowing machine to cut 35 tons of hay, did all the raking, helped load and unload and did the housework for a family of five, which includes a young child, and is very much alive today. And from Brown's Corner: Mrs. John Richards has assisted in doing the housework for 13 in the family and did all the baking on four farms, and when her husband cut the hay on the fourth farm she did the housework all alone for 21 men and did the raking.—Lewiston Journal.

Women who work, whether in the house, store, office or factory, very rarely have the ability to stand the strain. The case of Miss Frankie Orser, of Boston, Mass., is interesting to all women, and adds further proof that woman's great friend in need is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered misery for several years. My back ached and I had bearing down pains, and frequent headaches. I would often wake from a restful sleep in such pain and misery that it would be hours before I could close my eyes again. I dreaded the long nights and weary days. I could do no work. I consulted different physicians hoping to get relief, but, finding that their medicines did not cure me, I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it was highly recomended to me. I am glad that I did so, for I soon found that it was the medicine for my case. Very soon I was rid of every ache and pain and restored to perfect health. I feel splendid, have a fine appetite, and have gained in weight a lot."—MISS FRANKIE ORSER, 14 Warrenton St., Boston, Mass.

Surely you cannot wish to remain weak, sick and discouraged, and exhausted with each day's work. Some derangement of the feminine organs is reponsible for this exhaustion, following any kind of work or effort. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you just as it has thousands of other women.

The case of Mrs. Lennox, which follows, proves this.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Last winter I broke down suddenly and had to seek the advice of a doctor. I felt sore all over, with a pounding in my head, and a dizziness which I had never experienced before. I had a miserable appetite, nothing tasted good, and gradually my health broke down completely. The doctor said I had female weakness, but, although I took his medicine faithfully, I found no relief.

"After two months I decided to try what a change would do for me, and as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was strongly recommended to me I decided to try it. Within three days I felt better, my appetite returned, and I could sleep. In another week I was able to sit up part of the day, and in ten days more I was well. My strength had returned, I gained fourteen pounds, and felt better and stronger than I had for years. I gratefully acknowledge its merits. Very sincerely yours, MRS. BERT E. LENNOX, 120 East 4th St., Dixon, Ill."

W. L. DOUGLAS $3.50 SHOES

W. L. Douglas makes and sells more men's $3.50 shoes than any other manufacturer in the world.

The reason W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are the greatest sellers in the world is because of their excellent style, easy fitting and superior wearing qualities. If I could show you the difference between the shoes made in my factory and those of other makes and the high-grade leathers used, you would understand why W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes cost more to make, why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater intrinsic value than any other $3.50 shoe on the market to-day, and why the sales for the year ending July 1, 1904, were $4,263,040.00.

W. L. Douglas guarantees their value by stamping his name and price on the bottom. Look for it—take no substitute. Sold by shoe dealers everywhere.

SUPERIOR IN FIT, COMFORT AND WEAR.

"I have worn W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes for the last twelve years with absolute satisfaction. I find them superior in fit, comfort and wear to others costing from $5.00 to $7.00."—H. S. MCCUE, Dept. Coll., U. S. Int. Revenue, Richmond, Va.

Great Attack on Port Arthur Progressing. Definite Results Expected Hourly.

TRENCHES 20 PACES APART.

In the Silence of the Night Voices of Opposing Armies Can Be Distinguished.

Tokio—The general attack on Port Arthur is progressing but the results are unknown. Generals Nakamura and Salto, leading specially trained bodies of swordsmen, charged into the Russian lines and engaged the Russians in a hand-to-hand and bloody encounter. The result of the charges has not been learned.

Mukden—At Tinshinpu, of which the northern half is in Russian hands and the southern is held by Japanese, the trenches are twenty paces apart, and it is possible in the silence of the night to distinguish the voices of the Japanese.

Use Old Style Guns.

Fidaytown, six miles east of Shakhe—Since November 23, there have been light engagements day and night. On November 24 Japanese artillery began firing on Norgorod Hill, using old style cast iron shells with copper bands. Scratches on these shells, Russian artillerymen say, indicate that they were fired from worn out guns.

It is evident that the Japanese are exerting every effort to increase the number of their guns, and in view of their lack of quick firing artillery, they are bringing up guns of old construction. This is confirmed by statements made by Chinese that large numbers of worn out cannon are in Liao Yang. On November 24, an artillery duel took place. The Japanese bombarded Poutiloff (Lone Tree) Hill, the Russians replying but not vigorously.

Japs Use Pocket Stoves.

Field Headquarters, General Kuroki's Army—A light snow storm left two inches of snow on the ground. Along the tops of the hills where is located in many places the advanced lines of General Kuroki's army, the snow is deeper. The soldiers are living in earthen burrows, and shelters constructed of cornstalks and are able to keep warm through the freezing nights.

It is impossible to build camp fires in the trenches and bivouac within sight of the enemy. For warmth the soldiers depend on charcoal fires in "shibachis" pocket stoves. Some supplies of charcoal was brought from Japan, but most of it has been purchased in Manchuria. The army has employed many coolies cutting trees and making charcoal since early last summer, forseeing the present need of it.

Preparing for Great Struggle.

Mukden—The lapse of six weeks without fighting on any large scale, confirming the belief that the opposing armies have rested for the winter together with the unexpected demonstration of force which the Russians have been able to make since the depletion of their army as the result of the fighting on the Shakhe emphasizes conclusively the failure of the Japanese and their most plausible plans for earliest occupation of Manchuria.

This outcome taken in connection with the general situation appears to guarantee that with the opening of spring there will begin a contest far more terrible than any yet fought and points to the termination of the war in the next campaign. It is still possible that there will be a general attack during the winter, but the weather is now broken and uncertain and seemingly renders it impossible for the troops of either army to abandon their present shelters.

Gradual alterations have taken place in the different departments of the Russian army since the abolition of the viceroyalty as Alexieff's partners have returned to Europe with him.

The hostilities are characterized by individual efforts of a most daring and dangerous character. One outcome of the close relations between the Russians and Japanese along the Shakhe river is the occasional blowing up of houses by the opposing outposts and the snipping of their occupants.

The Chinese authorities have taken preliminary steps to bring grain into the north and to store it for the use of the starving farmers and villagers. This action was brought about by the destitution which is prevalent for some twenty miles behind the Russian army.

Paul Kruger's Will Shows Large Fortune.

New York—Paul Kruger, the late president of the Transvaal republic, left a fortune estimated by the Amsterdam correspondent of the World at $3,750,000. He had bequeathed $125,000 to the various societies in Holland and sums to all the funds opened after the South African war for the support of the widows and orphans. Bequests hlso were made for the maintenance of the Dutch language.

NO JURISDICTION.

Impeachment Proceedings Are Quashed Because it Was Shown Court Had No Power to Act.

Montgomery, Ala.—The action of the supreme court on Saturday in striking from the records of that court the impeachment proceedings brought by the attorney general against Sheriff A. D. Rodgers, of Madison county, brings to light another oversight on the part of the last legislature in not carrying into effect the provisions of the constitution which authorized the attorney general to institute impeachment proceedings against the sheriffs by filing his information with the supreme court. The attorneys for Sheriff Rodgers moved to quash the proceedings on three grounds: First, that the governor did not have the power to order the attorney general to institute the proceedings. Second, that the attorney general did not have the power to institute the proceedings, and third, that the supreme court did not have jurisdiction. The attorneys asked that the information be stricken from the record and the court did so.

Jefferson Comes Up Monday.

The supreme court Saturday adjourned until Monday, when the Sixth division will be taken up. This division is composed of the following counties: Blount, Cullman, Fayette, Jefferson, Lamar, Pickens, Marion, Tuscaloosa. The next division to be taken up will be the third, which is composed of the following counties: Autauga, Butler, Conecuh, Escambia, Lowndes and Montgomery.

Examination in Chilton.

State Examiner of Public Accounts J. T. Gorman has returned from Chilton county, where he went to examine the accounts of the officials of that county.

Appointments.

The following appointments were made by the governor Saturday: Notaries public—T. F. Caput, of Ensley; E. H. Glenn, Seale; Robert A. Morris, Birmingham; H. L. Oberkiarch, Mobile; S. O. Smith, Cottonwood.

Attend Test.

Among the state house officials that attended the test of the Lowry cotton picker Saturday afternoon on Mr. McLemore's plantation were: Governor Cunningham, J. K. Jackson, J. C. Adams, Gen. R. F. Ligon, Capt. W. M. Seldon, Walter Brassell, Dr. Shirley Bragg, G. F. Sedberry, Joel Miller.

WILL NOT CONTEST.

This Announcement Is Made By B. W. Walker, Whom He Defeated. Question May Be Raised.

Mr. B. W. Walker, the republican candidate for congress from the Fifth district of Alabama, will not contest the seating of Mr. Thomas Heflin, the successful democratic candidate, as has been rumored.

Mr. J. O. Thompson, chairman of the state republican executive committee, in speaking of the report that Mr. Walker would enter a contest, said this morning:

"Mr. Walker will not make a contest. The republicans of the Fifth district made a very active canvass and many republican votes were secured in places where no republican votes had previously been cast. The gains were substantial and the republicans are satisfied with the showing made. However, there is no doubt but Mr. Heflin secured a large majority of the people of the district. For these reasons no contest will be entered by Mr. Walker."

Question May Be Raised.

Continuing, Mr. Thompson said: "If there is any question raised as to the seating of Mr. Heflin, and I am sure the question will be raised, it will not be through Mr. Walker, and if Mr. Heflin is denied a seat, it will not be that a republican may occupy it. On the other hand, if Mr. Heflin is unseated, then there will be a vacancy in the Fifth district and another election will be in order."

"Will an effort be made to prevent Mr. Heflin from serving the term to which he was elected?" was asked.

"I am positive of it," was the reply.

The effort to prevent Mr. Heflin serving his term, as indicated by Mr. Thompson, grows out of the utterances of Mr. Heflin in his congressional race.

Good Iron Orders.
Englishmen Will Visit the South.

New York.—It is probable that the Lancashire Cotton association will accept an invitation extended by the municipalities, cotton exchanges and chambers of commerce to visit the southern states of America, according to a Times dispatch from London.

Some objection is made to the invitation on the ground that the New England and Southern manufacturers' associations are not concerned in it. It has also been urged by some Lancashire manufacturers that the invitation is in the interest of American growers and in opposition to the British Cotton Growers' association. This suggestion, however, does not seem to have great support.

The "Don" Quixotes still survive. British fishing smacks are no more like Japanese torpedo boats than windmills are like giants.

There are so many new fashions this season that it will take three or four meetings of the missionary society to try out all of them, declares the Bristol (Vt.) Courier.

COTTON CONVENTION.

Governors of the Cotton Ctates Will Each Appoint One Hundred Delegates.

Shreveport—In order to systematically defend the cotton crop and the industries dependent upon it, a national cotton convention has been called to meet in Shreveport, December 12th, 13th, 14th, and 15th, 1904. The governors of the cotton states are each appointing one hundred delegates. The various cotton exchanges and associations throughout the country have been asked to send representatives, and no pains will be spared to make this national cotton convention a medium through which a definite campaign against the weevil will be organized, and the nation's greatest crop protected.

The weevil has this past season, spread by natural migration, as much as 50 miles north and east into previously uninfested territory, and in a few years will, if unchecked, extend its invasions to the northern and eastern limits of the cotton belt. To delay an intelligent and united action aganst ths foe, will mean financial embarrassment to the cotton farmers and to the industries they support.

World's Visible Supply of Cotton.

New Orleans—Secretary Hester's statement of the world's visible supply of cotton, made up from special cable and telegraphic advices, compares the figures of this week with last week, last year and the year before.

It shows an increase for the week just closed of 215,896, against an increase of 156,063 last year and an increase of 78,490 year before last.

The total visible is 3,874,078, against 3,658,182 last week, 3,342,996 last year and 3,259,754 year before last.

Of this the total of American cotton is 3,326,078, against 3,129,182 last week, 2,847,996 last year and 2,780,754 year before last and of all other kinds including Egypt, Brazil, India, etc., 548,000, against 529,000 last week, 495,000 last year and 479,000 year before last.

The total world's visible supply of cotton, as above, shows an increase compared with last week of 215,896 an increase compared with last year of 531,082, and an increase compared with year before last of 614,324.

Of the world's visible supply of cotton, as above, there is now afloat and held in Great Britain and continental Europe 1,892,000, against 1,687,000 last year and 1,420,000 year before last; in Egypt 149,000, against 150,000 last year and 152,000 year before last; in India 187,000, against 130,000 last year and 138,000 year before last, and in the United States 1,646,000, against 1,376,000 last year and 1,550,000 year before last.

West Point Defeats Navy.

The Annapolis eleven failed to score in the gridiron battle held in this city Saturday, West Point winning by a score of 11 to 0.

An immense crowd witnessed the game. This was the last big game of the season.

From the standpoint of foreign exchange the cotton crop is much the most important crop raised in this country. Notwithstanding the large increase in the consumption of cotton in the United States—the cotton spindles in this country having increased from 19,008,000 to over 22,300,000 in the last three years—close to 65 per cent of the cotton crop raised in this country every year is exported. The average annual percentage of the domestic product exported from 1879 to 1883 was over 67 per cent. The average amount exported from 1899 to 1903 was 64.53 per cent. These figures show that while the consumption of cotton in the United States is rapidly increasing, the largest part of the crop is still exported.

The value of our cotton exports is very much greater than the wheat and corn exports. The agricultural department estimated that of the 670,000,000 bushel wheat crop of 1902 there was exported 202,900,000 bushels. Even at 90 cents a bushel—a higher price than was received—the total value of the wheat exports in 1902 was only $182,000,000. The wheat exports in 1903 were very much smaller. Should the cotton crop prove to be larger than 11,000,000 bales, or the price average more than 10 cents a pound, the value of the cotton exports will be correspondingly larger. It is perfectly safe to say that the value of the cotton exports this year will amount to something like 2 1-2 times as much as the value of the wheat exports.

The decline in the foreign exchange market which occurs regularly every fall, and the imports of gold from Europe which are almost always made at that season of the year, is largely due to the enormous amount of cotton bills which come into the market during September, October and November. During these three months last year something like $300,000,000 of cotton bills came into the market.

Tall Building is Opposed.

The proposition to build a twelve-story office building on the space now occupied by the fountain in the public square at Montgomery has aroused the women of the city, and they made a warm protest at a meeting of the council committee Saturday. There is almost general opposition to putting the building on this spot.

REORGANIZATION NOT NECESSARY

Democrats in Congress Say All Such Talk is Premature.

DON'T KNOW WHERE THEY ARE.

Former Leader Richardson Thinks Nothing Can Be Done at Present.

Washington, D. C.—It is hard to find among the democratic senators and members of the house who have arrived in Washington a single one in favor of the proposed "reorganization" of the democratic party. Practically every member scouts the idea and many declare it extremely ridiculous.

"Before we do anthing at all," said Representative Livingston, of Georgia, "we had better sit down, light some good long cigars and try to find out where we are at. I don't think we know exactly what has happened yet, except that we were snowed under unmercifully. It is entirely too early to undertake anything like reorganization."

Senators McCreary, of Kentucky, and Daniel, of Virginia, share the general opinion that democrats should go right ahead as if nothing had happened and that the events to transpire in the next four years will determine the issues in the next campaign and incidentally the fate of the democratic party. Old-line democrats point out the fact that the party has recuperated from defeats as severe as the recent landslide and say cheerfully that the pendulum may swing to the other extreme four years hence.

Representative James M. Richardson, of Tennessee, former floor leader of the democrats in the house, is of the opinion that all talk of reorganizing the democratic party is premature, and in fact, uncalled for. "What we want to do first," said Mr. Richardson, "is to ascertain why we were defeated. In order to do this we must wait until the popular vote in the presidential election is tabulated, and we can then analyze it. It is my present opinion that the defeat of the democratic party was due largely to democrats staying at home and not voting. Then, too, we lost some votes to Watson and Debs. It is too early yet to talk about future policies. The events of the next four years will largely determine the campaign issues.

"It now looks like the only hope the democrats have is that the republicans will fall of their own weight. Political history shows that this has happened and we democrats can only hope that it will happen again."

Poultry Exhibit.

Tuscumbia, Ala.—The catalogue of the sixth annual exhibit of the North Alabama Poultry and Pet Stock association was issued yesterday containing a list of the premiums offered by the association in the approaching show. The exhibition will begin on the day after Christmas and will continue until the last day of the year. The prospects are very favorable and the officers of the association believe that this will be the largest show of the kind ever held here. Poultry fanciers in all sections of Alabama and many neighboring states have expressed intention of entering some of their poultry and the class will no doubt be higher than in any previous exhibition here. F. J. Marshall, of Atlanta, has been engaged as judge.

Young Woman Admitted to Bar of Alabama.

Miss Octye Lee Womack, of Gadsden, has been admitted to the Bar. Miss Womack passed a very satisfactory examination.

Mexican matches are frequently two-headed.

Frank Duncan Executed.

Frank Duncan, the murderer of Officer Kirkley and desperado, was executed in the yard of the county jail at Birmingham Friday.

Duncan maintained he was innocent to the end. His last words were "May God forgive me for what I have done."

He went to the scaffold calmly, game, with almost exaggerated nerve. There was no struggle, his neck was broken by the fall and the subsequent life consisted only of spasmodic heart beats.

This ends the story of one of the worst characters with which Alabama has ever had to deal.

Mantle of Snow Covers Armies.

Mukden.—The Jananese November 24th again made a preliminary bombardment of Poutiloff hill under the cover of which they attacked but were repulsed. There were encounters at other places along the front, but they were in the nature of small brushes and mostly took place at night. Yesterday there was al ight fall of snow and the surrounding country now has all the appearance of winter.

SAW FAIR IN ONE DAY.

Visited Every Building

St. Louis, Mo.—Never have more perfect conditions prevailed since the opening of the World's Fair than those that marked Saturday, which was devoted to a tour through the exposition by President Roosevelt, accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Alice Roosevelt and members of the president's party. It was strictly a day of pleasure and not the slightest incident arose to mar the perfect enjoyment of the occasion.

The heralded announcement that the chief executive would visit the exposition drew tremenduous throngs and to guard him from possible danger that might menace him, secret service men, soldiers and police guards abounded, but they had very little to do in preserving order. The sentiment seemed to be unanimous in the minds of the thousands of spectators that President Roosevelt was the guest of each one and each did his best to preserve order. The consequence was that those in authority had only to designate their wishes and instantly the crowds parted, passageways were cleared and hindrances quickly removed that every moment of the president's limited time might be occupied in seeing the exposition.

"Ths is marvelous," he said. "It is beyond description and exceeds my fondest expectations. I have had the best time I ever had in my life and I have seen more than I ever expected to see in one day's time."

From 10 o'clock in the forenoon until 6 in the evening the distinguished visitors followed an arranged schedule, hurried from one building to the next, from one part of the grounds to another and overlooking nothing of interest. From the start until the end of the tour Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Alice accompanied the president and fatigue was forgotten in the enjoyment of the day.

Sees Filipino Village.

The rest of the day was spent in the Filipino exposition reservation. Guards had cleared the area of visitors and the entire place was given over to inspection by the presidential party.

During the hour and a half spent in the Filipino section every portion was inspected. In the Igorrote village Chief Antonio who has been to Washington and met the president, presented him with an album containing forty photographs of Igorrotes. A class of the natives then sang "America" in the English tongue, having learned it since they came to the exposition.

At the Ienao Moro village the natives presented a beaten silver dish and a set of silver bottles to the president, who, in accepting, said:

"I thank you very much for this gift. My aim is to help you increase your happiness and prosperity, and I am very glad to meet you on this side of the water."

Atlanta and Birmingham Knit By Another Band of Steel.

The last rail that forms the connecting link of the Seaboard Air Line between Birmingham and Atlanta was laid Saturday. Roper tunnel was the secene of this interesting performance. The tunnel is situated about twenty-seven miles from Birmingham. There were no formal exercises at the laying of the last rail, but a great deal of interest attached to the ceremony, as it was significant of a closer union between Atlanta and Birmingham, the two most remarkable cities, unquestionably, of the South.

It is announced that a regular schedule for freight trains will be inaugurated on December 1, and that a few weeks later passenger service will be established. Mr. L. B. Parsons, division superintendent, and General Superintendent Hughes, of the Seaboard Air Line, are in Birmingham, and arrangements will be perfected for the handling of traffic upon this division.

Thousands Seeking the Land of Liberty.

New York—The largest number of steerage passengers with two exceptionsever brought to this port in one vessel, came in today on the steamer Main from Bremen. There were 2,551 names on the steerage list.

Must Remain Allies.

Paris—In the chamber of deputies today Foreign Minister Delcasse protested against the criticism of the Franco-Russian in the report of the committee on Foreign budget which contains a number of allusions unfavorable to Russia. Referring to this M. Delcasse said:

"Neither has the alliance been more necessarry and benficial. Never has there arisen a better occasion for proclaiming France's unwavering fidelity to the alliance which has so powerfully safeguarded the mutual interests of the two countries."

This is significant of the firm attitude of the government against the socialist revolution in Russia.

Roosevelt Will Visit Alabama.

President Roosevelt will visit Alabama in March. Just after his inauguration he will make a Southern tour, and probably take in tht states of Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas.

Michigan has produced some tall men, but now breaks her record by announcing that she has a 20-year-old youth who is 7 feet 3 inches tall and Cotton Manufacturing in the South.

The development of cotton manufacturing in the south during the last five or ten years has attracted the world's attention, and justly so, but while studying what has been done we should remember that, notwithstanding the remarkable progress in the building of cotton mills, Massachusetts alone has more spindles than the entire south. There are about 110,000,000 spindles in the world, and three-fourths of all the cotton used by them comes from the cotton fields of the south, but, great as has been our progrss, we still have only about 8,250,000 spindles. The growth of this industry during the last few years has been fully as rapid as is safe. Because we raise the cotton it is not to be supposed that we can for many years, if ever, manufacture all of our own raw product into the finished goods. Neither the capital nor the labor is available. It is true that, theoretically, the south ought to manufacture all of its cotton, but, on the other hand, when we have developed our mill industry to the point that we consume at home the 10,000,000 then be growing probably 20,000,000 bales or more.

We can continue to build cotton mills for many years to come without over-doing the business, provided judgment is used in the character of goods manufactured, provided ample capital is secured for the construction of all mills and their operation, and that they be built in sections where sufficient operatives can be had. Some serious mistakes have been made in the south in undertaking to build mills in localities which are not fitted for cotton manufacturing. Other mistakes have been made in building mills without sufficient working capital, but as a whole, the industry has made solid, substantial progress, and is now of world-wide influence.

We have $200,000,000 invested in cotton mills, but to build mills enough to consume our present production would require ten times that, or $2,000,000,000. This is the possibility which the future holds out to us.

Expects Many Sportsmen.

Secretary Kirkpatrick, of the Alabama Field Trials club, of Huntsville, is encouraged in the belief that the next annual field trials of the club, which will be held on the preserve near Huntsville, will be well attended by sportsmen from all sections. Nominations for the Alabama derby and the all-age stake have closed, seventeen dogs having been entered for the first and nine for the second event. These events are confined strictly to Alabama owned dogs which have won no prizes.

The free for all to which the club guarantees a purse of $300 added money, opened to all dogs, is an attractive proposition to sportsmen in all parts of the country, and entries have been received from points as far as Iowa and Virginia.

The club preserve is composed of about five thousand acres on which no hunters are allowed until after the field trials each season. Birds are unusually plentiful and excellent sport is expected.

New York—Ample employment for the furnaces and mills is now, says the Iron Age, practically assured for the winter which is usually faced by the industry with doubts. The buying movement has spread in all directions ond has assumed somewhat surprising portions. Consumers and manufacturers in the general trade are providing for replacing their depleted stocks, this being reflected particularly in the raw materials like pig iron and in the finished goods, like wire, bars, tubes, sheets and cast iron pipe. The railroads, absence of whose orders was so keenly felt during the past year are purchasing generally in many cases attempting to take care of their requirements for the whole of the coming year.

Russian Ships at Suez.

The Russian battleships Sissoi Veliky, flagship of Rear Admiral Voelkersam, and the Navarin, arrived at Suez Sunday from Port Said.

The rest of the division followed at short intervals, and the whole of the division is now anchored in the Suez roads. The transit of the canal was effected in the most satisfactory manner and without incident.

It is Admiral Voelkersam's present intention that the whole division shall sail at once. In the meanwhile seven torpedo boat destroyers have moved outside the three mile limit, the authorities having warned them that their twenty-four hours expired at 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

No coaling will be allowed here. Only water and provisions can be taken on board.

Fair Attendance Reaches 18,317,457.

The department of admissions of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition at St. Louis Saturday issued a statement of attendance for the week ending Nov. 26, showing a total of 699,552. The grand total since the fair opened is 18,317,457.

Fashion insists that the tall, slim woman will be popular this season. She is always popular in a crowded street car, declares the Washington Post.

Mr. Peary is said to be anxious to be off to the frozen north in order to escape the query: "Well, when you have found the pole what are you going to do with it?"

MUSICAL POSTAL CARDS.

New Development of Prevailing Craze for Coming Season.

A striking novelty in picture-post cards is about to be placed on the market by a French syndicate.

To an ordinary pictorial card is affixed a very thin transparent gelatine disk, on which is impressed a gramophone musical record. A hole is pierced through the centre of the disk, and the post-card can be placed on an ordinary "talking machine" and played in the usual way.

The musical post-card opens up an entirely new field for the craze. Photograpas of great singers and composers will be accompanied by extracts from their works, pictures of national flags by the anthems of the different countries, and so on in endless variety. Candidates for political honors, instead of sending merely their photograph to constituents will be able to accompany them with the phonographic records of an election address.

The additional cost as compared with ordinary cards is very slight. The disk, being perfectly transparent does not in any way interfere with the picture beneath.

As a novel advertising medium the new cards are certain to be popular. French champagne firms are already having pictorial cards printed which will literally sing the praises of their wares.—London Mail.

Trolley Bid for Theatrical Business.

One of the latest developments of the rural trolley system is the making of bids for the transportation of theatrical companies. Through New York state and in New England the trolley companies have been extremely active in this new field of late, particularly between cities and towns where the distances are not so great that the members of a company would be unduly fatigued by the length of the ride. The agent of a company supporting a "star" that was playing in Albany recently was approached by the manager of a trolley company with a proposal that his line would carry the entire company to Schenectady, their next "stand," at the rate of two persons for five cents. In addition to this low rate the trolley line oered the "star" the use of the director's arlor car and also two "flat" cars to carry the scenery. As the run only took three hours the deal was arranged on the spot. The regular railway fare for each person for the same distance was 28 cents with no parlor car thrown in.—New York Press.

Son of a Samurai.

Admiral Togo was third son of Togo Kichiaemon, a samurai of the clan of Satsuma, and the father gave him the name of Heihachiro. He was born at Kogoshima on the 14th day of the 10th moon of the year of grace 1857. The gracious period of Meiji (which by interpretation means the era of enlightened reign) began in 1868, A. D. That was also the birth date of the new Nippon. After the sacred tradition of a samurai family, his mother took him to the shrine of a guardian deity and placed him upon the altar as the offering to his country and to the sword, that he might defend the land of the gods. Like many another boy of samurai family, his military training dates back far beyond his memory.—From Adachi Kinnosuke's "Togo, the Man and the Admiral" in the Century.

"We End!"

Formerly in Devonshire the reapers, when they had finished, would weave a ring of wheat. Holding to this, the harvesters would form a circle and shout together: "We een!" (we end), after which one bore the ring to the house, and had the privilege of kissing the first maid he met. That curious practice has passed, and others as gentle with it. Nevertheless, there is still the harvest dinner, where the squire, be he gentleman or noble, sits down with his "hands" and drinks from the same ale-jug. That custom shows no sign of decay.—Everybody's Magazine.

Garment of Evil Doers.

"Night," remarked the home missionary, "is a cloak for sin."

"Yes; sort of fall overcoat, as it were," rejoined the unregenerated party.—Chicago Daily News.

From Judge McMillan.

Editor Sentinel:—

I desire through the medium of your paper to acknowledge my gratitude to my many friends in the county who worked so faithfully for my success and that of the Democratic ticket in the recent election. To be sure, no one enjoys being defeated where he has been a candidate for a political office, and I must confess to, at least that degree of disappointment at my defeat which is ordinarily felt by a defeated candidate. But this feeling of disappointment is made easy to bear when I remember the character of the men who endorsed my candidacy and worked for my election.

Our opponents tell us, with an evident feeling of pride, that in the election on November 8th, the doctors, the lawyers, the merchants and the preachers were arrayed against the common people, and that the result was a triumph of the common people over the classes named. I doubt not but that there are some few in all of these classes who are unworthy, and are not even respected by the classes to which they belong; but it is my pleasure to know, personally, the greater portion of the merchants, doctors, lawyers and preachers in the county. I know them to be among the very best and most substantial citizens in the county. They are in close touch with that class denominated "the common people"—in fact constitute a very important part of that class. If by "common people," as used by our opponents, is meant the farming and laboring classes, then I venture to say that fully nine-tenths of the 1194 votes cast for me, was of this class of voters. Then I am proud to know that the other one-tenth included the lawyers, the doctors, the merchants, and last and most important of all, the preachers. I feel quite sure that these classes have at heart the best interest of the whole people of the county, both from a material and a moral standpoint. I don't see how any good man of even average intelligence could for a moment be made to believe that the preachers of the county were antagonistic to the common people and their best interests. I thank God that my course of conduct and the principles I espoused were such as to merit the approval and receive the support of the preachers, and nothing would convince me sooner of my error in any course of conduct, and cause me to abandon it, than to know that it was disapproved and opposed by the ministers of God. I do not intend, in giving expression to above sentiments, to reflect on any good man, who, from the standpoint of principle and good citizenship, believed it to be a duty he owed himself, his county and his God, to support my opponent. I trust I may not be misquoted, or misconstrued on this point. I am not now a candidate, and there is no ground for impugning my motives or questioning my sincerity. In view of this, I desire to say that I have the best interest of the whole people at heart. In my love for the people of my county, and the interest I feel in them, I know no classes. Our interests are all in common, and we should all stand together for the general good, and for the upbuilding of the material interests of our county, and for the social and moral elevation of her citizens. When any man or set of men indulge in expressions of superior love for "the people," "the common people," etc., it is at once recognized by the best and most intelligent of these same classes, as demagoguery of the deepest dye, and the ones so giving expression to these sentiments are characterized as demagogues of the first water.

I desire to say that after the election is well over, and the dust of the battle of ballots has cleared away, I cherish no enmities and harbor no illfeeling to any. While some things were done and said against me by some few of the leaders of the opposition, which were wrong, grossly wrong and unfair, yet, during the whole campaign, I was treated by all classes of the citizenship of our county with marked respect and consideration. In my canvass of the county, in my private and public utterances I endeavored to treat all concerned fairly and justly. I honestly believed I was right in my position on the main questions at issue. I advocated with firmness my views. I condemned the course of the administration in the county in unmistakable terms, but always in a spirit of kindness. Recognizing always the legal right of the opposition to form a fusion, yet from time to time I condemned this course as devoid of principle, and characterized it as a sacrifice of principle on the altar of expediency.

I am frequently asked to give my opinion as to the cause of the defeat of the Democratic ticket in the county. I do not care to enter into a discussion of this question, except so far as may aid my party in the future. Of one thing I am quite sure, there was a spirit of overconfidence on the part of the supporters of the Democratic ticket. This, as effect follows cause, induced inactivity on the part of Democrats. Democrats did not work. Our opponents displayed an energy and diligence worthy of a better cause. They worked night and day for six years before the election—never losing an opportunity to put in work when there was any hope to effect anything for their future political success. They were diligent to see that every man who would vote the fusion ticket, or who could be induced to vote it, should pay his poll tax, and where he would not pay it himself, it was paid for him. Democrats overlooked the question of poll tax to a great extent. There were great numbers of Democrats in the county disqualified to vote on account of having failed to pay poll tax and register. Then I am quite sure that great numbers voted the fusion ticket who were not qualified voters. But I shall not go further into this subject. I trust that Democrats will profit by their experience in this campaign, and will look after having every one pay his poll tax and qualify in every respect to participate in the future elections in the county. Until our most influential Democrats awake to the necessity of active work for success of the party in the county, Shelby county may continue for many years in the hands of our political enemy.

SCORES FEE SYSTEM,

Dr. Shirley Bragg, the physician member of the Board of State Convicts, in his report to President Carmichael, says:

"The fee system, so far as the convict is concerned, is a blot upon the fair name of the State. Men, women and children alike are made to feel its withering blight. It does not spare the old man tottering on the verge of the grave, nor does it respect the child scarcely old enough to leave its mother's care. Perhaps some day this will be changed and the county convict placed on the same plane with the State convict."

The county convict system is condemned by Dr. Bragg. Many old, decrepid men are sent to the convict camp, he says, who should be in the poor houses, but neighborhoods must be rid of beggars and officials have their fees if it takes the last drop of blood from unfortunate, suffering humanity.

The condition of the State Convicts is reported good with the death rate low. Many convicts are received in poor condition and are sent to the hospital where they either die or serve out their sentence. After expressing hope for the abolition of the county convict system, Dr. Bragg says:

"The poor unfortunate county convict remains as for years. His sufferings know no change. He is a victim of the infamous fee system. The convict board is powerless to help him. In many instances he is the victim of circumstances (which is taken advantage of by officers to get a fee) and a living monument of a system fostered by the State."

According to the annual report of State Auditor Sowell, the State for the fiscal year ending on September 30th, paid out to the sheriffs in the State the sum of $92,926.50 for feeding prisoners.

The report shows that the cotton growing counties with a very few exceptions drew less from the State this year than last, showing that the men arrested in those counties were released on bond pending their trial, which did away with considerable cost to the State in the matter of feed bills. In other counties where men are arrested they are at once prevailed upon to plead guilty as "the cheapest way out" of the matter, and then the sheriff starts another feed bill. Oftentimes when men are convicted they are given a jail sentence, and this means 30 cents a day to the sheriff for feeding each prisoner thus sentenced. It is an expensive system to the State as the following will show:

The State paid the sheriff of Mobile county this year, $10,063.50.

For feeding prisoners the sheriff of Jefferson county received this year $21,599.93.

Twenty-five counties this year had an increase in their feed bills.

Dr. Bragg says he intends to push a bill through the legislature recommending some change in the fee system, and is promised support from all over the State.

Smallpox at Montevallo.

From a special to last Sunday's Age-Herald, we learn that there are four cases of smallpox in the Girls' Industrial School at Montevallo. The statement is given out, however, that the cases are of a very mild form and that but little, if any, danger is apprended for the other pupils.

The cases have been isolated, and every precaution taken to prevent a spread of the disease. But few of the girls have gone home.

MONTEVALLO.

Hon. J. L. Peters has been visiting with relatives in Montevallo for the past few days.

Mrs. Edgar Allen, nee Miss F. M. Bibb, of Birmingham, is with her friends here for a short visit.

J. S. Harris has accepted a position with the L. & N. as locomotive engineer, and has begun his regular run.

The Methodists and all others alike, are pleased to learn that Rev. H. E. Wheeler was reassigned to Montevallo station.

Rev. H. B. Ralls, of Gordo, formerly pastor here, stopped on his return from Conference, to visit his daughters in school, and meet his many friends again.

Rev. Luther Eddings, the young preacher, son of Ezekiel Eddings, of the Ebenezer community, was commissioned by the Conference to supply the appointment in Cambridge Circuit, Decatur District.

Miss Mary L. Simpson, former teacher of elocution in the Industrial School, assisted by Miss Kate Sampey, gave a recital at the college chapel Saturday evening of the 19th, which was greatly enjoyed.

It was cotton week in Montevallo last week. So unprecedented was the rush, that the bank was delayed in getting money needed by the merchants to pay for it. The warehouse ran over, aad bales are stacked all around it, awaiting cars for shipment.

Rev. P. L. Abernathy, formerly pastor of the M. E. church, ran down from Conference Sunday, and preached to his old congregation. He has many friends here who are always glad to see and hear him. Mrs. Abernathy, formerly a teacher in the Industrial School, met him here, and is with her friends.

Public Thanksgiving services were held at the chapel of the Industrial School. Rev. J. W. Shoaff, pastor of the Dexter Ave. M. E. church, Montgomery, preached a very eloquent and instructive sermon. The Faculty and girls of the school packed and shipped the usual boxes for the different Orphan Schools of the State.

The Masonic Conference, which was in session here three days last week, was very enjoyable and profitable to the members of that Fraternity who attended. It was instructed by Grand Lecturer, A M. Scott Montevallo greatly enjoyed the communion with the visiting Masons. The Order will doubtless be greatly benefitted by these conferences. The next one will be held at Helena about the first of August.

A. Shaw a farmer from Providence neighborhood over in Chilton county, has been missing since last Saturday, and no trace can be found of him. He sold his cotton here Friday, for which he took a check on the bank. The next day he returned and got his cash, which amounted to about $70.00, and he has not been seen since he stepped out of the bank. It is thought by those who know him best that he followed a sudden impulse to visit his old home over in Georgia.

Dr. D. L. Wilkinson, school physician, after calling in County Health Officer Gunn, made due announcement of the presence of smallpox in the school, and all patrons were notified. The disease is of a very mild form, so mild as to leave a doubt as to its identity in the opinion of the physicians. Six, so far, have taken it; but quickly recover. Every precaution possible is taken to keep it from spreading, and it is thought will not be epidemic. Very few of the girls were ordered home, and it is not thought the operation of the School will be interfered with.

J. R. White, who was a delegate to the North Alabama Conference from the Methodist church of this city, came home last Thursday, and says that it was one of the most interesting meetings he ever attended.

The members of the Methodist congregation in this city are glad to know that Rev. G. T. Harris has been returned to Columbiana for another year. He is a good man, and all are glad to have him here.

A number of young people were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Pitts on Tuesday night, complimentary to Miss Ada Belle Reynolds, who has been a guest at their home for a few days.

There are several cases of scarlet fever in town, but we are told the fever is of a mild nature and that there is no cause for alarm. Mrs. J. W. M. Page and two children are among the afflicted.

Chester Browne, who is a student at Auburn, is at home for a few days visiting his parents.

With Our Advertisers,

The Sentinel takes pleasure in commending to our readers the advertisers whose announcements appear in its columns. Among the new ones which appear this week is the third of a page of the

Columbiana Mercantile Company,

This firm has on now a bargain sale, and if you do not get some of them it is your own fault. Their large store is filled with everything that is necessary to the existence of life, and to make the stock move quickly they have cut the prices to the lowest possible mark, consistent with good and safe business methods. They have a faithful, efficient and accommodating corps of clerks, and Messrs. Lefkovits and Erlick will be pleased to have you call and see what they have. They are receiving new goods all the time, and rare opportunity is offered the bargain hunter in the sale now on. Among our new advertising patrons is the firm of

J. H. Wilder & Bro.

This firm has two nice mercantile establishments—one at Vincent, and another at Harpersville, each a credit to the community in which it is located. You can buy anything at either of their stores from a cambric needle to a threshing machine. Their stocks are large, well selected, and you will not be found grumbling at the price that is made to you. The Messrs. Wilder are especially well known thro' the northern part of the county, and are popularly known because each is characterized with a genial cordiality which leaves its impress. By the way, talk to them about what you want for Christmas.

Latham Drug Company

Is offering a pretty line of holiday goods, and to step into their store is like taking a trip into fairyland. The stock is beautiful to say the least of it—all new and just from the manufacturers. Nothing in the stock that is trashy, and at the same time nothing for which an extravagant price is asked. Those who are in charge cordially invite you to come and see what they have in stock for the holidays.

Among the substantial business firms of Shelby county is the

of Montevallo. For nearly five years has this firm been almost a constant advertiser in The Sentinel. The Morgan Bros. believe in the use of printer's ink and think it a business bringer. Morgan Bros. Mercantile Co. carry one of the largest stocks of general merchandise to be found in Shelby county; not of a spasmodic nature, but big all the time. Mr. Morgan who is in charge, has associated with him a corps of accommodating clerks, and whose experience enables the shopper to readily determine as to what particular article is needed, and the public finds it a real pleasure to deal at this store.

Milner & Christian.

Among the oldest and most reliable business firms in this county is that of Milner & Christian. Not only do they carry a large and full stook of general merchandise, but a full and complete line of shelf and heavy hardware, stoves and agricultural implements. They are kind and accommodating, and to these commendable traits is largely due the healthy trade they enjoy. They try to please their patrons, do as they promise, and guarantee their goods to be as represented. They are glad to see their friends any time.

J. W. Johnston

Who is there in Shelby county who does not know J. W. Johnston, the grocer and shoe man? He has been in business so long in Columbiana that is difficult to remember just how long he has been here. He carries all the time a full and complete line of staple and fancy groceries, provisions and feed. He prides himself on keeping a stock of fine and serviceable shoes which he sells at a close margin, giving his customers the benefit of cash buying and discounts. Whatever you buy of Johnston is just as represented, this you can always rely upon. He has prepared for you in a Christmas way and will be glad to see you.

Roberts & Robertson.

These two young men have been in business but a short time, yet they must be reckoned with when it comes to supplying the public with groceries, fruit and fine cigars. They have one of the neatest stores in this section of the country. They have fresh goods coming in all the time, and their trade is such that goods do not have time to get stale before they are sold. They hustle for the business and ought to succeed for they endeavor to please every customer.

Rufus Lester

offers to the public some choice bargains in shoes, clothing, notions tinware, furniture and groceries. He will be prepared for you, too, with some choice holiday goods, and you should not fail to drop in and see him.

At the Peoples Store Mr. Callaway will take pleasure in fitting you with a nice suit of clothes or a good pair of shoes. He also carries a nice line of gents' furnishings, and the prices are right.

Do you want to make yourself a Christmas present? If so, go to I. Gordon, the tailor, and get him to build you a suit of clothes, or an overcoat. He is a past master in the art of making nice clothes, neat clothes, the kind that will fit and please you.

T. J. Weaver is getting in his holiday goods, and next week will tell you something of what he has. In the meantime he can supply you with anything in the jewelry line, put your face on paper, or if you have a sick watch he can repair it on short notice.

Milner & Christian have something to say about plows in this issue. If you are in the market for a plow you should see them.

SHOES IS MY HOBBY . . .

I have just received a complete line of all kinds of shoes in Gents' and Ladies' Rubber Goods.

I also keep a complete stock of Staple and Fancy Groceries. A lot of Texas Rust Proof Oats just received. Highest price paid for Cotton on account. Nice line of Gents' Furnishing Goods. Thanking you for patronage in the past, and hoping for a continuation of the same I am, as ever your friend,

The Methodist preachers who attended the North Alabama Conference in Talladega last week, struck it right, for they were there for Thanksgiving. My, how the turkeys and "yaller-legged" chickens must have suffered that day.

Prof. Glenn, superintendent of the public schools of Calera, and one of the registrars of Shelby county, was in town a day or two last week. Prof. Glenn reports his school as being in fine shape, and a larger attendance than last year.

The Sentinel received a pleasant call from W. D. Lacey, of Beat 19, one day last week. Mr. Lacey was here as juror in the county court. He handed The Sentinel man a hundred cents, and said to "keep sending The Sentinel right along."

A number of Columbiana people who know M. L. Smith, a merchant of Sylacauga, will regret to learn that he has gone into bankruptcy. His assets are reported at about $30,000, with liabilities of $50,000. D. L. Mallory, of Talladega, has been appointed receiver.

Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Morris, who have been attending the North Alabama Conference at Talladega, are in the city visiting their sister, Mrs. Jennie L. Wilson. Rev. Mr. Morris bas been pastor of the Woodlawn Methodist church for the past year, and the Conference sent him back for another.

Hon. W. Y. Titcomb, of Anniston, is in the city a guest of Judge D. R. McMillan for a few days. Mr. Titcomb is on his way to Montgomery to attend the Masonic Grand Lodge. He was a teacher of Judge McMillan a good many years ago, and the two gentlemen are enjoying their visit with each other.

Two young people from near Calera, applied at the Probate Judge's office last Monday for a license to get married, but on learning that the bride was under age the license was refused them. They consulted a number to see if there was not some way to overcome the obstacle, but as there was none they returned to their homes and concluded to wait until time had added another year or two to the bride's age.

Masonic Conference.

The district conference of Shelby county Masons, says a correspondent to the Age-Herald, met in Montevallo last Thursday and Friday to receive instructions from the grand lecturer, A. M. Scott, of Headland. There were five sessions held, and the meeting adjourned Saturday morning to meet in Helena in August. It was a fine meeting, and all the deliberations were characterized by good feeling. The old members were revived and the new ones strengthened. The following officers were elected:

R. V. Ray, W. M., Helena.
F. M. Peterson, S. W. Montevallo
R. G. Weldon, J.W., Wilsonville.
Henry Milner, Sec'y and Treasurer, Columbiana.
W. H. Moss, S. D., Calera.
W. A. Hammond, J. D., Vincent.
A. H. Avery, S. S., Shelby.
W. P. McConaughy, J.S., Aldrich.
Rev. O. P. Bentley, Chaplain, Vincent.
J. F. Hutchinson, Tyler, Vincent.

A Pretty Store.

One of the prettiest store rooms in this section of Alabama is the one recently finished in this city by J. H. Abercrombie, who came to Columbiana a few months ago from Woodlawn.

The room is 40x90 feet, finished in hard pine ceiling and and plaster paris finished walls—pure white. The store was opened to the public last Saturday, and while Mr. Abercrombie has not yet received all his goods, yet the large floor space is pretty well occupied, and the shelves on either side are filled. The stock comprises everything usually kept in a stock of general merchandise, and is all new. Associated with Mr. Abercrombie in the store is his son Will A. They are experienced merchants, and will cater to the public with honest goods, fair prices and a cordial, courteous treatment which will at once make you feel at home. The Sentinel bespeaks for the new store a share in the patronage of this city and the Nearly a Blaze.

The residence of Wright Tinney, half a mile south of town, had a narrow escape from destruction by fire on Monday, at about the noon hour. It is thought a spark from the kitchen chimney caught in the shingles, and which the wind had fanned into a blaze. But for the timely discovery of the fire in its incipiency nothing could have saved the house.

Ready hands inplenty were soon on the scene, and while some attacked the fire, others removed the furnishings. The damage is not great, but Mr. Tinney will have to put a new roof onhis kitchen.

Household Matters

Creeping Rugs.

Creeping rugs for the little ones who are just beginning to creep are novelties which appeal to the mother heart. They are made of a material like Turkish toweling, backed with canvas, are washable, and large enough to furnish a moderately active baby with a fair afternoon's promenade.

Peach Foam.

Peach foam is suggested as a novelty in invalid cookery. It is made by taking half a cupful of powdered sugar, the white of an egg and one cupful of peach pulp. Beat with a silver spoon in a large bowl for thirty minutes, and the result is—or should be—a velvety cream. The same authority gives grape foam, which consists simply of the white of one egg beaten stiff and added to two tablespoonfuls of grape juice. Add a little scraped ice and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Refrigerator Hints.

Keep the ice compartment full of ice. The more ice the greater the economy.

Ice saving schemes are absurd, defeating the purpose of the refrigerator.

It is the food that is to be kept instead of the ice. Keeping ice in the sick room or at a picnic is another matter.

Overripe fruits and vegetables are a menace to the health if left in the refrigerator.

A cellar or other damp spot is no place for the refrigerator; on the other hand it should not be put out of doors unprotected.

If much ice is used on the table and for other purposes an authority advises a storage box for extra ice.

It should be sponged out often with warm water in which a little soda has been dissolved, and the drain should not be neglected.

Should ants get into a refrigerator a saucer of tartar emetic mixed with sugar and water should be placed there. It will drive them away.

Do not think of covering the shelves with cloth or paper any more than you do the ice. There must be good circulation, with consequent melting of ice, to preserve the food therein.—New Haven Register.

A Man's Rule For Coffee.

"The coffee at any breakfast table," says a veteran New York hotel manager, "is one of the most important elements of a satisfactory meal.

"Coffee should never be decanted. The pot must be fitted with a cover that lifts off, and not one which swings back. It must also have a cover for the spout. Make your own filter from a piece of not too fine white flannel sewn into a bag terminating in a point, which must be long enough to reach to fit snugly over the top. Have your coffee (two-thirds Java, one-third Mocha, or any mixture you prefer) ground as fine as powder. It will require all your blandishment to get your grocer to do this, but the secret of the excellence of this way of making coffee depends upon the fineness with which it is ground. Fill your pot with boiling water to heat it, pour it out, fit on the flannel bag, a heaping teaspoon for each person, and 'one for the pot,' and pour on one large cup of boiling water for each spoonful of coffee. The water must be absolutely boiling and it must be poured slowly. Let it stand several minutes on the back of the range; lift out the bag and send it to the table. I will not say 'have hot milk.' For the perfect coffee you must have thick, sweet, rich cream; put in the sugar, then the cream, fill up the cup from the steaming vessel and you have that coffee which makes the politician wise."—Good Housekeeping.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Macaroni should be kept in an air-tight receptacle and when cooked plunged into boiling salted water.

Buttermilk is excellent for cleaning sponges. Steep the sponge in milk for some hours, then squeeze it out and wash it in cold water. Lemon juice is also good.

A little orange or lemon juice put on the blacking brush after it has been dipped in the blacking of polishing cream will give a brilliant shine to the boots or shoes.

The latest in yacht pillow covers consists of two squares of goatskin, laced around the four sides with silk cord and decorated at each corner with cluster of loop ends.

To rid a room of flies it is a good plan to heat a poker and lay it on a lump of camphor, which will give off fumes most objectionable not only to flies, but to other insects also.

To purify water, tie a small piece of undyed flannel into the tap, leaving it rather loose, and it will be found to absorb all impurities from the water. Renew the flannel from time to time.

Water in which potatoes have been boiled is very effective in keeping silver bright. It can be bottled for use, and if required to be kept a long time a tenth part of methylated spirits will do this.

Fruit jars, tea and coffee pots, stewing pans, in fact all kitchen utensils with covers, should be left open in the intervals of using. The same rule applies to the wash boiler and bread or cake box.

Wet umbrellas should be stood on their handles to dry. This allows the water to run out of them, instead of into the part where the ribs and the silk meet, thus causing the metal to rust and the silk to rot.

Many mothers will find the trouble of having adjustable paper covers over the books brought into the home from public libraries. In these days of microbe fear such a course insures peace of mind, even if nothing else is gained.

To clean the coffee pot fill it with water, put in a piece of borax and a piece of hard soap, and set on the stove, letting it boil for half an hour. It will be as bright as new and should be submitted to this treatment frequently.

Little Things Worth Knowing

The earliest money was in the form of animals' skins.

One of the oldest known living animals on earth is a tortoise in New Zealand that weighs 970 pounds. It is known to be over 300 years old.

Eagles sometimes rise to the height of 6000 feet, and larks, crows, storks and buzzards often get up 2000 feet. But the average bird seldom goes 1000 feet above the earth.

The total number of horses at Paris decreased 1000 last year, because of the great increase in the use of automobiles. There are more automobiles in Paris than any other city in the world.

The Attorney-General of Kansas has decided that a pupil in the public schools cannot be compelled by a teacher to tell tales on another pupil. That is a great question that has long required settling.

It is asserted by a sculptor that the human foot is becoming smaller. The masculine foot of twenty centuries ago was twelve inches long. The average man's foot of to-day is easily fitted with a No. 8½ shoe, which is not more than ten and seven-sixteenths of an inch in length.

South Australia is said to be suffering with a great invasion of mice. The cause is the recent bad weather, which caused more or less of a failure of the wheat crop, and the farmers allowed much grain to remain in the fields. This fell to the ground in time and so furnished food for the mice.

A REMARKABLE WATCH.

Purchased by Mary Queen of Scots While Visiting Blois.

The descendants of Mary Setoun, one of the four maids of honor to Mary Queen of Scots, have in their possession a curious watch, which was given by that Queen to her favorite. The watch, which is in the shape of a miniature skull, is about two inches and a half in diameter. It is supposed to have been purchased by Mary herself when on a visit to Blois with her husband, the Dauphin of France, as it has the name of a celebrated Blois manufacturer engraved on it.

The entire skull is curiously engraved. On the forehead there is a picture of Death, with the usual scythe and hour glass and sand glass. He is depicted as standing between a palace and a hovel, to show that he is no respecter of persons, and underneath is the familiar quotation from Horace, "Pallida mors aequo pulsat pede pauperum tabernas Regumque turres." At the back of the skull is another representation, this one being of Time devouring everything. Time also carries a scythe, and beside him is the emblem of eternity—the serpent with its tail in its mouth.

The upper section of the skull is divided into two pictures. On one side is the crucifixion, with the Marys kneeling at the foot of the cross, and on the other side are Adam and Eve surrounded by animals in the Garden of Eden.

Below these pictures, running right round the skull, there is an openwork band to allow the sound of the striking of the watch to be heard. The openwork is a series of designs cut to represent the various emblems of the crucifixion, such as scourges, the cross, swords, spears, the lantern used in the garden, and so forth. All of the carvings have appropriate Latin quotations.

By reversing the skull and holding the upper part in the palm of the hand and lifting the under jaw on its hinges the watch may be opened, and on the plate inside is a representation of the stable at Bethlehem, with the shepherds and their flocks in the distance.

The works of the watch are in the brains of the skull, the dial plate being where the roof of the mouth would be in a real skull. This is of silver and gold, with elaborate scrolls, while the hours are marked in large Roman letters. The works are remarkably complete, even to a large silver bell with a musical sound, which holds the works in the skull when the watch is closed.

This curious old watch is still in perfect order and when wound every day keeps accurate time. It is too large to be worn and was probably intended for a desk or private altar.—Kansas City Journal.

Not a Scrap Left.

The editor of a flourishing journal in a California town recently called at the "home of the bride's parents" the day after the wedding. He was desirous of telling his readers all about the event, and wished to give the young couple a good "send-off" as well. The bride's mother met him.

"Good morning, Mrs. Jones!" said the editor. "I have called to get some of the details of the wedding."

"Goodness!" replied Mrs. Jones, in dismay. "They're all gone. You ought to have come last night. They ate every scrap!"—San Francisco Bulletin.

Music in Missouri.

Talk about sharpening musical criticism to a needle point! A skylight fell with a crash in the festival hall at the St. Louis Exposition, and musical experts declare solemnly that the accident was due to harsh notes played on the great organ by the unskilled musician, explaining that "the severe vibratory force of the poor playing jarred the glass loose." Then the glass did not fall from the shock of its Concord of divine harmony.—Atlanta Constitution.

STONES OF MEDICAL VALUE.

Many Minerals Have Strange Legendary Therapeutic Qualities.

The sacred, magical and curative properties of certain stones—large and small—appear to have ranked among the items of the Pseudodoxia epidemica, among all races and nations, and throughout all recorded ages. The colossal monolith and the small "graven image" of stones are well known examples of the first of these properties. Among the prominent specimens of the second may be noted the items of popular mediaeval belief, that a diamond placed under the pillow would notify the conjugal infidelity of a wife; that the wearing of a sapphire was a preservative against all enchantments; that the fume of an agate would effectually avert the approach of a tempest; that the wearing of a chrysoprase would "make one out of love with gold;" and that the carrying about of an amethyst surely preserved the owner from being "overtaken" by drunkenness—an item of belief to which the etymology of its name is due. To a kindred form of credulity must be ascribed the wondrous properties which were ascribed to China dishes, when first imported to Europe from the Celestial empire. It was confidently said of these by Scaliger and others "that they admit no poyson, that they strike fire, that they will grow hot no higher than the liquor in them ariseth." With regard to the curative powers of various stones, we may seasonably quote the remark of the celebrated author of the "Religio Medici:" "He must have more heads than Janus, that makes out half of those vertues ascribed into stones, and their not onely medicall, but Magicall properties, which are to be found in authors of great name. In Psellus, Serapion, Evax, Albertus, Aleazar Marbodeus; in Maiolus, Rueus, Myllus and many other." And the same author goes on to state some of his own opinions in this connection: "That Lapis Lazull hath in it a purgative faculty we know, that Bezoar is Antidotall, Lapis Judaicus Diureticall, Corall, Antiepilepticall, we will not deny, that Cornelians, Jaspis, Heliopropes and blood stones, may be of vertue to those intentions they are implied; experience and visible effects will make us doubt." And just now the fact of the persistence of such forms of belief is forcibly brought home to us by the announcement—in a diurnal (lay) contemporary—of the unquestioning faith which is placed in the efficacy of "madstones" by a large proportion of our own fellow citizens. There are even now many of those precious talismans in this country; and "the believers in their efficacy always know where the nearest one is kept." One of them had long been the property of an Ohio negro, and was placed after the death of its owner in the State library at Columbus. There it was recently applied to the wound caused by the bite of a supposedly rabid dog. The dog recovered, and the woman to whom it was applied died of blood poisoning caused by the unclean contact. We are also informed that such a stone was kept in the Virginia state penitentiary for years, and was open to all comers for application to the bite of a mad dog, or other allied wound. One such (perhaps the same) was at a later date sold by auction for $89. Still more famous was that brought from Russia in 1887 by a physician of that country who settled in Nevada. It had previously been exploited in that country for at least a century and a half—a fact supported by documentary evidence. The document was written in native Russian; and, as nobody concerned could read it, everybody implicitly believed what they were told of it. The owner offered the stone for sale for $1500, and a joint stock company was formed for the purchase. A thousand shareholders advanced $ each, and the balance was made up by a farmer who became its keeper when the purchase was completed. Its fame still flourishes, and it is said that an offer of $3000 has been refused for it.—American Medicine.

DOG COULD NEVER FORGIVE.

Always Attacked Trolley Men Because a Car Cut Off His Toes.

Because he could not forgive trolley employes after a car had cut off three of his toes, Bruno, a splendid St. Bernard dog, belonging to Mayor Charles A. Bookwalter, of Indianapolis, Ind., had to be chloroformed. His hostility to street car conductors and motormen was his only fault, but that phase of his character caused so many threats of damage suits that Mayor Bookwalter decided that he could not afford to keep him.

Several years ago while in the street in front of his master's house the dog was struck by a street car. His foot was caught under the wheel and he came out of the accident minus three toes. This was the beginning of his antipathy to street car men, and it grew upon him till no employe was safe if Bruno saw him off his car.

Mayor Bookwalter lives on North Illinois street. Near his residence is a place where the conductors and motormen change cars, and as many of them reach the point before their cars arrive, there are always several in the street. Up to a few months ago Bruno contented himself with attacking his supposed enemies when they passed the mayor's house off their cars. But recently he began to lie around the relieving station and before his presence was suspected he would have one of the men by the leg.

Complaints were made, and the mayor sent the dog to his farm, but Bruno wouldn't stay. No motormen nor conductods came that way, and he was lonesome. So he came back, and when sent away a second time, again returned. He was always found waiting around for an opportunity to get a street car man by the leg. So Bruno was sent on a journey from which he will never return.

"He was a great dog," said Mr. Bookwalter, "but he was made for an 80-acre field and not for a town lot. I am satisfied that his only motive for attacking street car men was to get even for the loss of those toes. He felt the deformity keenly, and was never the same dog after he was injured. Any child could play with him, and I never knew him to attack a stranger, but the sight of a street car conductor or motorman seemed to awaken in him a spirit of revenge which was never manifested under any other circumstances.—Philadelphia Record.

To be a successful wife, to retain the love and admiration of her husband should be a woman's constant study. Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Potts tell their stories for the benefit of all wives and mothers.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will make every mother well, strong, healthy and happy. I dragged through nine years of miserable existence, worn out with pain and weariness. I then noticed a statement of a woman troubled as I was, and the wonderful results she had had from your Vegetable Compound, and decided to try what it would do for me, and used it for three months. At the end of that time I was a different woman, the neighbors remarked it, and my husband fell in love with me all over again. It seemed like a new existence. I had been suffering with inflammation and falling of the womb, but your medicine cured that and built up my entire system, till I was indeed like a new woman.—Sincerely yours, MRS. CHAS. F. 12,162,000 BALES

Government Reports Show a Total Production of 12,162,000 Square Bales.

ESTIMATE A BIG SURPRISE.

Cotton Dropped $2.50 a Bale in Two Minutes.—Panic Followed the Publishing of Report.

New York.—Cotton dropped $2.50 a bale in less than two minutes Saturday. Brokers in the pit acted like maniacs in their efforts to avert ruin. The whole market was panic stricken.

The United States government had estimated the crop at 12,162,000 bales.

Such an enormous harvest had never been dreamed of before by the most pessimistic. The wildest scenes were enacted and but for the fact that the ginners' reports had sounded a warning to the bulls ruin would have been widespread. The close was very weak and at the lowest figure.

Theodore Price, the leader of the bears, who lost a fortune fighting Sully during the latter's triumphant campaign, recovered it in a few minutes and added to it largely before the gong stopped the pandemonium. Sully, who has been trying to engineer another bull campaign, was obliterated as a factor in the market.

The government's report was received at the exchange at 11:15 a. m. It was read from the rostrum immediately afterward.

Being Saturday only three-quarters of an hour remained until closing time. Everybody wanted to sell at once. Prices fell from 48 to 62 points almost in a flash. It was the greatest and swiftest collapse since the memorable announcement of Sully's failure in the midst of the bull campaign he had started.

Inquiry among cotton houses after the close of the exchange did not develop any apprehension of trouble as a result of the quick slump.

Every Care Was Taken to Guard Crop Report.

Washington.—In the preparation and issuance of the cotton report, Secretary Wilson gave a demonstration of the precautions taken to avoid advance information leaking out.

Representatives Burgess, of Texas, and Ransdal, of Louisiana, were invited by the secretary to witness the preparation of the estimate. The party was locked in the private office of the statistician and the reports from all the cotton districts were taken into the room. The doors were locked from the outside, and the secretary then gave orders for the opening of the report. The estimate of the crop for the year 1904-1905 was then prepared and sent out before any person in the room was permitted to leave or communicate with any person from the outside.

"In this manner the cotton estimates are invariably made," said Secretary Wilson, "and all human ingenuity is used to prevent leaking of information."

Is Panama Independent.

Outside of the canal zone and entirely independent of the United States is the republic of Panama, which has just been welcomed into the fellowship of nations on our initiative. Since the relations between Panama and Colombia are still unsettled, why did the former find it advisable to reduce her army to a peace footing of twenty-five men with two cities to keep in order? If a standing army is necessary to the preservation of law and order even in a state of profound peace, why should a threatened country open herself to attack from a declared enemy at the threshold? If Colombia marched to the attack or declared war, must we defend this baby nation "outside of the canal zone" as well as within it? In that case, where is the pretense that Panama is independent? Where is the showing that she is able to maintain a government? The lack of money cannot be the plea advanced, for we have furnished that.

It is believed that no one was killed.

A relief train has started from Kansas City for the scene.

The list of killed and wounded in football games during the season just closed, as compiled by the Chicago Record-Herald, amounts to 13 killed and 296 wounded.

The women of savage tribes have not infrequently a wardrobe consisting of furs which would be worth from $5,000 to $10,000. Grundeman, the explorer, relates how one fair Greenlander wore a dress of sealskin with a hood of that costly fur, the silver fox. The garment was lined with fur of the young seal otter, and there was a fronge of wolverine tails. About $600 is probably the average worth of the dress of Indian women on the Columbia and Fraser rivers.

COTTON CONVENTION.

The cotton convention at New Orleans should be a useful and profitable gathering of men who know how to raise cotton, how to market cotton, how to spin cotton, how to weave cotton, and how to utilize the staple. One difficulty about such conventions is that nearly all the talking is done by men who are theorists and not by the practical men.

An effort will be made to correct this evil at New Orleans. There will be talks on the cotton weevil, and while these talks will not amount to anything, they will be interesting. Texas has an offer of $50,000 reward for any remedy that will stamp out the weevil, and theories are rather ridiculous when there is good money for one that will work.

English cotton spinners will be at the convention and they will learn things to their advantage and to ours. We have an idea that this convention and others to come and the personal acquaintance made will tend to eliminate New York as the cotton market and make New Orleans and Galveston the cotton markets of the world. If the English buyers make their connections with New Orleans and Galveston, and there is direct shipment to Liverpool, it will leave New York only a part of the rich trade that has been worth so many millions to that city.

If New Orleans becomes the cotton market, it will mean a constant pressure for higher prices, instead of a constant pressure for low prices. It will mean that New England will, like old England, have to pay the price asked by the south, instead of fixing the price and announcing it to us. That is what is hoped in part from the coming convention at New Orleans.

Things Have Changed.

Not until February of 1812 did the people of Kentucky know that Madison was elected president in the previous November.

In 1834 one of the leading railroads of the United States printed on its time table: "The locomotive will leave the depot every day at 10 o'clock if the weather is fair."

When Benjamin Franklin first thought of starting a newspaper in Philadelphia, many of his friends advised against it, because there was a paper published in Boston. Some of them doubted that the country would be able to support two newspapers.

One hundred years ago the fastest land travel in the world was on the Great North road, in England, after it had been put into its best condition. There the York mail coach tore along at the rate of 90 miles a day, and many persons confidently predicted Divine vengeance on such unseemingly haste.

Anniston Booming.

Anniston, Ala.—The plant of the Illinois Car and Equipment Company, which has been idle since the failure of the Southern Car and Foundry Company, is probably sold to the Illinois Car Company and the Standard Press Steel Company, who will soon put it in full operation. These companies claim that they must have full use of their tracks on Tenth street and be allowed to enclose its grounds to Eleventh street. This will necessitate the building of a viaduct on Tenth street, immediately in front of the plant, a little over a block. The money for this bridge is now being raised among the business men of Anniston by popular subscription. Already a goodly sum has been raised.

The building of the viaduct will result in the extension of the street railway, via this bridge into Glenn Addie, giving the people better street car facilities. The viaduct will have passageways for street cars, wagons and pedestrians. The resumption of work at the big car plant, the building of the viaduct and the extension of the street car line means much to Anniston.

Steel Plant Breaks Record.

Ensley, Ala.—As predicted, the steel plant for the month of November broke all previous records in the output of steel. Heretofore the month of October held the record with 20,000 tons. November completely smashed that record by turning out 21,600 tons. This was the largest tonnage that this important industry has ever turned out in one month.

Jamaica To Raise Cotton.

Kingston, Jamaica.—There was a conference here of men prominent in the cotton industry. Experts sent out by the British cotton growing association advised Jamaica planters to cultivate cotton, as there is a good opportunity offering.

As a result of experiments made in some of the hospitals in Paris, it is stated that vaccination performed under a red light leaves no scar and causes less pain. The patient is vaccinated in a room where the only light is an incandestcent lamp with a red globe.

Since June 1, one million Irish immigrants have come into this country, and the impending famine this winter in the Green Isle is sending large numbers on every steamer. Secretary McCool, of the New York Irish Society, says: Ireland will be depopulated if immigration continues as it has during the present year."

JAPANESE CONFIDENT

Capture of 203 Meter Hill Gives Nogi Command of Entire Harbor.

SIEGE GUNS CAN SWEEP CITY.

Russians Fighting Without Hope.—Japan Wild With Joy Over Situation.

The official announcement comes from Tokio that the Japanese have occupied the summet of 203-Meter Hill. This important position has been the object of severe and continuous fighting, and cable reports from time to time have indicated that many men have been sacrificed in the effort to capture it. Two hundred and thirty-three Meter Hill is a dominating point in the range which lies to the westward of the town of Port Arthur, and according to reports it commands artillery range of the harbor and a portion of the main town. Its approximate distance from the citadel or main defenses is three to four miles. Reports from both Tokio and St. Petersburg indicate that isolated engagements of a more or less severe nature are occurring along the front of the Manchusian armies, but it is not apparent that the main forces are engaged.

Tokio.—General Nogi's telegram announcing the storming and capturing of Two hundred and three Meter Hill was received with cheers by the Japanese people. It vevives the hope of an early capture of Port Arthur proper.

Prepared to Meet Fleet.

Cheefoo.—Japanese preparedness for an encounter with the Russian second Pacific squadron was evidenced by the officers of the French steamer Bink Thuau, which left Japan Nov. 30, and arrived here Saturday. Near Sasebo they saw the Japanese battleship Mikansa unscarred and evidently fully repaired and painted. Forty miles south of the Shan Tung promontory the officers of the Bink Thuan sighted the Japanese battleship Asahi similarly rehabilitated. She was steaming north.

The repair work of the Japanese fleet has been progressing with great secrecy and at Port Dalny.

The torpedo boat and torpedo boat destroyer flotilla is reported to have been maintained in good shape. The boats are mostly at the Japaneses naval base and at Port Dalny.

Russians Will Not Surrender.

Paris.—The Russian ambassador has declared to a reporter of the Figaro that fighting along the Shakhe river will probably continue all winter, and that under no circumstances will General Kuropatkin retreat another inch. He is daily receiving reinforcements, and is even now strong enough to attack the enemy, but prefers to give his exhausted soldiers as long a rest as possible and await the new supplies and winter clothing which are coming in by trainloads every day. Russia has no lack of money, having just succeeded in borrowing $260,000,000 from Germany and a Dutch bank.

Big Timber Purchase.

Knoxville, Tenn.—Joseph O'Brien, of Albany, N. Y., has purchased 38,500 acres of valuable timber land in Madison county, North Carolina, near the Tennessee line. The property was sold by order of court to satisfy an involuntary bankruptcy proceeding. A mortgage of $223,000 is assumed, and a cash bonus of $25,000 is paid. This is regarded as one of the most valuable tracts in these mountains. Edgar H. Betts, of Troy, N. Y., was the largest creditor, his claim being $101,901.08.

High Price for Meat.

Chicago.—The big steer, "Clear Lake Jute II.," winner of the international grand championship at the live stock show in progress here, was sold to a New York firm for $36 per hundred pounds.

River Too Low For Navigation.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—The stage of the river here will not yet permit of the running of boats from this point. The river is about two feet below the navigation point. The Tennessee River Navigation Company has, however, inaugurated a schedule for the winter, so that boats will be run as soon as the river will permit. The river saw mills are still idle.

The situation at Port Arthur recalls the old saying, "Man is never, but always to be blessed," in that the stronghold "is never, but just about to be taken."

Ohio Parched By Drought.

Columbus, O.—Reports from all over the state show that young wheat is badly damaged by the drought. It has been stunted in its growth and with winter at hand the farmers and grain dealers say the outlook is the most discouraging for years. In Licking county farmers are compelled to drive stock miles to water.

Squadron Goes to Trinidad.

Bahia, Brazil.—The South Atlantic squadron sailed today for Trinidad.

WORLD'S FAIR CLOSED.

St. Louis.—The Louisiana Purchase Exposition has ended. The stupendous and magnificient exposition, the interest of which has extended into every portion of the civilized world, has run its course, and now passes into history as probably having comprised the most representative collection of the resources, industries, art, peoples and customs of the world ever assembled. From the inception of the project to hold the exposition until the gates were thrown open and the world was invited to enter, occupied a period of seven years. The duration of the exposition has been seven months, and during that time nothing has occurred to throw a dampening effect on the interest or to detract from the exposition in any way. The best order has been maintained throughout, and there have been but few fires, but all of small moment with the exception of the destruction of the House of Hoo Hoo, and the partial destruction of the Missouri building recently. No loss of life has occurred during the exposition from accidents. St. Louis has preferred her most gracious hospitality to the world, and it has been accepted.

The opinion has been expressed at all times, on all sides, and without reserve that the Louisiana Purchase Exposition has been a success.

The man probably most prominently known in connection with the world's fair is the president, David R. Francis, and it was deemed fitting that the final day should be designated as Francis Day" in his honor.

Russia's Horses.

"One of the things the observant stranger may note in the streets of St. Petersburg and Moscow is the excellence of the horses. Not only the chargers of the army officers and the carriage horses of the rich, but cart horses, cab horses, droschky horses, even car horses and bus horses, seem to be of good breed and in fine condition. The horses wear little harness, which fashion is admirably designed to show off a handsome animal, and they are driven with very light snaffle bits; although the Russian horses seem full of spirit, these simple bits control them, for they are thoroughly broken. You seldom see a whip on a private carriage or a hackney cab in Russia. The horses have intelligent eyes and seem to be better trained than ours; but that is not saying much, for we have more thousands of miles of railways in the United States and more thousands of horses that take fright at the thousands of railway trains than any country in the world.

The czar's stables at Peterhof are very plain buildngs, but they are filled with handsome horses which is better than handsome stables filled with poor horses. It was well worth the visit to see those rows of fine animals standing in their stalls, with their sleek, black coats and long tails.

Rockefeller Has Troubles.

William Rockefeller's gamekeepers on his vast forest preserve in the neighborhood of Saranac, N. Y., are earning their pay these days. The natives thereabouts resent the appearance of these guards, several of whom have been fired upon recently. One of them resigned after having a bullet pass through his coat sleeve as he was patrolling his lonely beat in the forest. The "snipers" use smokeless powedr and all efforts to locate them have failed. Mr. Rockefeller owns 53,000 acres of fine forest land in the vicinity named, but the natives can not be made to see that with the real estate he bought the deer. Nor can they understand how he owns the fish which were put into the streams at public expense. They have shot and fished on the land as far back as the oldest inhabitant can remember, and see no reason why the arrival of Mr. Rockefeller among them should change their custom. Hence the placing of the guards, of whom there is a small army.

To Kill Out Boll Weevil.

Montgomery, Ala.—Dr. J. A. B. Lovett, president of the Ninth District Agricultural school, in a letter to the Montgomery Advertiser, offers a new idea for the extermination of the boll weevil. He would rotate the crops, with force by the government, if necessary.

BIG POULTRY SHOW.

Entries from All Over the Country.—One Bird Worth $500.

Birmingham, Ala.—The Alabama Poultry and Stock Association convenes in this city Tuesday and will be in session for four consecutive days. The exhibition will have many attractions. There are 1,350 entries for exhibits of chickens, rabbits, and other day. The chicken exhibit of the middle states and the great west will not only be interesting but of practical instruction as well.

The star attraction is a white Wyandotte cock from the famous Biltmore farm. This fowl is alone worth $500.

Fire Protection for Jasper.

Jasper, Ala.—The city council has just closed a deal with P. O. Hebert, of Atlanta, representing the Fabric Fire Hose Company, of New York, for several hundred feet of hose, two hose carts and all the necessary apparatus for the equipment of an up-to-date voluntary fire department.

Rain Falls in Kentucky.

Lexington, K.—A steady rain today broke the longest drouth in central Kentucky in half a century.

THE AGRICULTURE REPORT

Yield in 1904 Was Nearly Five Billion Dollars.

THE ENORMOUS CORN CROP

The Cotton Yield Was Valued at $600,000,000—Potatoes, Rice, Barley, Oats and Other Products Reached Their Highest Point of Production—Live Stock and Poultry Make Records.

Washington, D. C.—The annual report of the Secretary of Agriculture just transmitted to the President enumerates some of the more important features of the year's work. Among them are extensive co-operation with agricultural stations; the taking of preliminary steps to conduct feeding and breeding experiments; the war waged against the cotton boll weevil and against cattle mange; plans for education of engineers in road building; the production of a hardy orange, a hybrid of the Florida orange and the Japanese trifoliata; valuable research in successful shipping of fruit abroad; the value of nitrogen-fixing bacteria; successful introduction of plants suited to light rainfall areas; establishment of pure food standards; the extension of agricultural education in primary and secondary schools; the extension of instruction to our island possessions to enable them to supply the country with $200,000,000 worth of domestic products, now imported from abroad.

The report then discusses the place of agriculture in the country's industrial life. The corn crop of 1904 yields a farm value greater than ever before. The farmers' could from the proceeds of this single crop pay the national debt, the interest thereon for one year, and still have enough left to pay a considerable portion of the Government's yearly expenses. The cotton crop, valued for lint and seed at $600,000,000, comes second, while hay and wheat contend for the third place. Combined, these two crops will about equal in value the corn crop.

Notwithstanding that the wheat crop shows a lower production than any year since 1900, the farm value is the highest since 1881. Potatoes and barley reached their highest production in 1904. Save in 1902 the oat crop was never so large by 60,000,000 bushels. The present crop of rice promises a yield of 900,000,000 pounds, 300,000,000 more than ever before.

Horses and mules reach the highest point this year, with an aggregate value exceeding $1,354,000,000. On the other hand, cattle, sheep and hogs all show a slight decline.

The steady advance in poultry leads to some astounding figures. The farmers' hens now produce one and two-thirds billions of dozen of eggs and at the high average price of the year the hens during their busy season lay enough eggs in a single month to pay the year's interest on the national debt.

After a careful estimate of the value of the products of the farm during 1904, made within the census scope, it is safe to place the amount at $4,900,000,000, after excluding the value of farm crops fed to live stock in order to avoid duplication of values. This is 9.65 per cent. above the product of 1903, and 31.28 per cent. above that of the census year 1899.

Some comparisons are necessary to the realization of such an unthinkable value, aggregating nearly $5,000,000,000. The farmers of this country have in two years produced wealth exceeding the output of all the gold mines of the entire world since Columbus discovered America. This year's product is more than six times the amount of the capital stock of all national banks, it lacks but three-fourths of a billion dollars of the value of the manufacturers of 1900, less the cost of the materials used; it is three times the gross earnings from the operations of the railways, and four times the value of all minerals produced in this country.

The year 1904 keeps well up to the average of exports of farm products during the five years 1899-1903, amounting to more than $850,000,000, while the average for the five years was nearly $865,000,000. During the last fifteen years the balance of trade in favor of this country, all articles considered, exceeded $4,384,000,000, but taking farm products alone these showed a balance in our favor of more than $5,300,000,000.

Reviewing the increase in farm capital, the Secretary estimates it conservatively at $2,000,000,000 within four years—this without recognizing the marked increase in the value of land during the last two years. The most startling figures shown as illustrating the farmers' prosperity are those presented by deposits in banks in typical agricultural States. The Secretary selects for this illustration Iowa, Kansas and Mississippi. Taking all kinds of banks—National, State, private and savings—the deposits increased from June 30, 1896, to October 31, 1904, in Iowa, 164 per cent.; in Kansas, 219 per cent.; in Mississippi, 301 per cent., and in the United States, 91 per cent.

For Russian Autocracy.

Prince Mestchersky said that "without autocracy Russia would cease to be Russia."

Stockyard Strike Over.

The strike of the cattle butchers at the stockyards in Chicago, Ill., collapsed.

A decision of the New York State Court of Appeals says street railways must provide transfers between lines. This upholds the protest of the public against paying double fare to Coney Island.

Prouzitelny at Brest.

The Russian destroyer Prouzitelny arrived with a hole in her hull at Brest. M. Pelletan, the French Minister of Marine, gave permission to make repairs.

SECRETARY TAFT REPORTS

The Annual Message of the Department Made Public.

The Present Standing of Our Regular Army and Its Future Outlook—Statistics of the Financial End of the Service.

Washington, D. C.—Secretary of War William H. Taft, in his annual report just made public, says that the actual strength of the regular army on October 15 was 3744 officers and 54,439 enlisted men. In 1903 it was 3631 officers and 55,500 men. Of the present army 779 officers and 11,583 men are stationed in the Philippines and the remainder are at various points in the United States, Porto Rico, Hawaii, Alaska and China. The force in Porto Rico consists of five officers and five men. The Secretary recommends that Congress make provision for additional officers of the line.

The enlistments for the year ending June 30, exclusive of hospital corps and Philippine scouts, were 27,380, of which 6372 were re-enlistments.

During the past year the troops have not been in action except for a few encounters with the savage Moros in the Philippines, rendered necessary by "their defiance of the law in Mindanao and Jolo." In one of these actions a detachment of infantry was ambushed, resulting in the loss of two officers and thirteen enlisted men out of thirty-nine men engaged.

The army death rate last year was only 9.30 per 1000, as compared with 15.94 for the previous year. "It is no exaggeration," the report adds, "that the troops of the United States are the best fed, best clothed and best sheltered troops in the world."

The present system of coast defenses is now considerably more than half completed. Thirty-one localities have been partially protected, and twenty-five of the principal harbors now have mounted in fortifications and ready for use heavy guns and mortars sufficient to furnish an effective defense against any possible naval attack. Since the inauguration of the present system of coast defenses the total appropriations made by Congress for the work have been approximately, $110,000,000, and is it estimated that it will take $65,000,000 more to complete the work.

Provision has already been made for emplacing 334 heavy guns, including twenty-six temporary emplacements, and 587 rapid fire guns, one being temporary, and 376 twelve inch mortars. During the fiscal year one twelve-inch gun, four ten-inch, seven rapid fire and twenty-two mortars have been mounted.

Owing to the lessons of the Russo-Japanese war, it is stated in the report, the value of torpedo defenses has been greatly emphasized. The cost of completing the torpedo defenses now projected will be $3,819,420, but this will mean that the system will be valueless unless there is a trained personnel of 5139 officers and men created to operate the system. This will cost about $5,000,000 more. Additional appropriations of $5,000,000 will, of course, the report says, be required annually thereafter for pay of the personnel.

It is pointed out that Congress, at its last session, appropriated $1,318,920 for beginning the work of fortifying insular possessions, and that much has been done in the way of fortifying the Philippines, Porto Rico and Hawaii, but that Congress will be asked at its next session for $2,611,056 more for continuing the work.

Secretary Taft deprecates any attempt to abolish the General Staff. He thinks that the War College also is doing a good work.

He points out that it cost $86,314.43 to prevent deposits in New York Harbor last fiscal year.

Secretary Taft favors an appropriation of $2,000,000 to promote the efficiency of the militia. "The Military Secretary," the report adds, "estimates that about seventy-five per cent. of the full strength of the militia would respond to a call for service under the Federal Government."

The army estimate for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1906, is $72,705,156.37.

Concerning the tariff in Philippine products imported into the United States, Secretary Taft urges that a bill be passed allowing free admission of all Philippine products except tobacco and sugar, and that there be imposed upon all importations of sugar and tobacco a duty equal to twenty-five percent. of the rates now imposed under the Dingley law upon the importations from foreign countries.

"The Philippine Government," the report adds, "is the result of an effort on the part of this nation to assist the Philippine people to stand upon their feet. It is a national experiment. The taxation by States, counties and municipalities of this country of bonds issued in the furtherance of that experiment is a burden upon it and an obstruction to its success. Therefore, the National Government, through Congress, may very well declare such bonds to be exempt from State, county and municipal taxation and keep well within its constitutional powers."

Escape From Prison.

Two soldiers who escaped from Governor's Island, New York Harbor, got away after changing their clothes on the ferryboat which took them from a skiff.

Secretary Taft reached Panama and declared that the United States has no other design upon the Isthmus than to build a canal.

Congressman Daniel L. D. Granger, the Democratic candidate in the First Congressional District of Rhode Island, after a fortnight's recounting of ballots by the State Returning Board, was declared re-elected to his seat in Congress by 133 votes. The Board threw out 3593 defective ballots.

AGAINST EIGHT HOUR LAW

New York Court of Appeals Declares It Unconstitutional.

DECISION AFTER YEARS OF DEBATE

The Eight Hour "Labor Law," as It Has Been Known, and That Has Been in Courts For Long Time, Decided by Final Test Case of Contractor's Suit—Judge Haight Dissents.

Albany, N. Y.—By a decision in the action of the People ex rel. Cossey, appellant, vs. Controller Grout, of New York, the Court of Appeals declared unconstitutional chapter 415 of the Laws of 1897 (the labor law), which prohibits a contractor from employing his men more than eight hours a day on city, county, or State work.

Since its enactment in 1897 this statute has been almost continually before the courts. Other phases have been passed upon, but this is the first time that the Court of Appeals has expressed its views flatly on the eight-hour provision.

The action was brought by Harry Cossey to compel payment by the City of New York of $28,215 for six scows manufactured for the Street Cleaning Department. Payment was refused on the ground that he had violated the terms of his contract in employing his men over eight hours a day. Cossey did not deny this, but contended that the law was unconstitutional. The Court of Appeals reverses the lower courts and grants the appellant's application, though not entirely on the arguments advanced by his counsel.

With Judge Haight alone dissenting, the court arrives at this conclusion, but by different routes. Judges O'Brien, Martin and Vann hold that the law is unconstitutional in that it deprives an individual of property without due process of law. Chief Judge Cullen, with Judge Werner concurring, bases his opinion as to the law's unconstitutionality on the result in the Rogers case, making their decision one of precedent.

Chief Judge Cullen takes the ground that the principle involved is precisely similar to that in the action of the People ex rel. Rogers vs. Coler. The latter was the earliest case that arose under the labor law, and in deciding the courts held that the statute was unconstitutional in so far as it involved the "prevailing rate of wages." Judge Cullen says, comparing the two cases:

"This difference in circumstances would not justify a distinction in principle, and therefore the decision in the Rogers case must control the disposition of the present case unless the Rogers case has been overthrown by subsequent cases in this court or in the Supreme Court of the United States."

The rest of his opinion is devoted to a discussion of the other cases under the labor law, from which he decides that the conclusion in the Rogers case stands and applies in the action under discussion.

In his conclusion the Chief Judge says:

"I fear that the many outrages of labor organizations or of some of their members have not only excited just indignation, but at times have frightened courts into plain legal inconsistencies and into the enunciation of doctrines which, if asserted in litigations arising under any other subject than labor legislation, would meet scant courtesy or consideration. * * *

"The decision about to be made can therefore stand only on one ground, the unconstitutional interference of the Legislature with the right of the municipality. That proposition having been explicitly decided in the Rogers case, I feel it my duty to follow it, regardless of my own opinion on the question."

Judge O'Brien says:

"One of the grounds upon which the Rogers case rests is that the statute there considered and now before us deprived the contractor of his property without due process of law, and the learned Chief Judge, as I understand the opinion, asserts that this ground has been entirely swept away by the case of Atkins vs. Kansas, in which the United States Supreme Court affirmed the conviction of a contractor for violating the eight-hour law of that State.

"I do not concur in that view. In my opinion, the Kansas case does not decide or sweep away what we held in the Rogers case and should hold in this case, namely, that the statute in question violates the Constitution of the State, in that it deprives the relator in this case, as it did in the Rogers case, of his property without due process of law."

In his dissenting opinion Judge Haight holds that the constitutionality of the law can be sustained by the fact that it is a police regulation in the interest of public health and morality.

MANY MUTINEERS KILLED.

Outbreak in the Odess Naval Barracks Results in Many Deaths.

London, Eng.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Morning Post says that the recent mutiny among the seamen in the naval barracks at Odessa was due to local causes and was not connected with the general unrest in Russia. Twenty-five of the mutineers were killed and many were wounded when the pickets fired on them.

To Resume Smoot Inquiry.

It was decided to resume the Senator Smoot inquiry on December 12.

The widow of Dr. Francis L. Morhard, of Richmond, S. L., was awarded $40,000 damages against the Richmond Light and Power Company for his death, due to imperfect insulation of lighting wires in his home.

Poll tax time!

Pay your poll tax!

Pay your poll tax on or before February 1st.

If you are in arrears for poll tax. pay it on or before February 1st.

Once upon a time, heaven came down and kissed the earth, and the result was—Alabama, and near its center is Shelby county.

Birmingham is talking of another hotel. It's just possible that progressive city has hotelmania. This is not an official diagnosis, however.

Let every Democrat in Shelby county, who is liable, pay all of his poll tax for 1901, 1902, 1903, and 1904, and pay it on or before February 1, 1905.

"Mere grand jury examination of county books is not the slightest protection," says the Birmingham Ledger. Now, we wonder if—but guess not.

It is said the Smoot case is to receive another airing in congress. Smoot admits he has violated the law prohibiting polygamy, and he ought to be sent back home.

When a newspaper calls men, no matter what their politics may be, "cattle," people are prone to think there is something wrong with the thought incubator behind the paper. Is it appreciated by any class of readers?

According to the Selma Journal our governor is a great preacher, a good physician and surgeon, and is able to preside over the grand lodges of Masonry and Pythianism. And the Journal might have added, he is a good governor.

Can Bryan still be a candidate for the presidency? In Nebraska, a few days ago, he made a speech in which he said the song "Kathleen Mavourneen," appealed to him, especially the lines, "it may be four years; it may be forever."

The press of Birmingham has a great deal to say about the Birmingham district, and it has a jnst right so to do. Now, we're going to have a Columbiana district. and if the Birmingham district will be good, we may annex it—after awhile.

The Montgomery Journal defends Governor Vardaman's discourteous message touching on the President of the United States. The Journal may think the Mississippi governor was right, but his message was a display of very bad taste, to say the least of it.

In Everybodys Magazine for December, in an article entitled "Frenzied Finance," the writer, a Mr. Lawson, says: "The Massachusetts legislature is bought and sold as are sausages and fish at the markets and wharves." Republicans bought and sold? Tut, tut!

Five dollars and a smile is what some of the women of Denver paid for a vote. Yes, we are glad the women of Alabama are not in politics. The five dollars for a vote might be overcome, but all the dollars in the world would not overcome the smiles of an Alabama woman.

Big Christmas Edition.

The Montgomery Advertiser is arranging for a special Christmas number to be issued on December 11th. It is the effort of the management of the Advertiser to make this Christmas edition the superior of any ever before issued from a Southern newspaper office. An attractive feature is made up by a number of contributions from Alabama writers. The paper will contain 100 pages, and if you wish a copy send 5 cents with your full name and postoffice address to the Advertiser, Montgomery.

How about your poll tax? Better pay it right now; you might forget it, you know.

The Farmer is King.

The Secretary of Agriculture has made his report. The corn crop of 1904 yields a farm value greater than ever before. The farmers could from the proceeds of this one crop pay the national debt, the the interest thereon for one year. and still have enough left to pay a considerable portion of the government's yearly expenses.

The cotton crop, valued for lint and seed at $600,000,000, comes second, while hay and wheat contend for third place. Combined, these two crops will just about equal in value the corn crop. Notwithstanding the wheat crop shows a lower production than any year since 1900, the farm value is higher than any year since 1881. Potatoes and barley reached their highest production in 1904; except in 1902 the oat crop was never so great by 60,000.000 bushels. The present crop of rice promises a yield of 900,000,000 pounds—300,000,000 more than ever before. Horses and mules reach the high est point this year, with an aggregate value exceeding $1,354,000,000. On the other hand, cattle, sheep and hogs all show a slight decline. The steady advance in poultry leads to some astonishing figures. The farmers' hens now produce one and two-third billion dozens of eggs, and at the high average price of the year the hens during their busy season lay enough eggs in a single month to pay a year's interest on the national debt.

After a careful estimate of the immense value of the products of the farm during 1904, made within the census scope, it is safe to place the amount at $4,900,000,000 after excluding the value of farm crops fed to live stock in order to avoid duplication of values. This is 9.65 per cent above the product of 1903, and 31.28 per cent above that of the census year, 1899. Some comparisons are necessary to the realization of such an unthinkable value, aggregating nearly $5,000,000,000. The farmers of this country have in two years produced wealth exceeding the output of all the gold mines of the entire world since Columbus discovered America. This year's pro duct is over six times the amount of the capital stock of all national banks. It lacks but $750,000,000 of the values of manuractures of 1900, less the cost of materials used; it is three times the gross earnings from the operations of the railways, and four times the value of all materials produced in this country. Reviewing the increase in farm capital, the Secretary estimates it conservatively at $2,000,000,000 within four years—this without recognizing the marked increase in the value of land during the past two years. The most startling figures shown as illustrating the farmers' prosperity are those presented by deposits in the banks in the typical agricultural states. The Secretary selects for this illustration Iowa, Kansas and Mississippi. Taking all kinds of banks—national, state, private, and savings, the deposits increased from June 30, 1896, to Octobrr 31, 1904, in Iowa, 164 per cent; in Kansas 219 per cent, and in Mississippi 301 per cent—in the United States 91 per cent. A similar favorable comparison may be made as to the number of depositors.

Truly, the farmer is king in the financial world.

"Cattle," Eh?

"It is reported that several of the leading democrats are wanting to sell out and leave the county since the election, we hope they will succeed, such cattle ought to be turned out to grass, this county would be better off without them."—Peoples Advocate.

The Democrats of Shelby county will fully appreciate the above. This week a delegation of people left this county for Louisiana. We are told that a majority of this party is made up of populists, at least two-thirds. We suppose they go with the hope of bettering their condition. But because they are populists, Democrats or Republicans, and are leaving this county, would The Sentinel, or any other paper, be justified in calling them "cattle," and that the county would better off without them? Not a bit of it. We have a better opinion of Shelby county people, be they populist, Democrat or Republican.

Yesterday, John B. Farrell, who has been County Superintendent for the past two years, turned over his office to his successor, J. O. Dorough. The public schools of Shelby county have grown under Mr. Farrell's administration, and we trust his successor may make as good a showing at the close of his term of office. Mr. Farrell has been faithful to his trust, and has won the esteem of all the teachers.

MONTEVALLO.

Rev. J. Willis, pastor of the Baptist church is in the Lone Star State for a few weeks, assisting in a meeting. During his absence, Dr. F. M. Peterson and Rev. Mr. Harris have occupied his pulpit.

The ladies of the Methodist church have established a Womans Exchange, which is open Mondays and Saturdays, and with which they are doing a good business. Beginning next Saturday, Miss Adelaide Mahan, of Brierfield, will exhibit at the Exchange her collec- of sketches and drawings, which she is offering for sale. Miss Mahan is quite a talented artist, and a visit to her exhibit will be very entertaining.

Dr. W. H. Sanders, State Health Officer, was here Sunday looking over the situation at the School. He reports that the form of smallpox is very mild; that all precautions have been taken, and the prospects good that it will be confined to the six patients reported. Many of the girls have expressed a desire to take the disease in this mild form, and no one seems to be afraid of it.

The Baptist ladies are having their annual Bazaar, at the L-tham Hotel, this week, and have supplied the seekers for Xmas presents a golden opportunity to satisfy their desires.

J. W. Alexander, the popular mail carrier on Rural Delivery route 1, met with a painful accident last Wednesday. Near Elliotsville his horse became frightened and unmanageable. In jumping out of his buggy, he fractured his leg just above the ankle. The limb was set by Dr. Walker, and Mr. Alexander was brought home. His suffering has been intense; but he is over the worst and will soon be out again.

The street fair with us this week and we have a conglomeration of fakes, confetti and red mud.

The School cook arose during the small hours one day last week, and was wending his way to the dormitory to "work over" his bread, when he came in contact with a ghost. In the language of the pickaniny, he "fa'rly bu'nt wind," and was so "flustrated" he could not kneed the dough when he got to the kitchen. Residents along his route were unseasonably alarmed by his shouts of "Lord have mercy on me!" The "ghost" proved to be a gentleman in his night dress attempting to drive a trespassing cow from his yard.

Mr. Shaw, whose French leave was mentioned last week, is reported to have been seen making his way towards Calera and Georgia, after he left town. There is no longer any doubt that he went to his former home. Why he did not signify his purposes to his family is not known.

The "hello man" has up the poles between this point and Calera. We'll soon be in speaking distance of the rest of the world.

The following resolutions were adopted by the Masonic Conference, recently held in Montevallo:

To the Worshipful Master and Wardens of the Shelby County Masonic Conference:

We gratefully recognize the blessing of Almighty God in permitting us to assemble once again in masonic conference.

We hereby express our appreciation of the presence of Brother Angus M. Scott, whose untiring efforts to instruct us have been a blessing to us, and we pray God's blessing to rest upon him, and to give him many long years of usefulness.

We extend our sincere thanks to Brothers J. Alex. Moore and Francis M. Peterson, and all the officers and members of Central Lodge, No. 70, as well as to the citizens of Montevallo, for their cordial hospitality extended to us.

We go away with a high conception of the duties and principles of Masonry, and resolve to incorporate them into our daily lives.

JOHN HUGHES,
RUFUS LESTER,
Committee.

A large congregation attended services at the Presbyterian church last Sunday morning. President McIlwane, of the new Presbyterian Synodical College which is to be built in Anniston, preached a most interesting sermon, and Rev. Joseph Dunglinson, the pastor, preached at night. The rain at night kept many away from the service who desired to hear Rev. Dunglinson, but those who did go speak in high terms of the new pastor. Monday Dr. McIlwane put in a few hours among our people soliciting subscriptions for the college of which he has been elected president. An effort is being made to raise $100,000 by the time the school is ready to open, Contributions are divided into five equal annual payments, thus giving plenty of time to pay any obligation made.

The two little children of J. H. Mason, who are sick with fever. are improving.

An Outrage.

Information reached this place, Tuesday, of a most brutal outrage upon the person of James Vick, who lives near Wilsonville.

As the story was told to us, a letter (we did not learn to whom addressed) was received through the Wilsonvile postoffice saying the body of Jim Vick was tied to a tree on the opposite side of the Coosa river at Mardis' Ferry. Parties at once visited the place and found the unfortunate man. At first it was thought he was dead, but upon examination it was found he was alive, although in a precarious condition. He was at once removed to a house, and a more thorough examination showed he had been beaten in a terrible manner, one blow on the head probably fracturing the skull. He had regained partial consciousness yesterday, but not enough so to be able to give a coherent account of how he came to be in such a plight. He complained of his eyes, and it was found that something had been thrown into them, possibly ruining the sight of both. He is said to be in a critical condition.

The outrage is a most brutal one and it is hoped the perpetrators may be apprehended and severely dealt with.

Register White Reappointed.

The many friends of Hon. J. R. White will be glad to know that he has been reappointed Register in Chancery for this county by Chancellor W. W. Whitesides. Mr. White had the endorsement of the entire membership of the Shelby county bar. He has made an efficient Register—kind, accommodating and courteous to all who have had business with his office. His appointment is for six years.

It is also a pleasure to know that Mr. White is in better health than he has been in a long time, and that this is so all of his friends are glad to know.

Harvard Musical Club.

One of the most delightful entertainments ever given in Columbiana was that of the Harvard Musical Club last Saturday night. There isn't a weak member in the quartette of entertainers, but each member had a place to fill on the program, rounding it out full and complete.

The musical numbers, and especially the work of Mr. Cutter, were delightfully pleasing. The rendition of "Norma," from the grand opera of that name, by Mr. Adams on the French horn, was one of the best of the evening. The orchestra work is far above the average. and the versatility of the Club is shown in the last number, "A Night On the Fly"-sending the audience home in a splendid humor and well pleased.

A change in date, and the inclement weather kept many away, but those who heard the Harvard Club will be glad to have them visit Columbiana again.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

"I know not how true the tale may be,
I tell it as 'twas told to me."

Sam Wallace is visiting in Birmingham for a few days.

J. F. Pope, of Wilsonville, was in town last Thursday a few hours.

☞ These cool days a hot drink is just what you want. Go to the Latham Drug Co. for it.

Mrs. W. A. Parker is in Klein on a visit to her mother, Mrs. Wallace.

Clarence Smith was down from Wilsonville last Sunday, returning home Monday morning.

☞ For a delicious hot drink, go to Latham Drug Co. You will find there just what you want.

Several couples were up from Shelby last Saturday night to hear the Harvard Musical Club.

W. B. Browne is in Montgomery, attending the meeting of the Democratic electors of Alabama.

☞ Get a hot drink at the Latham Drug Co.'s store, and feel like a new person. They are fine.

John Minor, sen., from near Calvary, was a caller Monday, and renewed his subscription to The Sentinel.

☞ Have you tried the new hot drinks at the Latham Drug Co.'s store.

The street fair is attracting the little folks; and the big folks go along to care for the little ones, course.

Miss Lewetta Shipley, who has been the guest of Mrs. M. T. Wood for the past week, departed last Saturday for her home in Pittsburg, Pa.

Miss May High, who has been in the employ of the Hammond Millinery Co. for the past three months, departed for her home in Nashville last Monday.

Prof. Dowell informs The Sentinel that the total enrollment at the Columbiana Graded school to date is 189. A number of new pupils were enrolled yesterday.

The Hammond Millinery Co has removed its stock of goods into the Liles block, upstairs over Milner & Christian's hardware store, in the rooms formerly occupied by Dr. Hamner.

Miss Kathryn Smith, who has been attending school in Columbus, Miss., is visiting Miss Lizzie Sinnott in Tuscaloosa, and is expected in Columbiana in a few days to visit friends.

Quite a colony of people left on Monday for Louisiana where they go to make their future home. Shelby counts regrets to lose any of her people, but all wish them abundant success in their new home.

Miss Cora Martin, of Tennessee, lectured to a small audience in the court house last Sunday afternoon upon the subject of temperance. Many were deterred from going because of the rain. It is said Miss Martin handled her subject well.

W. J. Horsley has been appointed local agent for the Birmingham Title and Guaranty Co. in this city, and accompanied by his wife Mr. Horsley is now in Columbiana. The Sentinel received a pleasant call from the gentleman last Saturday.

The Sentinel has during the past week printed a lot of stationary and rate cards for the Wilsonville Telephone Company.

The Sentinel has received the following: "You are cordially invited to attend an exhibition and sale of sketches and paintings in oil, water color, pastel and black and white, by Miss Adelaide E. Mahan, at the rooms of the Woman's Exchange, Montevallo, December 10, 12 and 13." Miss Mahan lives in Brierfield, but has recently returned from New York and Novia Scotia where she has been for three years a pupil under the best artists in this country.

Will R. Averyt, formerly of Shelby, has opened a meat market in the Lester building, next to Henry Chapman's barber shop. It is Mr. Averyt's intention to keep fresh meats of all kinds, and as his shop is neat as a pin, there is little doubt that he will have a nice patronage. Mr. Averyt is a fine young man and our people are glad to have him locate in Columbiana.

It is with pleasure The Sentinel directs the attention of the bargain hunter to its advertising columns. You seldom go to a man's house unless he invites you; the same rule applies to the mercnant. If he wants your patronage he generally invites you with printer's ink. Patronize our advertisers and tell them you saw their advertisement in The Sentinel.

C. C. DuBose returned from Indianapolis last week. It had been the intention of Mr. DuBose to bring his little girls back to Columbiana when he left here, but they have been going to school in Indiana, and he thought it best to leave them with their grand parents this winter. He says they are all in the very best of health.

There was a gloomy outlook for the street fair the fore part of this week, the weather was so bad, but it has cleared off, and the attendance has been quite large. The fair attractions are under the management of gentlemen, and there is nothing to jar the sensibilities of anyone. Montevallo has a street fair also this week.

There are a number of pretty show windows in town, generally containing a display of holiday goods. The goods displayed show a taste in purchasing, and a little advertising from those who are not using printer's ink, might help to swell each day's receipts.

The Sentinel man was stumped one day last week when a bright little urchin, who attends the Columbiana Graded school, asked: "What becomes of the wind when it don't blow?" Our only way out of the matter was to tell him to ask Prof. Dowell.

Mrs. Howard Latham returned from Montevallo Tuesday, where she has been visiting her parents for the past three months. Mr. and Mrs. Latham are housekeeping in the Lester cottage on West College street.

J. W. Garris, of near Shelby, was in town yesterday.

How would you like to be the man in the balloon?

Leo Friedberger was a visitor to Birmingham Sunday.

Hosea Pearson, of Farmer, was in town a few hours yesterday.

Geo. D. Campbell will visit with relatives in Atlanta during the holidays.

Judge J. L. Peters visited with his children in Montevallo Sunday and Monday.

Miss Edna Nelson returned yesterday from a visit with friends in Eutaw and Marion.

Major John Bolin, one of the prosperous farmers of beat 9, was in town last Saturday.

Mrs. J. W. M. Page and children are slowly recovering from a serious spell of sickness.

The many friends of Mrs. Ellie Christian are glad to know she is convalescing after a serious sickness.

Miss Cora Morgan, who has been visiting the Misses Kroell in Montevallo for a short time, has returned home.

James McGowan, another good friend of The Sentinel, came in and renewed his subscription for another year, this week.

Rufus Lester has gone to Montgomery to attend the Masonic Grand Lodge which is in session in that city this week.

Just after we had printed the first pages of this issue, in which we suggested the making of some street crossings of cinder and slag, lo, and the suggestion was followed out. Was it telepathy?

The Latham Drug Co. is going to give away that fine doll which may now be seen in their show window. Read the change in the advertisement and you will know just how they are going to do it

Hammond Millinery Company has moved its millinery parlors upstairs over Milner & Christian's store, where it is better prepared to give you attention than ever before.

Roberts & Robertson have a new advertisement this week in which they talk "Christmas Gifts." A beautiful display of holiday goods may be seen at their store, and Harry and Jim will be glad to see you. Take the little folks, too.

Here is your opportunity to get a Victor talking machine. Read the new advertisement of T. J. Weaver & Co. in this issue and learn all about it. This firm has displayed a varied line of holiday goods which you are cordially invited to inspect.

J. H. Abercrombie & Son make a bid for a share of the patronage of the public through the medium of The Sentinel this week. Read their advertisement and go to see them. They have a nice stock of new goods and will treat you right.

Most of those pupils who stayed at home for a few days thinking some of the pupils had taken scarlet fever, have nearly all returned, so we are informed by Prof. Dowell. There is no doubt that among all the sick there is not a single case of genuine scarlet fever. The Sentinel is informed that it is more like scarletina than anything else. If this be true every parent in Columbiana will breathe a sigh of relief.

Nor the next Thirty Days our entire line of ready to wear goods to go at cost. See us over Milner & Christian's store.

Hammond Millinery Co.

The Sentinel is requested to say that Dr. Montague, president of Howard College, will preach at the Baptist church in this city on Sunday December 18th. Dr. Montague is an able minister, and our people will be glad to hear this distinguished divine. The Baptist congregation has not yet called a pastor to succeed Rev. Mr. Upshaw, and until they do their pulpit will be supplied on their regular Sunday—the third one in each month. All are cordially invited to go and hear Dr. Montague.

Notice.

EVERY WALK IN LIFE.

A. A. Boyce, a farmer, living three and a half miles from Trenton, Mo., says: "A severe cold settled in my kidneys and developed so quickly that I was obliged to lay off work on account of the aching in my back and sides. For a time I was unable to walk at all, and every make-shift I tried and all the medicine I took had not the slightest effect. My back continued to grow weaker until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills, and I must say I was more than surprised and gratified to notice the back ache disappearing gradually until it finally stopped."

Doan's Kidney Pills sold by all dealers or mailed on receipt of price, 50 cents per box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Not a "Dead-game Sportess."

A notable sporting event came off at York 100 years ago. The wife of Colonel Thornton, a well-known citizen, had backed herself to race against Mr. Flint for 500 guineas a side. The crowd was estimated at 100,000, ten times as many as had been present even to see Eclipse first and the rest nowhere. For three miles Mrs. Thornton led, but her horse had "much the shorter stake of the two," and Mr. Flint then forged ahead, and Mrs. Thornton gave up in mercy to her horse. She was much less tender to Mr. Flint. A few days later the York Herald contained a letter from her accusing him of lack of gallantry in refusing to allow a gentleman to ride round with her, so as to be handy for the rescue if her saddle slipped round, as it had done a few days before; in saying, "Keep that side, ma'am," gruffly to her at the starting point, and beating her as badly as he could. She defiantly challenged him again for the next year.—London Chronicle.

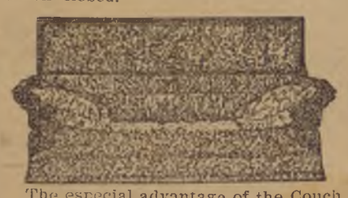
A NEW-STYLE CASKET.

An Innovation Which Does Away With the Uncomfortable-Appearing Coffin.

It is not so much what you pay for, nor what you pay, but what you get that needs your attention in the selection of a casket, for the genius of the twentieth century has been just as busy in the way of funeral furnishings as in other line, until today the styles of caskets are quite different from what they were fifty years ago and changing every day.

This is especially true in Metallic Caskets, the old style heavy cast iron goods having given away to the more up-to-date copper linings which are neatly fitted into the best grades of varnished or cloth covered work.

One of the latest designs as recently brought out by the National Casket Co., is what is designated as a Couch Casket, which has the appearance of a comfortable couch when open, yet retains all the requisite outlines of the best styles in regular casket work when closed.



The especial advantage of the Couch Casket is found in its relief from that stiffness usually noted in all other designs, and impressing the minds of the friends as well as that of the family with a feeling of peace and restfulness not known before.

If it is desired to retain all of the preservation qualities as found in the copper linings, the Couch Casket can be enclosed in a metal lined outside box, which will then answer the double purpose of preserving both the casket as well as the remains.

All undertakers in the south should be in a position to furnish these latest improved goods, as the National Casket Co's. large plant at Nashville, Tenn., has been especially fitted up for furnishing them on short notice, and large sales already proves that their efforts are being appreciated by the best class of people everywhere.

MEXICAN CHIVALRY.

Shrewish and Sodden Hag Defferentially Treated by a Cop.

She was an old hag. Her face was wrinkled with the scars of dissipation, and her claw-like fingers would have been envied by the one whose lot it is to play the witch's part. Her gray hair fell over her shoulders in a wet and stringly tangle, while the few rags she wore completed the picture of misfortune. She was drunk and foully abusive, but the policeman who found her on Independencia street saw beneath all disguises the evidence that she was a woman, and that to him was enough to guarantee her the courtilest protection he could give and yet perform his duty.

He placed her under arrest and told her to accompany him to the Sixth comissaria. She refused to go, probably not so much because it meant going to jail as because she was unable to comprehend why he should want her to go any place. As he argued with her a small crowd collected, and the infuriated old woman cursed and spit at the bystanders for their curiosity. Some suggested to the officer that he forcibly take her to the station. But in the wrinkles that filled her face and the long bony fingers and stooped form he recognized the evidences of a life in which much toil must have been mingled with the vices to which she was evidently now the slave. He refused, and for ten minutes argued with the woman, but his only responses were curses and threats.

Then this uniformed representative of the law with a club at his side and a revolver in his belt, and a strength enough to carry her the block that separated them from the station, paid tribute to the sex of this crazed creature of the streets. He told her he had appointment up the street, but that unless she would accompany him it would be impossible for him to keep it. This seemed to appeal to her, and she took the offered arm of the man she had accepted as an escort, and the two marched slowly down the street.—Mexican Herald.

The Diamonds of St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg society is brilliant, not only by reason of the diamonds and beauty of its women, but also owing to the splendid uniforms and blazing decorations of its men. The ladies wore such diamonds as are only seen at exhibitions or in the windows of a fashionable jeweller. The diamonds of St. Petersburg are famous, for not only do they frequently measure half an inch across, but their diameter is as frequently the same. Your representative was dazzled by a succession of solid stones whose weight could only be reckoned in avoirdupois.

The jewels one sees at Covent Garden are slim and puny baubles by comparison. St. Petersburg seems to buy its diamonds by the pound, and the wealth "of Ormuz and of Ind" scintillates in the ears and round the slender throats of its fair women.—London Mail.

The Champion Meat Eaters.

Despite the fact that the census reports show Americans are steadily drifting toward vegetarianism, we are still the greatest meat eaters in the world. Our meat still costs us every year $100,000,000 more than our vegetables (including imported vegetable foods). In the aggregate we Americans pay every year about $2,250,000,000 for food, or about $30 a year (for the raw food) for each person.

In addition to the foregoing it may interest you to know that among the meat foods the egg bill ($143,300,000) is greater than that for any other item except cattle ($432,600,000) and sheep ($170,000,000); and that the bill for milk, butter and cheese ($122,000,000) is nearly four times as large as that for fish, oysters, and all other sea foods.—Pearson's.

A Wonderful Jewel.

The most extraordinary pearl—or, rather, cluster of pearls—known as "The Southern Cross"—is owned by a syndicate of Australian gentlemen, who value it at $50,000. So far as is known it occupies an absolutely unique position. It consists of nine pearls naturally grown together in so regular a manner as to form a perfect Latin cross. The pearl was discovered by a pearl fisher at Roebourne, West Australia. The first owner regarded it with so much superstition that he buried it, but it was discovered in 1874, and five years later was placed on exhibition in Australia.

Newton is the most common of town names in England. It occurs either alone or with some afix no less than 22 times.

SAHARA'S STRANGE CITY.

Arauan Exists Solely on Account of Its Supply of Water.

France's growing influence in the Sahara has just been illustrated in a remarkable manner. The inhabitants of the famous town of Arauan sent their leading men to France, voluntarily offering to place their town under the government of France. They asked that officals be sent ther to establish French rule.

The French had not been within many miles of the place. Only two white men had ever seen it. One of them was Major Laing, who passed through Arauan in 1820, and a day or two later was murdered near the town.

The other was an Austrian explorer, Lenz, who visited Arauan in 1880 and wrote the only description of it that we possess. He found that the sheik who ruled Arauan had in his possession the papers and other property of the murdered Laing, but would not part with them. There is little doubt that France will now secure them and that the mystery of the later adventures of this daring explorer will be cleared up.

There is no other town in the Sahara like Arauan. It cannot be called an oasis, for it is in the midst of the wildest sand waste in the great desert, and scarcely a blade of grass grows there.

There is enough vegetation to feed a few sheep and camels, but the people seldom have any fodder to sell, and yet there is good reason why about one hundred houses have stood here for generations among the great sand dunes that tower around them.

From the flat roofs of the houses nothing can be seen but the pale yellow sand hills. It would be inconceivable that human beings could live in such a place if we did not know that the town has an extraordinarily large quantity of water.

Arauan occupies a depression in the desert, and though water is obtained only by digging very deep wells it is in inexhaustible supply. The town is on the caravan route from Timbuktu, and at Arauan one branch of the road leads to Algeria and the other to Morocco.

No caravan is so large that it cannot be supplied there with all the water it needs. It is the one commodity of the place. The inhabitants make their living by selling it.

There are two reasons why the people have not been able, even with boundless water resources, to create an island of verdure in the midst of the frightful sand waste. In the first place the water is drawn only from very deep wells and the labor of arising it would make it impossible to cultivate any large area.

Then the sand is very deep and only in a few small areas can soil be reached on which crops can be grown. Water will not make grass and olive trees grow where their roots would penetrate no kind of earth save minute fragments of quartz.

So the supplies for the people of Arauan have always been brought from Timbuktu, 130 miles to the south. Water pays for everything they possess excepting the clay of which their houses are built, and this they obtain when they dig their deep wells, for the excavations extend through the sandy surface to clay beds.

The fact that the people would starve if Timbuktu were not their granary doubtless explains the voluntary submission of this desert folk to the French. Timbuktu is now the capital of a large district in the French western Sudan. The natives have water, but the only sources of their food supply are in the hands of white men.

This is the reason why these isolated and fanatical people have gone to the whites to beg for friendship and protection.—New York Sun.

Thieving has become so prevalent in Standford University that President Jordan has issued an appeal to the whole student body to assist him in running down the criminals.

HAPPY CHILDHOOD.

Right Food Makes Happy Children Because They Are Healthy.

Sometimes milk does not agree with children or adults. The same thing is true of other articles of food. What agrees with one sometimes does not agree with others.

But food can be so prepared that it will agree with the weakest stomach. As an illustration—anyone, no matter how weak the stomach, can eat, relish and digest a nice hot cup of Postum coffee with a spoonful or two of Grape-Nuts poured in, and such a combination contains nourishment to carry one a number of hours, for almost every particle of it will be digested and taken up by the system and be made use of.

A lady writes from the land of the Magnolia and the mocking bird way down in Alabama and says: "I was led to drink Postum because coffee gave me sour stomach and made me nervous. Again Postum was recommended by two well known physicians for my children, and I feel especially grateful for the benefit derived.

"Milk does not agree with either child, so to the eldest, aged four and one-half years, I give Postum with plenty of sweet cream. It agrees with her splendidly, regulating her bowels perfectly, although she is of a constipated habit.

"For the youngest, aged two and one-half years, I use one-half Postum and one-half skimmed milk. I have not given any medicine since the children began using Postum, and they enjoy every drop of it.

"A neighbor of mine is giving Postum to her baby lately weaned, with splendid results. The little fellow is thriving famously." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Postum agrees perfectly with children and supplies adults with the hot, invigorating beverage in place of coffee. Literally thousands of Americans have been helped out of stomach and nervous diseases by leaving off coffee and using Postum Food Coffee. Look in package for the little book, "The Road to Wellville."

A VERY CROOKED RAILWAY.

Steepest, Narrowest and Most Tortuous in the World.

Between the mining towns of Clifton and Metcalf, Ari., there runs the steepest, narrowest and most tortuous railroad in the world.

Passengers, as well as long trains of ore, are raced down dizzy grades, dragged up steep inclines, swung around sweeping curves, and carried in perfect safety in a snakelike course over one of the most picturesque bits of mountain land in the country.

The compact and sturdy little engines which draw the precious metal from the mines in one town to the smelters in another or which puff and steam up to the front or back doors of the homes of mine owners and "workers," there to await the mistress of the house as she prepares to take the entime family to market or make an afternoon call, run on a 20-inch gauge.

It will be readily seen how narrow is this railroad which winds up to the very peaks of high mountains, hangs suspended over deep canons, and bores its glittering way through miles of solid rock, when the 20 inches are put side by side with the standard 4 feet 8 1-2 inches.

From the mines to the smelting works it is pretty much down grade. The plucky little engine, with its train of eighteen or twenty heavily loaded ore cars, each guarded by a miner in picturesque garb, who takes this opportunity to secure a little fresh air and sunlight, hugs the mountains for miles at a stretch, then suddenly swings into a desolate valley and tears along a river bank until it is forced to climb a slight incline to a bridge which stretches over a yawning canon. There are three of these bridges from Metcalf mines to Clifton smelting works, and the trestle work ranges from 125 to 135 feet in height.

From mines to smelter is twenty miles, so circuitous is the route; the trains tear down the mountain sides at the rate of 60 miles an hour with power at the lowest possible gauge. Heavy brakes are used on each ore car and the locomotive, although a powerful little puller, is seldom called into service on this downward trip, which is made for sixteen of the twenty miles with brakes on full.

Automatic dumping cars are used, and in 54 minutes from the time the train starts from a mine with its load it is ready to start on its backward trip empty. Up, up, up, the train climbs, the ascent never being less than twenty degrees, it reaches in sections such heights that the brain turns dizzy at the mere thought. From a station in the valley, in the little village of Metcalf, the cars seem to be clawing the mountain sides in a perfectly perpendicular line, and as the lanterns swing out when the train takes a loop the traveler seeing it for the first time would be readily excused for naming it some new mountain terror.

The trip back to the mines consumes nearly four hours, for the little engine, which was literally pushed down the mountains by the weight of its train, is now obliged to pull the empty cars up grades which test its timbre to the fullest.

An idea of how winding is the route will be gained when it is known that Clifton is but five miles from Metcalf as the crow flies, but as the railroad is obliged to wind its way it is a trifle over twenty miles. To get the circuit even within this limit whole mountains of solid rock have been tunneled.

For nearly one mile the Morenci railroad carries its trains through inky blackness. Jagged rocks are overhead and on each side. A passageway was literally hewn and hacked through these rock mountains, for it was deemed dangerous to use dynamite in many places, as the nature of the secret gas pockets therein were unknown. Two and a half years it took to complete this tunnel, but when it was finished it cut nearly five miles off the route.—Chicago Chronicle.

Inventor of Picture Postal Cards.

The German press has announced the death of one who claimed to have first had the idea, in 1872, of reproducing pictures and portraits on the backs of postcards. But France now comes forward with a previous title, dating from the year 1870. A small bookseller of the town of Sille-le-Guillaume, in the Sarthe department, litographed on the back of a number of postcards a design, which found a ready sale among the Mobile Guards of the camp at Conlie. Several of these cards still exist.

The design consisted of two allegorical piles of arms, and the inscription was "War of 1870, Conlie Camp. Souvenir of the National Defense. The Brittany Army." Then followed three lines upon which the Mobile Guard could write his name and a message. It was an easy way for the country folk in camp to let their families know that they were well; and although M. Besnardeu, the bookseller, sold many of these cards, he could certainly never imagined what an industry the manufacture of picture postcards was destined to become 35 years later.—London Standard.

Postal Employes.

Some interesting statistics have recently been published by the Universal Postal union as to the number of postal employes in the different countries composing the union. Germany heads thelist with 242,000, the United States comes next with 239,000 and Great Britain is third with 184,000. None of the other states in the postal union possess 100,000 postal employes. France has 81,000, Austria 59,000, Russia 57,962, Japan 57,965. Every other country falls below 50,000.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Street Car Company Party to Divorce Suit.

Myron E. Ross and the Metropolitan Street Railway company are made joint defendants in a divorce suit filed in the circuit court yesterday by Pearl L. Ross. This odd case arose out of a judgment that was obtained by Myron Ross of $2000 against the street railway company, and which it is the wish of the wife to share. The divorce was filed pending the result of the damage suit, and it was refiled in order to embody the judgment feature for alimony.—Kansas City Times.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I am one of the many of your grateful friends who have been cured through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and who can to-day thank you for the fine health I enjoy. When I was thirty-five years old, I suffered severe backache and frequent bearing-down pains; in fact, I had womb trouble. I was very anxious to get well, and reading of the cures your Compound had made, I decided to try it. I took only six bottles, but it built me up and cured me entirely of my troubles.

"My family and relatives were naturally as gratified as I was. My niece had heart trouble and nervous prostration, and was considered incurable. She took your Vegetable Compound and it cured her in a short time, and she became well and strong, and her home to her great joy and her husband's delight was blessed with a baby. I know of a number of others who have been cured of different kinds of female trouble, and am satisfied that your Compound is the best medicine for sick women."—MRS. ELIZABETH H. COLUMBIANA SENTINEL.

ESTABLISHED 1875. COLUMBIANA, ALA., DECEMBER 15 1904. VOL. 30. NO. 16

COTTON SITUATION

President Jordan issues an appeal. All sections stirred to action

FARMERS URGED TO HOLD COTTON.

All Producers Urged to Attend National Cotton Convention—Mass Meetings Being Held.

Montgomery, Ala.—That there is to be concerted action on the part of leading cotton growers in the south looking toward the restoration of prices for the staple is proved by the agitation now in progress in every section of the south.

Commissioner of Agriculture R. R. Poole received a telegram from Greenville, Tex., signed by E. S. Pettus and N. C. Murray, telling of a mass meeting of cotton representatives from Texas, Oklahoma Territory and Indian Territory to be held on December 17th in Greenville. At this big mass meeting important resolutions will be drawn urging planters in other states to hold their cotton, assuring the people that Texas would hold on to its residue crop.

Commissioner Poole has also received a communication from H. M. Burt, of Talladega, who suggests most earnestly that he urge the cotton planters of Alabama to hold their remaining crop until the price goes back to ten cents. Mr. Burt said:

The bears are determined to rob the people of their labor and will do so if we only permit it."

Jordan's Appeal.

A lengthy appeal to the south, including merchants, bankers and planters, sent out by Harvie Jordan, of Monticello, Ga., president of the Southern Cotton Growers' Association, has gained wide circulation.

"The bearish bureau report issued from the department of agriculture on December 3d, indicating a crop of 12,162,000 bales, gave the speculators the opportunity they had been praying for," says President Jordan in his appeal, "and in less than thirty minutes nearly $30,000,000 in value was struck from the pockets of southern farmers.

"Every dollar's loss on cotton sold at present prices will go into the pockets of these speculators, and it remains for the present owners and holders of at least 5,000,000 bales of this crop to say whether this unrighteous hold-up and high-handed robbery shall be quietly submitted to."

President Jordan declares that the bureau report just issued is in excess of this year's cotton yield and attaches no confidence in the ginners report.

"I now call upon every producer who is holding cotton, and who can possibly do so, to attend the National Cotton convention to be held in Shreveport, La., December 12, 13, 14 and 15." Continuing, the president of the association says: "there to take definite action looking to the holding of the balance of the crop until prices advance."

At this convention it will be the sense of the leaders that next year's cotton acreage should be reduced 25 per cent and the crop be cut down to about 10,000,000 bales.

Suggestion to Burn All the Surplus Cotton.

Courtland, Ala.—The people of Lawrence county, and particularly that section adjacent to Courtland, are as patriotic as any on earth and are willing to contribute their full share to the general prosperity of the south. The government report on the cotton crop found a great many of them with hundreds of bales of cotton on hand and not all of their debts paid. When the report came out, as is now a matter of history, the price of the staple, on which the south relied for a livelihood, dropped below the cost of production.

With the view of discussing ways and means of reducing the ruin, a few of the representative men of this community met and promulgated the plans and resolutions set out below. The originators of these suggestions do not know that they will accomplish the desired end, but they are all willing to sacrifice their holdings to a large extent to alleviate the common misfortune. The address is as follows:

"To Newspapers, Cotton Exchanges, Merchants and Cotton Growers:

"We believe that the government estimate of the cotton crop is too large by 750,000 bales, but should we be mistaken what plan is best to dispose of the surplus? With the co-operation of cotton growers, merchants and cotton exchanges of the cotton belt, why can not a plan by all interested be formed to voluntarily contribute from each cotton growing state a sufficient number of bales of cotton, based on the production of each state, to make 1,000,000 bales, this to be burned or otherwise destroyed under the supervision of the Cotton Exchange, Board of Trade or corporate authorities of the town or community in which it is grown? If this plan is feasible we, the undersigned citizens of Courtland, Lawrence county, Alabama, obligate ourselves to contribute our pro rata share of cotton, be it fifty bales or more, as a starter to reduce this surplus and obtain a fair price for the balance of the crop."

The gentlemen who have signed the above are representative business men of this community.

Texas Growers Will Hold.

New Orleans.—Some strength was given to the cotton market today by a telegram to W. P. Brown, from President Peters, of the Texas Cotton Growers' Association, and other prominent Texas cotton men. The telegram said that a mass meeting of cotton planters had been called in every county in Texas, Indian Territory and Oklahoma to take place December 17th to devise ways and means to hold cotton. It was added that Texas would hold hers.

It was considered not improbable that a meeting of the planters and country bankers in all the southern states growing cotton would be held here about the date of the Texas meeting to consider means to meet the conditions imposed by the report of the bureau of agriculture.

North Carolina Loyal.

Raleigh, N. C.—Some of the best informed cotton men in North Carolina say positively that the growers here will hold all of their crop they can. They are now preparing to store cotton, and can, of course, secure advances upon it. A proposition is made in one of the leading papers in the state that the cotton growers shall unite, put only 20 per cent of their crops on the market, making a solemn pledge to this effect and also pledge themselves to reduce acreage next season 20 per cent. It is urged that these pledges be filed with the state commissioner of agriculture. Some persons have contended that the farmers will not work together and can not be all gotton in line, but that some will try to overreach each other. In reply it is pointed out that they did all unite in refusing to use cotton bagging made by the trusts and so put the latter out of business. It is further shown that the North Carolina tobacco growers united this year and reduced their acreage from 20 to 50 per cent in accordance with agreement. The farmers think 10 cents per pound is the fair and correct price for their cotton and the action suggested is in the line obtaining that figure.

A Georgia Man's Opinion.

Macon, Ga.—A new theory has been advanced for the recent slumps in the market price of cotton. William McEwen Johnston, the cotton mill operator of this city, attributes the decline in part to the predictions of a large crop made by certain cotton men of the north, enforced by misrepresentative statements of the condition of affairs down south.

Mr. Johnston says such men as Theodore H. Price, of New York, are influenced by selfish motives in circulating certain reports in the shape of letters and statements through the press with regard to such an enormous cotton crop for this year. Quoting from T. H. Price's cotton letter of Wednesday, where he predicts that this year's cotton crop will be 13,000,000 bales, Mr. Johnston suggests that the men who make such estimates are themselves interested in the market price of cotton from a financial standpoint; that they wish to produce a bearish effect on the market so as to be able to buy low and sell high.

To substantiate his view Mr. Johnston permits the newspapers to publish a letter received from a friend in Texas, whom he knows to be undoubtedly reliable. The letter contains the following:

"T. H. Price sent down here a week or more ago to have some one to have some photographs taken of cotton being picked, if it did not cost over $25, and sent to him at once. They found one field (only a corner of it) and they put some negroes in it and then went to picking, and I suppose Price exhibited this and beared the market—a clear misrepresentation of the condition of things here."

To further show that this was in truth the intention of Price when he sent to Texas for the photographs, Mr. Johnston cites Price's cotton letter of Wednesday, in which he says:

"I am supplied with photographs of a number of fields in the south which I shall shortly publish, and which gives indisputable evidence of the fact that a large amount of cotton is still unpicked." Backed by the letter of his friend in Texas, Mr. Johnston declares that if these photographs are exhibited they will grossly misrepresent the actual conditions down south, giving color, as they will, to cotton predictions continually made by Price—thereby producing more decided slumps in the market price of cotton than have heretofore been the order of the day.

Iron is Booming.

There is a strong demand still for pig iron in the Birmingham district, and some nice sales are being made. The quotations remain firm at from $13.50 to $13.75 for No. 2 foundry. One of the larger interests in the district announces that the sales from day to day this month have been greater than the make from day to day. In other words, the sales with this company so far in December aggregate more than the production.

Japan's Credit.

From the New York Times.

Uncle Sam smiles on the Jap as a borrower and will discount his paper with pleasure. The little brown Oriental's credit is good everywhere, even in Moscow, where the capitalists have quite a snug lot of Japanese securities stored away, rated as gilt-edged even in the financial schedules of those who are at war with them.

State Treasurer Reports.

Montgomery, Ala.—State Treasurer J. Craig Smith gave out his annual report to the governor, which is for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1904. The report comprises all receipts and disbursements by this department during the fiscal year, also a condensed statement of the bonded debt of the state, with a numerical list of coupon bonds, exchanged and superseded by registered bonds.

According to his report there was a balance on hand at the close of business, September 30, 1904, $1,191,624.43. There was a balance on hand on September 30, 1903, of $994,056.56. Receipts from October 1, 1903, to September 30, 1894, were $3,201,339.71. The disbursements for the fiscal year were $3,003,771.84. The general fund amounted to $1,858,143.80. In the general fund is included the money received from the convict bureau for hire of convicts, which amounted to $495,109.54, insurance department $85,854.30, department of agriculture $72,143.66, licenses, general, $308,000.37, from state taxes of 1903, $709,051.66, tax on record of mortgages, $59,321.99, and several other smaller items.

For the education fund there was received $1,017,797.49. Poll taxes paid $125,932.29 of this. The total bonded indebtedness of the state is $9,357,600. There are $185,400 worth of bonds that have been barred by the statute of limitation. The annual interest on the standing bonds amount to $448,680.

Alabama Officials Clash.

Washington—Two Alabama officials came to blows in the office of the assistant secretary of the treasury. William F. Tebbetts, collector of customs at Mobile, was the slightly injured party, and J. O. Thompson collector of internal revenue, administered the blow. Mr. Thompson, Postmaster Hughes and Mr. J. B. Cobbs, president of the Alabama National bank, dropped into the office of Secretary Armstrong to pay their respects. Mr. Tebbetts was at the time engaged in conversation with the secretary, and in response to a salutation Thompson gave to the secretary and Mr. Tebbetts the latter failed to respond, but left the desk and took a seat on a nearby sofa. It is claimed by friends of Thompson that he paid no attention to Tebbetts' action, believing that it had not been noticed by the secretary. Tebbetts, however, is reported to have risen from his place and walked deliberately between the secretary and Thompson over to Cobbs and Hughes, whom he greeted ver ycordially, ignoring Thompson. The slight offered Thompson then became apparent to all present, and the Birmingham collector at once resented it.

"I can not be insulted in this manner," Mr. Thompson is reported as saying to Tebbetts, "and you are an infamous scoundrel, sir."

Tebbetts walked over to where Secretary Armstrong was standing and is said to have replied, "You are an infamous scoundrel."

The words had hardly left Tebbetts' mouth before Thompson's fist landed on his face and the secretary's office was in an uproar. The blow struck by Thompson was not a very severe one, and Tebbetts managed to stand up under it.

Oil in Alabama.

Decatur, Ala.—The reports printed in the daily press all over the country to the effect that Major John W. Otley had made a rich find of oil at Humble, Tex., has awakened much interest throughout north Alabama from the fact that in 1901 the United States government sent Major Otley to north Alabama to make a geological survey of this section.

In his report of the oil fields of north Alabama, Major Otley has this to say:

"The points recently examined were the most pronounced I have ever met with, and I unhesitatingly pronounce these fields in Morgan, Lawrence, Franklin and Colbert counties equal to any fields east of the Mississippi basin."

Major Otley's opinion of oil fields has proven to be correct in every particular in those sections where a thorough test has been made. It was Major Otley who located the great oil fields at Beaumont, Tex., a few years ago for Captain A. F. Lucas. It is the belief of the people here that oil in paying quanties for this region can be found here.

Speaking further of this locality as an oil field, Major Otley said: "The north Alabama oil fields are located in the Hartselle, Decatur, Russellville and Moulton valley sections of north Alabama. This field is an extension of the great Appalachian oil belt which extends from Canada to the gulf of Mexico. The development of this section of north Alabama will undoubtedly prove a very rich field in both illuminating and lubricating oil.

Wells are now being drilled near Huntsville, Ala., in Madison county, near Athens, Ala., in Limestone county, and at several points in southern Tennessee near the Alabama line.

Central Contracts for Cars.

Macon, Ga.—A special to the Telegraph from Waycross, Ga., says that the Atlantic Car and Manufacturing Company of Waycross yesterday closed contracts with the Central of Georgia railroad for the construction of 500 freight cars to be delivered early next year. This contract will mean the employment of 400 workmen at the car factory for at least three months.

NEW CAPITOL NEEDED

Alabama's Famous Old State House is now inadequate for present requirements.

BOND ISSUE PROPOSED.

Last Legislature Appropriated $150,000 for Repairs—This Amount Not Sufficient.

Montgomery, Ala.—Alabama's need of a modern building for the transaction of the business of the commonwealth is so apparent that he who even walks along the street may read and appreciate it. It was so plain to the last session of the legislature that $150,000 was appropriated with which to repair the old building now used as a capitol. Not an officer of the state but is brought face to face with the necessity a dozen painful times a day. Quarters are cramped and crowded, books and records are, from the lack of filing space, left exposed to the dirt and atmosphere, and much of the furniture in use was bought many decades ago. One thing or another has delayed the commencement of work on repairs authorized in the already mentioned appropriation until it is beginning to be believed that the problem of making the present old structure at all comfortable with the money available is too great for the capitol improvement commission to solve. With this comes the query: "Why improve at all?" and the consequent interrogation, "Why not build a capitol in keeping with the importance of the state, and adequate to all the present and constantly growing demands of the many and varied business interests?" This question was put to a member of the commission this week. "That may yet be the outcome," he replied. Why should Mississippi, with nothing but its farming and lumber interests, be more able to own and enjoy a million dollar capitol built on modern and convenient plans than Alabama, the iron price maker of the world, owner of scores of furnaces and the only practical steel and steel rail-making industries of the south?

Why Not Build?

Why not build a modern capitol? The question is asked often enough to be noticeable, but the idea is by no means generally discussed, or for that matter, popular, so far as can be ascertained. But why not? Birmingham could furnish the iron and steel for the frame work, Montgomery the timber and high-grade lumbers, Talladega county the marble, Franklin the stone, Mobile the fine imported goods for its furnishings, and the whole state join in many other things needed to complete the needs of such a structure. The old building could be utilized and so put to service as to preserve its sacred memories and retain its beloved surroundings. Nowhere in the whole world is there a prettier site for a beautiful architectural pile than Capitol Hill, and no street in Washington even is capable of being made more beautiful than historic Dexter avenue, by which the capitol is reached from the city proper. With the land now being sued for by the state on condemnatory proceedings, the very highest conception of architectural beauty and lawn and garden symmetry could be exemplified. With the old building in use in memory of its having sheltered the infant confederacy at its birth, the splendid monument to keep ever green the glorious deeds of Alabama's sons in the struggle to maintain the new nation, and a magnificent temple to emphasize the modern spirit and push and enterprise, Alabama coul dand would stand squarely up in the front line with the great states of Uncle Sam's united family. This may not be done, and likely will not soon, but every person who loves the grand old commonwealth and wishes it to be seen and known of the whole world for what it surely is in the modern thought and industry of the nation, would rejoice in such a consummation.

Some idea of the expansion of our Pacific commerce is shown in the statement that on one day during the past week there were shipped from Tacoma, Wash., 30,000 tons of cargo, chiefly army supplies for Japan, of the value of $1,500,000. The freight included locomotives, cars, structural steel, tobacco, electrical supplies, 3,500 bales of cotton, 10,000 barrels of salmon and 50,000 barrels of flour, besides a large amount of miscellaneous articles. Large quantities of steel rails are also being shipped to Japan, four cargoes of them having been forwarded within a few weeks. The shipment of cotton from a point so remote from the field of its production illustrates what a saving of freight will be effected by the Panama canal.

Bubonic Plague in Brazil.

New York—Four cases of bubonic plague are reported in Para according to a Herald dispatch from Rio Janeiro, Brazil.

Washington, D. C.—Mr. Roosevelt has practically given up the idea of calling an extra session of congress in the spring for consideration of tariff revision. He will, however, in all probability call a session for this purpose in October.

Must Pay Up.

The present state administration is conducted on the principle of "pay what thou owest." If peaceably, all right, but, after a contest in the Governor Cunningham and Attorney courts, if necessary. Just now, Acting General Wilson are suing for two big sums, one against the Continental Trust Company, of Baltimore, for $75,000 mortgage tax record fees, and the other against the Fidelity Deposit Company, of Baltimore, for $12,000 alleged shortage in the accounts of John Case, former tax collector of Mobile county. It is confidently believed that both amounts are justly due, and will be secured. The idea of following out business methods is not altogether a new one in Alabama, however. Governor Jelks and his predecessors having set good example along this line. It is interesting to note that if these two sums are collected they should net the state about $85,000, which would pay salaries to even two governors for eight and one-half years, and be quite a feather in the official headgear of the officials now conducting the litigations.

New Bond Issue.

Another question just now under consideration is the refunding of the state debt, which may or may not be taken up by the acting governor, who is making a study of the situation in all its features.

Of the $9,537,600 of the debt, $9,903,600 will be due in 1906, part in January and part in June. Governor Jelks, who is ill in New Mexico, wishes this matter put off until he can get back to his desk if possible, and as it is said now that he is improving so rapidly as to promise return by the early part of the new year, he may be able to take the duty in hand. It is regarded as certain that whoever negotiates the refunding, a good contract can be made, as the state is rich in not only its industries and lands, but income as well. Many have suggested that the people of the state be allowed to subscribe to a new issue on a popular plan. The impression is, however, that the new issue will be exchanged for the old in the regular way, and a low rate will be secured.

Confederate S. and S. Monument.

Birmingham—The sub bases for the Confederate soldiers and sailors' monument in Capitol park are being hewn by Archer & Clapp, of Birmingham. The chiseling of the shaft is in progress. The contracts were let some weeks ago, and the work is being rushed as rapidly as possible in order that the monument may be ready for unveiling on April 26th, Memorial day.

The base for the monument has been built for years, and a cannon captured during the Spanish-American war has occupied it since 1898. Now the stone cutters are building two sub bases which are to go on the old base.

The old base cost Pelham chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, about $1,000, and the two sub bases and the shaft are to cost about $2,000, all of the money for which is subject to the check of the chapter and is drawing interest at one of the banks.

The monument is to be forty-two feet and is to be of Alabama marble, a beautiful grade of which is being used. The two sub bases will be about six feet each and the shaft will be thirty feet. It is to be in three sections, joined together by wreaths of laurel.

The shaft will be very imposing. The lower base is about fourteen feet square and the shaft tapers to sometning over one foot at the top.

New Steamship Company.

Mobile—There is great interest here in the inauguration of the boats of the American Fruit and Steamship Company, which will begin shipments to Mobile from Puerto Cortez on January 1st. The company has a capital of $5,000,000 with a great deal of Alabama money interested. At the present time the company owns plantations with capacity of 5,000 bunches of bananas a week, which will be increased to 7,000 by the first of the year. The headquarters of the company will be in Mobile. The president of the company is William E. Mason, former United States senator from Illinois.

Alabamians in Washington.

Washington, D. C.—The committee appointed by the Alabama River Convention, recently held at Montgomery, is here to present arguments to the rivers and harbors committee for the improvement of the Alabama river to give a six foot channel from Wetumpka to Mobile.

The Alabamians here today on this mission are: W. F. Vandiver, of Montgomery; John Quill, of Mobile; Winthorne Woolsey, W. R. Peacock and E. C. Melvin, of Selma; Dr. F. B. McCoskey, of Wetumpka, and W. F. Black, of Montgomery, secretary. Those expected are C. F. Moritz and W. M. Teague, of Montgomery, and F. L. Tate, of Wetumpka.

Final Estimates of Acreage.

Washington—The final estimates of the total acreage, production and farm values of the principal crops for 1904 will be issued on December 28th at 4 p. m.

Vulcan Going to Portland.

Birmingham—At a meeting of the Commercial Club it was decided to send "The Iron Man" Vulcan to the Portland, Oregon, exposition in 1905. They have refused to sell the statue.

New Railroad to Selma.

Birmingham—The question of the building of an air line railroad from Birmingham to Selma is being revived, and Col. F. M. Abbott, of Selma, has been in the city during the week to promote the interests of the proposed road.

The distance from Birmingham to Selma is only sixty-seven miles, and with the construction of the line the Birmingham district would be in immediate touch with water transportation. The Alabama river at Selma is practically navigable the year round, coal could be handled by the system and if an air line road were constructed from this city to Selma export traffic men assert that iron and coal could be handled, by the system of having the cars dump their freight upon the docks at something like the mere cost of drayage on the present system.

Rumors are to the effect that both the Southern and Louisville and Nashville are backing the scheme to construct the new road.

Investigating Alabama Land.

Washington—The United States geological survey is extending its topographic work to embrace the region adjacent to the Tombigee river, both in Alabama and Mississippi, and is giving special attention to the cement rock and other mineral resources of that district. As the water supply is of interest in connection with navigation, M. R. Hall, who is in charge of the hydrographic work in that area, has been directed to investigate the conditions at Epes Landing, Ala., and to establish a gauging station at that point, if conditions are favorable. A gauging station is now maintained by the survey at Columbus, Miss., while two stations are located on the Black Warrior river, above Demopolis.

Fatal Hunting Accident.

Dalton, Ga.—John Cash shot and accidentally killed his 14-year-old son, Alex, near Dalton. They were out rabbit hunting, and in attempting to shoot at a rabbit the gun was accidentally discharged by the father, the contents taking effect in his son's back. Death was almost instantaneous.

Turkey Again in Trouble.

Vienna—The Austrian government, it is understood, intends to send a fleet to Turkish waters to support the demands presented to the Porte by the Austrian ambassador for the dismissal and punishment within three days of the officials who forcibly detained the Austrian mails at Scutari recently. This ultimatum was presented to the Porte Monday.

Kuroki Loses Another Son.

Tokio—In the fighting of November 30th the second son of General Kuroki was killed at 203 Meter Hill. His eldest son was killed in the battle of Panshan Hill.

Big Money Running Blockade.

San Francisco—H. Frankel, of Shanghai, who arrived on the steamship Siberia, says that the blockade runners are making fortunes carrying supplies of food and money from Shanghai to the Russians at Port Arthur. One steamer ran in 300,000 rifles and 8,500 head of cattle in October last and cleared $280,000.

Another National Cemetery.

Washington—Representative Brownlow, of Tennessee, introduced a bill in the house Monday authorizing the secretary of war to accept the tract of land near Greenville, Tenn., where lies the remains of Andrew Johnson, late president of the United States, which was donated under the will of Martha J. Patterson and from the heirs of W. B. Bachman, all descendants of the former president. This tract contains not over ten acres.

Upon the presentation of a good and perfect title to the land the secretary of war is authorized to accept the same and establish thereon a national cemetery of the fourth class.

First Campaign Emblem.

So far as known, the first campaign emblem was a finger ring of copper. It was worn by the adherents of John Quincy Adams in 1825, when he ran for president, and was inscribed "John Quincy Adams, 1825." Tintypes and medallions were among the insignia of the 1360 campaign.

World's Fair Figures.

St. Louis, Mo.—A statement of the total admissions to the world's fair from April 1 to December 1, inclusive, gives the attendance at 18,740,073. The figures for the closing day are 202,101.

Dr. Barbee Dead.

Nashville, Tenn.—Dr. James D. Barbee, one of the most distinguished Methodist divines in the south, and a leader in Southern Methodism, is dead at his home in this city, aged 72. Dr. Barbee was a native of Alabama, and was for a number of years one of the agents of the Southern Methodist Publishing House.

$24,000,000 for Good Roads.

Washington—Senator Latimer, from the committee on agriculture and forestry, has reported favorably his bill for national aid to good roads. The bill provides an appropriation of $24,000,000 to be divided among the states according to population. The states are to do the work of constructing and improving the roads and pay one-half of the cost, the government paying the other half.

HURT BY GUN CONCUSSION

Artillery Soldiers at Fort Wetherell Hurled to the Ground.

Ten-Inch Rifle Exploded Prematurely and Twenty-four Soldiers and Officers Were Stunned by the Concussion.

Newport, R. I.—Lifting a ten-inch gun from its carriage and hurling it back on its trunnions, a 570-pound shell exploded prematurely in the chamber of a gun in Fort Wetherell, at Narragansett Bay, threw the entire gun crew, which included Lieutenant-Colonel J. H. Willard of the engineers and Lieutenant Frank W. Rawlston of the coast artillery, to the ground and sent the metal shell hurtling through the top of the parapet and out to sea.

Fears were had at first that both the officers had been blinded and perhaps made deaf by the explosion, but sight and hearing returned to them and they are suffering only from bruises and cuts about their faces. Both were taken to the post hospital, however. The soldiers who were with them were more fortunate and suffered only from the falls they had. The accident, it is said, is the first in Fort Wetherell.

A detachment of the Ninety-seventh Coast Artillery was at rifle practice under command of Colonel Willard and Lieutenant Rawlston. Several shots had been fired before this last shell was placed in the gun. The breech had been closed, locking in the great weight of metal and its explosive charge, and the men were about to place in position the gear which takes up the recoil when for some reason not yet explained the charge was fired. The officers were standing nearly directly in rear of the gun and the men were working beside it, when with a terrifying roar the shell was ejected from the steel barrel and the massive tubular piece vaulted backward as if alive, springing clear of its carriage, which it tossed from it like a pebble. The muzzle of the weapon was deflected downward and the shell tore its way through the wall of masonry, wrecking it, and passed out into the ocean.

Every man near the gun was thrown from his feet, but the soldiers were the first to recover themselves. They found their officers stunned beside the gun carriage and picked them, bleeding from head and face, from the ground. The concussion had been overwhelming, and that together with the fall had left the officers unconscious. It was some time before they recovered their senses, and then they were taken to the hospital. Colonel Willard was able to walk to his quarters after his injuries had been treated.

When the men examined the damage which had been done, they found the top of the parapet had been torn away for twelve feet or more, that the gun carriage had been wrecked, and the platform on which it had stood had been destroyed. The gun itself was badly battered, and it may be that the mechanism of the breech has been damaged irreparably.

HUGH McLAUGHLIN DEAD.

Veteran Politician, of Kings County, N. Y., Passes Away at His Home.

New York City.—Hugh McLaughlin, long the leader of the Kings County Democracy, died suddenly of heart disease at 11.15 o'clock at night while disrobing in his bedroom at his residence, 163 Remsen street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mr. McLaughlin dined with his family earlier in the evening, and said at the time that he was "feeling bully." Leaving his home soon after 7 o'clock he went as was his nightly custom to the rooms of the Exempt Firemen's Association in Borough Hall, and had a setto with dominoes with some of his old cronies.

While retiring that night Mr. McLaughlin complained of feeling ill. His wife, seeing his face was very pale, despatched a servant to summon Dr. Joseph A. Kene, the family physician. Dr. Kene on arriving at the house found Mr. McLaughlin stretched out on the bed half conscious. He died shortly after.

Mr. McLaughlin was without question the most powerful county leader in the nation in the early days of his control, before age began to make inroads on his mental and physical vigor. He suffered keenly the loss of the leadership a year ago, and those who knew him best observed that he had been failing steadily.

Mr. McLaughlin was probably one of the wealthiest men in the State, and his fortune is estimated at from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000. It consisted of large blocks of telephone, elevated railroad and gas and electric light stocks and securities. His real estate holdings are said to be worth several millions.

A GERMAN SUBMARINE.

Remarkable Feats Performed by Boat Built at Kiel.

Berlin.—The Germania Works at Kiel have built a submergible torpedo boat, which has met a number of tests successfully, maneuvring readily above and below the surface, and diving and rising very quickly. She descended off the bow of a battleship, and rose up on her opposite quarter, maneuvred for two hours submerged, and won a game of hide-and-seek with a swift steamer detailed to follow her. The Admiralty, nevertheless, is continuing experiments with other types of submarine boats.

Alleged Embezzler Caught.

W. J. Mendum, of Portsmouth, N. H., who had been sought by detectives for more than a year, and who is charged with embezzlement to the amount of $20,000 from his father's estate, gave himself up.

Panama Troubles Over.

The differences between the United States and Panama have been definitely settled by an executive order, signed by President Amador, and for President Roosevelt by Secretary Taft.

SOUVENIR EDITION.

In January we expect to begin work on a special souvenir edition of The Sentinel. It will be in magazine form, and about the size of the Ladies' Home Journal. We hope to have every town, and every industry in the county represented in the edition. It will be nicely illustrated, and we expect to issue 2,500 or 3,000 copies, and we shall try to put a copy in every home in Shelby county.

Poll tax time!

Pay your poll tax!

Congress is overshadowed by the Chadwick case.

Pay your poll tax on or before February 1st.

If you are in arrears for poll tax. pay it on or before February 1st.

The grand total of the attendance for the 187 days of the world's fair was 18,741,073.

The editor of the Cullman Democrat wants Mrs. Chadwick to tell him how she did it.

Only about one-third as many people attended the St. Louis fair as visited the Paris show.

Venezuela is the latest to court a war cloud. She is mistreating American citizens over there.

General Nelson A. Miles has been made adjutant general of Massachusetts by Governor-elect Douglas.

Birmingham wants a bonded warehouse in which to store cotton. It's dollars to doughnuts she gets it, too.

Now that the world's fair is over the frost which hovered over some St. Louis people is, doubtless, beginning to melt away.

Religion is at a low ebb in California. In six counties there is not a church, and mining camps are without ministers.

Build good school houses, and compulsory education is bound to follow, and believe it would be a good thing for Alabama.

In their fight on Tibbetts, the collector at Mobile, the president's referees in Alabama have found out they are not so many.

The finance minister of Norway asked for $2,500,000 for a war fund, which was voted. The action, in time of peace, is unusual.

In a recent very popular novel, the pale moon figures twenty-two times in one chapter, and it isn't a chapter with a love scene in it, either.

The State convict board has announced that the office of State Mine Inspector has been abolished, thus saving the State about $2,500 per annum.

It may be an indication that we are old fashioned, but at this season of the year we do not think the chrysanthemum the onlyest only flower.

Already candidates are bobbing up for sheriff of Jefferson county. Well, as the office pays in fees at least five figures a year, it is worth the effort.

President Roosevelt says he is in favor of tariff revision. There are a whole lot of people in this country from Missouri, and will have to be "shown."

The latest fad is, if you are going to make a present, you must also enclose it in a fancy stocking of your own making. That lets us out; we could never do it.

This sounds funny: For several years, naval officers have been allowed extra pay when at sea! Might as well allow a wood chopper extra pay when chopping wood.

Geo. B. Ward, Democratic nominee for mayor of Birmingham, and who is now a member of the finance committee of the city council, has offered a resolution to reduce the mayor's salary from $3,000 per year to $2,500. Such a mayor will save Birmingham a good many dollars.

Vulcan, the iron man, is not not coming back to Birmingham—that is, not right away. He is to be taken to the big show at Portland, Ore., before his return to Alabama.

A Missouri woman has come into possession of a copper claim in New Mexico valued at $100,000. It is the old fairy story of reward for doing a kindness to a stranger ten years ago.

The Dothan Siftings wants Vardaman and Roosevelt to fight a duel—one on either side of the Mississippi, and the weapons to be anvils. That ought to be strenuous enough for Mr. Roosevelt.

Mrs. Chadwick has put all other grafters on the top shelf, and way back, too. To borrow hundreds of thousands of dollars was an easy matter with her, but she carried the pitcher to the well just once too often.

The Republicans kept the price of cotton away up yonder until after election. They buncoed millions of voters with the cry of "prosperity," and now the farmer is being buncoed out of a fair price for his cotton.

Features of President's Message.

Cautions congress against extravagance.

Deals with relations of the government to labor and capital.

Approves labor unions.

Advocates a stringent employers' liability law.

Urges passage of laws governing operation of railroads, among which is one making block signal system compulsory, and one limiting the hours of service of the employes.

Declares the government cannot countenance the "closed shop" in its business.

Federal employes must not organize to extort higher wages.

Promises special message on Colorado labor situation.

Corporations must be dealt with by the general government.

Promises a special report on the beef industry.

A complete stop must be put to system of rebates.

Management of the pension bureau is commended.

Substitution of salaries for fees in the consular office.

A national quarantine law.

Every silver dollar should be made redeemable in gold.

Encouragement of the merchant marine.

Naturalization laws should be revised.

Recommends a federal election law.

Alaska should have a delegate in congress.

Should be no halt in the upbuilding of the American navy.

A low tariff rate for the Philippines.

No mention of the tariff.

When away from home say a good word for your town; show that you are proud of it, and that you are glad you live in it. Don't be a knocker; nothing will kill a town so quick as to knock against it. Boost it all the time.

Fifteen football players were killed during the season that has just closed. The number of people killed in hunting in the same length of time is 25. It only remains now to count up the number of people who are to be burned while playing Santa Claus.

"I think Parker and McMillan must have been elected," said a prominent farmer while in town last Friday. "Our populist and Republican friends told us if Parker and McMillan were elected that the price of cotton would go away down, and it sure is away down now."

There will be city elections in Shelby county; may be stock law elections, or elections on local option taxation for educational purposes, some time during the year 1905. You cannot vote in such elections unless you have paid all poll tax since the year 1900, and it must be paid before Feb. 1, 1905. Have you paid yours?

Merchants and farmers in and around Scottsboro propose burning a million bales of cotton, thus reducing the supply with the hope of raising the price, and they offer to pro rate shares of fifty bales each with the planters of Alabama, Indian Territory, Texas and Oklahoma. Farmers of Mississippi and Georgia have already organized to hold their crop for ten cents.

There may be some satisfaction in knocking vigorously at everything that doesn't just suit you, but you pay dearly for the satisfaction just the same. On the other hand, you can do nothing that will bring you greater returns on the investment than to put out a few words of judicious praise now and then. It's just as easy to find things to praise as it is to discover things to roar about, if you once get the habit, and it will bring to you good will instead of contempt. Better to wear the smile that never comes off, than to be out of sorts forever and a day.

Did you ever hear the mother say what she would like to have for a Christmas present? She will wish that Mary had a new coat; or that Johnny could have one of those newest fangled guns—how she wished she could buy it for him; the older son who is in the high school ought to have a bicycle for exercise, and in the course of a week she will have expressed a desire to buy something for every member of the family, but never will she give a clue or a hint of anything she desires for herself. That is the mother all the time. Her wants and desires are all for the family.

A Fine Paper.

The Christmas edition of the Montgomery Advertiser, issued last Sunday was a great paper, and Grandma and those who are members of her household covered themselves all over with glory. Besides containing considerable historical matter, there were a number of short stories by Alabama writers—all of them good. The edition, too, was loaded with advertising matter. The Advertiser is to be congratulated upon its fine edition.

DOWN AND OUT.

The harvest is past, the summer is ended, and cotton is going down!

The year 1904 will long be remembered by the American people as a time when the Lord smiled graciously upon the agricultural fields of the "Sunny Southland," sending the rains upon the just and the unjust. As we gazed upon the fields of growing corn in the "good old summer time," they presented the appearance of a great cloud in the distance. Later in the season, our eyes were turned to the cotton fields, away down here in "Dixie," which looked like great white sheets let down from heaven.

Oftentimes we were entertained by the music of some happy farmer, as he tuned his voice to the music of "fifteen cent cotton," which the election of Roosevelt and Longshore would surely guarantee, as the story went.

The harvest truly is great, but where, oh, where is the price!

Let us profit by this experience.

Now, aside from 15-cent cotton, Roosevelt and Longshore, there is something of far greater importance: the education of our citizen ship.

For the past two years I have superintended the cause of education in Shelby county, and I have had the pleasure to see that great cause blossom like the rose in springtime, and spread out like a green bay tree. Our funds have been increased; our school terms lengthened, and teachers' salaries have been augmented. Old rustic school houses have been torn down and new, comfortable ones builded. We have created a sentiment in favor of local taxation for the benefit of public schools, and the movement to bring it into Shelby county is taking hold of her most patriotic citizens. I am now retiring from official duty, and the work begun, will fall into the hands of another.

During my term of office, the teachers have been very courteous and kind to me. Our dealings, one with the other, have been of the most pleasant nature. Even those who were not under my supervision have ably and gladly assisted us in building up our Institute work.

I shall always remember very fondly the teachers of Shelby county, and pray that God's richest blessings may crown their noble efforts.

JNO. B. FARRELL,
Retiring Supt.

MONTEVALLO.

Mrs W. F. Davis, of Columbiana, is visiting relatives here.

Dr. F. M. Peterson has been attending the "Alabama Conference" at Selma.

The smallpox at the Dormitory has evidently had its day, We hear nothing of it now

Your correspondent regrets to chronicle the illness of Mr. George W. Shriner, the popular warehouse man.

Mr. John S. Storrs, of Cincinnati, is on a visit to his mother and sistor, and enjoying a week's recreation and boyhood scenes.

The street fair was not overcrowded with visitors. Everything was orderly conducted. It pulled stakes and left us Sunday, in true Arab style.

Rev. J. W. Willis has returned from a delightful trip to Texes. He was charmed with the trip, the country and the people; but avows that he is better pleased with old Alabama than ever.

The farmers of this community are all on the bull side of the cotton market, and are determined to hold out for ten cents. They don't have to sell and won't do it till they get their own price. So there you have it.

Mr. John Cunningham, a highly respected farmer and citizen of Dogwood, is quite ill, at the residence of his daughter, Mrs Newton. Some years ago he was injured by being thrown from a wagon, and it is thought his present trouble originated then.

Miss Mahan's exhibition of pictures at the Woman's Exchange, was very creditable to her talent and industry. The catalogue contained nearly a hundred pieces of her work, covering many subjects. Some of the old homesteads of the community were particularly charming, and the old world scenes and flower pieces were superb.

Do you read The Sentinel, and have you paid for it?

How about your poll tax? Better pay it right now; you might forget it, you know.

The printer wants a Christmas time. He won't get it unless youpay up.

SHOES IS MY HOBBY . . .

I have just received a complete line of all kinds of shoes in Gents' and Ladies' Rubber Goods.

I also keep a complete stock of Staple and Fancy Groceries. A lot of Texas Rust Proof Oats just received. Highest price paid for Cotton on account. Nice line of Gents' Furnishing Goods. Thanking you for patronage in the past, and hoping for a continuation of the same I am, as ever your friend,

All records in the way of production at the steel plant and blast furnace at Ensley, belonging to the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railway Compay, were smashed last month. The production of ingots at the steel plant during the month of November amounted to 21,487 tons. The pig iron production at the blast furnace to 28,100 tons. The officials of the Tennessee Company are elated over the heavy production.—Birmingham News.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

Our store is running over with them. When we gave Santa Claus our order, we remembered the young, the middle aged and the old.

TOYS, TOYS!

The greatest assortment of toys ever shown in Columbiana can now be seen at our store—a new, clean and pretty assortment. We have just what you want—Santa told us.

BEAUTIFUL DOLLS.

Your little girl has been dreaming and talking of the doll she is sure Santa Claus is going to bring her. Do not disappoint her. We have a beautiful assortment to choose from.

FINE CANDIES.

Good, pure confectionery is the only kind you want your children to eat. We have no other kind for holiday trade. It costs no more than the impure, and is so much better.

FIREWORKS, WHIZ-Z-Z!

It wouldn't be Christmas without fireworks, and we have a fine line. They will not last long—too good.

CHOICE FRUIT.

Our holiday stock would not be complete without fruit—we are supplied all the time with the choicest.

CHEWING GUM.

Do you know of our chewing gum proposition? If not, ask about it.

WATER SETS.

You could give your wife nothing that would please her so well as one of those pretty water sets which we have in our Christmas stock. Fine!

Of course, we want your grocery trade. We keep only the best of grades in everything.

Roberts & Robertson

If you expect to have friends to visit you during the holidays, tell us of them.

Cotton continues to play between six and seven, and not very much of it is coming to town.

We will appreciate it if you will tell our advertisers you saw their advertisement in The Sentinel.

There is a change in the advertisement of Averyt & Averyt in this issue. They talk to you about overcoats.

All of the school children are looking forward to the short holiday vacation with a great deal of anticipation.

The Sentinel will take a rest during the holidays—also give the readers a rest. There will be no paper that week.

We hope every town in Shelby county will be represented in the souvenir edition which we expect to begin on next month. We want to make as good a showing of the county as possible. All should be interested.

We are told that the new jail is now complete. It is one of the best in the State, and it is a fine looking building. Shelby county will not have to send any of her prisoners to some other jail for safe keeping—we have one at home.

Hon. E. S. Lyman, of Montevallo, is in town. He is here looking up data for a history of Montevallo and the community surrounding it which he is now preparing. Mr. Lyman is an interesting writer, and we predict his book will be of great interest to those who have lived in that end of the county for years.

Miss Janie Wallace, of Klein, was in the city a few hours last Thursday en route to Birmingham for a short visit. Miss Janie has been employed to teach school in the Kingdom neighberhood, and is to begin the term after the holidays. She is a good teacher and will give her patrons excellent satisfaction.

In this issue will be found a new advertisement of a new firm soon to open up for business in Montevallo. Messrs. Denson & Dawson, recently of Maplesville, will open up in that town on January first with a big stock of general merchandise. They solicit a share of the business of that town and vicinity.

D. C. Glenn and family departed Monday for their new home in Blackwell, La., where Mr. Glenn has a position as salesman in a mercantile establishment. Before going Mr. Glenn came up and renewed his subscription to The Sentinel for another year. We commend these good people to the people in their new home.

Jim Wilson, a bad negro, was on a drunk last Saturday night, and resisted city marshal Nelson when the officer tried to arrest him. The negro broke away from the officer and started to run when marshal Nelson took a shot at him, but owing to the darkness missed the fleeing negro. About midnight he was rounded up by Sheriff Cox, Deputy Norris and Marshal Nelson, and he is now in jail with the charge of resisting an officer against him. Wilson is in a fair way to go to the mines, where it is said he has served a term or two.

Coming Recital.

The Sentinel learns that some time in January, Miss Louise Reynolds and Miss Loulah Wilson are to give a recital in the Academy; the program to consist of piano selections and readings.

Those of our people who have heard these two young women, will not be disappointed in the program to be given at the recital in January. Miss Reynolds is an accomplished musician, her music having a fascination about it that all pianists long for, but few acquire. Miss Wilson is a most pleasing reader, and any selection she gives always interests and entertains. The date has not yet been decided upon.

Hammond Millinery Company has moved its millinery parlors upstairs over Milner & Christian's store, where it is better prepared to give you attention than ever before.

Preparing History of Montevallo.

The following is from the Montgomery Advertiser of Dec. 1st:

"Hon. E. S. Lyman, a member of the legislature from Shelby county, has been in Montgomery during the annual meeting of the Grand Lodge A. F. and A. M., and spent many hours in the halls of the State Department of Archives and History in the development of his history of Montevallo.

"Mr. Lyman's work when completed will include among other interesting facts a history of the original land grants made to the schools in the State at the time the enabling act was passed for the admission of Alabama into the Union. The grant to be treated in particular is what was originally known as Wilson's Hill and since 1822 has been called Montevallo.

"In the Department Mr. Lyman was fortunate in finding in manuscript the minutes of the Board of Trustees of the University of Alabama from 1822 to 1833. These are regarded as very valuable.

"The early exploitations of Rev. Ebenezer Hearne, a Methodist preacher, and pioneer of Montevallo.

"Mr. Lyman would appreciate any records bearing upon his research."

Death Near Wilsonville.

Mrs. Wingard, aged about seventy years, died at the home of her son, Irwin Wingard, near Wilsonville, last Monday afternoon. She war buried near Weldon, at the Union cemetery on Tuesday, and the funeral was largely attended.

The deceased was a good christian woman and her death is mourned not only by relatives, but by a large number of friends as well. She was always cheerful and bright, solicitous of the welfare of those about her, and as she passed down the sunset slope of life into the twilight of the misty beyond, those who knew her know that she she has gone to a reward awaiting the good and the just.

H. S. Latham, of Montevallo, was in town last Thursday, and made The Sentinel a pleasant call. Uncle Henty says he does not want to hear anything about the election.

Hon. J.G.Oakley, or Brierfield, was in Columbiana last Friday and Saturday. Mr. Oakley is chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee of Bibb county.

Dr. A. B. Horton, of Weldon, was in town yesterday for a few hours, and while here paid The Sentinel a pleasant call.

E. W. Chapman, of Montevallo, is in town visiting his children.

Mrs. Iris E. Taylor, of Wilsonville, spent a few hours in the city last Saturday.

☞ Have you tried the new hot drinks at the Latham Drug Co.'s store.

J. F. Norris, of the Advocate, wrs doing business in Birmingham last Thursday.

Miss Emmie Abercrombie has gone to Birmingham for a short visit with friends.

☞ Toys, toys, toys of every description, and plenty of them at Roberts & Robertson's.

Will Riddle and Thomas Taylor, of Wilsonville, were visitors to the city Saturday evening.

☞ It won't be Christmas unless you get some of those fireworks of Roberts & Robertson. A big assortment to chose from.

☞ These cool days a hot drink is just what you want. Go to the Latham Drug Co. for it.

Attorney W. F. Thetford, of Montgomery, has been in town for several days past on legal business.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Cary, of Keystone, were guests last Sunday at the home of Rev. H. M. Milstead.

☞ For a delicious hot drink, go to Latham Drug Co. You will find there just what you want.

Rufus Lester is home from the Masonic Grand Lodge meeting in Montgomery, and reports a grand time.

The work of cleaning up the streets during the past week is to be commended. Let the good work go on.

If you owe the printer for your paper he will be glad to write you a receipt. Now is a good time to pay him.

☞ Roberts & Robertson are well supplied with good fruit for the Christmas trade. Better get a supply now.

There is a change in the advertisement of Rufus Lester in this issue. Better read it; it might interest you.

J. N. Robertson and O. O. Bird were visitors to Birmingham last Thursday. Guess the boys went to see the show.

☞ Get a hot drink at the Latham Drug Co.'s store, and feel like a new person. They are fine.

Hon. Cecil Browne, a prominent attorney of Talladega, was in town Tuesday and yesterday visiting his brother, Mayor W. B. Browne.

J. B. Morrow, one of the good Democratic formers of near Coalville, was in town Monday, and while here came in and ordered The Sentinel sent to his address for the year 1905.

J. T. Childers, who has been living near Pelham, has removed to Hosey, Miss., and ordered The Sentinel sent to him at that place.

Quarterly meeting will be held in the Methodist church at Shelby, next Saturday and Sunday, and the new Presiding Elder will preach.

Make the printer a Christmas present of what you owe him on subscription. It would make him feel good, and you will feel better.

Mrs. L. G. Pettyjohn, of Birmingham, is in the city, for a short visit with relatives. She ordered The Sentinel sent to her address in Birmingham.

This section has been having a touch of cold weather for the past few days. Just a reminder of what is coming next month, according to the weather man.

Presiding Elder J. W. Johnson, will preach in the Methodist church here tomorrow (Friday) night, and an invitation is extended to all to come out and hear him.

President Montague, of Howard College, will preach at the Baptist church in this city next Sunday. All are cordially invited to come out and hear this able man.

☞ The finest assortment of dolls ever brought to Columbiana is at Roberts & Robertson's Every size, any price, and every description. Don't forget your little girl.

Grover Liles, who has been in St. Louis for several months, returned home last week. Grover says it was getting too cold for him up there, and is only too glad to get back to Alabama.

R. D. O'Hara, who has been employed as telegraph operator at Garden City for some time, is at home for a short visit with his parents. He has been transferred to a station below Selma.

The friends of Mrs. C. T. Acker will regret that her illness is of so serious a nature that she has been taken to an infirmary in Birmingham for treatment. It is hoped by all that she may soon recover.

The street fair has gone to Troy, and the spieler will tell his tale of woe to the people of that town this week. Few street fairs leave a better impression with our people than the one that was here last week.

Christmas shoppers are busy, and the stores are being well patronized. Spend your money with the home merchant whenever he has what you want. The mail order houses in the cities do not help to make your town or county.

For the next Thirty Days our entire line of ready to wear goods to go at cost. See us over Milner & Christian's store.

THE OLD FOLKS AT HOME

Are Never Without Pe-ru-na in the Home for Catarrhal Diseases.

Under date of January 10, 1897, Dr. Hartman received the following letter:

"My wife has been a sufferer from a complication of diseases for the past twenty-five years. Her case has baffled the skill of some of the most noted physicians. One of her worst troubles was chronic constipation of several years' standing. She was also passing through that most critical period in the life of a woman—change of life.

"In June, 1895, I wrote to you about her case. You advised a course of Peruna and Manalin, which we at once commenced, and have to say it completely cured her.

"About the same time I wrote you about my own case of catarrh, which had been of twenty-five years' standing. At times I was almost past going. I commenced to use Peruna according to your instructions and continued its use for about a year, and it has completely cured me. Your remedies do all that you claim for them, and even more."—John O. Atkinson.

In a letter dated January 1, 1900, Mr. Atkinson says, after five years' experience with Peruna:

"I will ever continue to speak a good word for Peruna. I am still cured of catarrh."—John O. Atkinson, Independence, Mo., Box 272.

Mrs. Alla Schwandt, Sanborn, Minn., writes:

"I have been troubled with rheumatism and catarrh for twenty-five years. Could not sleep day or night. After having used Peruna I can sleep and nothing bothers me now. If I ever am affected with any kind of sickness Peruna will be the medicine I shall use. My son was cured of catarrh of the larynx by Peruna."—Mrs. Alla Schwandt.

Why Old People Are Especially Liable to Systemic Catarrh.

When old age comes on, catarrhal diseases come also. Systemic catarrh is almost universal in old people.

This explains why Peruna has become so indispensable to old people. Peruna is their safeguard. Peruna is the only remedy yet devised that entirely meets these cases. Nothing but an effective systemic remedy can cure them.

The Way He Said It.

The young wife sat weeping bitterly. Her best friend stole softly in and put her arms about her, saying:

"What's the matter, Dolly?"

"Oh, I am so miserable," she wailed.

"Well, what has caused it?"

"I—I—I asked Tootsey this m-m-morning if he w-w-would marry again if I d-d-d-died, and he—"

"What! Did he tell you he would?"

"N-n-no, that's what's the matter. He j-just looked at me as if I had accused him of b-b-being crazy, and said in the awfullest way: 'Well, I should say not!' And Oh, Kitty, it was the way he said it—boo-hoo-hoo!"—Baltimore American.

COMPLETELY RESTORED.

Mrs. P. Brunzel, wife of P. Brunzel, stock dealer, residence 3111 Grand avenue, Everett, Wash., says: "For fifteen years I suffered with terrible pain in my back. I did not know what it was to enjoy a night's rest and arose in the morning feeling tired and unrefreshed. My suffering sometimes was simply indescribable. When I finished the first box of Doan's Kidney Pills I felt like a different woman. I continued until I had taken five boxes. Doan's Kidney Pills act very effectively, very promptly, relieve the aching pains and all other annoying difficulties."

Story on Senator Vest.

Stories about the late Senator Vest are now being published by nearly all Missouri papers. There is one I do not think has ever been presented. Vest was the attorney for the plaintiff in a case wherein the defendant was almost bankrupted by a verdict against him. Vest had severely criticised the defendant in his speech to the jury, and the latter was very bitter, even making threats against the attorney. Time passed on and Vest was a candidate for the legislature. He was driving along one day in a wild part of Cooper county, and just as he was passing a house by the roadside, a man stepped out and said: "Here, you, hold on, there; I have something to say to you."

"I recognized my old enemy of the lawsuit two years before," said Vest, "and I never came nearer cutting and running in my life than I did then, for I supposed the man intended to attack me. But I knew if I did run it would get out on me, and my chances of being elected would vanish. The man came ambling up to my buggy and said:

"'See here, you are the man that came near ruining me in that lawsuit two years ago, and now I am going to hire you to ruin another feller for me, so that I can get square with the world.'

"No one can imagine the relief I felt at this turn of the affair, and after hearing the man's story I knew he had a good case, and agreed to take it for him. We won, and the man gained several thousand dollars, and I was elected to the legislature, and I am frank to admit that I never came nearer running like a scared dog than I did on that occasion. The man has been one of my strongest friends and supporters ever since."—Springfield (Mo.) Leader.

ALABAMA'S HARVEST SONG.

By Walter Harper.

Let us sing a song of plenty;
From the mountains to Mobile,
Alabama barns are flooded
And with plenty there is weal.
At the fireside many faces;
In the fields are songs of peace.
There are songs of glad thanksgiving
From the mountain to the seas.

There are pumpkins and potatoes,
Corn and fodder in the cribs;
There is bacon in the smoke-house;
Hams and sausage, sides and ribs,
Goobers curing on the shed-roof;
Pop-corn strung upon the wall;
Turnipsbanked up in the cellar,
And there's jam enough for all.

Let us sing a song of plenty,
Glad thanksgiving and of peace,
For the harvest has been gracious,
And the farmer is at ease.
He has money in his pocket
And in the bank for rainy days.
And the city shares the bounty
Of these happy harvest days.

FARM FIELD AND GARDEN

Salting Stock.

No one knows how much the larger percent of stock suffers for the want of salt regularly. In order that you may not forget to salt them, follow this plan. Plant a post in a corner of each field containing stock. On top of the post nail a little box, in the bottom near the post and in the lid of which bore some gimlet holes. Now fill the box with salt and it will run down the post into little cups that you may cut with a chisel. This is only for small herds.

To Lay Corn By.

Corn should be cultivated until it is almost ripe, provided it is cultivated properly, and especially in dry seasons. But cultivation should be on the surface. Now try this plan and see how much it will benefit your corn in dry weather. Take a mowing machine wheel, about six inches less in diameter than the width of your planter, hitch a horse to it and drag flat once between the rows. If the ground is in good condition you will find this will be very hard on young weeds and very good for the corn.—Lewis S. Alter, in The Epitomist.

Advantage of Cut Fodder.

A rather notable test has been made by the Wisconsin experiment station with feeding cut and uncut fodder, and the effect upon milk production. The feeding of the whole or uncut fodder, as stated by Hoard's Dairyman, was as follows:

"A given quantity of milk was produced by feeding 1333 pounds of whole stalks, whereas to produce the same quantity of milk under similar conditions required only 721 pounds of cut fodder—but little over half the amount of material."

This is a very marked difference and it should attract attention of feeders.

Cold Storage Experience.

Where you wish to carry apples for any length of time, I should say that the advantage was all on the side of cold storage. One trouble we found in cold storage with our fruit has been that on taking it out it is not highly colored. Our fruit has all been put in storage in rather green condition, as much so as we can.

We commence picking about the first of October, putting them at once in cold storage, and continue until about the twentieth, sometimes until the first of November. Before that fruit is shipped there is a great contrast with that which is kept in ordinary storage because of not being as highly colored. But there is no comparison in export trade. Those apples that seemed as hard as bricks last spring and looked inferior to some in cold storage, though in some respects better, in the course of transportation and the heat they had to endure in the steamer, colored up, and, our agents say, went on the market in prime condition. So that one wants to be careful in exporting not to export too late in the season.—C. M. Hcoker in The Massachusetts Ploughman.

Clearing the Fields.

Before commencing fall plowing the fields should be gone over, and if there are any obstructions that will be in the way of good and thorough work, they should, as far as possible and practicable, be removed.

On farms where stones abound it often takes a long time to get them all removed or out of the way of good cultivation, while some are too formidable to undertake to do anything with.

It is often on the best land that these obstructions are found, and it is a praiseworthy undertaking to get them out of the way. Powder and dynamite will readily break in pieces many of these large rocks that would otherwise have to remain.

A farmer should never plow under a crop of small loose stones. Remove them every time before plowing if any are on the surface, and after where turned up by the plow.

On stony farms there will be one difficulty in getting two crops—of stones—by plowing twice in a season. Those who have good farms, free from these obstructions, are indeed fortunate and know little of the hard and often discouraging work required to clear a stony field and render it suitable for easy and good cultivation.

On some farms there are still left the remains of a once vigorous pine forest growth, in the shape of immense stumps that seem to defy the action of the elements, and persist in remaining in their original beds "safe and sound" for generations. These must be about as difficult to remove as the rocks on a stony field, but it is a work that should be done where the land is of sufficient value to warrant the cost.—E. R. Towle, in the Massachusetts Ploughman.

Harvesting the Potato Crop.

Throughout New England the potato blight was prevalent again in 1904, and complaint came from nearly every direction that the crop was rotting. This seemed to be the case even where potatoes were sprayed. Upon the farm of Connecticut agricultural college, the potatoes were sprayed six times with bordeaux, a 6-row sprayer being used in the work. In spite of this, they have blighted, and the vines are now dead.

We still have faith in bordeaux, but believe that it must be applied in a much more thorough way than it can be with an automatic potato sprayer. We have three rows of potatoes which have been carefully sprayed by hand throughout the season. At each spraying care was taken to see that the liquid covered every part of the vines. These potatoes are still green and show no signs of blight whatever. Hand spraying is too expensive for general practice in potato raising.

The question of immediate importance is, what shall we do with the potatoes now in the ground? Shall we dig them at once and sell them, shall we dig them and store them, or shall we leave them in ground until as late as possible, and then dig? To dig them at the present time will not prevent their rotting.

The potatoes already affected with blight will rot even though they are dug and put in storage, and it is far more economical for the farmer to let them rot in the ground and thus save the expense of digging and sorting. If the potatoes are left in the ground until the middle of October, those which are affected with the rot will very largely have disappeared, and those which are left will be the healthy and sound ones. The expense of harvesting will be diminished at least by half.

If no cellar can be secured in which to store the potatoes they can be stored in the field. Late in November, when the ground is freezing slightly every night, is the time to bank the potatoes. While the ground is frozen so that there is a crust of an inch or two of frozen earth on the surface, a layer of straw six to eight inches thick should be spread on this frozen earth. Upon the straw the potatoes should be piled, with not more than 50 busheds in a pile. Straw then should be covered over the potatoes, after which a layer of dirt should be put on. This dirt covering at first need not be more than four to six inches in thickness, but as the cold increases care should be taken that the potatoes are covered heavily so that no danger from freezing will result.—L. A. Clinton in N. E. Homestead.

Be Careful of the Manure.

The Ohio experiment station estimates that about ten million tons of manure is produced in that state each winter, and that most of this quantity is allowed to lie from three to nine months in open yards before being taken to the fields.

We have previously quoted experiments showing that under such exposure manure will shrink practically one-half in weight. Not only is there this great loss in quantity where the manure is left exposed for a long time before being taken to the field, but the Ohio experiment station has been conducting some experiments which indicate that what is left has a less fertilizing value per ton than when it was fresh.

It has been very generally supposed that a much greater immediate effect would be obtained from well-rotted manure than from an equal amount of green manure, but these experiments, based on seven years' trials, seem to contradict this opinion.

The trials were made with a three-year rotation of corn, wheat and clover, using three sets of plots, so that each crop was represented each year. The same quantity of manure, eight tons per acre every third year, was applied in each case, and as regards any difference in quality that might have arisen from the character of the feed used the advantage is stated to have been in favor of the yard manure. The crops were valued at a third of a dollar per bushel for corn, two-thirds of a dollar for wheat, three dollars per ton for corn stover, two dollars per ton for straw and six and two-thirds dollars a ton for clover hay. On this basis the average annual increase for the stall manure over the yard manure amounted to $5.15 per acre.

This difference in quality, according to the above results, would alone amount to some $19,000,000 annually for the state of Ohio. Add to this the loss from shrinkage in quality due to exposure and we have a result that is appalling.

We presume there are few states in the middle and western portions of our country where any greater attention is given to the care of the manure than is given the matter in Ohio. The loss that the whole country sustains from this source is beyond conception. Add to this the manure that is burned, dumped into ravines to get it out of the way, or washed away through the yards being located on steep banks near streams, and the wonder is that our lands continue to produce as well as they do.

What a legacy for future generations we are preparing by our wasteful methods! This robbery of their heritage reminds us of a recent occurrence in Iowa where a banker robbed a bank of money belonging to depositors. The son learned of the defalcation but kept it to himself, hoping to retrieve the fortunes of the bank and make good the loss of its creditors. After years of patient effort he gave up in despair and went and drowned himself. The impoverished soil, like the impoverished bank, will prove an uphill road for those who come after.—Prairie Farmer.

Goat With a Charmed Life.

A well known suburbanite who had been greatly troubled by the depredations of a neighbor's goat was driven to desperation one day when he learned that the animal had consumed a favorite red flannel coat of his. Determined on the goat's destruction, he employed an unscrupulous small boy who lived in the neighborhood to secure him to the railroad track just before the daily express was due. Some days afterward a friend inquired with interest if the goat had been effectually disposed of.

"Not on your life, was the disgusted answer; "that goat had a charmed life. He coughed up that red golf coat of mine and flagged the train."—Harper's Weekly.

To Take His Own Medicine.

George E. Hallett, owner and one of the occupants of a fashionable row of apartment houses in Des Moines, Iowa, operated under the "no baby" rule, was recently compelled to vacate his own home because of the arrival of the stork. Mr. Hallett has relentlessly driven family after family of renters out of his flats, as one clause of all leases signed by him provides "that the contract becomes null and void upon the birth of a child to the party of the second part."

Mrs. Hallett the other day presented her husband with a girl, and the family moved to the residence of Mrs. Hallett's parents the next day.

WAR WILL FOLLOW.

England and Russia keep nagging at each other in Central Asia, and there will be a war unless they can agree upon spheres of influence. England's conquest of Thibet does not please Russia. Russia's constant pushing of her railroads toward the British frontier does not please England. With two displeased antagonists it ought not to take long to get up a fight.

Russia seems to be expecting it. She is building a navy that will force England to keep more ships at home to guard her own ports. Lewis Nixon with 8,000 men is to put Russia on a water footing that England cannot match, and then we shall see things. There will be war that is war, or a peace that will put on end to wars. We will not need to build ships any faster than at present. The European nations will destory each other and their debt ridden people will decay as Asia decayed after the days of her great wars that destroyed her great commerce.

There is no need for the United States to exhaust herself to build and maintain an armament that will lead us down the road over which all nations before us have gone and on which we now see the rapid decline of England as she follows Spain.

In captivity elephants always stand up when they sleep, but when in the jungle, in their own land and home they lie down. The reason given for the difference between the elephant in captivity and in freedom is that the animal never acquires complete confidence in his keepers and always longs for liberty.

Eve's Apple.

A botanical friend showed me not long since what he said was the apple that must have tempted Eve in what was surely a tropical fruit garden. It was a little bit of an Oriental crab, about a third of an inch in diameter, and, of course, it was bitterly sour! My philosophizing friend pointed out that, of course, the fruits in Eden were the natural "wild" fruits, and he was wondering whether the fall of mankind would not have been accelerated if the attracting tree had been hung with a fair crop of the golden Bellflower, or of crimson-striped Wealthy or Winesap!—Country Life in America.

Mrs. Anderson, a prominent society woman of Jacksonville, Fla., daughter of Recorder of Deeds, West, who witnessed her signature to the following letter, praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—There are but few wives and mothers who have not at times endured agonies and such pain as only women know. I wish such women knew the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is a remarkable medicine, different in action from any I ever knew and thoroughly reliable.

"I have seen cases where women doctored for years without permanent benefit, who were cured in less than three months after taking your Vegetable Compound, while others who were chronic and incurable came out cured, happy, and in perfect health after a thorough treatment with this medicine. I have never used it myself without gaining great benefit. A few doses restores my strength and appetite, and tones up the entire system. Your medicine has been tried and found true, hence I fully endorse it."—MRS. R. A. ANDERSON, 225 Washington St., Jacksonville, Fla.

Mrs. Reed, 2425 E. Cumberland St., Philadelphia, Pa., says:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it my duty to write and tell you the good I have received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I have been a great sufferer with female trouble, trying different doctors and medicines with no benefit. Two years ago I went under an operation, and it left me in a very weak condition. I had stomach trouble, backache, headache, palpitation of the heart, and was very nervous; in fact, I ached all over. I find yours is the only medicine that reaches such troubles, and would cheerfully recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all suffering women."

When women are troubled with irregular or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhœa, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, flatulence, general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

The experience and testimony of some of the most noted women of America go to prove, beyond a question, that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct all such trouble at once by removing the cause and restoring the organs to a healthy and normal condition. If in doubt, write Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass, as thousands do. Her advice is free and helpful.

No other medicine for women in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles. Refuse to buy any substitute.

Little Hans' Christmas Tree

Translated from the Swedish of Jenny Brown

UPON the hill, a short distance from the hut stood a lonely pine tree, that father had promised to cut down on Christmas eve. It was so beautiful, where it stood, and stretched its dark green branches out over the white snow. Hans walked round and round it and looked at it from all sides. It had grown so even, and was just high enough to find room under the low roof of the hut. In his imagination the little six-year-old saw it in all its beauty, with gilt paper stars, ginger bread hearts, rosy-cheeked apples and lighted candles.

"Poor as I am, Hans," father had said, "you shall have a Christmas tree, and fine it shall be, that I promise you."

And how the little child's heart palpitated with pleasure and expectation! Father had gone into town and was not expected to return before noon. Would he be long in bringing back all the beautiful things he was to buy at the same time he was getting the other Christmas things for mother? Time and again Hans went out on the doorsteps and looked down the long, snowy road. At length father was seen in the distance. Hans started to meet him, and was permitted to carry the package father said was his.

But how tired and pale father looked. He did not feel well, he said, but Hans must not worry over that. It was only a result of the hard labor that he now began to feel. It would soon pass away. And Hans believed that, too. "Mother, father has come," cried Hans, and pushed the door wide open.

The noonday meal was ready. But father could not eat anything, and laid himself down on the wooden bench and complained of pains in his chest. Mother laid aside the bag of rice and the coffee and sugar father had brought home. Father was ill! He had to admit it; he was suffering more pain than he would tell. Mother compelled him to go to bed and prepared a flannel saturated with turpentine that she spread on the chest. It was too bad that he should be taken sick, and on Christmas eve, but there was no help for it. In his rejoicing over the beautiful things for the Christmas tree, little Hans for a few moments did not think of father. But when he looked to the bed where father was lying, moaning with pain, Hans did as mother had done. He pushed aside the beautiful Christmas tree things and knelt down by the bed.

"Poor father!" and with his little hands he stroked the bearded cheeks.

"Don't worry, my boy; you shall have your Christmas tree. Speak to Neighbor Jerker, and he will help you."

This was all well and good, but father was ill, and the Christmas pleasure spoiled. And such a Christmas that they had expected! Last year they had no means to provide for a Christmas tree or any extra pleasure.

"I am going to the doctor," said mother, as she tied the shawl over her head.

"You stay with father, Hans; I will hurry back soon."

The doctor did not live very far away. He did not like to be disturbed on Christmas eve, but he wrote out a prescription after finding out from the woman what the symptoms were. To visit the sick man was not to be expected of the doctor on Christmas eve.

"Give him this every two hours and the pain will soon pass away. If'm, well, as it is Christmas eve, I will only charge fifty ore"—he had the right to demand a crown, but he felt charitable, and the poor woman's last silver piece landed in the doctor's pocket. He did not inquire if she had any money left for the medicine, and she did not care to tell him that it was her last piece of money, and that father had spent his last crown for the things to decorate little Hans' Christmas tree. She also had her pride, and she knew what remarks would be made. Poor men's children have no right to pleasure or luxuries. The gingerbread and candies and apples would be considered an awful waste and extravagance. To the doctor's children it would have looked a poor pleasure, but for her own little boy it was a sinful luxury. How different God provided for the people in this world, was the poor woman's thought, as, heavy hearted, she walked home with the prescription in her hand. Had the poor no right to have about his Christmas tree, and he had promised them that they should see it in all its beauty and splendor on Christmas eve. Now he would affect indifference and pretend that he did not care for a Christmas tree, but would sell it in town so father could get money for medicine.

Jerker, the eldest of the neighbor's children, cut down the tree. Hans was crying, but stoutly swallowed his tears and made Jerker promise him to tell his mother that Hans had gone to town to buy a Christmas present. The mother was very much surprised. Where could Hans have got the money. She could not understand it. Jerker did not know. He only told her what Hans had told him, and that he would not return before evening, and they must not worry about him.

* * *

How cold little Hans felt, and how that little heart of his felt heavy and sorrowful. Young as he was, he had already learned a lesson from life's story—the lesson of self-denial. He felt cold, his coat was short and threadbare, the shoes in poor condition and his mittens full of holes. But he knew that Christmas eve would bring him a new pair of mittens. From his bed in the hut at night he had seen mother knitting a pair of mittens that were too small for father. So, surely, they must be for him.

But with all his sorrow there was a warm glow at his heart. Was he not wealthy? He had sold his Christmas tree for two large silver crowns. Had bought the medicine for father and had a large silver crown left as a Christmas gift for mother. God had helped him. Had not mother said that God watches over little children, and had he not sent a wealthy lady that had given him two large silver crowns for his tree, notwithstanding he had been told it was not worth fifty ore?

A little golden-haired girl had met him in the beautiful richly furnished room where he had brought the tree. It was placed on a table, and the little girl was greatly pleased over the tree. He wondered if the little girl had known why he had sold his tree, and that all of his Christmas pleasure was lost, would she have been just as highly pleased? He followed her with a heart that could feel and suffer? "The doctor gave me this prescription," said mother, "and the turpentine cloth was to remain, and you will soon be well, father."

"Oh, I don't believe the medicine will do me any good, and we will just let it alone."

The mother understood, and she could not keep back her tears. Father had no money left for the medicine. "Don't cry, mother, don't cry," exclaimed little Hans, as he tried to pull the mother down to him by her dress. "Father should not have bought the things for the Christmas tree, then he could have got the medicine. I understand that well enough," remarked little Hans, with a precocious mien.

"No, no, Hans, it would not have helped me," interrupted father from his place in the bed. "But thank you for your kind heart. You shall have your Christmas tree as I promised you."

Little Hans went out of the hut and ran to his tree on the hill. He walked around it, and the tears came in his eyes. But he wiped them away with the back of his hand. No, he must not cry; he must not feel or show any sorrow over the sacrifice that would bring gladness and blessing to the home. He put his hands in his pockets and tried to look glad and free from care when he entered the neighbor's hut. The children had for weeks heard him brag of his eyes as she ran round the large room and clapped her small hands, full of pleasure. She handed him a large sugar cake and filled his pockets with apples and nuts and raisins. She had so much. A table in the room had several large dishes filled with more beautiful things than he ever had seen before. And the kind lady gave him two shining silver crowns. But before he left the room his eyes went back to the tree. He would never see it again. It was as if he had separated from a dear friend—from a playfellow. He sat down on the staircase and tears streamed from his eyes. His mother's words rang in his ears: "Poor men's children must learn to practice self-denial."

* * *

But now Hans was glad again as he ran through the snow as fast as his little feet could carry him, pulling the sleigh after him. He felt cold and tired. It was dark and the stars shone in the heavens. He knew them all. Father had told him all about them, and he thought of the little Christ child, and how the whole Christian world celebrated Christmas with trees and candles and Christmas gifts. But little Hans had neither the one nor the other. True, the forest was full of Christmas trees, but it was not his, the one that had grown on the hill near his home, and over which he had rejoiced so much. But it was gone; another child had his tree. He thought of his tree as a living being, and that it felt the separation as much as he.

But now he was home. Father slept and mother was at the hearth preparing the evening meal.

"Hans, where have you been?" inquired mother.

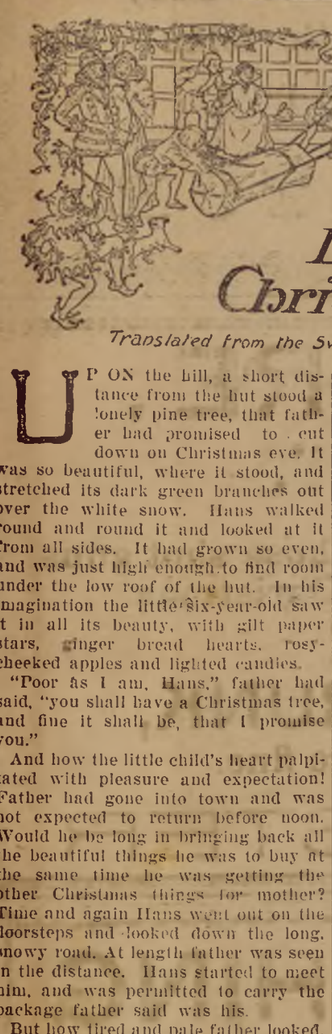
"Into town, mother, and I have a Christmas present for father."

"You? Where did you get it? Have you money, Hans?" inquired the mother in her astonishment as Hans placed the bottle of medicine on the table. "Where did you get it, boy?"

Hans inclined his head, and smilingly pushed his mother toward the window. He drew away the curtain and pointed to the hill. Mother could look out in the starlight night and at once noticed that the tree was gone. Yes, she saw plainly that little Hans' Christmas tree was not there. She understood it all; she could read it in the big blue eyes that sparkled up toward her. She lifted the child in her arms and pressed him toward her, too deeply moved to find words for her feelings. But she felt so happy, so proud that this was her child, and the poor mother in all her poverty and humility would not have exchanged her lot for a queen's coronet.

"Mother, I have a Christmas present for you also," whispered Hans, and placed the silver crown in her hand.

Hans had renounced much, had denied himself all, and therefore his gift was above ordinary value.



'Twas the night before Christmas,
In each little house
The children were waiting
As still as a mouse
To hear the puff puff
And the pish, chugg and squeal
Of good old St. Nicholas' Automobile!

A Funny Dream.

I had a funny dream last night,
As strange as strange could be
I dreamed that I was Santa Claus
And Santa Claus was me.
And when I came to Santa's house,
(Where we live now, you know)
I took out near a hundred things
And laid them in a row;
A bicycle with bevel-gear,
A gun that shoots real shot;
A pair of skates, a new canoe,
Were some things that I brought.
And then I said, "For fear I've missed
A little thing or two,
I'll leave this pocketbook well filled,
That's just what I will do."
Of course it only was a dream,
But still I think 'twould be
Just great if I was Santa Claus
And Santa Claus was me.

A Christmas Cross.

No fir-tree in the forest dark
But humbly bears its cross;
No human heart in God's wide world
But mourns its bitter loss.

Yet Christmas-tide can clothe the fir
In splendors all unguessed,
And bring to every suffering heart
Its joy, its peace, its rest.

God rest you, then, my gentle friend,
And take your cross away,
Or clothe it with a radiance new,
On this glad Christmas Day.

CHRISTMAS GIFT.

AN ARTISTIC PLANT STAND.

Gran'mother's Talk.

Gran'mother says, while she's sittin' there,
At the fireside, in her old armchair:
"Ain't any Christmas now, my dear,
Like the ones of long ago!
When I was a girl there was more of light
An' song in the world a Christmas night;
The green just blossomed over the white
In the Christmas long ago."

She talks that way, 'cause she's old, you know,
An' her hair is whiter than whitest snow,
An' she thinks that her time is come to go
To a Christmas in the skies.
But my arms around her neck I throw,
An' say: "Gran'mother, in the long ago,
Did you have anybody to love you so?"
An' she smiles, an' wipes her eyes.

PORT ARTHUR GUN SWEPT

The Entire Harbor Cleaned of Shipping by Metre Hill Fire.

BATTLESHIP SEVASTOPOL SUNK

Little Action in the North—General Kaulbars Joins General Kuropatkin in Council of War—Eight Russians Escape From Port Arthur to Chefoo Where They Arrived Nearly Frozen.

Tokio, Japan. The Third Army headquarters confirmed the report that the battleship Sevastopol was down both at the bow and the stern, and to all appearances was damaged beyond repair. The warship was on the westerly side of the Tiger's Tail cliffs, where the water is shallow. One of her funnels has been blown to pieces. The harbor ironclad Otvachni is sunk by the stern, and an army transport which was in the inner bay near the Sevastopol is no longer visible. There is now no warship afloat in Port Arthur Harbor except the torpedo boat destroyers, which are hidden in one of the necks of the Tiger's peninsula.

Additional naval guns have been landed at Pigeon Bay and drawn to the peaks of the chain of table lands called 203-Metre Hill. They have been bombarding the new town of Port Arthur, and the remaining Government buildings were in flames. When this work has been accomplished the guns will be turned on the Russian fortifications built on the crests south of Ruling and Kekwan mountains, the last remaining defenses north of Port Arthur proper. A supplementary report of the Japanese Third Army announces the total losses in the month of November at 14,262, of which the dead number 3711.

Mukden.—Before dawn the Japanese centre east of the railroad and south of the Sha River began a general artillery fire on the Russian defenses to the north. At 8 o'clock in the morning the engagement was general on a line three miles wide, but little damage was done. The Japanese centre has been quiet for thirty-six days and just the purpose of the artillery fire was unknown. No movement was made by the enemy's infantry and the Japanese left army did not leave its entrenchments west of the Great Mandarin road.

General Kaulbars, commander of the Third Army, arrived from Harbin and was received by Generals Sakharoff and Bildering with a guard of honor, headed by music. The General then continued his journey to Chansiatun, where he had a conference with General Kuropatkin. There was an unconfirmed report that a column of the Japanese left army with some guns has made the neighborhood of Simintin, about thirty miles west of Mukden. All the wells are frozen up, and it is necessary for the commanders of both armies to obtain their supply of water from the Hun and Sha rivers.

Chefoo.—Eight Russians arrived in a sailboat from Port Arthur. They were nearly frozen when they made this port. While they came in plain clothes, it is understood that they are officers of high rank from the warships, who are to make their way to some point and meet the Baltic fleet. They carried dispatches for the Czar. They declined to say anything beyond announcing that in the last two weeks three steamers, with ammunition and provisions, had run the blockade of Port Arthur.

MIRSKY FORBIDS A DEBATE.

St. Petersburg City Councillors Denounce the Interior Minister.

St. Petersburg, Russia.—An adjourned meeting of the St. Petersburg City Council was held for the purpose of discussing the advisability of indorsing the demand of the Moscow Municipality for constitutional reforms.

The President of the Council announced that, owing to unforeseen circumstances which he could not disclose, the debate could not proceed.

The announcement occasioned a noisy scene. Many councillors angrily protested and left the chamber.

Later they held a private meeting at which Minister of the Interior Sviatopolk-Mirsky was denounced for prohibiting the debate.

GIVES $100,000 TO COLLEGE.

Donation by Ralph Voorhees of New Jersey to Tennessee Institution.

Knoxville, Tenn.—Maryville (Tenn.) College has received a donation of $100,000 from the blind philanthropist, Ralph Voorhees, of New Jersey.

Dr. Samuel T. Wilson, President of the college, received the check, but kept the donation a secret until chapel exercises.

Fifteen thousands dollars are to be spent in building a chapel and assembly hall, and $85,000 will go into the endowment fund.

KILLED ON BATTLESHIP

United States War Vessel Massachusetts Sustains Injuries.

Three Steamfitters Instantly Killed by Explosion and Four Others Were Severely Injured—Heroism of Officer.

Philadelphia, Pa.—A terrific explosion on the battleship Massachusetts at League Island Navy Yard caused the instant death of three men, whose bodies were fearfully mangled, fatal injuries to a fourth and severe scalds to three others. One of the injured men, the chief engineer of the vessel, was injured in an attempt to save the lives of the victims, who were imprisoned in the engine room, where the explosion took place. The explosion closed the automatic doors, making escape impossible.

The dead are Edward J. Bubb, No. 2654 Beech street; Andrew Hamilton, of No. 1531 East Hewson street; Chas. Ripzel, of No. 527 West Second street, Chester, all boilermakers. The clothing of all the men was torn from them and they were scalded by steam and hot water.

Lieutenant W. C. Cole, U. S. N., chief engineer of the battleship, scalded about the arms and body and severely cut and bruised, was sent to the naval hospital.

The men were employed by a steam fitter, who was installing a new boiler in the Massachusetts. The work was practically completed, and a force of five men were putting the finishing touches to the job. They were working on what is known as boiler C, on the starboard side of the big battleship, and had placed the cover on the manhole. They were screwing the lid into position, when the gasket, or washer, gave way. There was a terrific explosion, which resounded throughout the entire yard and caused the great ship to quiver.

In an instant the boiler room filled with steam, and the hot water from the boiler poured out in torrents. Those who were able dashed for the doors, but, to their dismay, found egress closed, as the force of the explosion had blown the automatic doors so tightly into their sockets that it was impossible to move them.

Lieutenant Cole, as chief engineer of the Massachusetts, had supervision of the work. He was standing near the boiler room when the accident occurred. He sprang for the doors, and found them securely wedged. Knowing the peril of those within, the lieutenant enlisted the aid of those nearest him, and forced an entrance. He found himself confronted by a scalding cloud of steam, and in the darkness struck his head against the iron walls of the compartment. He finally stumbled over the body of one of the victims, and it was dragged out.

Any further attempt at rescue was halted by the flood of water, so the order was given to turn a stream of cold water into the boiler room. When the temperature had been reduced to a safe degree a rescue party carried out the remaining dead and injured.

The ship itself sustained no damage beyond the broken gasket.

Commandant Dickens at once ordered an inquiry to be set on foot to determine the responsibility for the gasket's breaking.

HE TRADED OFF HIS WIFE.

She Wouldn't Go—Husband in Jail, Other Man in Peril.

Middlesborough, Ky.—Joseph Beasley, living not far from Roxbury, tired of his wife and traded her off to John Samuels, a neighbor, for an accordeon.

Mrs. Beasley refused to acquiesce and Samuels tied her hands and feet, put her into his wagon, and took her home. Mrs. Beasley escaped and swore out a warrant for both men. Beasley was found playing his musical instrument, but threw it aside to fight the officers.

Samuels says he will sue Beasley. Mrs. Beasley is now in charge of the Beasley home and Beasley is in jail as he cannot pay a fine for desertion. Samuels is charged with assault.

The accordeon was worth perhaps seventy-five cents.

MRS. CHADWICK AT HOME

The Now Famous Woman Arrives in Cleveland, Ohio, Under Guard.

HOW SHE USED CARNEGIE'S NAME

Under Five Indictments Already—Has an Indebtedness Approaching One Million Dollars—One of the Most Sensational Cases This Country Has Ever Known.

Cleveland, Ohio.—Five times indicted by the United States Government at the exact minute that her train rolled into the station, Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick came home to Cleveland. She was greeted with jeers, hoots and hisses by the crowds that gathered in the depot when her train arrived, and howled at by hundreds gathered in front of the Federal Building. The last sound that reached her from the outside world, as she passed into the stuffy, ill-smelling office of Sheriff Barry in the county jail, was the hoot of derision from the people massed in front of the doorway. She made no attempt to give bail, and after a brief stop in the office of the clerk of the United States Court was taken to jail. She was held in cell 14 in the woman's department of the jail, and her luxurious home in Euclid avenue, of which the furnishings alone are valued at $200,000, was occupied by her maid.

Two of the formal indictments voted against Mrs. Chadwick are based, one, upon the Carnegie note for $250,000, which was made payable at the office of Andrew Carnegie in New York City, and another upon the Carnegie note for $500,000, which was payable at the National Bank of Commerce in New York. Under each indictment are two counts, one charging forgery, the other, uttering forged papers.

Some weeks ago the Wade Park Bank of Cleveland became insolvent through the financial mishaps of Mrs. Chadwick. Mr. Reynolds, the President of the bank, told the following story of his relations with Mrs. Chadwick:

Mr. Reynolds said he had known Mrs. Chadwick seven or eight years and Dr. Chadwick, the woman's husband, all his life. Regarding the $5,000,000 note bearing the name of Andrew Carnegie, he said:

"Mrs. Chadwick called me to her house—I think it was March 5, 1903—and said she wished to intrust to me some securities. She said she had been advised to place them in the possession of a third party, and she wanted me to take care of them."

This package was opened by Attorney Squire. The package was produced in court and Mr. Reynolds identified the Carnegie note, the mortgage deed and the copies of an alleged trust agreement.

Continuing, the witness said:

"She then handed a paper to sign." As near as he could remember, it said: "I certify that I hold in trust for Mrs. Cassie Chadwick securities and a note for $5,000,000."

This note, the woman said, was given her by Andrew Carnegie, the steel magnate, she claiming to be the illegitimate daughter of Mr. Carnegie.

This package containing these supposedly valuable securities was never opened by Mr. Reynolds, he taking Mrs. Chadwick's word as to the truth of the contents.

Subsequently she came to Mr. Reynolds and on the strength of these supposedly good securities would obtain loans of thousands of dollars. Many other financiers were used in the same manner.

Mr. Carnegie has stated that he never signed any notes, that he never had had any dealings with Mrs. Chadwick.

At least two banks have taken official cognizance of the case and Federal officers have taken it upon themselves to investigate the validity of notes aggregating more than a million dollars which bear the name of Andrew Carnegie, the ironmaster.

Mrs. Chadwick was arrested in New York City and placed in the Tombs. Finally she waived all formalities and under the escort of Federal officers proceeded to Cleveland.

COUNTY LOSES SUITS AGAINST RAILROADS.

The people of Shelby county will be interested in the following letter written by Judge John Pelham, as it touches upon a matter which was a very much alive wire during the recent campaign:

Anniston, Ala., Dec. 1, 1904.

Mr. L. E. Jeffries,
Attorney Southern Ry Co.,
Selma, Ala.

Dear Sir:—I enclose herewith the Court files in the cases Nos, 7261, 7221, and 7374, the State for the use of Shelby Couoty vs. Southern Railway Company.

After thoroughly considering and investigating the matters under consideration, I have arrived at the conclusion that the levies, orders or decrees of the County Commissioners cannot be sustained for the reason that no debt or liability had been created or was existing against said county.

It is probably a correct contention on your part that this should affirmatively appear from the levy, order or decree of the Commissioners, and that your demurrers will reach it, but I am not so sure upon this proposition and I prefer that the order of the Court should show that the demurrers were overruled, that pleas were filed and that proof was offered showing that no debt or liability existed against the county for the erection of bridges, public buildings or causeways; or that this fact appear in the agreed state of facts.

I will thank you to prepare orders and judgments in accordance with this opinion, allowing the plaintiff thirty days in which to present bill of exceptions, and forward to me and I will send them to the Clerk with an order to enter them of record, as agreed.

You can return the files of papers direct to the Clerk.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) JNO. PELHAM,
Judge.

The county sued the Southern Railway for taxes under the levy of 1901-2-3 made in this county. The railroad refused payment, claiming the levy was unconstitutional and without authority of law. Judge Pelham, in the above letter, thinks the position of the railroads the correct one, and he holds that the levy made by the Commissioners' Court cannot be sustained.

The contention of The Sentinel through the campaign that the tax levies for the years mentioned above were illegal appears to have been correct, and is sustained by the Court. Again do the railroads ride on a free ticket, but the people, the common people, if you please, have been compelled to pay the illegal tax. That's darn poor justice to the common people.

There is some excitement in London over the claim that Father Ignatius, and Anglican monk, can raise the dead. We don't believe he can do anything of the kind, but if he was to get two or three drinks ahead he might raise Cain.

A suggestion from Dr. J. H. Gunn, in a letter in this issue of The Sentinel, we believe will meet the approval of everybody in the county. A good history of the county would be invalnable, and E. S. Lyman can write just such a history.

After two days of strenuous labor, listening to the president's message and attending a banquet or two, congress voted for a two weeks' holiday as soon as it is possible to get away. Congress is getting to be full of living jokes.

A lot of brass collared fellows in Washington have been sporting fine equipages, topped with footmen in shining harness, and paying for it all with government funds. And the people pay the freight.

According to the views of one member of congress the American people have money to burn. He wants the salary of the president increased to $200,000 a year. Geewhilikins!

The Smoot case is playing a star part in this session of congress. It is playing a close second in the public eye to Mrs. Chadwick's swindling operations, too.

Minneapolis had a three-million dollar fire a few days ago. That is a Christmas present that is not appreciated.

The attention of the farmers of Shelby county is directed to a letter published in this issue of The Sentinel from Commissioner Poole. He wants every town in the State to hold a mass meeting on the 10th day of January to discuss the cotton situation.

And now comes a member of congress who wants to raise the president's salary to $200,000 a year, and the salaries of members of congress to $10,000 a year. Just to spend the people's money we suppose.

CHRISTMAS MEMORIES.

The editor sat in his splint-bottom chair,
Smoking his pipe of clay;
Picturing scenes in the curling smoke,
Of Caristmases passed away.

* * *

Yes, away back yonder I seem to catch the mellow tones of sweet chimed Christmas bells, and I can almost feel the cold northern winds as they drove the fleecy-like clouds across the leaden sky of the December days. Through the intricate, winding ways of Time, scenes come back until this low-ceiled room with its broad hearth seems filled with the faces of those whom I had known in my boyhood days, and in fancy I can hear sheir glad laughter the infectious glee of which brightens this happy, joyous Christmas time. Through the dim mist of the years that are gone I can see a whole row of little stockings—yes, and some not so little—as they hang about the mantel-piece of a deep-mouthed old fireplace, and I can almost hear the gleeful prattle of the white-gowned little tots as they scamper off to their beds, vowing again and again they would watch for old Santa as he came down the broad chimney. They wondered what he would bring them. A thousand fancies fill their little heads, but they have made up their minds to like whatever it may be. (You've all been along that line). But the tired little eyes grow more tired with the watching; the eyelids just won't stay apart however hard they try, and they—slept!

* * *

And Christmas morn! My! such a scampering as there was! Ah, who are they who do not remember like times in their own childhood days? The whole household was made to ring with happy, joyous laughter, and the treasures left from Santa Claus' sack were bro't forth and displayed! Hully Gee! It was a sight! Skates for Tom, a doll for Nell, a sled for Jack, fairy books for Kate, a drum for George, a real train of cars for Frank, a tin whistle and rattle box for baby Esther, and a basket of oranges, apples and candy for all. Was there ever such a Christmas before, or since? It was a time to make the heart throbs beat more quickly, and there was a love in one's thoughts for all mankind.

* * *

And a little later when the glad Christmas bells rang out their peals of joy, the good mother came and bundled and wrapped us up to keep out the pinching, biting cold, and we went to the little old white church around the corner, where the man of God told us of the shepherds, who, while watching their flocks upon the plains of faraway Judea, saw the bright and beautiful Star in the East which told them that the Christ-child had come into the world. Two thousand years ago that babe defenseless lay in a manger, surrounded by lowing cattle, while over its head hovered an angel band singing the first glad Christmas anthem—"Peace on earth, good will to all men." But for this, the darkness in this old world of ours would be the deeper, and pain and trouble the much harder to bear.

* * *

The editor sat in his splint-bottom chair,
No fire in his pipe of clay;
But his heart is warm to all mankind,
On this glad Christmas day.

May the readers of The Sentinel—all others included, have a joyous, happy time this Christmas holiday. "Elwood Keene."

GOOD SUGGESTION.

Editor Sentinel, Columbiana.

In the Montgomery and Birmingham papers of this week, I see that the Hon. Edward S. Lyman, of Montevallo, has commenced writing a history of his home town. It is regretted that Mr. Lyman has not undertaken to write the history of the entire county, for since the death of the lamented Dr. Teague no one in our county or the State of Alabama for that matter is so well fitted for such an undertaking. Let us urge Mr. Lyman to take up that work, and if necessary, he should be aided by an appropriation from the county treasury, or funds raised by popular subscription.

The work should be undertaken before the many worthy citizens who knew the county in its early days pass away.

The first settlements in the county were at Montevallo. Harpersville and Pelham, the latter known then as Peavine, and Montevallo as Wilson's Hill, and around these places no doubt many historical facts could now be collected that would be of great value to the historian, and of interest to the people who live and have lived in the county.

In conclusion, I would like to call the attention of your readers to a number of young men raised in our county who have succeeded in other States, but the list would be too long, and I will only mention the fact that several years ago, at one time there were two members of Congress from different States (Texas and Tennessee) who were born in the town of Montevallo. Respectfully,

J. H. GUNN.

Calera, Ala., Dec. 17, 1904.

Senator Platt will, almost certainly, see his pet bill of the session get securely stuffed into a pigeon hole for some time. Men of any brains and common sense will fight it, or will will see that it does not come to a fight. It is not the sort of thing which can or will ever redound to the benefit or the prestige of the narrow-minded, bigoted man who has fostered it; it is not that kind which will ever have the strength or the force to carry its own meaning forward.—Mobile Herald.

Let every Democrat see after having his neighbor Democrat pay his poll tax, and urge upon every one to look carefully into the fact as to whether or not he owes poll tax for the years 1901, 1902, 1903 and 1904. If he does, ask him to pay it.

There is a doubt in the minds of some members of congress that the information furnished by the government on the cotton yield is incorrect, and the papers have been called for.

There is no hopeful signs in the cotton market for the farmer. He is the victim of the bunco steerers of Wall street, which is backed up by the Republican party.

It seem to be the general opinion that Mrs. Chadwick will escape punishment. In fact, a great many people admire her because she swindled a lot of bankers.

Father Time, like some other men we have heard of, is not kind to the women. One wrinkle looks worse on a woman than a dozen on a man.

The Bessemer Weekly issued a pretty Christmas edition laet week. Editor Judson believes in doing things right if done at all.

Chas. Swayne, a federal judge of Florida, has been impeached by the lower house of congress, and it is now up to the senate.

The contest for governor of Colorado is developing a pretty rocky state of affairs in the Rocky mountain dominion.

Notice to Teachers.

The State examination for teachers will be held at Columbiana, January 2–4, 1905. All who enter the examination must be there at 10 o'clock, a. m., Monday.

Child Thrown From Horse.

A special telegram to the Age-Herald from Montevallo, under date of December 18th, says:

Little Esther Peter, the 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Peter, who live about two miles from here, was thrown from a horse late yesterday afternoon and painfully injured. She was riding near the house, when the horse became frightened and began to run. She was thrown off while the horse was running, and fell on her head with full force.

Some of the laborers on the place, who saw the fall, picked her up in an unconscious condition and carried her home. She did not regain consciousness until this morning, and at last accounts was suffering very much. No fractures were sustained, but she was very much bruised, and her head is paining her very much.

To Build School House.

The following is from the Age-Herald of the 13th, inst.:

Calera, Dec. 13.—A petition was circulated among the free holders and patrons of the public school, petitioning the city council to call an election for the purpose of issuing bonds on the city to the amount of $5,000 for the construction of a up-to-date school building.

At a regular meeting held last Wednesday, December 7, this was unanimously passed upon, and an election was ordered to be held on the 9th day of January, 1905. For that purpose an executive and building committee was also elected, composed of the following members: Prof. Glenn, Dr. J. H. Gunn, Mr. L. G. Privett and Mr. Abe Stine.

The youngest daughter of Mayor and Mrs. W. B. Browne has been quite sick for the past week with scarlet fever, but it is gratifying to state that she is improving, and that there is no apprehension of a spread of the fever. A yellow flag has been floating from Mr. Browne's gate all the week, a warning to all that there is scarlet fever in the house.

J. S. Falkner writes The Sentinel that he is now store-keeper for the Bessemer Fire Brick Co., at Bessemer, and that he wants his paper sent to him at that place. Mr. Falkner's employers will find him capable and trustworthy in every way, and his friends in this county will be glad to know that he has secured a lucrative position.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

Our store is running over with them. When we gave Santa Claus our order, we remembered the young, the middle aged and the old.

TOYS, TOYS!

The greatest assortment of toys ever shown in Columbiana can now be seen at our store—a new, clean and pretty assortment. We have just what you want—Santa told us.

BEAUTIFUL DOLLS.

Your little girl has been dreaming and talking of the doll she is sure Santa Claus is going to bring her. Do not disappoint her. We have a beautiful assortment to choose from.

FINE CANDIES.

Good, pure confectionery is the only kind you want your children to eat. We have no other kind for holiday trade. It costs no more than the impure, and is so much better.

FIREWORKS, WHIZ-Z-Z!

It wouldn't be Christmas without fireworks, and we have a fine line. They will not last long—too good.

CHOICE FRUIT.

Our holiday stock would not be complete without fruit—we are supplied all the time with the choicest.

CHEWING GUM.

Do you know of our chewing gum proposition? If not, ask about it.

WATER SETS.

You could give your wife nothing that would please her so well as one of those pretty water sets which we have in our Christmas stock. Fine!

Of course, we want your grocery trade. We keep only the best of grades in everything.

Miss Ollie Seales, of Shelby, was in the city last Sunday, a guest of Miss Bertie Barnett.

Misses Helen and Annie Boyer, of Wilsonville, were in town last Saturday, Christmas shopping.

☞ Toys, toys, toys of every description, and plenty of them at Roberts & Robertson's.

Commissioner Shaw, of beat 4, was in town Friday to attend a meeting of the commissioners.

Miss Louise Reynolds will go to her home in Goodwater this week to remain through the holidays.

George Mason has come in off of the road, and will visit his family until after the first of the new year.

☞ These cool days a hot drink is just what you want. Go to the Latham Drug Co. for it.

Miss Stella Powell has gone to her home in Childersburg to visit until after the holiday vacation.

Ollie Goer and Horace Holcomb, of Calera, were in the city last Sunday visiting friends for a few hours.

☞ Get a hot drink at the Latham Drug Co.'s store, and feel like a new person. They are fine.

A merry, merry Christmas, and a happy New Year is what The Sentinel trusts will be the portion of all.

Commissioner R. J. Griffin, of Helena, was in town Friday to attend a meeting of the Commissioners' court.

Miss Annie Finley, of Prattville, is in the city for a visit with her aunt, Mrs. E. B. Nelson, through the holidays.

☞ Roberts & Robertson are well supplied with good fruit for the Christmas trade. Better get a supply now.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Norris will visit with Mrs Norris' parents near Longview during the Christmas holidays.

Miss Maud Hebson, of Sylacauga, is in the city for a visit with her sister, Mr. J. P. Roberts, until after the holidays.

☞ For a delicious hot drink, go to Latham Drug Co. You will find there just what you want.

From the way a certain young lady has been making cakes for the past week, the indications are that a wedding is on the way.

Miss Lallage Longshore, who is at the Judson again this year, will be at home to spend the holidays with her parents.

C. C. DuBose was in Montgomery last Friday on business connected with the insurance company for which he is agent.

☞ It won't be Christmas unless you get some of those fireworks of Roberts & Robertson. A big assortment to chose from.

The editor of The Sentinel and his wife will spend Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Vest and Mrs. McCauley in Woodlawn.

While there will be no issue of The Sentinel next week, the office will be open every day. Come in and pay your subscription.

Mrs. W. A. Parker, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Wallace, at Klein for the past two weeks, returned home last Sunday.

Read the advertisement of J. W. Johnston in this issue. He talks Christmas goods to you, and would like you to call and see him.

Mrs. Jennie L. Wilson and daughter, Miss Loulah, and son Mel, will go to Calera tomorrow to visit until after Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Bowdon.

There will be regular services at the Methodist church next Sunday, and Rev. G. T. Harris will preach morning and night. All are cordially invited to attend.

Dr. Morgan, of Shelby Springs, was a caller last Thursday and he says if we do not shorten the stairs or move down on the ground floor he is not coming to see us again soon. But he'll come to see us the next time he comes to town.

When The Sentinel comes to you again it will be 1905.

Rev. S. R. Lester, of Birmingham, is in the city visiting relatives.

Farmers say it is so dry that axes are coming off the handles. That is dry some.

In your gladness during the holiday time do not forget those who are less fortunate.

Mrs. E. Porter, who has been visiting her son John at Piper, is expected home tomorrow.

If a person appears hungry at a party you can make up your mind he ate no supper at home that night.

Little Miss Lois Porter, who is attending school here, has gone home to Piper to stay until after the holidays.

Are you getting ready to swear off? The time to do so is just about due. Revive the same resolves you made last New Years.

Dolls, Dolls, Dolls.

Dolls of every description, color and nation can be found at the store of Roberts & Robertson. Our show window will give you an idea of the big stock we have on hand. A big doll will please your little girl more than anything else.

The office of The Sentinel will be open every day next week for the transaction of business. That will be a good time for you to come and pay up your subscription.

Commissioner R. B. Posey was in town Friday from Harpersville. He came to attend the Commissioners' meeting to pass upon the new jail which has been completed.

A sweet baby girl arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Chapman last Thursday. Mother and daughter are getting along nicely, and Henry will recover his equilibrium after a while.

Christmas Tree.

The Sunday schools of Columbiana have joined hands, and will have a big Christmas tree at the Court House on next Saturday night. Bring your presents early in the day so that the committee can arrange them on the tree.

Presiding Elder Johnson preached an excellent sermon at the Methodist church last Friday night, but owing to the stormy weather the congregation was not what it would otherwise have been.

C. C. DuBose received a letter from his daughters Gertrude and Edith last Saturday, and they tell him that there are four inches of snow on the ground at Indianapolis, and cold, cold, cold!

Hammond Millinery Company has moved its millinery parlors upstairs over Milner & Christian's store, where it is better prepared to give you attention than ever before.

Mrs. J. P. Roberts and children have returned from a visit with relatives in Sylacauga, but Mrs. Roberts would not come until Joe had written her that if there are any fever microbes on the place he had not been able to find one, not even with a microscope.

Geo. D. Campbell, an employee of The Sentinel, leaves today for Atlanta, where he will spend the holidays with his brothers and sisters.

Mrs. Tommy Dump says if she don't get a Christmas present next Saturday night, some physician will have a hurry call to revive her husband.

The editors on some of the big city dailies seem to be all right during the week, but in Sunday issues some of them get close to the bug house.

It is said a Columbiana boy whose income is limited, doesn't know whether to quarrel with his girl or send her for a Christmas present a book another girl gave him a year ago.

Mrs. Santa Claus writes: "For the grease spots on the carpets by the candles on the trees, lay down brown wrapping paper on the floor and press with a hot iron." It keeps the good woman busy trying to undo the mischief wrought by her husband.

Milner & Christian have on a big reduction sale to run until January 1st, presenting an opportunity to get some great bargains. By the way, the holder of ticket No. 1760 has a set of dishes awaiting presentation of his claim. It's a nice Christmas present, too.

The Board of Education decided to give the Graded School two weeks' vacation, and that is the reason that there is no school this week. The school will open again on the 2nd of January. The Sentinel wishes a most delightful holiday to teachers and pupils, believing that the short rest will do all of them good.

H Pearson, of Farmer, was in town Tuesday, and while here paid The Sentinel a pleasant call. Mr. Pearson informs us that the people of his community have an application in for the establishment of a rural free delivery route out of Shelby, and if they get it the post-office of Farmer will be abandoned.

A daily mail route is to be established between Columbiana and Shelby, and the goverament is now advertising for bids to carry the mail between the two points. This route will be of great convenience, for under the present order of things it takes four days to get an answer to a letter written to Shelby—a distance of six miles.

Rev. Mr. Partridge, a theological student of Howard College, preached two excellent sermons in the Baptist church in this city last Sunday. The appointment was for President Montague of Howard, but he was unable to come, and Mr. Partridge came in his stead. All who heard him were not in the least disappointed.

SOUVENIR EDITION.

In January we expect to begin work on a special souvenir edition of The Sentinel. It will be in magazine form, and about the size of the Ladies' Home Journal. We hope to have every town, and every industry in the county represented in the edition. It will be nicely illustrated, and we expect to issue 2,500 or 3,000 copies, and we shall try to put a copy in every home in Shelby county

Mrs. Henrietta A. S. Marsh, 709 W. 16th St., Los Angeles, Cal., President Woman's Benevolent Ass'n, writes:

"I suffered with la grippe for seven weeks, and nothing I could do or take helped me until I tried Peruna.

"I felt at once that I had at last secured the right medicine and I kept steadily improving. Within three weeks I was fully restored, and I am glad that I gave that truly great remedy a trial. I will never be without it again."

In a letter dated August 31, 1904, Mrs. Marsh says: "I have never yet heard the efficacy of Peruna questioned. We still use it. I traveled through Kentucky and Tennessee three years ago, where I found Peruna doing its good work. Much of it is being used here also."—Henrietta A. S. Marsh.

BETTER LA E THAN NEVER.

By C. B. THAYER.

James Barton was sixty years old when he first met Miss Lavinia Arnold, a fine-looking spinster of fifty-five, and he fell in love at sight.

"Can it be possible," he asked himself, wonderingly, "that such an experience has come to me at my ripe age? It certainly is very piquant, but I must not make a fool of myself."

Then he wrote the lady a letter, expressed as follows:

Dear Miss Arnold:—I have seen you only once, and hope you will not consider me presuming if I ask you, without further acquaintance, to be my wife. You see I am sixty years old, and there is not much time to lose. I am sure we could make each other happy. Then why continue single, when there is an undoubted prospect of greater enjoyment in a united life? May I call upon you this evening and receive my answer? Hoping it will be favorable, I am,

Yours faithfully,
JAMES BARTON.

To say that Miss Lavinia was surprised hardly expresses the state of mind in which she read her lover's very business-like epistle.

"He does not indulge in any sentimental nonsense, any way," she thought. "I could stand that. But how absurd! Sixty and fifty-five. I wonder what John will say. He would think me demented to go and get married now, although women older than I am do it. Pshaw! It is all nonsense!"

It was not long before the aspirant's letter was thus answered:

Dear Sir:—I shall be most happy to see you this evening, although I cannot promise unreservedly to give the favorable reply you express yourself as anxious to receive. I am not unwilling to talk it over, however, if you would like to do so. Yours sincerely,
LAVINIA ARNOLD.

The gentleman smiled as he finished reading this concise response, and did not seem discouraged.

Miss Lavinia was very particular about her appearance that evening, and she really looked remarkably well. It did not seem so very absurd to her, after all, that she should have a lover, although, of course, her brother John might think differently.

She received her visitor in a dignified, gracious way that added a great deal to the impression she had produced upon his mind and heart.

"Now, Miss Arnold," he said, after a little while, "please tell me what objections you have to my suit."

"Not one personally," she replied.

"Then why did you write in that way?"

"Mr. Burton, you are sixty years old and I am fifty-five."

"That only makes it wiser to arrange matters as quickly as possible."

"But John would think I had lost my senses."

"He is not the one most interested in the arrangement. Must we necessarily consult him?"

"Yes, indeed. I have made his home comfortable for many years. I could not leave him, you see."

"You need not do that; we can all live together."

"Every one would laugh at us."

"Let them; we can laugh, too. Now, you see, Miss Lavinia, you have not advanced a single reasonable objection, therefore, I consider that we are engaged from this very moment."

She looked at him for a minute, and then burst into a laugh that was very pleasant to hear.

"You are the most precipitate man I ever saw," she declared.

"John," Miss Arnold said next morning, "I have something to tell you."

"What is it?"

"I am going to be married."

"What?"

And her brother stared at her as if fearing she had lost her senses.

"John," she remonstrated, "do not look at me as if I were an embodied earthquake.

"That is just the way I feel. But of course you are only jesting?"

"Marriage is too serious an affair for jesting."

"Yes, indeed. But I thought you had good sense."

"Thank you."

"Who is the other——"

"I am engaged to James Barton, who wishes to be married right away."

"I suppose so," was the dry response. "But what am I to do?"

"Just what you are doing now. He will not separate us."

"He is very considerate."

John soon became reconciled to the marriage, however, liking his new brother-in-law exceedingly; and they all seemed very happy. But finally the latter surprised his wife one day.

"Lavinia," he said, "supposing we marry John."

"We never can do it in this world, dear," she replied. "I really think he would rather encounter a mad dog than a marriageable woman."

"Let us try, anyway."

"What do you propose to do?"

"Send for my cousin Fanny Gould. She is the sweetest woman in the world (excepting one). Only she is always shy—frightened if a man looked at her twice."

"Then how can we bring her and John together?"

"A little finesse will be necessary."

"A good deal, I fear. But I will help all I can."

Consequently, the unsuspecting John and innocent Fanny are introduced to each other one summer day, to their mutual consternation and astonishment.

The two avoided each other as systematically as if fearing some dreadful infection, notwithstanding the occult arts of the married pair.

Then Mr. Barton said one night:

"John, I must be excused from cribbage this evening, but Cousin Fanny is fond of playing."

"No, no!" she exclaimed, in evident trepidation; "Mr. Arnold would not care to play with me."

"Mr. Arnold would be most happy to do so," he declared, with a sudden gallantry very becoming with a man—and that man a bachelor, and a very handsome bachelor, too.

Although they continued to play cribbage together in the evening, that gentle spinster still avoided the gentleman at other times most conscientiously. He saw it, too, and was more annoyed than he would have admitted, even to himself.

One day when strolling through the garden, he found her seated in a pretty summer house, and she started to run away, like a frightened school girl.

"Am I such an ogre," he inquired, "that you are always so alarmed at my approach?"

"I am not one bit alarmed," she declared, seating herself again very demurely.

He followed her example, and talked for some time of commonplace affairs.

Then he surprised her.

"My sister and your cousin," he said, "made fools of themselves, and seem very happy in consequence. Why should not we be happy in the same way?"

Instead of fainting, as might be expected, she seemed to gain courage.

"Is that an offer?" she inquired.

"If you wish to accept it as such. Is it 'Yes' or 'No'?"

"It is 'Yes,'" she replied without a quaver.

"Thank you"—and placing his arm around her still slender form, he kissed her. "I do not blame James or Lavinia," he said, kissing her again.—New York News.

SELLING A FARM.

The Trick By Which Corrigan Got His Own Price.

"There are many a ways of bringing a hesitating buyer up to the mark," said Lawyer John E. Kehoe; "but the way my friend and client, Tom Corrigan of Du Page county, managed to sell his farm was about as unique as any.

"Tom was tired of farming in that particular section. He wanted to sell and get out, and his neighbor, Silas Barker, whose farm lay across the road from him, wanted just as badly to buy and get in. But Silas was a great hand at a bargain, and he kept waiting for Tom to come down to a price that would please him. This Tom was not inclined to do. The pair occasionally met and casually referred to the matter, one trying to conceal that he was anxious to sell and the other that he was burning to buy, but they never seemed to come any nearer an agreement.

"'Well, Mr. Barker,' said Tom at length, 'I think I've a good buyer in view now for this farm of mine. Still, you being a neighbor, I'm willing to give you the preference.'

"'What's your price today?' asked Silas.

"'It's $500 more than it was last time,' replied Tom.

"'I guess not,' said Barker.

"Next day Silas saw Tom conducting a Roman Catholic priest over the farm as if showing him its various points and advantages. On inquiry he got a whisper from a friend of Tom's that the latter was negotiating with Father Madigan, who wanted the place for a cemetery.

"For a cemetery! Right at his door, too! A cemetery, with hearses and carriages full of mourners, unloading almost at his very threshold every day, and bristling rows of tomostones to look out upon every night. This would be a sad upset to his cherished dream of amalgamating the two farms and owning one of the finest pieces of land in Du Page county.

"Very soon he sought out Tom Corrigan. 'Is it true that you're going to sell your farm to a priest?'

"'That's my own business, Mr. Barker,' said Tom.

"'And is it true that it's going to be made into a cemetery?'

"'Faith, then, 'tis little I know or care what the buyer intends to make of it, so long as I get a good price for it.'

"'Tom Corrigan, what's the price of your farm today?'

"'It's $1000 more than it was yesterday,' answered Tom.

"'Well, then,' said Barker, 'I'll take it at that price.'

"And he took it. Now, the priest had no notion of booming Corrigan's real estate with his innocent visit, so he was angry. But he was not so thoroughly disgusted as was Silas Barker when the latter discovered the trick by which Corrigan had got his own price for his farm."—Chicago News.

English as She Is Writ.

A contributor to "Tit-Bits" is reminded of an advertisement he saw a year or two ago in a newspaper of Berne, Switzerland. It ran:

"The——— Hotel is a favorite resort of those who are fond of solitude. Those who are in search of loneliness are, in fact, constantly flocking to this hotel from the fore quarters of the globe."

But this sample of English must yield the palm to the following notices, the first of which was posted in the bedrooms of a large hotel in the Juras, while the other was addressed by the proprietor of an Alpine hotel to his clients:

"Strange gentlemen will to please not dress for dinner, as this costume flutters the hearts of the maid folk, and no work is accomplished."

"Misters the venerable voyagers are earnestly requested not to take the clothes of the bed to see the sun rise, for the color changes."

Sorry He Spoke.

"I hope when we are married you won't be towing that poodle along the street," growled the suitor.

"Of course not," responded the pretty girl, sweetly.

"I'm glad to hear it."

"No, I'll let you tow it."—Chicago News.

THE HICKORY NUT.

A little brown baby, round and wee,
With kind winds to rock him, slept high in a tree.
And he grew and he grew till, oh, dreadful to say!
He tumbled right out of his cradle one day,
Down, down from the tree-top, a terrible fall!
But the queer little fellow was not hurt at all;
And sound and sweet he lies in the grass,
And there you will find him whenever you pass.

—Minneapolis Journal Junior.

A LOCUST'S BREATHING.

Hold a locust between your fingers and watch the breathing movements of the body. Prof. Packard says: "There were sixty-five contractions in a minute in a locust which had been held between the fingers about ten minutes." How does that compare with the number of breaths you take each minute? Insects of swiftest flight breathe most rapidly.—From Nature and Science in St. Nicholas.

STRAWBERRY FISHING.

"Mollie, Uncle Herman's field is just like the sea," said Millie as a gentle little summer breeze swept over the tall grass flecked with daisies, and made it bend in rippling curves like the green sea waves with their whitecaps of foam.

"So it is," said Mollie; "let's play fishing in it."

"But there are no fishes, because it's not a truly sea, only just grass."

"But we'll catch play fishes," answered Mollie; "and, oh, I know what they'll be—strawberries."

So the two children made safe little dives down under the green grass waves. With happy calls, they told of every sweet, ripe, rosy strawberry fish that they caught. There were plenty of fish. By and by they wandered into the very high grass. Millie stood up. She could not see over it and began to cry:

"We're lost, we're lost and can't find our way out."

"Never mind," said Mollie, "I think I can find the way."

So off they started. They must have walked a very long distance, it seemed to Mollie, but the grass was still over their heads.

Somebody walking along the road saw two pink and white sunbonnets bobbing about in the grass.

"Hello, girlies!" he called. "What are you doing over there?"

"It's Uncle Herman," cried Mollie, racing toward the direction from which the sound came.

"We were strawberry fishing, and got lost," said Mollie as Uncle Herman lifted her over the rail fence.—Adapted from the Mayflower.

BOYS ON A BURNING SHIP.

Five hundred boys from different workhouses in London were put to school to be trained as sailors on board the training ship Goliath. This great ship suddenly caught fire about 8 o'clock one winter morning. It was hardly daylight. In three minutes the ship was on fire from one end to the other, and the fire bell rang to call the boys each to his post.

What did they do? Did they cry, or scream, or fly about in confusion? No; each ran to his proper place. The boys had been trained to do it, and no one forgot himself, nor lost his presence of mind, but all behaved like men. Then, when it was found impossible to save the ship, those who could swim, at the command of the captain, jumped into the water and swam for their lives. Some, at the captain's command, got into a boat, and when the sheets of clouds of flame and smoke came out of the ship at them, the smaller boys for a moment were frightened and wanted to push away. But there was one among them, a little mate (his name was William Bolton), a quiet boy, much beloved by his comrades, who had the sense and the courage to say: "No, we must stay and help those who are still in the ship." He kept the barge alongside of the Goliath as long as possible, and was thus the means of saving more than 100 lives.

And there were others that were still in the ship while the flames went on spreading, and they were standing by the captain who had been so kind to them all, and whom they loved so much. In that dreadful moment they thought more of him than of themselves, and one threw his arms around his neck and said, "You'll be burned, Captain;" and another said, "Save yourself, Captain!" But the captain said, "No, boys! that is not the way at sea."

He meant that the way at sea is to prepare for danger beforehand, to meet it manfully when it comes, and to look at the safety not of oneself, but of others.—Little Christian.

MAKING A TOOL CABINET.

A very convenient tool cabinet that will hang against the wall may be made with two doors of nearly equal size, so that there will be four instead of two surfaces against which to hang tools. The body of the chest is thirty inches high, twenty inches wide, and nine inches deep, outside measure. It is made of wood three-quarters of an inch in thickness, fastened together with screws and glue, and varnished to improve its appearance. One side of the cabinet is but three inches and a half wide, and to this side the inner door is made fast with hinges, so it will swing in against a stop molding on the opposite side.

A small bolt on the door will fasten it in place when shut in, and on both sides of this door hooks and pegs can be arranged on which to hang tools. Inside the back of the cabinet hooks and pegs can be arranged also, for saws, squares and other flat tools. The outer door is provided with a wide strip to take the place of the lacking part of that side of the cabinet, and when the doors are closed in and locked the appearance of the chest will be uniform.

With a little careful planning and figuring it will not be a difficult matter to construct this cabinet and the doors so that they will fit snugly and close easily. The doors will keep their shape better if made from narrow matched boards and held together at the ends with battens or strips nailed across the ends of the boards. Two-inch wrought butts will be heavy enough for the hinges of the doors. Provide a cabinet lock at the edge of the outer door.

On the inside of the outer door some tool pegs can be arranged, and near the bottom a bit rack is made with a leather strap formed into loops as described for the tool rack. Under each loop a hole is bored in a strip of wood into which the square end of the bits will fit, so they will stand vertically and appear in an orderly row; for chisels a similar set of pockets can be made of wood.—From Joseph H. Adams' "The Practical Boy," in St. Nicholas.

A "ROUNDABOUT" TRICK.

Give another boy a broomstick or a somewhat longer stick and tell him to grasp it with both hands near one end, plant the other end firmly in an angle between the wall and the floor and then pass entirely under the stick, from one side to the other, between his hands and the wall.

If he attempts this apparently easy feat without knowing how it should be done, he will be almost sure to do one of three things. He will stop and give the thing up, or let go the stick and tumble on his nose, or, possibly, hold on and come down to the floor, stick and all, because his knees have given away or his feet have slipped. This is because he, quite naturally, tries to pass under the stick with his face toward the wall.

THE START OF THE TRICK.

After he and the others have failed in one way or another and have declared the feat impossible, show them how easy it is by doing it yourself.

But you must stand with your back toward the wall and with your feet rather far apart and well braced, and, of course, you must bend backward as your head and body go under the stick. Your feet and the end of the stick form a broad triangle, and if the stick is long enough and firmly grasped there is little danger of either falling or failing.

The end of the stick should not be very round and smooth, and you should always hold it and caution the others to hold it, exactly perpendicular to the line where the wall meets the floor, without the least slant to right or left, which might make it slip sidewise.—New York Evening Mail.

PASSING UNDER THE BROOM.

The Hygienic Value of Sunday.

Sunday is not only a religious, but a hygienic institution. It is beneficient in its uses, morally and physically. How workers should best spend the Sunday is still a moot question, but that it should be a time of soul refreshment and recreation, a moment, as Miss Corelli expresses it, "for standing and taking breath on the threshold of another week," a season for thought, for intellectual enjoyment, for the solace of nature and the admiration of its wonders and beauty, no sensible person will be likely to deny. Whether motoring or card playing is the best way to attain these ends must be left to each individual's judgment.—Lady Violet Greville, in the London Graphic.

A Clever Editor.

"Can you tell me what sort of weather we may expect next month?" wrote a subscriber to the editor of a paper; and the editor replied as follows: "It is my belief that the weather next month will be very much like your subscription." The inquirer wondered for an hour what the editor was driving at, when he happened to think of the word "unsettled." He sent in the required amount next day.

Mrs. Rosa Adams, niece of the late General Roger Hanson, C. S. A., wants every woman to know of the wonders accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot tell you with pen and ink what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me, suffering from the ills peculiar to the sex, extreme lassitude and that all gone feeling. I would rise from my bed in the morning feeling more tired than when I went to bed, but before I had used two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began to feel the buoyancy of my younger days returning, became regular, could do more work and not feel tired than I had ever been able to do before, so I continued to use it until I was restored to perfect health. It is indeed a boon to sick women and I heartily recommend it. Yours very truly, MRS. ROSA ADAMS, 819 12th St., Louisville, Ky."

Any women who are troubled with irregular or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhœa, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, general debility, and nervous prostration, should know there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. No other medicine for women has received such wide-spread and unqualified indorsement. No other medicine has such a record of female cures.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I am very pleased to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for womb and ovarian difficulties from which I have been a sufferer for years. It was the only medicine which was at all beneficial, and within a week after I started to use it, there was a great change in my feelings and looks. I used it for a little over three months, and at the end of that time I suffered no pain at the menstrual period, nor was I troubled with those distressing pains which compelled me to go to bed, and I have not had a headache since. This is nearly a year ago. I always keep a bottle on hand, and take a few doses every week, for I find that it tones up the system and keeps me feeling strong, and I never have that tired out feeling any more.

"I certainly think that every woman ought to try this grand medicine, for it would prove its worth. Yours very truly, MISS ELSIE DANFORTH, 203 De Soto St., Memphis, Tenn."
